Dundee, Oct. 7.—Mrs. William C. Sworts, one of the oldest women in this vicinity, and the wife of a prominent and wealthy farmer and president of the Dundee State Bank, died in her farm home about two miles north of this village at 9 o'clock last night. Her death had been expected since about a week ago when she was stricken with paralysis. Mrs. Sworts was 85 years old and until June 28th, of this year, at which time she fell and broke her hip, she had been as spry and active as most women twenty years younger.

She was born in the town of Barrington, not far from this village, February 22, 1829. Her maiden name was Miss Mary Jane Rapalee and her father was Daniel Rapalee, one of the early settlers of this section and who for many years conducted an old fashioned tavern on the Bath road in the town of Barrington.

She was married to Mr. Sworts January 20, 1853, they having celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary on that date in 1913. They were one of the oldest married couples in this vicinity. Since the time of their marriage this is the first death to have occurred in their family, it having been the birthplace of her husband and his only home through life.

The farm is the old Sworts homestead and has been in the possession of the Sworts family since 1807 when Mr. Sworts's grandfather came here from New Jersey.

Mrs. Sworts leaves her husband, four children, Miss Ursula Sworts who lives with her parents; Carpenter R. Sworts, of this village; R. Bonner Sworts, cashier of the Dundee State Bank; and Mervin Sworts who lives in the West, and a brother John I. Rapalee, of Barrington.

SEARCH FOR AUTOISTS WHO KILLED WOMAN

Mrs. A. Gelleto Meets Instant Death in Exchange Street Near Her Home.

Following a search which continued all night, members of the day shift of the police department this morning took up the work in an effort to locate the occupants of a big gray automobile which ran over and instantly killed Mrs. Antonio Gelleto, 50 years old, of 386 Exchange street, at Exchange and Edinburgh streets last evening at 6:30 o'clock.

The accident occurred just after Mrs. Gelleto, had left her residence to go to Carroll's cafe, Exchange and Edinburgh streets, for some sauerkraut. Apparently she did not see the machine, which came from the north, as she is said to have stepped in the path of the automobile. The left wheels passed over the woman.

The police of the First Precinct, St. Mary's Hospital and Rev. J. J. Ganey, assistant rector of the Immaculate Conception Church were notified. Father Ganey arrived before the ambulance, but the woman died before his arrival. Coroner Thomas A. Killip ordered the body removed to the morgue.

Joseph Hogan, an attorney, of 23 Glasgow street, and Frank M. Stone, of Pittsford, were in Exchange street and both saw the machine strike the woman. They estimated the speed at thirty miles an hour. Owing to the darkness, neither man was able to make out the license number. Mr. Hogan shouted to a man and woman who followed a moment later in an automobile, asking them to chase the gray automobile. The second car was not stopped and it is not certain that the occupants understood what was called to them.

A report reached the police that a gray touring car had been seen racing out the Scottsville Road. Motorcycle Officer Ludwig, of the Sixth Precinct, located the machine, which is owned by Scottsville persons. Two men occupied it, which conformed with the story told by Hogan, but the men had driven to the city and not out of it. The men went to police headquarters, where they satisfied Captain McAlester that they knew nothing of the fatality.

Captain McAlester asks that the persons in the auto that followed the auto which struck Mrs. Gelleto communicate with the police and let them know whether they obtained its license number. If they did not, he desires to know which way the machine turned when it reached Clark street.

Mrs. Gelleto, who was of German birth, had lived in Rochester for twenty-five years. Her husband is a section foreman in the employ of the Erie Railroad Company. Besides her husband she is survived by two sisters, who live in New York City.

Dr. Irving L. Harris, coroners' physician, performed an autopsy on the remains of the woman this morning.

The autopsy showed that sixteen ribs were fractured, both lungs punctured, that the spleen had been punctured and that the left leg was fractured above the ankle. The face, on the left side, was cut and bruised. Dr. Harris gave as the cause of death fractured ribs and punctured lungs.

MOTORCYCLE RIDER HURRIES AWAY AFTER MACHINE HITS AND FATALLY INJURES MAN

Police Inspector Finds Injured Man Lying in Street, Gives Chase and Arrests Motorcyclist—Victim Dies in Hospital From Fractured Skull.

Making a tour of inspection in an auto this morning at 7:45 o'clock, Inspector William A. Stein and Police-mair Hargather discovered Adam Baird, 50 years of age, a carpenter, of 288 Laburnum crescent, lying seriously injured in the street at East avenue and Oxford street, and the report that he had been struck by a motorcycle, which hurried away, resulted in the arrest of Major Stannard, a colored man, 29 years of age, of 55 Pavor street, on a charge of striking a man with the machine and going away without leaving his name and address.

Inspector Stein happened along just a few moments after the accident occurred, and at that time the name of the injured man was not known, for he was in an unconscious condition. The ambulance from the Hahnemann Hospital was called and Mr. Baird was removed there, and information was obtained that the motorcycle rider dashed out East avenue immediately after the accident, without waiting to ascertain its result.

The police automobile was turned out East avenue, and extra speed was put on while the search was being made. After going for some distance the auto caught up with Clarence Pye, a motorcyclist, who gave the information that he had been chasing the colored man with his machine.

Mr. Pye said that he chased the colored man as far as Penfield road, but the speed attained by the fugitive made it necessary for him to give up the race. The police search was continued, and Stannard was arrested in East avenue between Winton road and the railroad. He had turned around and was going toward the center of the city.

Witnesses said that Mr. Baird was riding a bicycle through Oxford street and was crossing East avenue, going in the direction of University avenue at the time of the accident, and the motorcycle was running east in East avenue when the collision occurred.

Evidence obtained would seem to indicate that the motorcycle was well toward the left of the street and that it struck the bicycle on the side.

Baird died at the hospital at 1:15 o'clock this afternoon. Coroner Killip was notified and will hold an inquest. It is believed death was caused by a fractured skull. The victim remained in an unconscious condition from the time he was struck till he died.

As soon as Inspector Stein learned of the death of the man he changed the charge against Stannard to manslaughter.

Witnesses said that the motorcycle was running at the rate of 15 miles an hour at the time of the accident.

HURLED INTO CREEK BY TRAIN, AGED HILTON MAN IS KILLED INSTANTLY

Herald 10/23/1914
Unable to hear the warning whistle behind him, because of his deafness, Lewis Archer, 70 years old, a retired farmer and lifelong resident of Hilton, was killed instantly at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when he was hurled from the R., W. & O. trestle over Salmon Creek by a fast west-bound freight train. His body was found in the water some distance from the trestle, which is at the eastern extremity of the village of Hilton.

Mr. Archer had lived in the village of Hilton for a number of years, but owned a large farm to the east. Yesterday he went to inspect the progress of the harvesting, and was returning to his home when he was killed. He was nearly half way across the trestle when the train struck him. It is said that the engineer sounded his whistle several times as he approached the trestle, and that the brakes were applied when the man ahead did not heed the warning. It was too late, however, to prevent the accident.

Coroner Henry Kleindienst was notified by telephone a half hour after the fatality occurred and he gave permission for the removal of the body to a Hilton undertaking establishment. The Coroner will go to Hilton this morning to begin an investigation of the case and it is probable that an inquest will be held at a later date.

Mr. Archer was born in Hilton and was one of its leading citizens. He was well known among the farmers in that vicinity. He leaves a wife, three sons and several daughters.

WOMAN KILLED ON WAY TO CITY

Special Dispatch to Union and Advertiser.—
CANANDAIGUA, N. Y., Oct. 31.—Almost instant death came to Mrs. William J. Bridle, of this city, about 6 o'clock last evening as she, with her husband and little daughter, were on their way from Canandaigua to Rochester in their automobile.

The family left this city between 5 and 6 o'clock and had reached Johnson's crossing or Magary's as it is sometimes called, a point where the Canandaigua-Rochester highway crosses the Auburn branch of the New York Central. They heard the ringing of the bell on the locomotive drawing the passenger train that reaches this city about 6 o'clock and it is said that Bridle, thinking he had plenty of time to go across, proceeded. The engine of the automobile stalled, however, when the machine was squarely on the tracks in front of the advancing train. Bridle called to his wife to jump and himself caught up the little girl and jumped. He cleared the car in time to escape, but his wife was still in the automobile when the locomotive struck the automobile. The woman's skull was fractured and she met practically instant death. The automobile was demolished. The father and little daughter were brought to the Thompson Memorial Hospital here suffering from shock and the little girl somewhat bruised but otherwise only slightly injured. Coroner Alfred W. Armstrong took charge of the body.

The Bridle family were formerly in business at Rochester where they suffered a heavy fire loss several years ago. They then moved to this city and purchased a bakery which they conducted until recently and sold it to Stanley Thompson, of this city. They were removing their effects to Rochester where they intended to reside and were themselves on their way there when the tragedy occurred.

WAS MEMBER OF PIONEER FAMILY

Funeral of Mrs. Mary C. Aldrich Daboll Held.

DESCENDED FROM ROYALTY

Aldrichs Came to Dansville Over One Hundred Years Ago and Settled Fifty Years Later—Were Struck With Beauty of River Valley

D.C. 11/4/1914
Dansville, Nov. 3.—The funeral of Mrs. Mary C. Aldrich Daboll, wife of Dr. Garrett C. Daboll, who died at her home, in lower Main street, Saturday evening, took place from the home at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Dr. Charles W. Hakes, rector of St. Peters, Episcopal Memorial Church, officiated.

Mrs. Daboll was a member of the Aldrich family, one of the oldest, not only in Dansville but in America, while her husband, Dr. Daboll, was, until his return to Dansville a few months ago, a practitioner of the dental profession in Paris, France, where his patients were among the royalty of Europe.

Of a large family of thirteen children, only four remain, one boy being buried in the West, where he died, and the other eight lying in Greenmount cemetery. A monument, of which a mill stone is the base, marks the spot.

Mr. Obed Aldrich, father of Mrs. Daboll, was a miller by trade and was a part owner in the first flour mill west of the Genesee river. The old Aldrich mill stood on the western outskirts of the village, at the intersection of Ossian street and Canaseraga Creek, in a little grove known as Aldrich Grove.

With the decay of the flouring industry in Western New York, the Aldrich mill was abandoned. About twenty years ago it was torn down and the land cleared of the trees and planted to corn.

Obed Aldrich was born in Askfield, Mass., in 1794, the son of Benjamin and Sybil Morley Aldrich. He served in the war of 1812 and, at the age of 23 years, was a partner in the first flour mill to be built west of the Genesee river. His father, Benjamin Aldrich, of Oxbridge, Mass., served in the continental army from the battle of Bunker Hill to the close of the war.

Through Solomon Aldrich, John Aldrich and Jacob Aldrich, he was descended in a direct line from George and Cathron Scald Aldrich, who were married in Derbyshire, England, in 1629, and emigrated to America in 1631. This George Aldrich was the son of George Aldrich, of London, England, tabletted in Chem Church, descendant of "William Aldrich, of Norfolk, who married Mary, daughter of Isabella of France and Edward the Second of England."

How the Aldrich family happened to locate in Dansville sixty-five years ago is explained by a visit made by Obed Aldrich to Dansville village nearly a half a century before, and to his natural love for the beauty which the valley possessed. Benjamin Aldrich, with his son, Obed Aldrich, then a lad 11 years of age, came to this village in 1805, from the village of Auburn, looking for land, and found many Indians in the vicinity. This was just ten years after the arrival of the first white settler, Cornelius McColl, and his wife and three children. When the Indians saw the Quaker costumes of Mr. Al-light and invited him to their wigwams. He then built a house that was built by his father, aged 53 years. He is survived by his wife; a sister, Mrs. Emma H. Williams, and a niece, Mrs. Ward Talbot, both of New York.

The funeral will be held Friday afternoon from the home at 2 o'clock. The services will be conducted by Rev. Frank E. Bissell, curate of Christ Episcopal Church, and by Yonondio Lodge, F. & A. M., of which the deceased was a member.

Over 100 years ago Dr. Hayward's grandfather purchased a tract of land in the eastern section of the city, extending to what is now the Glen Haven station. Dr. Hayward's father, who bore the same name as his son, bought out the interests of the other members of the family in the tract and in 1844 erected the house in which the last male descendant of the family died yesterday. At the same time, he built what was then the largest barn in the county and started a seed business.

Dr. Hayward was born in the house in which he died and received his primary education in the public schools of Rochester. He was graduated from the New York Medical College and went immediately after to live in Oakland, Cal.

About that time he married Miss Mary L. Pickett and after five years he returned to the East, taking up his residence at Haberton, Va. He resided there for six years, then moved to Rochester, where he married Miss Anna Cate. About six months ago, after long litigation, the family residence in North Goodman Street was awarded to him and he moved to the old homestead to remain until his death last night.

The wholesale house was one of the first established in an inland city of New York.

Mr. Maltby was born in Monterey, Schuyler county, N. Y., June 19, 1841. His father, Curtis Maltby, conducted the famous Maltby Inn which burned two or three years ago. The son helped his father on the latter's farm until 1863 when he went west and acted as escort for emigrant trains crossing the plains, being in the pay of the United States government. Later he engaged in gold mining in California, taking from the soil the money he afterwards used, upon his arrival in Corning, to establish himself in the wholesale grocery business, with his elder brothers, Brastus and Charles R. Maltby. In 1868, Charles R. Maltby and J. B. Maltby dissolved partnership, each continuing in business in Corning. J. B. Maltby Inc., have for a number of years done a gross business in excess of $1,000,000 a year.

Mr. Maltby had a number of other interests. He built the Corning Cold Storage plant. He was the chief stockholder of the Hygeia Ice Company, and was president of the Corning Produce Company. He was long a vestryman and warden of Christ Church. He gave largely to the Corning Hospital and for other charitable purposes.

Mr. Maltby was three times married. He married Mary Beers, of Corning, in 1865. His second wife was Rose Muir, of Flint, Mich., whom he married in 1882. His third wife was Mrs. Charlotte Ashby, of Corning, whom he married in 1895. He leaves, besides his wife, the following children: Mrs. A. I. Martin, of Watkins; Andrew B. and Curtis W. Maltby, of Corning, and Mrs. Burt Swett, of Elmira.

The funeral will be held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the late home in Corning.

KUICHLING DIES VERY SUDDENLY

HIS WIFE SUMMONED QUICKLY TO HIM IN NEW YORK.

HE HAD AN ACTIVE CAREER

Much of Which was Bound Up With the Development of City of Rochester. 11/10/1914

Post. Emil Kuichling, consulting engineer, closely associated with Rochester's civic development in municipal improvement for many years, died suddenly last night in New York city.

Mrs. Kuichling, who was visiting her sister Miss Sarah Caldwell, 145 West avenue, was notified of her husband's sudden illness and returned to her home in New York immediately, but it is not believed she reached there in time to see him before death.

Mr. Kuichling was a man of splendid and varied scientific attainments and held high rank among the civil engineers of the country. Rochester had been his family home since childhood, the residence being 209 Clinton avenue north. He was born in January, 1848 at Kehl, Germany, and was brought soon afterward to this country by his father, the late Dr. Louis Kuichling, who took a prominent part in the revolution of 1848, and suffered expatriation on the collapse of that movement. Dr. Kuichling located in this city in 1856 with his family. Mr. Kuichling was early destined by his father for a career as a civil engineer, and to that end was placed under the tuition of masters in drawing when only about eight years of age, and when 13 years old was apprenticed for a year and a half to the late William Wolff, an expert master builder of this city, to learn that handicraft.

His Early Work.

At the conclusion of this training he was employed in the city surveyor's office by Cyrus Beardsley and the late Daniel Richmond and also worked winters in the canal engineer's office here. In 1864 he entered the University of Rochester and took a full classical course as well as many extra studies in the scientific course. In 1869 he took a post-graduate scientific course for which, in connection with his previous studies, he received the degree of civil engineer. In 1870 he entered the famous polytechnic school at Karlsruhe, Germany, and took there the full three years' course, returning home about Christmas, 1872. During his student years all of his vacations were spent in practice and in the examination of engineering works in this country and Europe. His first responsible work was on the extension of the Chemung canal in his long summer vacation of 1866 and 1867, under the late Byron M. Hawks of this city.

