Backwoods Town at His Arrival

Oldest Citizen, Peter Van Dorn, Dead at 95.

Had Visited Mary Jamison

Probably Was Last Person to See the Famous "White Woman of the Genesee" Came to Mt. Morris from New Jersey in Prairie Schooner.

Mount Morris, Jan. 6.—The death of Peter Van Dorn, a resident of Mount Morris, is reported. The oldest of the town of Mount Morris, occurred at the home of his son, Edgar A. Van Dorn, on the 6th last evening, following a long illness which had confined him to his bed for some few weeks. Funeral services will be held at the home of his son on Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock. Rev. Mr. Brown, of Nunda, will officiate, and Internment will be in the Oak Hill cemetery.

Peter Van Dorn was born in Monmouth county, New Jersey, November 27, 1822, but moved westward with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Van Dorn, to find a new home in New York state. The overland trip was made in a canvas-covered wagon drawn by four fine horses. It was a large wagon with bows and sideswails and contained beds for four families, Joseph, Peter, and Eliza, and Elizabeth. The canvas was stiff, brushed with a heavy stringing, for the purpose of affording ventilation, and Peter often related an incident which occurred while they were stopping at a tavern on the way.

In the night Elizabeth fell out of the wagon, between the canvas and the sideboard, and there was an uproar at once. Jacob, who was slow and sleepy and always allowed the responsibility of the scolding, was unable to meet the emergency. The good wife, Hannah, however, who was active and always had her hands full, immediately took charge, made her way through the brush, and rescued the child none the worse for her tumble.

Saw Indians on Commons

At Lindleville, in the Cayuga county, the family stayed for several years and then moved to Adger in order to engage in the lumber business. In 1826, Peter remembered driving through the streets of Mount Morris for the purpose of cutting lumber, but otherwise, built little backwoods settlement, with few stores at that time, and 400 Indians were moving themselves on the commons. They stayed slowly through on their way to Brooklyn, where they settled on the "new road."

It was then a new country and daily life was full of excitement for children. Peter's mother, Hannah, and her brother, James, were described as "full of Cain," who took the children and visited Mary Jamison, the "White Woman of the Genesee." Hannah would carry her a little hard, salt or butter for which she was always very grateful, and the party would see her large river boat, which would float with plums on the White Woman's land.

The Indians readily ascended to this, unless the party was surprised by a sudden storm, which was the case in 1827. Here Margaret once put Peter upon to resist the Indians, who were shooting the trees she gathered the forbidden fruit into a basket, as women usually have ever done since Eve's first transgression in Eden.

A true memorial of the life of the deceased jurist the resolutions continued as follows:

Ideal Qualities:

He had the ideal qualities of the judge. Perhaps the most notable of these was the atmosphere of dignity and power which pervaded his mind; a mind active and resolute, yet detached from the world and strong in those virtues which so often overcome weaker men.

"Master of keen reasoning powers, he paid a courteous deference to all opinions honestly held. Absorbed in the human aspects of every litigated dispute, he did not neglect the theory of social justice to form or modify his judicial opinion on the law as it stood."

The following were named as bearers of the body, after the funeral service:

William R. Hamlin, Joseph D. Fitch, Myron D. Short, T. B. Seely, Sr. of Rochester.

To Be Conducted in Family Home Friday Afternoon.

Feb 7, 1916

By Special Dispatch to The Herald.

Canandaigua, Feb. 7.—At a largely attended meeting of the Ontario County Bar Association held in the Supreme Court room of the Court House at noon yesterday, there was adopted a memorial of Justice James A. Robson, whose death occurred at the family residence in Gorham Tuesday morning.

Judge Robert F. Thompson was chairman of the meeting and District Attorney Asa B. Colby, secretary. Frank H. Hamlin, John Colney and Willis C. Ellis of Shortsville comprised the committee to draft the memorial.

Eulogistic remarks were made by Frank H. Hamlin, John Colney, Mark T. Powell of Victor, Hon. John McColl of Gorham and Willis C. Ellis and Judge Thompson.

Frank H. Hamlin presented the memorial, which is to be spread on the records of the court and those of the Appellate Division, which justice held, at Rochester with reference to Justice Robson's ability as a jurist, the memorial sets forth with characteristic breadth of views of justice and right, peculiarly qualified him for this branch of jurisprudence, and failed in his court in showing his ability.