In February, 1873, he was employed as assistant engineer on the Rochester water works by Chief Engineer J. Nelson Tubbs, and remained in that position constantly until the spring of 1885, when he was elected as a member of the executive board. In this capacity he served until October, 1887, when he resigned to take charge of the surveys and preliminary examinations for the proposed East side trunk sewer, which was completed by him. Mr. Kuichling was also employed as one of the consulting engineers of the New York state board of health, and become thoroughly acquainted with the details of the work. One of his reports in the publications of that board amply attest.

He was engineer for water supply of barge canal in 1900-1901 and consulting engineer for New York city.

In 1883 and 1889 his health gave out, and by advice of his physician he went to Europe for several months, occupying himself while absent in the special study and examination of the largest and most famous systems of water works and sewerage in the old world.

On his return he was employed by the East Jersey water company under the direction of Clemens Herschel, chief engineer in the work of supplying the city of Newark, N. J., with an abundance of water from the mountains of northern New Jersey. Besides the works mentioned Mr. Kuichling engaged as consulting and designing engineer at a large number of other places where water and sewerage works have been built.

Returns to Rochester.

In September, 1890, he returned to the service of the city of Rochester as chief engineer of the water works system with which he had such a large part in building. He continued in that place until December 31, 1899, when the office was abolished by the provisions of the White charter. During that time he planned and partially completed the second conduit from Hemlock lake to the city reservoirs, larger and in many ways superior to the first line, and improved the distributing system.

On his retirement as chief engineer of the water works system he made his business headquarters in New York city as consulting engineer and spent much time in the planning of the Rochester sewage disposal system, now reaching completion and a logical supplement to the East Side trunk sewer system. His duties in that connection brought him frequently to this city.

Mr. Kuichling was called as an expert engineer in many important litigations, and was consulted by the municipal authorities of many cities and towns in this country and Canada, on subjects of water supply and sewerage. He was for years an active member of the American Society of Civil Engineers, American Water Works association, New England Water Works association, the American Public Health association, the Rochester Academy of Science, and other scientific and literary organizations. He was also a member of all branches of the Masonic order. In 1879 Mr. Kuichling married Sarah Louise, daughter of the late John S. Caldwell, one of the early residents of Rochester.

she leaves her husband, to whom she was married in 1902; her mother, Mrs. A. L. Johnson, a brother, Dr. Claude Johnson of Gasport.

Emil Kuichling.

The death of Emil Kuichling in the city of New York aroused the sympathy of all circles of the city. He has a well-founded claim to a place of honor among her most prominent sons. Born in Germany he came, in the first year of his life, to Rochester, where his father established himself as a physician in the year 1849, having been compelled to leave his fatherland in the period of reaction after the revolution of 1848, in which he had been involved in the Grand Duchy of Baden. The son became a true American by sentiment and education, having been brought up in an atmosphere of freedom and liberality, and trained in this city's institutions of learning. He was a graduate of the High school and the University of Rochester and finished his education in engineering in the famous Polytechnicum of Karlsruhe. After his graduation there he returned to Rochester, where he was connected with some of the most important public works for almost thirty years. A good part of the splendid water works system was built under his direction, as also the big east side trunk sewer for which he made the measurements and designs, not without calling attention, however, to the consequences of the pollution of the river into which the sewerage empties. He advised preventive measures against this from the beginning; but his warning remained, for some reason, unheeded. As a member of the executive board he proclaimed "Twelve Inches a Foot and Hundred Cents a Dollar" as his principle in this office, living up to it to the best of his ability. In 1900 he established himself as a consulting engineer for sanitary waterwork and sewage disposal systems, a specialty, in which he gradually gained the rank of an authority appealed to from all parts of America, and especially by his home city, as lately, in the construction of its new sewage system to relieve the river from pollution. He was a man, a true and faithful American citizen, able, fearless and kindly, who has left the impress of his work not alone on this city, and he will be remembered with gratitude and pride.

HER FATHER ONE OF THE MEN OF '76

Miss Corinthia Carpenter Dies at Age of 94.

HONORED IN D. A. R. CHAPTER
Sunday-D.R. 11/15/1914

Born in New York State in 1820, Miss Carpenter as a Child, Talked with Indian Red Jacket and Was in Middle Age in 1861 to 1865

Corinthia Carpenter's heart ceased to beat yesterday and with her death Rochester yielded the distinction of being the home of one of the few living women whose fathers stood up to English breastworks in the Revolutionary

A woman invested with extraordinary vigor for one so far advanced in the evening of life was Cornelia Carpenter. She was 94 years old. She talked the tongue of the Seneca with the Indian orator Red Jacket, was in the settled 40's when the Union and the Confederacy came to grips; with the Daughters of the American Revolution she held a niche of her own, and she saw six of the right real daughters who have held membership in Irondequoit Chapter rest in final slumber.

Now but one remains — Sarah H. Keyes Goler, the mother of Dr. George W. Goler, city health officer. Mrs. Louise Lucinda Rochester Pitkin, daughter of Colonel Nathaniel Rochester, was among the first to go; then Mary Milner Horton, whose father had been a drummer boy; Almira Monroe Dunsbury, Matilda Martha Smith, Cynthia Ann Campbell and, a few years ago, Margaret Judd Hovey.

Sang at D. A. R. Exercises.

Voices quavering a little, Mrs. Hovey, whose father was one of the youngest officers on General Washington's personal staff, and Corinthia Carpenter sang "The Star-Spangled Banner" when that boulder of granite that rests in the D. A. R. lot in Mount Hope cemetery as a memorial to the soldiers who fell in Major-General John Sullivan's campaign against the Indians in 1779, was unveiled seven years ago.

The roots of Corinthia Carpenter's family tree went deep down. Her grandfather was one of the early settlers in Connecticut and was a representative in the state Legislature. She was the youngest of fourteen children that were born to Joseph Carpenter and her birthplace was Lancaster, N. Y. She was born on March 22, 1820.

Her father, but 17 years old when the war for independence broke out, held a sort of semi-official position in the army similar to that given to other patriotic colonists who had not attained their majority. Upon the father the Seneca Indians conferred the title of Kandauga, which in English would be The Just.

American Flag on Casket.

The American flag that was used at the exercises in Mount Hope seven years ago will be wound about the casket of Corinthia Carpenter and on her breast will be the two small flags that she and Mrs. Hovey waved as the national anthem was sung. From now until the funeral services Monday morning the small flags on the D. A. R. ground in the cemetery will be at half-mast.

Services will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Luther C. McNeil, No. 38 South Fitzhugh street, Monday morning. The body then will be taken to Lancaster for burial.

CHARLES A. DAVIS

Inventor of Dental Appliances Dies
Part at Home in Pasadena.
Charles A. Davis died at his home in Belle Vue drive, Pasadena, Cal., Saturday evening. His father, Philander J. Davis came to the Genesee country in the late twenties and purchased a homestead farm, the approximate boundaries of which were the city streets now called North street, Davis street, Hebbard street and that part of Central park formerly called German street. The right of way for the New York Central tracks in that locality was purchased of Philander. The farm house stood on what is now Portland avenue, just north of the Central freight yards and there the son, Charles, was born seventy-four years ago. When the locality became settled the house was moved to the northerly bounds of the farm facing German street, where it now stands, one of the oldest houses in the city. The farm was eventually subdivided by Philander Davis into the well known Philander J. Davis tract.

Charles A. Davis was engaged in the dental supply business here for many years and was the inventor of many dental appliances now in common use. In an unostentatious way he performed his social service by perfecting mechanical dental apparatus which has greatly added to the efficiency of modern dentistry. Mr. Davis resided here when the People's Re-mission was founded. He was one of its early benefactors, became one of its directors and continued to be a member of the board until his death. He leaves a widow, Emma Smallwood, and four daughters, Blanche, Josephine, Marjorie and Florence. By his death his brother, George P. Davis, of Highland avenue, becomes the sole survivor of the large Philander J. Davis family.

Emil Kuichling—A Tribute.
Editor Post Express: 11/18/1914
I have read with satisfaction, in The Post Express, the article on the career of Emil Kuichling. It appears to me to be reasonably complete as far as it goes. But I could wish that something had been added concerning his lovable personal character. I knew him well as a man of profound scholarship, absolute integrity, generous impulses and cheerful companionship. When one would pronounce a eulogy he must ask himself three questions concerning the subject: Did he make anybody richer? Did he make anybody wiser? Did he make anybody happier? In that every cubit of his engineering work in Rochester was done with consummate skill and strict honesty—an unusual thing in such work—your readers know that he added to the wealth of your city. By the way, I was especially interested when he described to me the ingeniously original method by which he solved the apparently insoluble problem of laying the large water main across Main street bridge. The crowns of the arches come very near to the surface of the roadway.
His contributions to scientific periodicals and the proceedings of scientific associations must have added something to the wisdom of his guild. For myself, I can never forget the long talks I have had with him, sitting on the veranda of his cottage at Amagansett or strolling with him in a pleasant evening. I did not talk much to him, but I made him talk to me of his specialties, and to my little stock of knowledge he added a welcome though unearned increment. If you wish to know whether he made anybody happier, ask the little children who used to take every chance to get into his room, knowing that he would lay aside his work and amuse them. He had no children of his own, but he never could forego an opportunity to entertain those who came in his way.
"Farewell! since never more for thee
The sun comes up our eastern skies,
Less bright henceforth will sunshine be
To some fond hearts and saddened eyes."

Emil knew that we loved him while he was with us, and I trust he knows that we love him still.

Horace S. Hannum Did Not Care to Live After Death of His Son.

Special Dispatch to Union and Advertiser.
LE ROY, N. Y., Nov. 18.—Horace S. Hannum of Le Roy, who would have been 90 next month, took his life this morning at his home in Myrtle street by shooting himself in the head with a .32-calibre revolver.

Mr. Hannum resided alone with his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Ida S. Hannum, his only son, Charles, having died last April. Since the death of his son Mr. Hannum had frequently expressed a desire to die, but there had been nothing in his manner to indicate that he contemplated taking his life. He retired last night about 9 o'clock. His daughter-in-law arose this morning about 6:30 o'clock and soon afterwards, while in the kitchen, heard a pistol report. She then looked into Mr. Hannum's room and discovered that he was dead. In his right hand he clutched the revolver, and his body was neatly covered with the bed clothes. He had arisen and taking a piece of carpet had placed it under his head to protect the pillow. The bullet entered his head just back of the ear.

Mr. Hannum was born at the Hannum homestead in Pavilion on December 23, 1824, and always resided there until ten years ago, when he removed with his son to Le Roy. He had no near surviving relatives.

GRANDCHILD OF CITY'S FOUNDER

Miss Jane E. Rochester Dies at Age of 70 Years.

Leaves One Sister.

Herald
Dec 7 1914

Taken suddenly ill yesterday afternoon while automobiling, Miss Jane E. Rochester, granddaughter of Colonel Nathaniel Rochester, founder of the city, died at 8.30 o'clock last night at her home at 99 Atkinson Street of apoplexy. Miss Rochester was 70 years old.

She was born in Livingston Park, in a house still standing, in May, 1844, and had passed her whole life in the city bearing her grandfather's name. She was the daughter of Henry Elie Rochester and Jane Hart Rochester. Her father was the youngest son of the city's founder, and himself a pioneer. He made the journey through the then wilderness with his father from their previous home in Hagerstown, Md.

Miss Rochester had been in her usual health up to the time of her sudden attack. Late yesterday afternoon, when she went for the drive about the city, she appeared to be as well as usual. While upon the trip, she complained of feeling ill, and became unconscious before reaching her home. She did not recover consciousness.

Active in the religious, historical and charitable organizations of the city, she was for many years president of the board of managers of Rochester State Hospital. She also held the office of librarian of the Rochester Historical Society for many years, and took a deep interest in its work. She belonged to St. Paul's Episcopal Church, of which her grandfather was one of the founders.

She leaves a sister, Mrs. Clinton N. Rogers of 127 Spring Street, and several nephews and nieces. Arrangements for the funeral have not been made.

FORMER SECRETARY OF STATE DIES

Judge Frank Rice Passes Away at His Home

Union
To-day. 1914

CANANDAIGUA, N. Y., Dec. 6.—The death of Judge Frank Rice occurred at his apartment this morning about 9 o'clock. Death was due to angina pectoris. He leaves a brother, John W. Rice, of Auburn; a niece, Mary Woodruff, and a nephew, W. W. Rice, both of Auburn; one sister, Isabella Rice of Geneva. A nephew, C. Willard Rice, also of Geneva and several cousins.

Judge Rice was born in the town of Seneca, Ontario county, on January 15, 1845, and consequently would have been 70 years of age next month. He was descended from English and New England stock, his maternal ancestor coming from England and his paternal ancestor hailing from Massachusetts. They were among the first settlers in the eastern part of this county. Early in life, young Rice worked about his father's farm in the warm season and attended school in the winters. When only 11, he entered a private school at Geneva run by a Dr. Taylor and there studied for a year.

At 15, he spent a year at the Geneva High School and for three years he studied in the old Canandaigua Academy under Dr. Noah T. Clarke, for forty years a noted educator and principal of the famous old academy here. He entered Hamilton College in 1864 and graduated from that institution in 1868. He at once commenced the study of law in the office of Comstock & Bennett, in Canandaigua and was admitted to the bar in 1870. He rose rapidly in his chosen profession and was early pronounced a clear-headed lawyer and a most able and capable attorney. In politics a Democrat through and through, he was nominated and elected district attorney of Ontario county by his party in 1875 and re-elected in 1878.

In 1882, he was nominated and elected Assemblyman and re-elected in 1883 against most strenuous opposition by the Republicans who ran their strongest warhorse against Rice and made a special effort to beat him. During his first term as Assemblyman, the Democrats were in control and Rice attained a prominent position among his party's leaders. He was made chairman of the committee on privileges and elections and member of judicial, insurance and other important committees. In his second year in the Assembly, Rice's party was in the minority and he became floor leader of the Democrats after being the candidate of his party for the speakership. In 1884, he was nominated and elected county judge of this county and after filling that position for five years so creditably that his tenorship of the office is still remarked on, he was nominated by the Democratic state convention for secretary of state in 1883 and was elected by a heavy plurality over Gilbert, his Republican opponent, and in 1891 was re-elected by about twice his first plurality, his opponent the second time being Eugene F. O'Connor.

He was often sent as a delegate to both state and national Democratic conventions and assisted in the nomination of Hancock in 1880, when he served as secretary of the New York state delegation, and of Cleveland in 1892. Although running five times for county office in this heavily Republican county, Rice was never defeated and twice he succeeded in carrying this state by heavy pluralities.

Of late years, Judge Rice, as he was affectionately called by the hundreds of people who delighted to meet and greet him, has forsaken politics and attended to the business of the law firm of Wynkoop and Rice, which was formed early in the career of those lawyers and which came to be rated as the soundest law firm in this county if not in this part of the state.

Judge Rice's ability won for him a lucrative and pleasant practice and he numbered his clients by the score. He was known far and wide as a most able orator and many a client in both civil and criminal cases have been able to thank his oratorical ability for verdicts in their favor. He was a profound lawyer and was considered a most able and brilliant antagonist by such eminent attorneys at Stanchfield and Wade. His word was always religiously kept and once given could be depended upon without fear of cavil. For some time past Judge Rice has been in rather poor health and has often turned matters of practice over to younger hands.

The Nashua, N. H., Telegraph of November 30, announces the death of William S. Norwell, at St. Vincent's Hospital, New York City, on Sunday morning, November 29, after a brief illness of pneumonia.

Mr. Norwell was a resident of Rochester for several years. He, with John C. Mr. Norwell was born in Chicago, November 7, 1870. He was a graduate of Hobart College, at Geneva and a 32d degree Mason, a director of the Nashua Trust Company, and vestryman in the Church of the Good Shepherd at Nashua. Sarah Hannah Keyes Goler, mother of Dr. George W. Goler, city health officer, and the last "real" daughter of Ironquoit chapter, D. A. R., was buried Saturday in her home town, Richmond Hill, Long Island.