In the determination of equitable causes, he was without question a master of the business of courts, his rulings, decisions and opinions are clear, and to every lawyer, a lesson of sound, broad views of justice and right, peculiarly qualified him for this branch of jurisprudence, and failed in his court in showing his ability.

In a letter to The Epworth, Judge Robson acted as some lawyer in cases of law, and quotes the term of Robson, as a lawyer in the field.

"While not being of the world, he was often in times of difficulty and stress, he was a man of great power, but not so effective as some of his associates in aiding those who would arrive at personal victory, but would also succumb to the law.

For so far as this criticism was made, the law had no doubt, possessed of a certain amount of greatness to invade what he deemed to be the privilege of a judge, which is to pass upon the facts of the case.

However, this may have been, there has been no divided opinion of the court upon his extraordinary qualifications. Judge Robson was the just judge to whom was designated in 1907 by Governor Hughes.

His extraordinary grasp of legal principles is remarkable memory for details, and in cases, combined with a discriminating judgment and a judicial temperament, especially fitted him for the position which he held and honorably filled.

Members of the bar have made arrangements to attend in a body the funeral of Justice Robson, which will be held from the family home residence to the Gorham Cemetery at 2 o'clock. Simplicity so characteristic of the Robson family for generations marked the services.

Mr. W. C. L. Mead, all the residents of the town of Gorham and longtime friends of Judge Robson, will retire as honorary bearers. Active bearers will be William Wilton, Melvin Nelson, Charles F. Shaffer, Rev. John McColl of Gorham, assisted by Rev. Louis P. Ruff of Cleveland, O., in service, which will be very brief, will be made in the Robson plot in the Gorham Cemetery.

Was Born in Log Cabin at Ogden, N. Y. and Got His Education in District School and at Lockport.

Herald Feb. 28, 1916

Arlington, Mass., Feb. 13—John Townsend Trowbridge, author of stories for boys, novelist and poet, died in his home here last night of bronchitis. He was 88 years old.

Until a month ago Mr. Trowbridge was in good health and seemingly as alert, physically and mentally, as ever. Then he contracted a severe cold, but until yesterday his condition was not regarded as serious.

He attributed his ill health to the fact that, contrary to their custom, Mrs. Trowbridge and he did not go south this winter. They remained until late in the fall at their summer home, Sprout Pond, near Kennebunkport. Mr. Trowbridge spent much of his time this winter in his library overlooking Spy Pond, the natural birthplace of which he led him to make his home nearby.

At the bedside of Mr. Trowbridge were his wife and three children, Mrs. Grace T. Yeames, wife of Professor Herbert Yeames, who went to Smith College, Geneva, N. Y.; Mrs. G. H. Segal of Long Island and Arthur T. Trowbridge of this town.

Born in Monroe County in Log Cabin. Mr. Trowbridge was one of the last survivors of the famous group of authors who in the third quarter of the nineteenth century attracted the literary attention of the nation, and its environs. Sprung from New England stock, he was born in a log cabin in the wilds of Monroe County, N. Y., in 1827. His parents were among the pioneer settlers of Western New York.

Young Trowbridge attended a district school, and although he had to be away from school one day, he supplemented the scanty education he received there by obtaining books from a library in a nearby town.

Got Higher Education in Lockport.

As long as he was able, he managed to obtain such further education as to attend a classical school at Lockport, N. Y., for one year. Then he went to Illinois, where he attended a school in the winter and working as a farm hand in the summer. Returning to Lockport, he taught school for a few months and then decided to devote himself to literature, for which he had a decided fondness.

His first poem was printed in a Lockport paper in 1842. When a school teacher reprinted it Trowbridge evinced his fondness for writing by writing it into a game. Soon afterward he sold a poem for $2.50. About his father died.

In 1847 he went to New York City to study law. He had a hard time selling his poems but managed to get a bare livelihood, living as best he could at a hotel in the hopes of getting something out of it. Some years later, his subscription price was $1.

Trowbridge earned a still further claim to his fame in 1858. Mr. Trowbridge wrote, "Signing his name to a letter or making its signature to a document, I am John Trowbridge." Afterward first saw an airplane fly and he said: "I never dreamed that such a thing could be done, and yet, a flying machine was even a possibility in my lifetime."