Although Mrs. Goler never lived in this city, she was known to many members of Ironquoit chapter, of which she was a member for a number of years. It was because of her son's prominence in this city that Mrs. Goler connected herself with Ironquoit chapter instead of with one nearer her home.

Mrs. Goler's father joined General Glover's brigade and marched to West Point, then to New Jersey, and was at Tappan when Major Andre was executed. He returned to West Point and was discharged by General McDougall. He was hired by the class militia of the town of Westfield, Mass., where he then resided, and served for three years as a private in Captain Daniel's company of the regiment commanded by Colonel Tappan.

In the fall of 1781 Private Keyes assisted in building huts for winter use on the highlands opposite West Point and the following spring he was attached to the hospital corps. He received his final discharge at the close of the war in 1783.

Mrs. Goler's mother was Hannah Goodrich, who was born in a small town in Massachusetts. Mrs. Goler until a week before her death was fairly active and retained all her faculties. Within the last twenty years she had visited her son in this city four or five times. Besides Dr. Goler, Mrs. Goler leaves three daughters, Mrs. Jessie Platt, Miss Estelle Goler and Miss Julia Goler, of Richmond Hill, L. I.

REV. FATHER STOREY DIES AT HOME IN BROCKPORT

(SPECIAL TO THE EVENING TIMES.)

Brockport, Dec. 12.—After a pastorate extending over half a century, Rev. Richard J. Storey, rector of the Church of the Nativity, died at the residence on Utica Street at 12:05. He was assigned to this parish on October 15, 1863. At that time he was a young man still in his twenties. He had labored with the people here since that time, keeping up his church offices until a week ago when he was forced to take to his bed. Last year he celebrated his diamond jubilee.

Father Storey was a native of Rochester and a son of Richard and Elizabeth Storey, who came to this country from Ireland in 1819. Upon their arrival in Rochester they purchased land on the banks of the Genesee now designated as 105 St. Paul Street and here Richard Storey was born. Early in life he developed a preference for the priesthood and after spending four years in the Convent of the Sacred Heart of Jesus located where the present Y. M. C. A. building now stands and a short time with the religious Society of Oblates in Buffalo.

He was ordained to the priesthood on the ninth day of September, 1855. After ordination he served in many temporary appointments, the first of which was at St. Patrick's Church, now the Cathedral, Rochester, and also at Holy Family Church, Rochester. He then took the mission at Attica which included churches at Marilla, Akron, Eighteen-Mile Creek and other intermediate towns. Later, he spent some time in Scottsville, Mt. Morris and Hornell, after which he went to the Cathedral at Buffalo. He came to Brockport October 15, 1863, the parish then including Bergen, Churchville and Spencerport. During his pastorate he had seen many changes in the property. He established the parochial school and secured the property, now Mt. Olivet Cemetery. He was a kindly man and loved by the people of Brockport as a whole and they will feel his loss as keenly as members of his own church.

Arrangements for the funeral are only partially complete. Father Smith, his assistant, announces that the body will lie in state at the residence until Tuesday at 3 o'clock at which time the body will be taken to the church. Offices for the dead will be chanted by priests of the diocese Tuesday night at 8 o'clock and the funeral will be held in the church Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock.

Bishop Hickey will officiate with the assistance of other priests.

Father Storey leaves two sisters, Miss Margaret Storey, who resides with him, and Mrs. J. A. FitzSimons of New York City.

He served in this capacity, under Collector Archie D. Sanders, until May, 1913, when he was stricken with paralysis, necessitating his resignation. He suffered a relapse about two weeks ago and gradually failed until death came on Saturday evening.

MORTUARY RECORD.

Herald Dec 16-1914
Ellisabeth Wells Humphrey.

Death again has taken one of the pioneer residents of Rochester, Mrs. Ellisabeth Wells Humphrey, who passed away on Monday at her home in Stone Road, where she had lived for a year.

Mrs. Humphrey was born in Rochester in 1834, the year in which the village was made a city. She was the eldest daughter of General Lansing B. Swan, who was a member of the first Common Council of the city, and at one time ran for Mayor. He was the first commander of the old Rochester Union Grays, and about 1850 codified the military laws of New York State.

Mrs. Humphrey's whole life was passed in Rochester and most of it in the old Third Ward. Possessing a remarkable memory to the very last, it was only necessary to refer to something in the past when she would instantly bring back to her hearers the persons and places of an earlier day. She was married in 1869 to George Harvey Humphrey, who himself was born in Rochester in 1830, and died here in 1903.

Unselfish devotion for others was the dominant character of this noble woman, and the example of her beautiful life can never be forgotten by all those who knew her.

LACKED ONLY TWO YEARS OF 100

Mrs. Sarah Buell, Lima's Oldest Woman Dead.

AN INVALID FOR 46 YEARS

Her Early Married Life Spent in Cabin in Wilderness of Michigan with Indians and Wild Beasts for Neighbors—An Interesting Career

D. & J. 1914
Lima, Dec. 15.—The death of Mrs. Sarah A. Buell, 98 years old, occurred in her home in East Main street yesterday afternoon. She was born in Fenner, Madison county, April 21, 1815, a daughter of John and Sally Mather. In 1818, her father moved to the town of Richmond, where she lived until her marriage to Henry Buell in 1833. Her husband died in 1879. She had been a resident of Lima for thirty-three years, and for forty-six years had been an invalid, twenty which she had been unable to walk.

Mrs. Buell possessed a well balanced mind and often talked of her early married life, which was spent in the heart of the wilderness of Michigan, at that time, the Far West. Her home was a log cabin 100 miles from Detroit, reached only by a blazed tree trail. Her neighbors were Indians, wild beasts were numerous, hardships were plenty, yet Mrs. Buell counted these years as among her happiest. Some time after this they moved to Lansing, then little more than a settlement in the forest. She was the mother of the first white child born in that city. She had always been interested in current events, and had watched with great interest the growth of the country from the time of log cabins and ox teams to the present time of luxury. She was the oldest resident of Lima.

She was the mother of six children, two of whom are living, Mrs. John Wheeler, of Milwaukee, Wis., and Miss Marietta Buell, of Lima; also a daughter-in-law, Mrs. Cora Buell; three grandchildren and one great grandchild.

The funeral will be held Wednesday, Dec. 17, at 10 o'clock, at the Presbyterian church officiating, assisted by Rev. Leon L. Swarthout, pastor of the Baptist church. Burial in Oak Ridge cemetery.

Bourne, a former pastor of the church, and an intimate friend of the late Congressman. Favorite hymns of the deceased were sung by the choir of the church.

Seats in the auditorium were reserved for the delegation which accompanied the body from Washington, for the Board of Supervisors, Auburn Board of Aldermen, the Cayuga County Bar Association and other organizations. The balance of the auditorium was filled with Auburnians and hundreds stood outside the edifice while the services were in progress despite the blizzard and the near zero weather. Hundreds followed the long string of carriages to historic Fort Hill cemetery, but a short distance away, where Congressman Payne found final resting place beside his wife, who died in Washington about two years ago.

The Distinguished Men Present.

The details of the trip from Washington of the funeral train were in the hands of Sergeant-at-Arms Gordon of the House of Representatives and Sergeant-at-Arms Higgins of the United States Senate. Dingle, of Dryden, who was Republican whip of the House when Mr. Payne was chairman of the Ways and Means Committee; John Dalzell, of Pennsylvania, who for many years was one of the most prominent Republicans at Washington and was one of the "Big Four" with Mr. Payne, and one of the closest associates of the deceased in his lifetime.

Other members of the party were: Clerk of the House of Representatives Jerry South; Bert Kennedy, minority clerk of the house; Edward T. FOUND FROZEN TO DEATH AT HIS DOOR

Union NEWARK, N. Y., Dec. 16.—Farmers coming here last night told of the freezing to death of Underhill Thorne, a farmer over 80 years, living alone to the north of Peake's Bridge.

At about 5 o'clock yesterday morning the frozen body was found by a neighbor, George Sewab, lying in the snow just outside Mr. Thorne's home. It is thought that he had risen early to care for a sick horse and on returning from the barn through the snow the effort had told on him and he had probably fallen and laid in the snow until he was frozen.

Surviving are: One daughter, residing north of Lyons, and another daughter, Mrs. John Serverson, of Newark.

Union PITTSFORD, N. Y., Dec. 16.—The funeral of Mrs. Olive A. Cole, widow of Noah Henry Cole, was held this afternoon at her late residence in the town of Mendon, four miles south of here, in the Pittsford-Mendon road. The Rev. J. B. Funnell, a former pastor of the Presbyterian Church at Mendon, now of Chicago, was the officiating clergyman. Interment was in the family lot at Mendon cemetery.

Mrs. Cole was a highly respected and lifelong resident of this vicinity and was of Scotch ancestry. The family consisted of three brothers in Scotland, Thomas, John and William, all of whom came to America. She was a descendant of John Lusk, her great-grandfather, who came to western New York in 1787 accompanied by his son, Stephen, then 12 years of age. They came from Connecticut by the old Indian trail from Canandaigua, bringing farm stock with them, and settled near the head of Irondequoit bay, where they remained some time. He purchased 1,000 acres of land at 25 cents an acre, but moved to Pittsford in 1807. Dennis Lusk, the eldest son of Stephen, was the father of Mrs. Cole, and her mother was Olivia Hazzard Lusk, who died in 1892. Mrs. Cole was the last of their children.

Her husband, N. Henry Cole, died eight years ago and was perhaps the most prosperous farmer in this vicinity. Mr. and Mrs. Cole contributed largely to the building fund of the Mendon Presbyterian Church, and after Mr. Cole's death she purchased a pipe organ which was installed in the church in his memory. DEATHS AND FUNERALS.
 ELIZABETH WELLS HUMPHREY

Funeral of Pioneer Resident Held from Late Home Yesterday.

The funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth Wells Humphrey, who died Monday at her home in the Stone road, was held yesterday from St. Thomas Protestant Episcopal church, Rev. James B. Thomas, rector, officiating. The bearers were sons and grandsons of the deceased, and Alexander Stewart.

Mrs. Humphrey was born in Rochester in 1834, the year in which the village was made a city. She was the eldest daughter of General Lansing B. Swan, who was a member of the first Common Council of the city, and at one time ran for mayor. He was the first commander of the old Rochester Union Grays, and about 1850 codified the military laws of New York state.

Mrs. Humphrey's whole life was passed in Rochester and most of it in the old Third ward. Possessing a remarkable memory to the very last, it was only necessary to refer to something in the past when she would instantly bring back to her hearers the persons and places of an earlier day. She was married in 1860 to George Harvey Humphrey, who himself was born in Rochester in 1820, and died here in 1903.

Unselfish devotion for others was the dominant character of this noble woman, and the example of her beautiful life can never be forgotten by all those who knew her.

JULIUS C. REED DIES SUDDENLY

Stricken with Apoplexy at His Home in Livonia. 19-1914

By Special Dispatch to The Herald.
Livonia, Dec. 18.—The sudden death of Julius C. Reed of this town at Retsof, N. Y., this morning has cast a shade of sadness over the community. No man was better known or more highly respected in the town and community than Mr. Reed. He drove from Retsof to Geneseo this morning and returned to Retsof, and while putting out his horse he was stricken with apoplexy and died before aid could reach him. A young man in the barn heard Mr. Reed as he fell and went to his assistance, but life was extinct. Coroner Preston was summoned, but decided that an autopsy was unnecessary.

The Livonia salt mine was located on Mr. Reed's farm, and while the mine was in operation here he was actively connected with its management. When the mine was abandoned about eighteen years ago, Mr. Reed was among the few from here who still held his connection with the company and went to Retsof, as both mines were under the same corporation, and had charge of the shipping department there. His family still continued to reside here. A man of keen judgment, thorough and painstaking, he devoted his energies to his work and was held in the highest esteem by the members of the corporation. For more than 26 years Mr. Reed was actively engaged in the salt business. The name Reed has always stood for everything that has tended for the betterment of the community, and the pioneers of this large family were among the early settlers of Eastern Livingston and Western Ontario Counties. Mr. Reed was the son of Horace and Vernella Rood Reed, and was born in the town of Richmond, March 21, 1846. When six weeks old his family settled on the homestead just south of this village about one mile, and this had been his home since that time.

On October 20, 1869, he married Mary Patterson of Livonia Center. Seven children were born to them, five of whom are living: Dr. Arthur P. Reed of Rochester, Miss Anna M. Reed of Burlington, N. J.; Mrs. Marcus W. Newcomb of Brown's Mills-in-the-Pines, N. J.; Miss Zelia Reed and Willard Reed of Livonia. Mr. Reed was an active member of Livonia Center Presbyterian Church and also of Livonia Lodge, F. and A. M. For several years he was president of the Board of Education. He was a Republican in politics and for twenty years was town assessor. The funeral will be held Saturday.

Mrs. Lavinia Blackmar Allerton Made Wedding Trip on Old Erie Canal.

Newark, Dec. 30.—Mrs. Lavinia Blackmar Allerton, aged 104 years, 6 months and 18 days, died in her home to-day of old age. Mrs. Allerton was the oldest person in Wayne county and probably in New York state and one of the oldest, if not the oldest, in the country. She comes from one of the best known families in this section of the state. One of her nephews is Judge Abe E. Blackmar, who was counsel for the public service commission of the first district of New York city.

Abel Blackmar and Polly Trowbridge were married in Freehold, Greene county, New York, September 14, 1797. To them were born ten children. Mrs. Lavinia Blackmar Allerton, the sixth child, was born June 12, 1810. Her childhood and girlhood were passed in the quiet shelter of her father's home. She was educated in the schools of that time, in and about Freehold. She joined The Christian Church when she was 14 years old.

She married Meade Allerton, of Port Gibson, New York, October 19, 1834. Her wedding journey was the trip to her home made by packet boat via Erie canal, then called "The Ditch." Mrs. Allerton lived to see "that ditch," twice enlarged, the work beginning the first time in 1835 and completed in 1862 since which time it was more properly called the "Erie canal." Mrs. Allerton watched with the keenest interest the work of the second enlargement, the work on which began in 1905; for her home commands an extended view of the waterway now known as "The Barge canal."

Her home for the period between 1834 and 1860 was in Port Gibson where Mr.

Allerton had extensive business interests. Mr. Allerton, on his retirement from business, moved with his family to Newark in 1860, purchasing the home at 12 Van Buren street, in those days the aristocratic street of Newark. The house is of the colonial period surrounded by stately gardens, the pride of Mr. Allerton's heart, and in whose care he took great delight until the time of his death, February 19, 1884.

Newark, in 1890, was a struggling village with but few sidewalks and without street lights. There were but few firms doing business in the village, one of which was Mrs. Allerton's brother, who were established in a general store and produce buying business.

A part of Mrs. Allerton's family had preceded her to Newark, the father and mother coming to the village in the late fall of 1849.

On her one hundredth birthday, Mrs. Allerton entertained her nearer relatives, numbering 25, at dinner, and received nearly a hundred callers. Soon after this birthday a member of the Sunshine Society from Mexico, N. Y., called at the home and at her earnest solicitation Mrs. Allerton became an honorary member of the International Sunshine Society and on state occasions wore the badge of that society, then presented to her, and she would laughingly tell her daughter that she was the only one of the family who was a club member. Mrs. Allerton is the last of her family.

Besides the two daughters, Miss Jeanie Allerton and Mrs. Eva Putnam, she leaves three nieces, Miss Anna Blackmar, Mrs. Emma B. Richmond and Mrs. C. T. Bloomer, all of Newark; and three nephews, Abel Blackmar and Orville Hurl Blackmar, of New York, and Arthur Blackmar, of Newark.

West Bloomfield, N. Y., Jan. 6.—The death of Mrs. Harriet Wakelee Hall, occurred at her home in this village on Sunday morning at the age of 91 years. The funeral will be held from his late home on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Mrs. Hall was the oldest daughter of Abner and Amanda Wakelee, who came to Rochester early in the last century. Mr. Wakelee owned a home and store near where the court house now stands and it was here that Mrs. Hall was born on December 25, 1823. A later home was in South St. Paul street, and from this home she was united in marriage to Myron H. Hall on January 9, 1849, and came to West Bloomfield to live. Here she and her husband lived to celebrate their fiftieth wedding anniversary. They had six children, Dr. James A. Hall dying in 1881 and Mr. Hall in 1899. Ailing, who had lived with Mrs. Hall for eight years, also survives her at the age of 88 years.