The stories for boys were not of the "snappy" or sensational character. His heroes were hard working boys, and their adventures were very simple and natural.

Another poem which achieved great fame was "Our Two Travelers, Roger and I. Roger's Dog."

Was One of Founders of First Local Trust Company—Always a Democrat.

David Hoyt, 69, secretary-treasurer of the Monroe County Savings bank, State street, for more than a half century an official of that institution and the oldest banker in point of service in Rochester, died this morning at 3 o'clock at his home, 492 University avenue, after an illness of several months.

Mr. Hoyt celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of his connection with the Monroe County bank, May 1, 1915, but on account of ill health was unable to be at his office. At a dinner given by him to the bank trustees soon after he was presented with a large silver vase on which his name and dates of his service at the bank were engraved, also the names of the trustees and officers.

He apparently recovered his health and was able to be at his desk at the bank occasionally until January 11th, when he was confined to his home. He suffered from a disease of the throat and although several specialists were visited no relief was obtained. A gradual decline set in until the end came.

Mr. Hoyt was born at 133 South Fitzhugh street, in the Third ward, February 29, 1848, son of David Hoyt and Mary M. Bullen Hoyt. He received his education in the public schools of this city. He was first employed when Mr. Hoyt was a boy and, at the age of 14 years, he entered the office of Ward & Brother, a private bank then situated at State street.

He was there five years, holding the position of head bookkeeper when he was moved to the larger Monroe County Savings bank. On May 1, 1865, he accepted a position with the larger bank as bookkeeper. From the first his rise was rapid, his ability and enterprise winning consistent promotion from day to day. In 1885 he was elected secretary and treasurer. During the years he had been connected with the bank he had seen the business increase many fold. When he entered the bank the deposits were but $1,523,000. To-day they are more than $125,000,000.

Helped Found Trust Company.

In addition to his work in developing the business of the bank, Mr. Hoyt helped to found the first trust company in Rochester. It was called the Rochester Safe Deposit company and was started in 1868 with a capital of $50,000. In 1888 it occupied quarters in the Monroe County Savings bank and then changed its title to the Rochester Trust and Safe Deposit company. It moved into its own building at Main street west and Exchange street. Mr. Hoyt was one of the original directors of this trust company.

At the age of twenty-three years, Mr. Hoyt was married to Miss Elizabeth R. Breck who survives him. He also leaves two sons, Martin B. and Harry C. Hoyt, of this city, and four grandchildren.

Mr. Hoyt was always interested in any civic or charitable movement that took place and was foremost always in any work that might lead to the betterment of others. He was always a democrat and was a prime mover in the organization of what was known in the time of the Civil war as the "Union Blues.

He was a member of the Chamber of Commerce, also the Genesee Valley Country, Rochester and Rochester Athletic clubs. He was a member of Christ Protestant Episcopal church from the time of its organization in 1865 and for many years had been one of its vestrymen.

As a banker and financier Mr. Hoyt was known throughout the state and his prominence in banking circles was indicated by the fact that he had been on the executive committee of the Savings Bank's Association of the State of New York since its organization more than twenty years ago and for a number of years had been a member of the executive council of the savings bank branch of the American Bankers' association. His death is a loss to the community and is regretted by many.

ONE OF WARSAW'S FIRST CITIZENS

WARSW, Feb. 20.—John W. Montgomery, one of Warsaw's first citizens, died in his home on Court street about 9 o'clock Friday evening.

Mr. Montgomery has been failing to health for about three months. Until late in the past year, he was a familiar figure in the business life of the village. He was the oldest merchant, having been in continuous business in Warsaw since 1850, with the exception of three years as a farmer in Whitefield.

Mr. Montgomery was a native of Cooperstown, N. Y., and came to Warsaw in the spring of 1850. He was married May 4, 1857, to a Miss Elizabeth Montgomery. They resided two years for Isaac Brown in the shoe business. In the year 1852 he succeeded to the business and soon employed six men making boots and shoes to order. At that time sale shoes were all most unheard of. Later he put a small stock of women's and children's shoes.

He was married February 9, 1850, to Anna Crawford, who died just a year ago.

Mr. Montgomery united with the Presbyterian church in Ireland when he was 14 years old and brought his letter of membership with him to this country, uniting at once with the Presbyterian church here in 1850, under the pastorate of Rev. A. P. Suckley. He was one of the oldest church members in the church and was ever one of its strongest supporters. He was elected ruling elder in 1873 and was the last of the strong session under Dr. Nassau's pastorate.

Wolcott, Feb. 25.—Patrick Maloney, one of Wayne county's most prominent business men, died suddenly last evening in his home in Red Creek, after an illness of only four days.
While Mr. Maloney had been in poor health for some time, his death came as a shock to the many friends who had come from his place of business. Last Friday morning, upon arriving at his store, he was greatly shocked to read of the death of a friend, one of his clerks, who had been his physician. Soon afterwards he went to his home and never returned.
Mr. Maloney was born in Ireland, and, with his parents, came to America when he was five years old. The family later settled in Red Creek, where he has always lived in that village.
In his early life, he experienced many hardships owing to the fact that his home was in the Province of Ulster, where there was no education at the Red Creek Academy, and when young, he worked as a laborer on his father's farm. In the same store which his name afterwards made famous.
His good business and perseverance won him a quick promotion. He became a partner in the business. Later he purchased the entire ownership, and, by hard work and effort, he built up what is now the largest retail hardware business in Western New York, outside of the city.
Mr. Maloney was a man to whom the citizens of Red Creek, and of Northern Wayne county, paid their respects. He was not only a business man, but a personal friend of many persons, and he was respected and loved by all.

REV. DR. A. J. HUTTON DIES IN HOSPITAL AT CORNING; HAD BEEN ILL A MONTH

Was Formerly Pastor of St. Peter's Presbyterian Church Here—Complication of Diseases Causes Death

Rev. Dr. Alfred J. Hutton, a former pastor of St. Peter’s Presbyterian Church, Rochester, and of other churches, died in Corning last night from a complication of diseases which developed since he went to Corning about a month ago.

Dr. Hutton had been acting as "supply" preacher in Rochester presbytery and in churches of other even more distant denominations so that he was more widely known than he was when a pastor in the city. As interim pastor in several churches he gave valuable service by his wise advice and by holding the churches together, while they were looking for a pastor, by attractiveness of his pulpit ministrations.

Dr. Hutton was graduated from Williams college in 1866 and from Auburn Theological seminary in 1871. He entered the Dutch Reformed Church as a candidate for the ministry and held pastorates in Watertown and Brooklyn. He also held presbytery pastorates in Corning, at St. Peter’s, Rochester, from 1877 until 1895, and at Corning from 1895 until 1898, when he resigned his charge in Corning he had lived there for a number of years as he served as trustee of Auburn Theological seminary before joining the presbytery.

JUDGE WILLIAM E. WERNER.

The general service will be held to-morrow afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Third Presbyterian Church. Judge Werners' associates in the Court of Appeals will act as honorary bearers. Burial will be made in Mount Hope and will be private.

Senate and Assembly Adjourns.

Albany, March 1.—Widespread regret is expressed over the unexpected death of Judge William E. Werner. While it was known he was ill, news had been received here to the effect that his condition had improved and hopes were felt that he would return to his judicial duties when weather conditions were more favorable, his associates in the Court of Appeals were too overcome with emotion to discuss the death of their colleague, but resolutions of respect were adopted. In the Assembly, Majority Leader Adler and Minority Leader Callahan spoke feelingly of the merits of Judge Werner. The Assembly then adjourned in honor. Senator Aragoniinger and Majority Leader Brown, of the Senate, also expressed regrets in feeling terms and the Senate also adjourned.

It is probable that many persons will go from here to attend the funeral.

Began Life a Poor Boy.

Those who knew Judge William E. Werners only as the able jurist always found it difficult to believe the story of his early days, even though it is fairly common in the careers of successful Americans. He ended life as associate judge of the Court of Appeals and with the prospect of eventually succeeding to the chief judgeship, which he missed so narrowly in 1912. He practically began life as an orphan, with no opportunities and no greater ambition than to learn a trade; before he studied law he was successively errand boy, another's apprentice and farm hand.

He succeeded by the usual route of hard work plus a natural aptitude for his profession. And however difficult and discouraging his earlier days may have been, his life from young manhood on was a steady march forward. He was a special county judge of Monroe county at the age of 29 years, county judge at 34, justice of the Supreme Court at 40, and associate Judge of the Court of Appeals just five years later. An excellent speaker, he was a well-liked man from the start of his public career. When he ran for special county judge he received more than 21,000 votes.