On March 22, 1839, she was married to Irving M. Lyon, who died a number of years ago. She was a genial, interesting lady and had many friends. She is survived by one half-brother, J. T. Kenfield.

James Manning of the Battleship Arkansas, now at New York, is visiting his parents for a week.

Karl McNeil, who is employed by the Edison Company in the West, is home for the holidays.

Allerton had extensive business interests. Mr. Allerton, on his retirement from business, moved with his family to Newark in 1860, purchasing the home at 12 Van Buren street, in those days the aristocratic street of Newark. The house is of the colonial period surrounded by stately gardens, the pride of Mr. Allerton's heart, and in whose care he took great delight until the time of his death, February 19, 1884.

Newark, in 1890, was a struggling village with but few sidewalks and without street lights. There were but few firms doing business in the village, one of which was Mrs. Allerton's brother, who were established in a general store and produce buying business.

A part of Mrs. Allerton's family had preceded her to Newark, the father and mother coming to the village in the late fall of 1849.

On her one hundredth birthday, Mrs. Allerton entertained her nearer relatives, numbering 25, at dinner, and received nearly a hundred callers. Soon after this birthday a member of the Sunshine Society from Mexico, N. Y., called at the home and at her earnest solicitation Mrs. Allerton became an honorary member of the International Sunshine Society and on state occasions wore the badge of that society, then presented to her, and she would laughingly tell her daughter that she was the only one of the family who was a club member. Mrs. Allerton is the last of her family.

Besides the two daughters, Miss Jeanie Allerton and Mrs. Eva Putnam, she leaves three nieces, Miss Anna Blackmar, Mrs. Emma B. Richmond and Mrs. C. T. Bloomer, all of Newark; and three nephews, Abel Blackmar and Orville Hurl Blackmar, of New York, and Arthur Blackmar, of Newark.

Times 12/26/1914

Dissette, of 12 Ellicott Street, one of the best-known ship captains on the Great Lakes, died suddenly yesterday in Cleveland, where he had gone to attend the meeting of the Ship Masters' Association and to visit his daughter, Mrs. John T. McPherson. He was 75 years old. The remains will be shipped back to Rochester today and the funeral will be held on either Monday or Tuesday from St. Monica's Catholic Church. Captain Dissette was Past Master of the Ship Masters' Association of the Great Lakes. He was a member of Buffalo Council, Knights of Columbus, Fourth Degree Assembly; Holy Angels' Branch of the C. M. B. A., Holy Name Society of St. Monica's Church of Rochester and Musa Caravan, Order of Alhambra.

STRICKEN DEAD IN CHURCH

Captain Dissette Had Been Sailor for Half Century

More details of the death of Captain John H. Dissette, of this city, in Cleveland on Christmas morning, have been received here. The 73-year-old lake and sea captain left the home of his daughter, Mrs. John F. McPherson, whom he had gone to visit, to go to St. Agnes' Church. There he refused a seat, saying, "Not just yet." Mass had begun when an usher saw him fall. He was carried into the sanctuary and a physician was called, but the man was beyond help. The daughter received word of his death from neighbors.

Captain Dissette had been for fifty years in active service on two oceans and the Great Lakes, and had been sick scarcely a day in his life. He was the oldest captain on the lakes when he retired two years ago. In one season he rescued the crews of six sinking vessels on Lake Superior.

Nine years ago Captain Dissette's ice-shrouded ship was borne by a blizzard upon a reef on the shore of the lake. Three sailors were left dead in the surf, but a score, including the old captain, struggled to temporary safety on the rocks. Their clothing froze upon them and death seemed imminent.

Again and again the sailors collapsed. It was the old captain who fought death by rousing his drowsy men throughout the long night and the next day with a sharp sick. At times, he alone, in a blinding snow storm, resisted the lethargy that the intense cold produced.

Captain Dissette saw the transition from sailing to steam ships. His father built the first steamboat to pass through the St. Lawrence.

A Tribute.

Editor Post Express: 10/10/15

The death of J. Douglass Brown at Lima, N. Y., recalls the eventful career of one who at one period of his life was actively engaged in this city. Mr. Brown prepared himself for college at Lima and graduated at the Rochester University. Later he practiced law here. Still later he became one of the firm of M. J. Green & Co., bankers, located at the corner of Main and St. Paul streets. Subsequently he and his partner bought out the old Rochester bank.

The career of J. Douglass Brown as a Rochester man ended in about 1863, when he moved to New York city, where he practiced law for many years. He was finally induced by a noted capitalist to start a bank at San Domingo. This was an ambitious undertaking. Everything seemed to be prosperous in this enterprise up to the time of one of those periodical rebellions which seem to be ever occurring in San Domingo and other South American countries. This rebellion was disastrous to all American enterprises at that time.

On his return to New York, Mr. Brown took up his former practice of law, which he continued up to the time of his falling strength, when he retired to the village of Lima, where he died at the advanced age of 83 years. He leaves a daughter, Marista Brown, of this city, and a son, Baxter L. Brown, of St. Louis.

JACOBS WELL KNOWN.
Post Albany Theatrical Man Had Many Friends in Rochester.

Henry R. Jacobs, theatrical magnate, proprietor of the old Academy of Music in the '50's, whose death in Albany was recently reported, was 63 years old. Rochesterians interested in theatricals remember him well, for he was a prominent producer and manager of big acts thirty years ago, often showing them in the Flower city.

Jacobs began his career as a circus sideshow man. However, it was greatly through that illfated Tom Thumb, that Jacobs achieved his later successes, for as manager of Tom, Jacobs made a large fortune and invested it in theatrical enterprises.

It was he who introduced Corinne, an old-time favorite, for whom the Lyceum in Buffalo is named. Jacobs and F. F. Proctor at one time controlled eighteen houses. Les and Sam Shubert began their careers as ushers in Jacob's Syracuse theater. In the early twenties Jacobs virtually became bankrupt through the failure of immense Chicago houses he owned. From this misfortune he never entirely recovered, financially.

THE HERO OF MANY A STORM

Exciting Adventures of Late
Captain John H. Dissette,
Veteran Shipmaster.

DRIVEN ON ROCKS

Saved Himself and His Crew in a Terrible Storm on Lake Superior in 1905.

Since 1/8/1915
A Buffalo friend of the late Captain John H. Dissette, whose death occurred in this city recently, sends to the Times an interesting account of a shipwreck in which Captain Dissette figured in 1905. Captain Dissette, who was a brother of Edward M. Dissette, of 21 Hart Street, was at the time of his death the oldest shipmaster on the Great Lakes and the hero of many exciting adventures.

Captain John H. Dissette was as if "to the manor born" a sailor, his father before him having been a ship-builder, a ship-owner and likewise a ship-master. Following in the bent of his father when but a mere youth he embraced a seaman's life. From the lower rounds he arose to the bridge as master, which position he held for upward of 40 years. His first seaman's papers bear date of issue 1878.

He was a well and favorably known master on the Great Lakes. He flew "Pennant No. 4" of the Ship Masters' Association, of which he was one of the founders and a Past Master. The owners of Pennants Nos. 1, 2 and 3 are long since dead.

In his career he had witnessed the transition of marine transportation from the old Bateaus that plied the St. Lawrence in the '50's to the sailing vessels that literally swarmed the Great Lakes, thence on to the modern steamships and freighters of today, which so largely compete with the railroads of the country in the transportation of the vast productions of the West.

The many years of his service on the Great Lakes were replete with adventure. He was the hero of many storms and experienced shipwreck several times.

On November 29, 1905, in one of the very worst storms ever experienced on Lake Superior, his vessel was driven on the rocks and went to pieces. Two seamen gained the shore, taking a small line with them. They climbed to the top of a high bluff overhanging the ship and one by one rescued the crew. Captain Dissette knew no fear, and when facing death, he directed the rescue of his shipmates and was the last man to leave the ship. Half an hour later not a vestige of the vessel was in sight. She had evidently rolled off the boulders into deep water, where the wreck remains today.

Exposed in zero weather, hungry and cold, their clothing wet and covered with ice, they picked their way down from the bluff to a sheltered spot in a valley where they lit a fire and tried to warm themselves.

As best they could by the open fire, through deep snow, seeking relief from their perilous situation. Taking their bearings from the sun they started toward the shore of the lake in hopes they might be picked up by some passing vessel.

Soon the pangs of hunger and exposure began to tell on one and all of them. Then it was that Captain Dissette assumed all the sternness of a master. With stick in hand, he was forced actually to drive his weary crew before him lest they drop by the wayside from sheer exhaustion.

Struggling in this manner for miles they sighted a hut, which they entered. The occupant of the hut, a Iona fisherman, made them as comfortable as possible. The black hot coffee and the scant fare he could afford, was shared between them. It was the first nourishment they had taken in upwards of 24 hours, in which they had been battling the elements for their very lives.

Under the guidance of the fisherman they found their way to a lumber camp in the woods about three miles distant where willing hands soon made them comfortable.

Captain Dissette was obliged to remain in the hut. When his ship first struck the rocks he was thrown off his feet and injured his back. This, together with exposure to cold and hunger, left him, when relief came, unable to walk. His feet were badly frost bitten. A volunteer party from the lumber camp, carried him on a stretcher to camp, where he was well cared for.

Two days later they were picked up by a searching party from Duluth and taken to Superior City, which is the western terminal of the Pittsburgh Steamship Company, in the employ of which he had been for nearly 20 years.

Rarely does one meet with such a strong personality as Captain Dissette's; his big warm heart was ever open to the unfortunate.

He was a Knight of Columbus, Fourth Degree Assembly; Holy Angels Branch, 7, C. M. B. A.; Holy Name Society of St. Monica's Church and Musa Caravan, Order of Alhambra. Of the latter he had the distinction of being its oldest member in years. He was also a member of the Ship Masters' Association of the Great Lakes.

MARSHALL P. WILDER DIES

Started Life with Many Handicaps but Became Friend of Kings and Herald Financiers.

Jan 11 1915

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 10.—Marshall P. Wilder, entertainer and humorist, died here early to-day after an illness of two days. Heart trouble and an attack of pneumonia were the causes of his death, his attending physician said. Mr. Wilder came to St. Paul on Monday to fill an engagement at a local theater. He was taken ill Thursday night and was unable to appear on Friday. He seemed considerably improved on Saturday, and until late at night his condition did not seem serious. About midnight he became worse suddenly and died within a few hours. The body will be sent to New York City to-morrow.

Born in Geneva.

Marshall P. Wilder was born in Geneva on September 10, 1859, the son of Dr. Louis DeValois Wilder. In his boyhood his father removed to Rochester and located in South Pittsburgh Street. Marshall attended old No. 5 School in this city, but his education was limited on account of his physical disability—he was a dwarf so far as height was concerned.

While in Rochester Wilder was a great favorite with a large circle of men who encouraged him in his natural gift for story telling and humorous recital. He was a familiar figure in old Front Street, where the habitude of the stores used to lift him to the top of a counter and let him entertain them. A little known fact in Wilder's life is that he was talented as a clairvoyant. In Rochester he gave several seances for his intimate friends, and some of them are said to have been so startling as to be uncanny. Wilder left Rochester in 1868 and went to New York City, where he obtained employment as a pedlar and later as a file boy in Bradstreet's Commercial Agency. He then decided to add to his income by giving humorous talks. For these he charged the modest sum of 50 cents an evening. The talks were successful from the start, and soon Wilder's prices began to rise.

Was Friend of King.

In 1882 Wilder went to London, where he was commanded to appear before the Prince of Wales, later King Edward VII. The Prince was so charmed with Wilder's personality that he made a companion of him, and often the two were seen in public. From 1882 to 1889 Wilder gave an annual entertainment in London. He was received by King George V five times. Mr. Wilder was an intimate friend of Chauncey M. Depew and many other notable men.

In 1903 Mr. Wilder married Miss Sophie Cornell Hanka and made a tour of the world with his bride. Mrs. Wilder died in 1913 and left a son and daughter.

Since Wilder left Rochester in 1868, he had twice returned to give his lectures. His first public appearance was under the direction of the Rochester Press Club, in the old Academy of Music, and was an ovation. His second appearance was in the Y. M. C. A. Music Hall, under the direction of James E. Furlong.

As a humorous lecturer Mr. Wilder had few equals in America. His grotesque facial contortions and his inimitable manner of telling a story won him fame and riches. Besides his work as a public entertainer, he had found time to write "People I've Smiled With," "The Sunny Side of the Street" and "Smiling Around the World." His home was in Atlantic City.

Several of Mr. Wilder's distant relatives live in Rochester.

Humorist's Death Is Regretted

Post. 1/11/1915

Marshall P. Wilder, taken in a characteristic pose at his desk while dictating. He was a worker off the stage as well as on.

HUMORIST AND ENTERTAINER DEAD; FRIENDS MOURN

Marshall P. Wilder Succumbs to Pneumonia After Brief Illness— He Was Born in Geneva, N. Y.

Word of the death of Marshall P. Wilder, whose boyhood was spent in Rochester, in St. Paul, Minn., was received here with much sorrow, for the entertainer and humorist had scores of friends in this city. Death was sudden. Mr. Wilder, who was 55 years old, had gone to St. Paul to fill a theatrical engagement. Thursday evening last he was taken ill. He was unable to appear on Friday and yesterday morning he died at his hotel. The body is to be sent to New York City.

It was in the old Academy of Music, under the direction of the Rochester Press club, that he made his first public appearance as an entertainer and humorist. Wilder made his second appearance in the Y. M. C. A. Music hall under the direction of James E. Furlong. Both ventures were highly successful to the little entertainer, whose dwarf stature and physical deformity did not impair his personality, but served as a bond between him and those whom he entertained so well.

Elbert Hubbard, East Aurora, in "A Little Philistine," a special number in August, 1905, tells of a meeting with Wilder, concluding: "He is the biggest little man and the littlest big man in the world to-day. Some folks feel sorry for Marshall Wilder—I don't. It is heart and brain that count, not body. When you weigh Marshall, he will not be found wanting anything that belongs to you. And, if you please, weigh him Troy, not avoirdupois."

In May, 1907, W. B. MacCallum, then manager of the Cook Opera house, planned holding a reunion of friends of Wilder's, and in response to appeals to send in accounts of acquaintanceships with the little humorist, many interesting stories were received by Mr. MacCallum.

According to one account, Marshall P. Wilder lived in his boyhood at 95 South Fitzhugh street. Julia B. and Mary B. Spencer, 11 Glenwood street, told how Wilder, as a youth, posed before a curtain as if playing a violin, while their brother, John, furnished the music behind the curtain.

Wilder was born at Geneva, N. Y. His father, Louis De Valois Wilder, was a successful physician. Early in life the son came to Rochester and was educated in School 5. In odd hours he ran a little printing office and his elocutionary and mimetic talents were much in demand for exhibitions and entertainments. His natural gift for story telling was greatly encouraged by Rochesterians. In old Front street Wilder was a familiar figure. Habitués of that then notorious thoroughfare used to lift him up on a counter and let him entertain them.

In 1868 Wilder at the age of eight years went to New York city where he obtained employment as a peddler and later as a file boy in Bradstreet's Commercial agency. By giving humorous talks, he decided, he could add to his income. From the start the talks were successful and from 50 cents admission the price was sent up by Wilder's increasing drawing power as an entertainer.

King Edward VII was a friend and patron of Wilder while the humorist-entertainer was delighting Londoners, from 1883 to 1889, in which years he annually played in London. Many notables on this side were intimate friends of Wilder, one of them being Chauncey M. Depew.

The humorist found time to write "People I've Smiled With" and "Smiling Around the World," besides "The Sunny Side of the Street." Mr. Wilder wed Miss Sophie Cornell Hanks in 1904 and with his bride made a world tour. Mrs. Wilder died in 1913, leaving a son and daughter. Mr. Wilder leaves several distant relatives in Rochester, it is said.

WAS PROMINENT IN BROCKPORT

Death of Theodore S. Dean Ends Brilliant Career.