Twice Defeated at Polls.

Twice only in his thirty years in public office was he defeated. In his first campaign for associate judge of the Court of Appeals a partisan issue was raised against the Republican party and voters were sufficiently influenced by it to elect Judge Werners' opponent. Judge John Clinton Gray, Democrat of New York. It has been said that his second defeat was a consequence of the law he wrote on the first state workers' compensation law. A test case was begun under the compensation law and carried to the High Court of Appeals. This case as a unit decided the statute was unconstitutional, and Judge Werners wrote the opinion. A master of law, English, his associates frequently chose him for such work; but the result in this instance was to make him a foe of labor, in the minds of men who wanted the law kept on the statute books.

In 1913 he was nominated for chief judge of the Court of Appeals to succeed the venerable Edward M. Coleman, whose weight of years was against him, and he lost by a small margin to his Democratic and Independent League opponent, Judge William Bartlett. Early returns on the voting gave Judge Werners the victory, but the final figures of the last day did the final revision of figures prove he had lost to the present chief judge.

Judge Werners was born in Buffalo on April 18, 1859, the son of Judge Werner, 19 years left an orphan and without means. He left public school and went to work, first as an errand boy and later as an clerk of friends, as a master's apprentice with the intention of learning the trade. Never a neglected man, young Werners worked hard that work too taxing, and he went from the foundry to a farm in Cheektowaga, a town near Buffalo.

There he did "chores" for his board and clothes, and there in the district school he got his first vision of the value of overworked students. He attended district school during the winter term, and the next year returned to Buffalo, where by day he worked in the foundry and by night studied in evening school. He studied bookkeeping and commercial law and read freely in public libraries. In 1877 he was admitted to the bar and at once resigned his court clerkship and formed a partnership with Henry J. Hetzel. He had already begun to interest himself in Republican politics, and had even gained something of a reputation for oratory.

His ability and his sunny temperament gained him many friends during his law career. He was a masterful debater and he was mentioned favorably as a candidate for the office of special county judge. In the party caucuses that were held he carried both the first ballot, by a vote of 134 out of a possible 151, in the campaign that followed he ran 2,000 votes for his party, and defeated the Democratic candidate by a majority of 7,000, the largest majority ever given to any Republican in Monroe county that time.

No Opposition to Election.

In 1887 he was re-nominated by acclamation and at the election received more than 21,000 votes out of 22,000 cast. His Democratic opponent was defeated, and in the last year of his term he was elected by a large majority for a third term. He was re-elected for a fourth term by an even larger majority, and he died in his chair in the Capitol.

Judge Werners served five years as county judge, and then, through his ability, he was offered the presidency of the State Bar Association, he accepted the presidency of his society, and when all the returns had come in it was found that he again had added laurels to his record as the presiding judge of the thirty-nine towns and wards in Monroe county.
From the Heart of the People.

As a man, Judge Werner's personality was portrayed by the Monroe county delegate who put him in nomination two years ago for chief judge of the Court of Appeals:

"The candidate for chief judge I have the honor to name represents the broadest and most intellectual, but a harmonious blending of the human and the intellectual, a combination of strength, moderation, learning and industry. That is a fair picture of William E. Werner."

Justice Benton appointed Judge Werner to the Court of Appeals in 1894, and he was re-appointed by Chief Judge Judge William E. Werner.

His career as a lawyer and judge has been characterized by his remarkable and classic dictation. His opinions in many leading cases in which he has been chosen to speak for the court will be long remembered as guides for lawyers and judges alike in the discharge of their duties in the practice and administration of the law. His incessant labor, at last overtaking him, has greatly strengthened and broadened the foundations of our jurisprudence.

Throughout this commencement there will be stately and appropriate eulogies pronounced upon his public career, but we will render with admiration to the character of his office, and to the fine and appreciative discrimination in the use of words with which he has been gifted, upon which he has gained by the refining process of constant application.

His courage as a judge, unbroken by the departure from basic principles of the organized league, might have been, for the time more potent, which will be registered in this record as an enduring proof of the value to free institutions of the judicial establishment as conceived by the founders of the American republic. But by this group of men here assembled, who will be his comrades in the days of his early student and professional life in Rochester, or though admitted into their ranks since he has preserved his fame, have had the opportunity to come under the charm and compelling influence of his person. It is more fitting that words should be spoken concerning the human side and the intellectual side of his character, that would make each of us wish that our own might grow up to such men as those of Rochester, and to the policy of the state for the eminent service of William E. Werner, a true and proper member of our profession, and our affection for him as a friend.

MOURN LOSS OF BELIEVED JURIST AND FELLOW MEMBER.

Justice Benton then appointed this committee to represent the association at the funeral. M. H. McAllister, H. G. Pierce, C. D. Kiehl, C. C. Davey, W. A. Matson, D. C. Hobbard, E. D. Dwyer, George Harris, Thomas Haines, H. V. Woodward, W. W. Webb and John D. Lynn.

Mr. Sutherland then read the memorial and moved its adoption. It was decided also to send copies to Judge Werner's family and to the Appellate division and the Court of Appeals.

Career Recounted.

The memorial follows:

"In June, 1877, William E. Werner came to Rochester to prepare himself to be a lawyer. He came equipped with a strength of purpose and a courage developed in earlier struggles against adversity, and with a capacity for hard work that made his effort to gain a high place at the bar of Rochester, and from that time until the end of his career his account has been unsurpassed in professional achievement."

"Elected special county judge of Monroe county in 1884, re-elected in 1887, and elected as county judge in 1889, and as a justice of the Supreme court in 1884, designated by Governor Rose and to sit in the Court of Appeals in 1899, and elected as a permanent member of that great tribunal in 1894, where he served until his death, this is his judicial record as regards more chronology."

"We lawyers in his home city, standing to-day in the shadow of a deep and tragic journey, are the inheritors of the obligation of the state for the eminent service of William E. Werner, a true and proper member of our profession, and our affection for him as a friend."

MRS. A. HANNTER, W. C. A.

The death of Mrs. Mary A. Hanner, widow of Ed. A. Hanner, of this city, occurred Saturday at 10 o'clock at her home on Bank street after an illness of about ten weeks.

Mary A. Hanner was born in Warsaw, December 2, 1833, and came about 44 years ago to this village where she had since resided. During the years of the Civil War she acted as nurse in a hospital in Baltimore, Md., and she received her patients in her home. Her husband conducted a restaurant on Bank Street for many years. She was a member of St. Mark's Church and the Woman's Relief Corp. Mrs. Hanner is survived by one son, Larry, residing in the country, where she was last week. The funeral will be held Monday, Rev. Peter Cushing, rector of St. Mark's Church, officiating, and the burial will be made in Lake View Cemetery at Cleveland, Ohio.
Judge William E. Werner

The death of Judge William E. Werner, of the Court of Appeals, which occurred at an early hour this morning, was a shock to the people of this community and of the state. It was known that he had been ill for many months, and that during the last few weeks his malady had assumed a very dangerous condition, but his friends hoped his indomitable spirit would enable him to fight his way back to health even against great odds. The battle, however, was more than his strength and could win, and he was forced to surrender to the grim inevitable.

The career of Judge Werner is one of in this community, and a great host of friends in every part of the state, are very rightly proud. He began life with many obstacles to overcome, and faced difficulties which would have discouraged one of a less determined nature. But he had the courage to fight the odds which confronted him and seemed to stimulate him with a firmer determination to gauge his metal against the odds, and to inspire him with a belief in his own powers. It was this same indomitable spirit in his fight for his life, that led him to take up the study of the law and to enter with zest into the mastery of its intricacies. The whole bent of his mind was toward the legal profession, and he became a profound student of the principles and problems of law.

As a lawyer with a constantly growing practice, he naturally found his way into public life. He was interested in the affairs of the community, and made friends rapidly, until his reputation was widespread and admired. He was a person who perceived that he was destined to mount to the high places in his profession. Succeeding in building up a practice which did fair to prove congenial and lucrative, he was elected County Judge of Monroe County, 1890, and during his administration of that office, he did such excellent work, and showed such plain uprightness and judicial labor, that when he was elected County Judge, was then elevated to the Superior Court, and finally reached the bench of the highest court of the state, the Court of Appeals.