A VETERAN OF CIVIL WAR

Served in Many of the Biggest Engagements and Was Clerk for Co.—Chairman of Brockport Water Board in Troublous Times

B. Y. C. 1915

Brockport, Jan. 19.—The death of Theodore S. Dean, one of Brockport's prominent residents occurred this morning. Until two years ago, when he was stricken with paralysis, he was one of the most active attorneys in the village.

He was born in Syracuse, July 29, 1845, a son of R. Sanford and Mary S. (Parker) Dean, both natives of New York. The family on both sides were in the Revolutionary war. The father was a farmer for a few years, but later became a Baptist clergyman.

Theodore S. Dean was very young when his father left the farm. He attended the public schools, where he pursued his preparatory work, afterwards attending the seminary at Wolecott, New York. When the war broke out he was not 16 years old, but enlisted in August, 1862, at the age of 17 years, in Company G, 138th Infantry, and was afterwards transferred to the Ninth Heavy Artillery. He served in the Sixth Army Corps in the Army of the Potomac.

War was a stern reality to him, for he was in the midst of heavy fighting most of the time, first at the battle of Cold Harbor and then the siege of Petersburg. He met Early at Winchester and took part both in this fight and in the one at Cedar Creek. After this victory he was returned to Petersburg and took part in all the engagements until the surrender. He served as clerk for his company at the regimental headquarters, where he held the rank of artificer. In July 1865 he was mustered out and returned to his home.

Begins Study of Law.

Immediately afterwards Mr. Dean went to Syracuse, where he began the study of law, completing his course with Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals William C. Roger. Admitted to the Bar in 1867, he began the practice of his profession in Chicago. To establish one's self in a profession in so large a city as Chicago required such close attention to the business that Mr. Dean's health failed under the strain. He returned to Middlesex, N. Y., where he spent two years before his health permitted him to resume business.

In 1871 he located in Brockport, where until two years ago he was engaged in the practice of his profession. For many years he was attorney for the Brockport Loan Association, the First National Bank, the village board and many corporations and estates.

In 1878 he married Alice Wood, who died in January, 1880. In 1883 he was married to Miss Hattie B. MacArthur, of Mount Morris.

For twenty years Mr. Dean was justice of the peace, and also served for several years as police justice of Brockport. He was a prominent member of Cady Post, of the Grand Army of the Republic. Fraternally he was allied with the Masonic order, being a member of the Blue Lodge and the Chapter and was a member of Silsby Hose Co., No. 1. He was for several Masons, and of the Rochester Whist Club.

A Great Chess Player.

He was much interested in chess and has played in several national and international tournaments. Politically he was with the Republican party, having served on the county committee for four years. He was a member of the Episcopal church. Mr. Dean was associated at the last of his public life, with his nephew, Henry E. MacArthur, in the firm of Dean and MacArthur. He has always been closely connected with all of Brockport's public improvements, and during the long trying time when Brockport was seeking for ample water supply, Mr. Dean was chairman of the Water Committee and gave much of his valuable time to the interests of the village in that direction.

Mr. Dean was suddenly stricken with paralysis over two years ago, since which time he has been practically helpless. Another more severe stroke last week made his condition more serious, until it resulted in his death at 11 o'clock this morning.

The funeral will be held from the home Thursday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, and burial will be in the family plot in the High Street cemetery. Rev. W. H. G. Lewis will officiate.

He leaves, besides his wife, an aged mother, Mrs. M. S. Dean, and a brother, Dr. O. A. Dean, both of South Haven, Mich.; two daughters, Miss Marie, of Brockport, and Miss Edith, of Fairmont, W. Va.

S. Craig, of Toronto, Ontario, conducted the service and delivered a eulogy. He was assisted by Rev. S. C. Farnham, of Wyoming, N. Y., and Rev. John Wright Follette, of Genesee.

The body will be taken to Dansville to-morrow morning, on the train leaving the Erie station at 9:30 o'clock. Interment will be made in that village to-morrow.

Elim Faith Work was established in Rochester in 1895. At present it consists of Elim Faith Home, at 161 East avenue, the Elim Publishing House and Bible Training School at 34 Lawn street and the Elim Tabernacle in William street, near East avenue.

The work was established on the faith principle, which means that it has been supported by free-will offerings, having no endowment fund, instead of the usual manner of raising funds by subscription. It was believed that the free-will offerings came in answer to prayer. In the beginning the work was known as the Faith Mission, and for eight years was located in Stillson street. In 1905 it was transferred to its present site.

Elim Home, while being a rest home for Christian workers and missionaries is also the home base for a foreign missionary work, for which $75,000 has been contributed and where thirteen of its students have gone to labor. Through the publishing work tracts have been sent out free at the rate of 100,000 yearly, besides a monthly paper called Trust, which goes into all parts of the world, carrying Mrs. Baker's lectures and addresses.

For the past few months Mrs. Baker had been in poor health, but was able to attend to her duties as teacher in the training school and as minister at the church services. Despite the fact that she was ill the end came suddenly. On Sunday morning she spent considerable time with the family in consultation and prayer in behalf of the work and the workers. Her condition took a turn for the worse yesterday and a physician was called. She passed away at noon.

The work will continue, according to a plan which will be announced later.

Mrs. Baker, who was 66 years old, is survived by three sisters, Miss S. A. Duncan, Mrs. Mary E. Work and Miss Hattie M. Duncan and two nieces, Mrs. D. W. Bruce and Mrs. O. R. Hubbell.

Marshall P. Wilder 1/20/1916
Visited in Wayne County.

To the Editor of the Democrat and Chronicle:
Sir: Your article in the Saturday issue of the Democrat and Chronicle regarding the education of the late Marshall P. Wilder reminds the writer of the fact that, wherever his school days may have been spent, his vacations were often passed in the village of Wolcott, in Wayne county. His grandfather, Jedediah Wilder, was an extensive landholder and lived near the forks of the road west of Wolcott village, in the town of Huron, of which town he served as supervisor in 1833, and again in 1845. His name often appears on old deeds and conveyances of land in that section. In the early seventies the writer was employed as clerk in the store of Chauncey P. Smith, of Wolcott, who married Martha Wilder. Mrs. Elisha Leavenworth, who was an older sister—Jane Wilder—also lived in Wolcott, and young Marshall and his sister Louise de V. Wilder, children of Dr. Louis de Valois Wilder, were often in the village with their relatives there.

Mr. Smith had four sons, the two younger being nearly of the age of Marshall, and it was his delight at that time to improvise a stage and organize some sort of show in the Smith barn. There are doubtless a number of the Wolcott boys now grown to be business men who will recall these early experiences. Marshall always occupied the center of the stage, and was manager, treasurer and advertising agent. His facial contortions, combined with his physical deformity, accentuated his droll conceits, and constituted them as in later life the greater part of his stock in trade. He was always amusing and quick at repartee.

A friendly, genial lad, he occasionally spent the night with the writer in his room at the store. It seems probable that at that time his father was located in Hartford, Conn.; but it is certain that they had at one time lived in Rochester. At a later period, along in the early thirties (perhaps earlier), Dr. Wilder returned to Rochester and opened an office there, the exact location of which I am unable to remember, although I called on him when he was there, and a short time before his death I saw him at his son's rooms in New York and had a long chat over Wolcott and the old-time friends.

RABBI'S TRIBUTE TO MARSHALL P. WILDER

Says Death of Humorist is Distinct Loss--Traces His Life.
know 1/23/1915

Rabbi Alexander Lyons, Ph. D., paid high tribute to Marshall P. Wilder, the humorist, who died recently, when he preached an eloquent sermon at the Eighth Avenue Temple, Brooklyn, in the presence of a large congregation on January 16th. Wilder lived in Rochester as a boy and attended grammar school in this city. He had frequently visited this city when appearing as an entertainer and had many friends in Rochester. Rabbi Lyons said in part:

"Death took from American life during this week a striking and familiar figure. Frequenters of vaudeville and readers of American humor know either by reputation or from personal experience of Marshall P. Wilder, the hunch-back humorist. The departure of such a one from the tense strain of American life is a decided loss and calls attention to one whose presence and activity have for years made multitudes of his fellow men happier and better for his existence. No man in American life is more needful than the humorist. He helps us to restore and keep our balance. He prevents that tendency to excessive effort in American striving which is always freighted with the danger of attaining the goals of our ambition at the cost of the forfeiture of our capacity to enjoy. Missionaries of cheer such as Wilder was are so important that their passing should not be left unnoticed. They should be made to complete their career of cheer with an emphasis at their death of the possibility of bright beneficence inherent in every normal human soul.

"Marshall P. Wilder started life as a victim of untoward circumstances. He knew poverty, its denials and its burdens. Added thereto was what to most men would have been a far greater misfortune. He was handicapped from early life as a result of accident with physical deformity and debility. He was a homely little man, dwarf-like, and suggestive of the uncanny. The average individual who have contemplated him either would have scorned him with pity. The hindrance of poverty kept him from an education such as better fortune sometime secures in school and college. And yet, when Marshall P. Wilder died, it was with a consciousness of having amassed a comfortable fortune, of having gained and enjoyed the admiration and appreciation of the world and the friendship of some of the most distinguished in the world. Best of all, his immortal spirit could take its flight from this lower realm with a consciousness wherein lies the deepest joy that he had left the world a brighter and in consequence a better place than he had found it. His can be an epitaph that few attain, and that all might envy; he turned misfortune into pleasantness and profit. There is a possibility of rich instruction in such an achievement and we shall benefit ourselves and properly honor Marshall P. Wilder as we should by asking how he did it.

"Fundamental to the activity and achievement of Wilder was the conviction, as he himself expressed it, that there is a compensation in everything.

"This law of compensation was fundamental to Marshall P. Wilder's remarkable activity and achievement as it is with every sane, stalwart soul that confronts life's difficulties and diversities of experience and maintains its balance. The conviction that there is balance in the world is a source of balance for us, saving us from one-sidedness either of sentimentality or of sorrow.

"The thought and conviction of the presence of compensation in the world in all of its aspects is, however, not sufficient. It must be paralleled with a persistent and courageous determination to seek and maintain that balance. Many people know theoretically, especially in their sadder experiences, that there is a way out through the operation of the law of compensation, but they prefer to cuddle themselves rather than consider the possibilities and requirements of the great universe of which each is only a microscopical part. Strange as it may seem it is none the less true that many people feed their misfortune by thoughtlessly or weakly pampering it, and in time grow to be proud of it. Such people deserve the misfortune they suffer.

"There are other souls such as Wilder was to whose judgment nothing is to be gained and much if not everything to be lost by an envelopment of one's self in an isolating self-concentration and self-centeredness. They will look for and heroically tread the path of compensation, which leads to unselfish service, and through the instruction of one's own sorrow, lighten the sorrows of others. The world is always needful, and countless lives are hungry for cheer and comfort. There is need of a ministry to such, for which there are but comparatively few who offer. Man's estate is never so low but that he can still smile, and by his smile irradiate brightness and blessing in the wake of which he will find his consciousness touched with a reflected cheer, and his courage increased with a novel strength. Marshall P. Wilder with wide-visioned insight that apprehended the law of compensation, determined heroically to give that law personal exemplification. This he did with a sublime persistence in looking forever for the sunny, cheery side of things, and with the rarest spiritual courage he utilized even his serious handicap as a source whence as from the ugly, venomous head of the toad he extracted as Shakespeare said, the precious jewel.

"Marshall P. Wilder has passed on, and except for his few cheery writings will soon pass out of general recollection. Such men ought to be remembered. They ought to be memorialized. They are more admirable and historically more valuable than the men of martial distinction whom we honor for their relations to carnage and human destruction. I would rather be a misshapen hunchback humorist like Marshall P. Wilder, and have the path of my life beaming with sunshine and smiles though I went down to an unnoted grave, than tread the blood-stained road of martial carnage that leads to a marble or metal statue. Marshall P. Wilder, with whom I was many a time privileged to laugh, has passed through the determination of his own philosophy and courage into the galaxy of the world's spiritual heroes. The thought of him ought to shame out of their self-complacency the many lives of smug selfishness which live only for self, and illustrate how with wealth of endowment how little some people can make of themselves while souls like Wilder illustrate how much with impoverished means others can make of themselves. The memory of Wilder will for those who knew him or of him always be redolent with grateful smiles. His departure leaves earth both brighter and sadder, and makes heaven more certain and pleasanter."

to the death of the two members:

"The shock of the deaths of Alois
Hermstein and C. H. McCrossen comes to the street car men this Monday morning with a shock. Truly at the brink of eternity all things assume a normal and, no matter what our relationship through life may

"For seven years C. H. McCrossen was the honored president of Divisociation in Rochester. His tenure of office was replete with successes to the organization and its members. No one knew its laws better than he,

point he urged upon the membership.

MRS. SUSAN NEWMAN

The funeral of Mrs. Susan Newman, who died Thursday at the family home, 95 Pearl street, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the house and at 2:30 o'clock from Monroe Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church. Williamson, Jan. 25.—The funeral of William H. Town, one of the most prominent builders of this section, will take place to-morrow afternoon from the Presbyterian Church, which was recently completed under his supervision. This is one of the handsomest church buildings in any village in Western New York and is a monument to Mr. Town's ability as a builder. It was the last piece of work he completed and by a strange coincidence this is the first funeral service to be held within its walls. The pastor, Rev. William A. Hallock, who will officiate at the funeral services to-morrow afternoon, was chairman of the building committee and closely associated with Mr. Town during his work on the church, which cost nearly $30,000.

Death was the result of spinal trouble, doubtless brought on by several severe falls in the course of his work.

Recollections of
To the Editor of the Democrat and Chronicle:
Sir: The communication from I. R. Seelye, of North Rose, published in the issue of your paper of the 20th inst., set the film of memory spinning backwards, and I thought that possibly a few recollections of the late Marshall P. Wilder might be of interest to some that enjoyed the friendship of that strange and remarkable individuality.

It seems impossible for anyone that had seen Marshall to believe that his father was one of the most stately and distinctive of persons, but such was the fact. He was a man nearly six feet in height, with a long, full head sweeping his breast, snow-white when I knew him. He invariably wore a silk hat, which accentuated his height and dignity. When I first saw him at our house, back in the early seventies, when a mere boy, I used to hear my mother refer to him in more or less of an awed manner as "a Spiritualist," and he was the first of this cult that I had ever heard of.

Whether from teaching or natural proclivities, such as are sometimes attributed to those physically peculiar, Marshall seemed to have strange powers and capacities. This instance his father told of him: A murderer was to be executed, and Dr. Wilder was to be present. Not wishing to have Marshall harrowed by the matter, he did not tell him that he intended to be at the hanging. When he returned home after the execution, he happened to mention the matter, and Marshall replied, "Yes; I knew you were there; I saw you there," referring to his trait of second sight. He was one of the pioneers in what is commonly referred to now as telepathy.

One of his tricks or feats was to have you blindfold him, hide an article, and then place your hand on his forehead. He would tell you to concentrate your thoughts on the hidden article, and he would lead you, or you would involuntarily lead him, to where it was. His grotesque gnome-like appearance made these things seem all the more uncanny.

I have a photograph in one of my scrap books that shows Marshall at about the age of 16 years seated on a rustic bench in front of my father's summer cottage on Irondequoit bay. This cottage is still standing, nearly intact, directly back of what was until recently the Rochester Canoe Club house. It was the first cottage erected on the bay, in the days when one had to go down by horse or carriage or not at all. Then William Sears held the horses at the horse block, and his uncle, Henry Walzer, greeted you cigar in mouth.

This photograph was taken by Professor Forbes, then teacher in the old Free Academy, and he was the first amateur photographer in this section, nearly forty years ago. I believe he made his own plates. So this photograph also is interesting, in that it was made by one of the first amateur photographers who still resides with us. In it is Marshall Wilder, who became the friend of kings later, and who turned nature's cruel joke into a stepping stone to fame.

By his fair dealings with the American Indians, Joseph Carpenter earned the name of "Kaudauga," which, translated, means "The Just." Through her father, Miss Carpenter, herself, was brought in contact with some of the famous Indians of the East, learning to speak their tongue at the age of 19, and having many times conversed with Red Jacket, the famous Indian orator. THE LATE DR. J. L. SOOY.
D. & C. 1/28/1915
Rev. Dr. Josephus L. Sooy, superintendent of the Rochester District of the Genesee Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, died in this city yesterday, after a week's illness. He was formerly a member of the New Jersey Conference, and later was transferred to the Kentucky Conference and stationed at Lexington, coming thence to the Genesee Conference. As a member of the latter body he occupied several important charges, including the Monroe Avenue Methodist Church of this city, and at the time of his death was filling the office formerly known as presiding elder.

In the death of Dr. Sooy, the Genesee Conference and Methodism generally have lost one of their most able men. A man of very high culture and sincere piety, he was particularly endowed with eloquence, while his sincerity made him beloved by all with whom he came in contact. His charming character made all of his acquaintances personal friends.

The supervising work in which he had been engaged during the past several years brought him into close touch with the people of every Methodist church in the Rochester district, visits being made by him to each at least four times a year. Through these visits, which were to a degree episcopal in their nature, he became known and loved by people of the denomination and others, over a large territory.

Dr. Sooy has been taken away in the prime of his life and at the apex of an exceptionally useful career. For he was one who had a definite and positive message to mankind, and he delivered it definitely and positively, as he had opportunity, until he was suddenly summoned from labor to repose.

circle of friends and acquaintances were greatly surprised by the news of his death.

Dr. Sooy was appointed to the superintendency of Rochester District by Bishop William Burt at the last session of the Genesee Conference, held in Bath, after completing a full term of six years as superintendent of the Buffalo District. The outstanding features of his work were the building of new churches, directing of the Laymen's Missionary Movement in connection with his denomination, so that the Buffalo District became the leading district of Methodism in missionary activity and support; the development of the deaconess movement locally and throughout the entire church, and the foundation of the Buffalo Children's Home. Previous to this appointment he served the Monroe Avenue Methodist Church, of this city for five years.

Dr. Sooy held many important pastorates, including pulpits in Trenton, N. J.; Lexington, Ky.; Camden, N. J.; Des Moines, Ia.; Wheeling, W. Va., and Olean. He was twice pastor of the same church in Trenton, N. J., and in Olean. He was born in Green Bank, N. J., March 1, 1849, and was in his sixty-fifth year at his death. He was a graduate of Princeton College and Seminary, from which institution he received his doctor's degree. He was converted while a student in college and afterwards entered the New Jersey Conference, being assigned to the pastorate of the Methodist Church in Princeton as his first charge.

Dr. Sooy leaves his wife, who was ill at Dr. Lee's Hospital when he passed away, and is now at the home of Colonel and Mrs. Nathan P. Pond; one daughter, Mrs. Wilbur Dyer, of Hamburg.

PRAISE DR. SOOY'S LIFE AND WORKS

Bishop and Minister Vie to Do Him Honor.

LAST SAD RITES ARE SAID

Monroe Avenue Church Filled with Persons Who Knew and Loved
Former Superintendent of Monroe
Methodist Dist.—Flower Tributes

D. & C. 1/30/1915
Members of the Genesee Conference of the Methodist Church came from many towns and cities to pay their last tribute of esteem to Rev. Josephus Leander Sooy, D. D., late superintendent of the Rochester District, whose funeral was held yesterday afternoon at Monroe Avenue Church, where he once was pastor. Bishop William Burt, of Buffalo, made the address and many other clergymen eulogized the man whom they had highly regarded. Rev. Earl D. Shepard was in the pulpit, representing Genesee Wesleyan Seminary, of which he is head, and of which Dr. Sooy was for some time trustee.

Many more ministers than could be seated in the pulpit were in the audience, and the lay congregation was very large. Floral offerings of unusual size and beauty were on the casket, and formed a border across the front of the rostrum.

Rev. Ray Allen gave a historical sketch of Dr. Sooy. Dr. Melville R. Webster, who was at one time district superintendent, read an expression from the Rochester Preachers' Meeting. Dr. Webster said that wherever Dr. Sooy was placed, in a pulpit or elsewhere, "we were never disappointed in him."

His Virtues Extolled.

"The Genesee Conference trusted him with its work in the General Conference, with its two largest districts, and with the affairs of its seminary," said Dr. Webster.

Rev. F. H. Coman, of Buffalo, who represented the cabinet of Genesee Conference, drew attention to various qualities of Dr. Sooy's, speaking particularly of his carefulness.

"There is no one who can better appreciate this quality than the speaker," said Mr. Coman. "For weeks I followed him in the parishes of the district and have seen his close attention to every detail. He was a prince in culture, a prince in courtliness, and a prince in courage. Not only a prince; he was more—a friend."

Preachers of the conference were represented by Rev. C. E. Allen, of Buffalo, who for six years was pastor to Dr. Sooy's family. Rev. Mr. Allen remarked that, in view of what had been said, there were but two qualities of Dr. Sooy's left for him to take up.

"Because of the first, sincerity, he was a tower of strength to us pastors," the speaker said, "and, as to the other virtue, it was deep and abiding love."

Bishop Burt's Tributes.

Bishop Burt had much to say about Dr. Sooy's goodness.

"Is not true goodness, after all, only goodness?" he asked. "It was noticeable how many times Dr. Sooy had been called back to a place where he had once served. I doubt if many of you will remember even the great serious life: his goodness. When we remember our friends, it is not for what they could do but because they loved us. Dr. Sooy would stand by the man who was misunderstood; then is the time we want a brother. He had no enemies. I do not know of any more retiring man than Dr. Sooy; he was always pushing forward the other man. We look from the city of the dead to the city of the living. We shall meet him again, and strike hands in the presence of the King."

Rev. D. N. Lacy, president of the Buffalo Preachers' Meeting, read an expression from that organization. Rev. L. L. Rogers, of Canisteo, and Rev. H. A. Crane, of Olean, took part in the devotional exercises. Rev. J. Edward Martin, pastor of Monroe Avenue Church, presided. Rev. E. P. Hubbell, former district superintendent, pronounced the benediction. Hymns were sung by the congregation and by the Conference Quartet.

Tributes in Flowers.

Hundreds of persons viewed the remains while they lay in state at the church from 2 until 3 o'clock.

The bearers were: Rev. E. L. Waldorf, Rev. P. L. Frick and Rev. F. Mittelfeldt; representing Buffalo District, and Rev. C. X. Hutchinson, Rev. E. D. Shepard and Rev. H. D. Ogden, representing Rochester District.

Rev. Mr. Martin was named a special representative of the Rochester District to accompany the body to Mount Holly, N. J., where interment will be made in the family lot.

Expressive, in a dumb, but beautiful way, of the esteem in which Dr. Sooy was held by the great number of persons with whom he came in contact in his career, were the numerous floral offerings. Among them was a large cross, constructed of many kinds of flowers, presented by preachers of the Rochester District, the unusual beauty of which was remarked upon. Other organizations that took this way of showing their remembrance were the General Deaconess Board, First M. E. Church of Rochester, Woman's Home Missionary Society of Genesee Conference, Board of Trustees of Richmond Avenue Church of Buffalo, Buffalo Methodist Preachers' Association, Conduct of Home Committee of Deaconess Home of Buffalo, and First M. E. Church of Olean. There were also many floral offerings from individuals.

HILTON'S FORTY-NINER DEAD

Hiram Bardeen Went to Klondike by the Way of Cape Horn and Worked with All of the Present
Bonanza Kings in Pickax Stage

Hilton, Feb. 1.—Hiram Bardeen, one of the most unique characters of Western New York and who lived one mile northwest of the village of Hilton is dead. He was known throughout the county as "Old Forty-niner" by reason of his experience in that golden age.

Six nights each week, rain or shine, this veteran of the mining camp has been the center of a crowd of interested listeners as he commented on the current events and his experiences of his early Western life. Every day, until recently, for the past thirty years he has regularly met the incoming trains at the railroad station, hurrying the daily papers to the postoffice that he might prepare himself as early in the day as possible as to the political situation and the news of the world.

Mr. Bardeen was one of Hilton's most substantial farmers, coming to this locality over thirty years ago and soon saddled with his new and appropriate name. His love of country and its firm protection against the world knew no bounds. This had led him to furnish more flagpoles and other paraphernalia for throwing old glory to the breeze than all others in this locality.

From Mexico to the Klondike.

"Old Forty-niner" was a gold and silver miner during the period of excitement attending the discovery of the precious metals in California in the days of '49. His rambles covered the entire distance West from Mexico to the Klondike regions of Alaska and from the Rocky mountains to the Pacific coast. At this early day such an experience was attended with startling incidents and narrow escapes.

Bardeen was a Rochester boy in the days of '49 and being of a roaming disposition naturally took the prevailing gold fever, packing his worldly possessions, which were confined to small compass easy of transport, he wended his way to New York and shipped as a sailor, by way of Cape Horn, for California. While his contract was to return with that ship, his experiences as a seafaring man was such that he could not see his way clear to go back. He decided to pursue his investigations on land and see what was in store for him. He came out fairly successful in gold and with a vast wealth of experience.

Being on the ground in nearly all the early rich finds, he made the acquaintance of nearly all the bonanza kings when in their "pickax" period, clad in blue jeans and clip hat apparel. These men of fortune he has followed in all their upward career to their present shining thrones. Some are in the council of the nation, while others figure largely in the financial world and flout their importance on both sides of the

HIRAM BARDEEN,
Hilton's Old Forty-niner.

A Man True to His Word.

Thus it will be observed that his education in the school of experience was of the rough-shod quality, and while rough in his speech and appearance, he was unmistakably a man true to his word, having had his training in his association with those who had no time for the execution of contracts, who knew the penalty of a lost memory. His intellect was unusually keen and his remarks at times exceedingly witty and no one who knew him ever hesitated to approach him for a favor, for his big heart always responded generously if within his province. He had an opinion of more than ordinary interest and value on all topics of the day, and was very emphatic in his expressions.

He never acknowledged but one mistake in his career and that was the time he walked forty miles to vote against Abraham Lincoln. This, he declared, made him so tired that he never fully recovered. Since then he had been a staunch Republican and a strong advocate of the gold standard. He never was known to be downed in an argument for he would not have it that way, and always expressed himself sufficiently loud and emphatic as to be always understood by the pure, rather than the pious, make-up of his Anglo-Saxon. To this no one took exception, while all respected him for his rugged integrity, boundless patriotism and evident sincerity.

During the past thirty years Mr. Bardeen had made scores of friends and his absence at the village stores will be noticed and his entertaining narrations, delivered in his Western style, will live long in the memory of those who chanced to know him well.

DEATH CLAIMS JAMES H. BREEZE

Had Been Monroe Court Crier for Eighteen Years.

LONG RECORD IN OFFICE

Born in Ireland, He Came to This Country at Age of 3 Years and Settled in Parma.

Herald Feb 7 1915
James H. Breeze, court crier, died last night at his home in Spencerport, aged 66 years. Mr. Breeze was taken ill on Monday, and had suffered intensely all the week with acute erysipelas. On Friday, a consultation of doctors was called. At that time, Mr. Breeze was semi-conscious and his face was swollen to such an extent that his breathing was interfered with. Death came at 7.30 o'clock last evening.

Mr. Breeze was born in Gray Abbey, County Down, Ireland, on February 27, 1849. He was brought to the United States by his parents, Thomas and Margaret Breeze, when he was 3 years old. The family settled in Parma, two miles north of Spencerport, where Mr. Breeze had lived until four years ago when he purchased a house in Water Street, Spencerport, and removed to that village.

In 1870, Mr. Breeze married Miss Fannie J. Clarke of Parma. To them were born three children, two of whom, Mrs. Bertha Lawrence of Paonia, Colo., and Mrs. John Welch of Parma, are living. Mrs. Clara B. Austin, the other child, died three years ago. After his first wife's death, Mr. Breeze, in 1881, married Miss Abbie Boughton of Ogden. Besides a wife and daughters, Mr. Breeze also leaves a sister, Miss Margaret Breeze of Parma.

Record in Public Life.

Due to his long period of public activities, Mr. Breeze was one of the best known men in Monroe County. For ten years he was a Justice of the Peace in Parma. He was at one time a side judge of the County Court, and he had been court crier for eighteen years. For thirty years, he had followed his business of auctioneer.

He was also active in Masonic affairs and had been four times master of Etollan Lodge of Spencerport, of which he had been a member since 1882. As recently as January 21 he conducted funeral services for a brother member of the lodge. He was also a member of Ogden Grange, and had been its master, and was a member of the State Grange. He was president of the Pioneers' Association of Monroe County, and a member of Lalla Rookh Grotto, M. O. V. P. E. R. COURTS SPEAK IN HIGH TERMS OF LATE CRIER

JUSTICE SUTHERLAND EXPRESSES HIS PERSONAL ESTEEM.

AND THAT OF SUPREME BENCH

Post 2/8/1915
Judge J. B. M. Stephens in County Tribunal Also Eulogizes Faithful Official and Personal Friend.

The life of James H. Breeze, court crier, was spoken of this morning from the judicial bench in two courts. Justice Arthur E. Sutherland in Supreme court pronounced a eulogy before the proceedings of the day had begun and in County court, Judge J. B. M. Stephens did likewise.

Justice Sutherland's remarks were as follows:

"Before beginning the work of the day I desire to refer to the fact that Saturday night James H. Breeze passed away.

"Mr. Breeze for eighteen years has been the crier of the courts of record of this county. Before that he was one of the judges of the court of Sessions, in the last year in which that court existed. Mr. Breeze dignified his work and was a faithful and valued member of the staff of officials working in the administration of justice. His attitude toward his office, his demeanor in court and his observance of every rule of propriety and courtesy made him a model for all who serve in similar capacities.

"There was something more about Mr. Breeze than a mere official performing his functions; there was a personality that had large value. He was big bodied, big natured and big hearted in every way. He was a broad, fine, representative American man, and I had for him a deep and sincere affection. I am sure all who worked with him and knew him well will miss him greatly.

"I instruct the clerk of the court to set aside a page in the record of our proceedings, on which shall be inscribed these few words which I have spoken."

Judge Stephens said: "Before proceeding with the further order of court to-day it seems appropriate that some recognition be made of the death of Mr. Breeze, so long associated with this and other courts of the county. He was court crier during the entire time of my incumbency and in this close companionship I had opportunity to appreciate his rare and genuine worth. His death came to me, as to others, as a keen personal shock. Not only was his sudden demise a grief to us here, but to a large number of friends, for few men had a wider acquaintance than Mr. Breeze. He loved life and he represented the highest type of gentleman and it was a pleasure to associate with him. It is with a deep and great regret that we have occasion to pay this imperfect tribute to his memory. On Thursday afternoon this court will adjourn in respect to his funeral which is to be held on that day."

The Pioneers' association will meet on Thursday at noon in the Board of Supervisors' rooms to pass resolutions on the death of Mr. Breeze and will attend the funeral in a body, leaving on the 1.15 car over the Buffalo, Lockport

The Court house to-day was like a mourning and hundreds of tributes of affection and respect were paid to the memory of Mr. Breeze, whose happy smile and kindly personality will be greatly missed by all who appear in the courts.

DEATH OF ELIZA C. MORGAN
For 26 Years Connected with a Normal School in Nebraska.

The death of Miss Eliza C. Morgan, which occurred in this city January 20th, will bring profound regret and call forth many interesting memories among old friends, not only in this community, but in every state in the Union where her former associate students in the Peru (Neb.) State Normal School have their residences.

Miss Morgan died at the advanced age of 83, at the close of a life of remarkable service and influence. She went from New York to Peru in 1872 to assume the position of preceptress, when General T. J. Morgan was made president of the school. For twenty-six years she served the state as instructor in English and as preceptress of Mount Vernon Hall, resigning her position in 1898. Going into Nebraska in its pioneer period, her life of real culture and high integrity had an inestimable influence upon the early educational ideals of that state.

In 1909 Miss Morgan was induced by the president of the school to attend a Peru commencement and the occasion was made an historic "home coming." Almost returned, in some instances for the first time in twenty years, in order to pay their respects to this modest woman in her declining years.

For a few years after leaving Nebraska Miss Morgan resided in Washington, D. C., where she was a frequent and interested listener in the halls of Congress. She was an intimate friend of the family of United States Senator T. W. Tipton, of Brownville, Neb. Her last years were spent in Rochester, where her niece, Mrs. E. M. Horner, resided.