But Judge Werner was not only a brilliant lawyer and a profoundly judicious Judge. He was a thoroughly representative citizen, interested in the interests of the community, thoroughly lived and conversed with all public questions pertaining to the welfare of the community. Since his elevation to the bench of the higher courts he has never actively participated in politics, his judgment was relied on by all public men, and he was considered an invaluable adviser by political leaders. He was a lifelong Republican, but never a bitter partisan, having many close friends in the other party, who always accorded him the most cordial and friendly treatment. He was a good friend to all those who did large industrial and commercial undertakings.

But it was as a friend and neighbor that Justice Werner will be missed the most. He made friends because he was friendly and generous, and those who were made upon his time in many different ways.

The Court of Appeals bench sus-
"a serious loss in the death of William E. Werner, of that court know better than the outside public can know the high quality of his intellectual training and long experience, but to all the people of the state he is known as a judge exceptionally well qualified in his judgment, habit of mind, and mastery of the law.

In service upon the bench began more than 30 years ago when he was elected county judge. He was afterward appointed to the New York Supreme Court and upon the death of Chief Judge Edward M. Cullen of the Court of Appeals, Judge Cullen is in the latter post, and was elected to succeed him. It was in 1903, having the support of the court and the rank and file of the judges accumulated by such experience, that was added to the fitness for juridical duty by the judicial equipment. Judge Werner was more than a good judge, he was a good citizen. Through his years of running mans and the duty of citizenship, and throughout the state he was held in very high esteem.

From the Albany Journal, Rep.

Thus it was that the bench of the Court of Appeals of this state one of its ablest members, Associate Judge William E. Werner, suddenly was removed. The confidence of the state was coming to him with renewed appreciation of his ability. His death has not only removed a large and accomplished jurist, the state a public spirited and disinterested citizen, but was a clear and original thinker, an indefatigable worker and a careful student. He had an unusual facility of expression and his opinions rank among the best, both for their soundness of reasoning and their literary style. Easiest in writing, sometimes takes to careless thinking, but he always considered what he was doing, so thoroughly was the court, had to retrace obiter statements made by him. At such a time one is not conscious of the heart of the head. He was a delightful companion, an agreeable associate, a lovable man.

Justice William S. Andrews of the Court of Appeals: "He was an able and efficient judge and one of the strongest members of the Court of Appeals. His opinions were of great value to the bench of the state.

Justice Leonard C. Crouch of the Supreme Court: "Judge Werner was a man of one of its ablest jurists. His opinions, particularly in more recent years, have been models of legal reasoning and pure English.

From the Syracuse Journal, 1928.

Announcement of the death of Judge William E. Werner, Rochester, will bring tears to those who knew him. He was a jurist other professionally or socially. He had an intellectual training, first among the ablest members of the Supreme Court. He was a jurist other professionally or socially. He had an intellectual training, first among the ablest members of the Supreme Court.

From the Syracuse Herald, Dec.

Judge Werner ranked as one of the ablest members of the Supreme Court. He had a keenly analytical mind and his intellectual processes were beyond the reach of the public that judge's judicial service for a man of his years, and from constant study made the more valuable. The people of New York honored him, and the state's judges. The death of Judge Werner will bring sorrow to all of friends throughout the state.

From the Buffalo Express, Dec.

Judge William E. Werner, of the Court of Appeals of the State of New York, was so well known in Buffalo that he was regarded almost as a Buffalo man. In fact, he was born and educated in Buffalo, and he became a special judge in Monroe county only recently. He had been a judge of the Supreme Court for many years, and his long legal career was almost entirely on the bench. It is necessary to say that he was a highly meritorious career and that his work throughout the state will be remembered with deep regret.

From the Syracuse Post-Standard, 1929.

Judge William E. Werner, who has been a prominent figure in the law, and whose death has caused a great deal of sorrow, is well known in Buffalo. Since 1926, he has been a judge of the Supreme Court, having held that position for many years. His work was characterized by the highest legal knowledge of the law, and a contemptuous and unyielding record. He was a jurist of the highest order, and his work throughout the state will be remembered with deep regret.

From the Troy Times, Rep.

GOVERNOR AND JUDGES HERE

Associates of Late Judge on Court of Appeals Bench Honorary Bearers—City and County Officials, and Rochester Friends Fill the Church

Impressive simplicity marked the funeral services for William E. Werner in the Third Presbyterian Church yesterday afternoon. There was no eulogy of the dead judge of the Court of Appeals; only a reading from the Psalms and a prayer by Rev. Paul Moore Strayer, three hymns sung by the congregation, and an organ prelude.