Manchester, Feb. 22.—The funeral of Captain Francis L. Brown of Shortsville, who died Friday night after a long illness, will be held from the family residence Monday afternoon, in charge of Rev. Donald H. MacKenzie, pastor of the Shortsville Presbyterian Church. Captain Brown was a Civil War veteran and was an active factor in many of the fiercest battles of the war, noted for his bravery and always ready to lead his men on any charge where death seemed certain.

He enlisted in the 33d New York Volunteer Infantry on April 22, 1861, and was assigned to Company D. He received his discharge on June 2, 1863, and returned to Ontario County, where he raised a cavalry company, of which he was appointed captain, and which was mustered into the United States service January 19, 1864, as a part of the 24th Regiment, New York Cavalry, and was mustered out at the close of the war.

In 1867 he took up the study of law, and later a took years' course at the University of Michigan, and was admitted to the bar in June, 1869.

Mr. Tomer was a poet of considerable ability. Some years ago the late Joseph O'Connor published a number of his verses. He was also possessed of a keen sense of humor. His humor was of the gentler kind, a sort of mild facetiousness. It was never barbed with malice. He liked to read the poems of the amateur rhymsters of the "Western New York Poetry Belt," as he called it, and, as the readers of the Union are aware, many of his most mirthful editorials dealt with the quantity and quality of the output of these embryonic Homers.

The Chief has passed, to where we may not see,
But still his work will live, and comfort lend,
To those who still pursue the onward
way,
Who feel to-day that they have lost a friend.

"The good men do lives after them,"
'tis said,
And he gave chance and voice to many a pen,
Which but for his most kindly thought and deed,
Had not been heard among the world of men.

And should some thought that he gave wings to live
Bring blessing in its wake; He, who knows all,
Will recompense the gentle heart that gave
Life to the rhyme, lest it unheeded fall.

His merry humor hushed, in memory lives,
His songs of tender and of joyous trend,
Will linger in the haunts he loved so well.
Although to-day we say, "God speed
our Friend."

LONG AND ACTIVE CAREER

Was Honored Among Jewish Resi-

Part of Life in Rochester—One of Oldest Masons and Fraternal Men

D.R.C. 2/27/1915
In the demise yesterday morning of Martin Beir, Rochester loses a prominent Jewish citizen. Mr. Beir was approaching his 93d birthday, having been born in Muhlflingen, Wurtemberg, July 17, 1822, but up to within a short time before his death, he was at his office every morning, rain or shine, punctually at 10 o'clock, and was busily occupied with his affairs until 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

His appearance was often described as Chesterfieldian. It is said that he was extremely chivalrous in his demeanor and his dealings with his fellow men, and that he never forgot a friend. Three years ago this summer his friends tendered him a reception at the Hotel Seneca to celebrate his 90th birthday, and guests numbering more than three hundred came from many parts of the state to felicitate him. One of the testimonials given to him at that time was a silver loving cup which was presented by some of his admirers. The letters that he received from friends, at that time would nearly fill a volume. Mr. Beir was then hale and hearty, the embodiment of perfect health.

MARTIN BEIR.

A great part of Mr. Beir's ninety-two years' activity was spent in Rochester. Until 1847 he was in partnership with his brother, Asher, the firm name being A. Beir & Brother. In 1857 Mr. Beir founded the Flower City Oil Works in this city. This later was destroyed by fire. Mr. Beir then engaged in the firm of the business name was changed to Martin Beir & Company, and still conducted under the name of Milton Clark & Company, Incorporated. At the time of his death, Mr. Beir was connected with the M. E. Wolf Company, No. 106 Powers building.

In 1853, he returned to Germany and married Miss Clara Hirsch, on February 22d. Subsequently, Mrs. Beir died. Mr. Beir had been living with his son-in-law, Isaac Beir, at No. 101 Audubon street. He leaves a daughter, Mrs. A. M. Blumensteil; five grandchildren, Mrs. S. L. Ring, Miss Etta R. and Miss Irene S. Beir, and M. A. and Leo A. Beir, and three great-grandchildren, Charlotte Beir Ring, Lawrence Martin Ring and Richard Martin Ring.

One of Mr. Beir's favorite activities was fraternal work. He was one of the oldest Masons in Rochester, having taken his first degrees sixty-one years ago. He was also one of the oldest members of Zerubbabel Lodge, Independent Order of B'nai B'rith, and was honored at various times by the local lodge and by the national body.

Few men who live to be nonagenarians have crowded into their many years such varied experiences as he had.

The funeral will take place to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock, and will be private.

Death Comes Suddenly to Song Writer in Chicago

D.R.C. 2/28/1915

William W. Parquet, a Rochester song writer, was found dead in his room in a Chicago boarding-house yesterday morning. He had been subject to heart trouble and it is thought death occurred in one of the seizures. Coroner Maloney, of Chicago, will have the body sent to Rochester, and the funeral will take place from the home, No. 3 Summer park.

Parquet was born in Philadelphia, August 3, 1888. The family moved to Rochester in 1900. He went to public schools and later took up bookkeeping. For more than four years he was employed in the office of the Railway and Light Company. In his spare time he studied music and became a proficient pianist.

In 1911 Parquet wrote "My Only One," and it was published by the Remick company. His next success was "Where Are the Roses of Yesterday?" He thought he could work to better advantage in Chicago, so he gave up book-keeping and went to that city last September. "Till the Golden Gates of Heaven Are Closed Forever," found its way to the publishers a few months later. Caruso's attention was attracted to the composition and an arrangement was made with the famous tenor to introduce it. The song sheets bear a likeness of the Italian.

"Drifted Apart" and "Dreams, Dreams, Dreams" are among the last songs Parquet produced. In a letter to his mother which was received on Thursday Parquet said he was busy on a number of scores. The letter was op-

Mrs. Grace Barnum of The Herald Staff Dies Suddenly.

CONDUCTED TRAVEL BUREAU

Later Became Friend of Thousands of Women through Her Supervision of "Miriam Drew" Department.

Mrs. Grace Irwin Barnum, wife of Alfred E. Barnum of 769 Meigs Street, died suddenly early yesterday morning at the family home.

Mrs. Barnum had been suffering for several weeks from occasional attacks of acute indigestion, but her illness had been regarded at no time as serious, and more recently her health had appeared to be almost completely restored. She had been able to attend to her home duties and social engagements, and as late as Friday afternoon planned to join a small party of friends the same evening.

After dinner she complained of a slight indisposition and summoned her physician. Later in the night the attack took a serious turn, and shortly after 1 o'clock death came, resulting from internal hemorrhage.

Mrs. Barnum, up to the time of her death, had been a permanent and valued member of the staff of The Rochester Herald for many years. Her connection with this newspaper began before her marriage, and was at first confined to the management of The Herald's travel bureau. When the department of social and domestic information and advice was established some two years ago, known as "Miriam Drew's Department," and dealing with "Everyday Problems of Maid and Matron," Mrs. Barnum was placed in charge of it.

Her enthusiastic interest in this work inspired responsive interest and confidence among many thousands of readers. The department soon came to occupy a large part of each issue of the newspaper, to require the employment of several contributors, and to serve the most intimate needs of many homes. The Herald has regarded this branch of its work as second to no other feature in importance and usefulness, and its early and permanent establishment in the minds and hearts of Herald readers is chiefly due to Mrs. Barnum's tactful and sympathetic direction. A woman gifted with rare charm of temperament and manner, she diffused a spirit of kindness, charity and patient helpfulness throughout the pages of the woman's department, among her staff associates and among the hosts of unknown friends who sought counsel and help from the newspaper.

Mrs. Barnum is survived by her husband, her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Irwin, and three brothers, Louis, Harry and Charles, all of this city. The funeral will take place from the family residence Tuesday morning at 10.30 o'clock. The burial will be private.

MORTUARY RECORD.

Miss Elizabeth FitzSimons.

Miss Elizabeth FitzSimons died yesterday afternoon, after a lingering illness, at her residence at 88 Tremont Street. At the time of her death Miss FitzSimons was known to but few persons in Rochester, but in the early days of Bishop Bernard J. McQuaid's ministry she was a familiar and conspicuous figure, as she occupied the front pew immediately under his pulpit in St. Patrick's Cathedral, of which she was a devoted member, and for which she was for many years an earnest and active worker. When later she moved to Amsterdam, N. Y., there was no church or charitable enterprise in which she did not take an active lead.

After the death of her sister at Amsterdam, a few years ago, Miss FitzSimons returned to Rochester, but ever since her return she spent the most of the year at her summer home in the Adirondacks, on the Fulton chain of lakes, coming to Rochester for merely a few months in the winter. While always active in works of religion and charity, she had no time for mere society, and the only secular association to which she ever gave her name was the Amsterdam Century Club, of which she was a charter member.

Miss FitzSimons was born in Ireland, but came to the United States at an early age, receiving her education at the Convent of the Sacred Heart, Kenwood, near Albany, then one of the leading educational institutions of the country. She was a sister of the late Charles FitzSimons, one of the founders of the house of Burke, FitzSimons, Hone & Company. She leaves a sister, Miss Katherine FitzSimons of 88 Tremont Street; a brother, Rev. Simon FitzSimons, rector of St. Mary's Church of Rochester, and a niece, Mrs. Anselm B. Haberer also of 88 Tremont Street.

The funeral will take place to-morrow morning at 10.15 o'clock from the house, and at 10.30 o'clock from Immaculate Conception Church in Edinburgh Street. Interment will be made in Holy Sepulcher Cemetery.

GROVE W. MATHER.

D+e 3/8/1915
Livonia Man Dies in Home of His Daughter in Minneapolis.

Livonia, March 8.—On Wednesday night of last week in Minneapolis, Minn., occurred the death of Grove W. Mather in the home of his daughter, Ellen Mather, who for several years has been engaged in teaching in that city and with whom Mr. and Mrs. Mather have been staying since some time last fall.

Mr. Mather's death, due to pneumonia, was very sudden, he being ill but three days. He was one of Livonia's most highly esteemed citizens, a man of noble Christian character. He was born July 14, 1834, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Mather, and was one of a family of seven children, five of whom are living, John, of Indiana; Frank, of California; Mrs. Jennie Sisson, of Bristol; Mrs. Emma Congdon, of Rochester, and Mrs. Amelia Benham.

Mr. Mather was for many years associated with his father in the woolen manufacture near their home in the southeastern part of the town. Mather's mills did a flourishing business in those years, the process of their manufacture beginning with the raw product and proceeding to the completion of the woolen cloths made by them. The mill was situated on the outlet of Canadice Lake from whence it derived its power. Later it was converted into a factory for making butter tubs, carried on by the son.

Mr. Mather was twice married, his first wife being Ellen, daughter of the late Dr. Willard Doolittle, of the town of Richmond, to whom he was married April 11, 1861. Mrs. Mather's death occurred October 20, 1862, and on November 12, 1863, he married her sister, Phyla Doolittle. Of the five children, three are living, Ellen Mather, of Minneapolis, Minn.; Mrs. Persis Cone, whose home is near Lake George, N. Y., where her husband is engaged in teaching, and Olin Mather, who lives on the farm homestead.

Besides these he leaves his wife and five grandchildren. Mr. and Mrs. Mather united with the First Congregational Church of Honeoye about 1873, and he had held many prominent and important offices connected with the church, being a deacon for many years, and still holding that office at the time of his death.

The body of Mr. Mather was brought to his late home Saturday, accompanied by his wife and daughter, and joined en route by his brother, John. Mrs. Mather's brother, Truman Doolittle, of Albion, Mich., also came for the funeral, which was held from his late home this afternoon at 1 o'clock. The Rev. Gordon Henshaw, pastor of the church with which he had been so actively associated for so many years, officiated. The burial was in the family lot in the West Richmond cemetery.

THE ESTABLISHED FIRST BANK IN NORTHERN WAYNE

Death of Edwin A. Green in Home of Sodus.

HIS BUSY LIFE HISTORY

Bank of Sodus One of Those to Go Under in Panic of 1873—His Ancestors Makers of History—Father Chose Lyons as the County Seat
D. & C. 3/13/1915

Sodus, March 12—Edwin A. Green, aged nearly 80 years, died last night in his home in Carlton street, after a long period of ill health. Mr. Green came from illustrious parentage and was born in Sodus, August 14, 1826, the youngest of a family of seven children. In point of longevity the lives of the Green family proved truly remarkable. All the members, except one, lived to be 80 years old or over. The mother reached her ninety-fourth year.

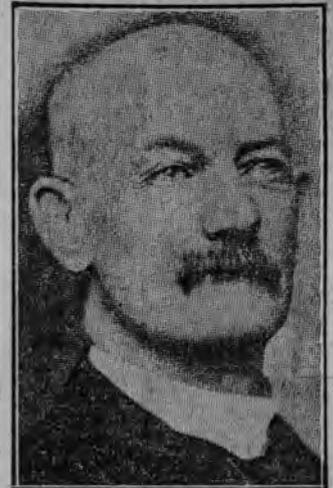

Mr. Green, in his youth, was a clerk in his father's store at West Main and Rotterdam streets. At the age of 24 years, he went to California, where he remained three years, returning in 1853. That same year he again went to California, where he lived until 1857. He also served a clerkship in the A. M. Winchester store, forming a partnership after his second return from the coast. In 1859 he established the Bank of Sodus, which as the earliest bank in Northern Wayne did a heavy volume of business. The bank was running successfully until the panic of 1873 swept the country and it found itself unable to weather the gale and was forced to suspend.

Mr. Green continued in the mercantile business until 1882 when he sold out and moved to Kansas, settling near Kingsley. Afterwards he entered the grocery business in Kingsley, continuing until 1903 when he returned to Sodus, where he had since made his home. The present Bank of Sodus, under the control of C. K. Knapp, is a continuation of the banking enterprise founded by Mr. Green. Mr. Green never participated in public life, though he was deeply interested in political matters and was exceedingly well informed in the political history of the country.

An Illustrious Ancestry.

No native of this town could lay claim to more illustrious ancestry. His father, Byram Green, was one of the pioneer settlers of Sodus, coming here in 1810. As a student he was one of the five young men of Williams College who held the famous Haystack Prayer Meeting in Williamstown, Mass., from which occasion originated the American Foreign Mission Society. He held numerous town offices, was judge of the Circuit Court for many years, was twice elected member of Assembly and once a member of Congress. Judge Green was one of a committee of three which named Lyons as the village in which the county seat should be established. He lived to a mature old age and his remains now lie in the Green family plot of Rural cemetery.

Edwin A. Green married Miss Helen M. Knapp in 1856. She died in 1882. He leaves his second wife, Josephine C. Green; one daughter, Miss Helen R.

asked permission to rest. He fell off a chair and died almost instantly. The ambulance from St. Mary's Hospital was called and the surgeon pronounced him dead.

Mr. O'Loughlin was employed as a night timekeeper in the Seneca Hotel. He was returning to his home when he became ill. Coroner Kleindienst granted a certificate of death from angina pectoris.

Edward O'Loughlin was born in Rochester, August 1, 1845. He attended the public schools, after which he found employment as a tobacco worker. Subsequently he worked in a flour mill, on the New York Central Railroad and in a shoe factory. He was appointed a patrolman November 2, 1882, being made a detective on May 22, 1892. On January 1, 1906, Detective O'Loughlin was appointed investigator, holding this position till he was retired on August 1, 1903.

Mr. O'Loughlin was a member of Immaculate Conception Church, Rochester Lodge of Elks, the local aerie of Eagles, the C. M. B. A. and of the Exempt Firemen's Association.

Detective O'Loughlin worked with success on several murder and other important cases.

Mr. O'Loughlin resided at 50 Edinburgh street. He is survived by a wife, Mary Sheridan O'Loughlin; two sons, Edward A. O'Loughlin, Jr., of this city, and William J. PASSES AWAY

Newark Loses One of Its Most Prominent Citizens.

May 18 - 1915
Newark, March 17.—Edwin K. Burnham, one of the most eminent, widely known and highly respected men that this community has ever claimed, died about 11 o'clock this morning at the family residence, corner of West and West Maple Avenues, at the age of 75 years. A commissioned officer of the Grand Army of the Republic, a holder of high offices in state, town and county governments, and organizer and for many years president of one of Newark's largest industries, are among the records which history makes in the life of Mr. Burnham.

Mr. Burnham was born in Randolph, Vermont, September 8, 1839; was educated in the common schools and the Royalton Academy, completing his studies at Orange County, Vermont. In 1862 he enlisted in Company C, 15th Vermont Volunteer Infantry, and was at the "battle of Gettysburg, being honorably discharged as sergeant in 1863. In the spring of 1864 he graduated at the Albany Law School and was admitted to practice in the courts of the state. In June of the same year he came to Newark and entered on the practice of his profession as a partner of James E. Briggs, a native of his own state.

In September of the same year, Sergeant Burnham re-enlisted in the army, and on October 10, 1864, was commissioned captain of Company D, 11th Regiment, New York Infantry, and went with his regiment, participating in the engagements in and around Petersburg, until taken prisoner April 2, 1865. He was returned to his regiment April 9, the day General Lee surrendered, and was honorably discharged June 4, 1865.

Returning to Newark, he began the practice of law, and in 1872 founded the Newark Union, which soon became one of the strong Democratic organs of this part of the state. In the fall of 1884 he was elected to the Legislature on the Democratic ticket, and was largely instrumental in the pas-sal Asylum for Feeble-Minded Women which is now a flourishing state institution, and of which he was secretary and member of the board of trustees.

In June, 1899, he was appointed superintendent of public buildings at Albany, which position he filled with credit and honor. One of the first innovations made by him was the rule that the national flag should float from the staff on the Capitol every week day through the year, which was the origin of the movement to display the flag on public school buildings.

Mr. Burnham was owner of half interest of the Wayne County Preserving Company, Newark, and from the year 1908 until the time of his death held the position as president of the company. He had served as justice of the peace eight years, supervisor of Arcadia four terms, and president of the village of Newark.

August 31, 1865, he married Nancy A. Dillingham, a niece of Governor Dillingham. Of their four children, one daughter died in infancy, and a few years ago another daughter, Helen E. Burnham, passed away. Mr. Burnham was a member of Vosburg Post 99, G. A. R., of which he had been commander four terms. He was a member of Newark Lodge, F. and A. M.; also of the I. O. O. F., the A. O. U. W. and of the Newark Grange.

He had been in failing health for four years, but it was not until two weeks ago that he suffered an attack of pneumonia, and his condition became serious. He is survived by his wife, two sons, George A. and Edwin D. Burnham, both of Newark, and two grandchildren. The funeral will be held at 2.30 o'clock from the home on Saturday, March 20, Rev. Mr. Creighton of the Park Presbyterian Church officiating. Burial will take place at the Newark Willow Avenue Cemetery.

BENEFACTOR OF VILLAGE

As State Supt. of Public Buildings
Fathered Laws Requiring Display of Flags—Veteran of Civil War.
Founded Newark Custodial Asylum
D.V.C. 3/18/1915

Newark, March 17.—Edwin K. Burnham, aged 76 years, for many years one of the most able lawyers of Wayne county, former state superintendent of public buildings and at the time of his death, president of the Edgett-Burnham Company, died in his home at the corner of West avenue and West Maple avenue, this morning.

Mr. Burnham was one of the great benefactors of the village of Newark; as a lawyer he fought its battles; as a business man and an employer often of several hundred people, he distributed his means and the earnings of his company among the poor and needy. He always stood for Newark and its best interests and he was the father of the law requiring the American flag to be floated from public buildings, a law out of which grew the law requiring the Stars and Stripes to be floated over every schoolyard in the state of New York, a practice which has been copied by nearly all of the states of the Union.

A Native of Vermont.

Edwin K. Burnham was a native of the state of Vermont, where he was born in Randolph on September 8, 1839, the son of Anni Burnham and Lacy Young Burnham and one of thirteen children. Anni Burnham was a farmer and brickmaker, a man of more than average intelligence and at one time a member of the Legislature of the state of Vermont.

Edwin K. Burnham received his education in the district schools, in the academy at Royalton, Vermont, and at the Albany Law School. In 1862 he responded to the call to arms and enlisted in Company C of the 15th Vermont Infantry. He was active in the engagement at Gettysburg and received his honorable discharge in 1863 with the rank of sergeant. After being graduated from the Albany Law School in 1864, he came to Newark, where he formed a law partnership with James E. Briggs, also a native of Vermont.

In September, 1864, he re-enlisted in the army and received the commission of Captain of Company D of the 11th Regiment of New York Infantry. His regiment participated in the operations around Petersburg during the fall and winter and on April 2, 1865 Mr. Burnham was taken prisoner. He was returned to his command on April 9, 1865, the day on which Lee surrendered to Grant, and received his honorable discharge June 4, 1865.

Founders Newark Union.

Returning to Newark from the war, Mr. Burnham actively engaged in the practice of law. In 1872 he founded the Newark Union, a weekly newspaper, which is now published as the Newark Union-Gazette. In the fall of 1884, he was elected by the Democrats as assemblyman from his home district and he was largely instrumental in the passage of the bill, establishing the New York State Custodial Asylum for Feeble Minded Women at Newark. For many years he was a member of the Board of Trustees of that institution and acted as its secretary. He also represented the town of Arcadia on the County Board of Supervisors, taking high rank among its members.

In June, 1899, he was appointed to the responsible position of state superintendent of public buildings, a position which he filled with ability and from which he retired with honor. In 1906 he was elected president of the village of Newark by an unusually large majority.

Commander of G. A. R.

He has been repeatedly elected commander of the William B. Vosburgh Post, G. A. R., of Newark, and in that organization, he took an abiding interest.

For many years he had been associated with the Wayne County Preserving Company, now known as the Edgett-Burnham Company, an enterprise which was started by the late Ezra A. Edgett as early as 1863. After Mr. Edgett's death, Mr. Burnham became one of the proprietors of the business and at the time of his death was the president of the Edgett-Burnham Company.

Mr. Burnham was married on August 31, 1865, to Nancy A. Dillingham, a niece of Governor Dillingham, of Vermont. Of their four children, one died in infancy; another, Miss Helen E., died when she was a young woman and the other two children, George A. and Edwin D.

Besides his interest as a lawyer and as a business man, Mr. Burnham was for many years active in the Presbyterian Church, of which he was a trustee, and in the Newark Lodge No. 87, F. and A. M.

His remains last night were interred in the home of her parents in a variety of places by Mrs. George D. Burnham, whose marriage to James Burnham took place in the home of her parents.

Mrs. Chase is in New York and will accompany the remains to Rochester.

Mr. Chase was born in Floyd, Oneida County, N. Y., in August, 1842. He was a son of Stephen C. and Laura A. Chase, and received his education at Vernon (N. Y.) Academy. He worked on a farm until 18 years old, and subsequently for several years was employed as a clerk in a clothing store in the village of Oneida, Madison County, after which in 1865, he started in business for himself. He came forward rapidly in the esteem of his townsmen and business associates, and was four times elected Mayor of the city of Oneida.

In 1870, he entered into a partnership with C. Will Chappell in the clothing business, under the name of Chase & Chappell, and subsequently became a member of the casket firm of Chappell, Chase, Maxwell Company. The latter concern was eventually merged into the National Casket Company, of which Mr. Chase has been the treasurer since its organization.

Besides being treasurer of the National Casket Company, Mr. Chase was President of two of Rochester's leading banks, the Central Bank and the East Side Savings Bank. He also was a director of the Rochester Trust and Safe Deposit Company; a director of the New York Telephone Company, a director of the General Railway Signal Company and a director of the Pfaudler Company. He was a member of the Genesee Valley Club, Country Club, Adirondack League Club, Caledonia Fishing Club and the California Club of Los Angeles. BENJAMIN E. CHASE, ROCHESTER FINANCIER AND MERCHANT, DIES

Death Follows Two Weeks' Severe Illness and Operation in Stern Hospital, New York City.

Herald
May 28 1915

Benjamin Ellery Chase, one of the best known of the older merchants and financiers of Rochester, died yesterday morning in the Stern Hospital in New York City in his 73d year. He leaves a wife, Mrs. Jessie W. Chase; a step-son, Donald Tuttle; a brother, Frank W. Chase of Los Angeles, and three sisters, Mrs. Frederick Robinson of Lyons, Mrs. Josephine Hopkins of Auburn, Mrs. C. N. Jennings of Syracuse. The remains will be brought to Rochester and the funeral will take place on Tuesday morning from his late home at 10 South Goodman Street. Interment will be made in Glenwood Cemetery, Oneida.

Mr. Chase's death had not been unexpected. He went to the Stern Hospital nearly a month ago. After he had been there two weeks an operation was performed from which, for a time, he seemed to rally. His condition became serious a few days after the operation and two weeks' critical illness ended in his death yesterday.

Early Life.

Born in August, 1842, in Floyd, Oneida County, the son of Stephen C. and Laura A. Chase, Benjamin E. Chase received his education in the Vernon Academy. He worked on a farm until he was 18 years old and was then employed as a clerk in a clothing store in the village of Oneida. In 1865 he started in business for himself and continued for fifteen years. He was elected President of the village of Oneida for four consecutive terms, indicating the high regard in which he was held by his fellow townsmen. In 1870 he entered into a partnership with C. Will Chappell in the clothing business, under the name of Chase & Chappell, and subsequently became a member of the casket firm of Chappell, Chase, Maxwell Company, which eventually was merged into the National Casket Company, of which Mr. Chase had been treasurer since its organization.

Mr. Chase came to Rochester in 1880 and had since been a resident of this city. For more than a quarter of a century he had been known as one of the substantial business men of the community and his councils had been much sought by his business associates.

When the Central Bank was founded, 1888, Mr. Chase became a prominent stockholder and he had acted as its president since that time. He was president also of the East Side Savings Bank, director of the Rochester Trust and Safe Deposit Company, director of the New York Telephone Company, director of the General Railway Signal Company, director of the Pfaudler Company, a member of the Genesee Valley Club, Rochester Whist Club, Country Club, Adirondack League Club, Caledonia Fishing Club and the California Club of Los Angeles. He had also been a member of the Rochester Yacht Club. When he laid aside his business cares for relaxation, golf and fishing were his chief amusements.

Large Western Interests.

At various times, Mr. Chase had been interested in mining interests in the West and he had large interests in California and other Western states. Mr. Chase was the first treasurer of the Rochester Chamber of Commerce and held that office for 23 years. He had served as a director in the Lyceum Theater Company from the time of the erection of the theater.

In his younger days, Mr. Chase had been an ardent Democrat, but in later years he had given up his keen interest in politics to devote his entire time to his large business affairs. He was an indefatigable worker and never was content to give perfunctory attention to the numerous financial enterprises with which he became associated.

In 1890 Mr. Chase was married to Marilla A. Murty, daughter of a prominent carriage manufacturer of Oneida, his early home. Mrs. Chase died a number of years ago. Later, Mr. Chase married Mrs. Jessie W. Tuttle, who survives him.

Resolution Passed at a Special Meeting of the Board of Directors of the Rochester Trust & Safe Deposit Company Held March 29, 1915.

It is with profound sorrow that the members of this Board have learned of the death of Benjamin E. Chase. In our association with him for many years, we had learned his sterling qualities as a man, and appreciated highly his wise counsel and untiring efforts for the welfare of this institution. As a member of this board of directors and of its executive committee, he was always earnest in the discharge of his duties, and willing to accept the responsibilities which went with those positions. His unvarying kindness and geniality endeared him to us personally.

In the thirty-five years of his residence in this city he had won a commanding place in its business life. His ability and high character have been recognized by other financial and industrial institutions of this city, which have called him to places of great responsibility. The death of such a man, in whose probity and loyalty to duty so many have trusted, is a serious loss to the community.

It is ordered that the secretary spread upon our minutes these words in tribute to his memory, and a copy of it be transmitted to his family, with the assurance of their sincere sympathy.—Adv. Union

WOMAN STRUCK BY AUTO DIES IN HOSPITAL WITHIN FEW MINUTES AFTER ACCIDENT

Mrs. Catherine Osborn Run Down on Genesee Street Opposite Her Grocery Store--Automobile Driven by Dr. Carl A. Huber, of Monroe Avenue.

Union 4/2/1915

Struck by an automobile driven by Dr. Carl A. Huber, of 51 Monroe avenue, in Genesee street, a few feet south of Frost avenue, Mrs. Catherine F. Osborn, 48 years old, owner of a grocery store at 322 Genesee street, sustained a fractured skull at 8 o'clock last night which caused her death in St. Mary's Hospital a few minutes later.

Coroner Kleindienst, who was notified, ordered the body removed to the morgue for an autopsy. The coroner announces that he will probably conduct an inquest on Tuesday.

Mrs. Osborn had an apartment over her store, which is located at Genesee street and Frost avenue. She was crossing the street to mail some letters when the accident occurred. The store is situated on the southeast corner of Genesee street and Frost avenue and the mail box is located on the northwest corner of the streets. As shown by the point where the accident occurred Mrs. Osborn was walking almost directly across the street and would have had to walk a short distance north to deposit the letters in the box.

Street Poorly Lighted.

The point where the accident occurred is poorly lighted. It is presumed that Mrs. Osborn did not see the automobile till it was too late to avoid being struck. Dr. Huber states that Mrs. Osborn was directly in front of his machine before he saw her. Marks on the wooden block pavement show plainly the attempt of the physician to stop the machine. The marks were evidently caused by the tires as the machine slid along after the brakes were applied.

Inspector Ryan and Sixth precinct officers have the names of several witnesses, but it is not known definitely whether any person actually saw the woman struck. It is supposed that Mrs. Osborn was thrown or fell backward, striking her head on the curbstone. The fall fractured her skull.

The ambulance from St. Mary's Hospital made a quick run. The hospital records show that the call was received at 7:58 o'clock. The start was made within one minute, and Mrs. Osborn was a patient at the hospital at 8:05 o'clock.

Mrs. Osborn started in the grocery business on a small scale a number of years ago. She was a woman of fine character and business qualities and she prospered. At the time of her death she was the proprietor of one of the largest grocery stores in the southwestern part of the city. Mrs. Osborn was a very charitable woman and on more than one occasion she took the best of groceries from her store to assist a needy family. Mrs. Osborn believed in giving as she prospered and she assisted the poor and sick with money as well as giving the necessities of life.

Mrs. Osborn was a cautious woman. Time and time again she warned her driver to exercise the greatest care. She, herself, was always very careful when crossing streets and to her friends who knew of the care that she exercised the death comes as a great shock.

Mrs. Osborn is survived by two sisters, Mrs. C. H. Harris and Miss Minnie A. Bagley, and one brother, James Bagley.

The funeral will probably be held on Monday morning from the home of Mr. Bagley, 154 Champlain street, and from St. Monica's Church, in Genesee street, of which Mrs. Osborn was a member.

Dr. Huber's Statement.

Dr. Huber when seen by a Union reporter this morning said:

"I was driving south in Genesee street on the right hand side. Where the accident occurred the street is not lighted. Before I saw the woman in the darkness she was directly in front of the car. I attempted to stop and did succeed in stopping within a few feet of the point where I first saw her.

"But the car had struck her and my impression is that the impact with the machine caused her to be turned part way around so that she fell backward, striking her head against the curb.

"I backed the machine to the point where the woman was lying in the street. She was bleeding from the mouth and nose, and was unconscious.

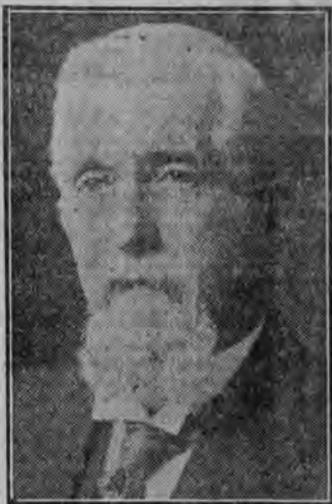

"I summoned the ambulance from St. Mary's Hospital and followed the vehicle to the hospital in my automobile. I communicated with the Sixth Precinct telling them of the accident and later I drove to the station and made a personal report to Lieutenant Lane."