Many men prominent in public life attended the services, among them Governor Charles E. Whitman, Attorney-General Ephraim E. Woodbury, Alton B. Parker, Job E. Hedges, present and former judges of the Court of Appeals, justices of the Supreme Court, state senators and assemblymen, and scores of county and city officials. Friends of Judge Werner in private life filled the large auditorium.

From 1 until 4 o'clock the body lay in state before a background of floral tributes that covered the rostrum and the front of the organ loft. Across the casket drooped a great sheaf of white lilies. The body of the judge was clothed in the robe of a judge of the Court of Appeals.

Governor Early at Church.

Governor Whitman was one of the first to reach the church. Accompanied by Mayor Hiram H. Edgerton, Corporation Counsel William W. Webb, and the mayor's secretary, Bernard J. Haggarty, he entered the auditorium at 3:30 o'clock, and was ushered into seats reserved for representatives of the state and municipal governments. Justices of the Supreme Court and present and former judges of the Court of Appeals, who acted as honorary bearers, arrived in a body.

Services were not begun until nearly 4 o'clock and were concluded before 5 o'clock. While the church was filling, John Adams Werner, was at the organ. Rev. Paul Moore Strayer opened the services with a reading from the Psalms and ended them with prayer. The three hymns, selected by Mrs. Werner, were “For All the Saints Who from Their Labors Rest,” “Ten Thousand Times Ten Thousand,” and “Abide with Me,” Judge Werner’s favorite.

ADDRESS BY DR. BARBOUR

President of Seminary Says Walter Betteridge Was Gentleman, Scholar and Christian — Letters Read from Dr. Strong and Some Others

“...There will be no atmosphere of gloom here to-night,” said Dr. Clarence A. Barbour, president of the Rochester Theological Seminary, last evening, at the memorial service held in memory of Dr. Walter Betteridge, who died last Thursday and who was president of Hebrew College, when the body was removed from the chapel, a funeral service was held Friday afternoon. In the seminary he was very human, and very greatly beloved. Every task he undertook was fraught with the utmost care and thoroughness.

“...It was easier then — it is easier now — to love a living purpose because he was one of us. It is hard to conceive of one more graceful or without sin. He was a gentleman, a scholar and a gentleman of the highest type. We have come in a flood and the news of his going shall reach far and near far as.

Rev. David B. Brown, former professor of Hebrew, at the seminary who wrote from Endicott, Florida, in broken health greatly affects me,” wrote Dr. Strong, “for he was one of my pupils. He was a man of singular modesty and sweetness of spirit and he was never censorious of those who could not agree with him. The liberal and kindly spirit infused in him by reason of his loving spirit. He was a stand-by and a burden to the seminary.

Dr. Woolfkin said in his letter that Dr. Betteridge was an illustration of the text, “Thy gentleess hath made thee acceptable.”

High tributes were paid to the life and character of Dr. Betteridge by Dr. Joseph A. Stewart, dean of the seminary, Professor Walter Ramsden, Professor Conrad H. Moehllmann, and George Middleton, of the senior class, who was selected to speak for the students.

He was actively engaged in construction work on the Atlantic & Great Western, the Nickel Plate and the West Shore. In 1875 he went South, where he was engaged in railroad work in Alabama, Georgia and Florida.

Mr. Curran brought this country the idea of railroad brotherhood and was one of the moving spirits in organizing the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers. Owing to his advancement in the order he was unable to do active work for the last few years, but he had always kept up his interest in the order to the time of his death he was a member of Division No. 18. He was the last survivor of charter member of Leetonia (Ohio) Lodge, F. & A. M., and he helped to form several other Masonic lodges.

In 1848 they moved to Angola, Mich., where Mr. Jones took a law course and in 1850 was admitted to the bar of the Tri-City Circuit in that city. His health failing, they returned to New York and settled at Scottsville.

Later he spent his internship in a Chicago hospital and then took up the practice of medicine. Dr. Thurber was a country practitioner for more than thirty years and built up a large practice. He was typical of the family physician, and his kindness and disinterested disposition won for him many friends. Nearly seven years ago Dr. Thurber was able to give up a large part of his practice, owing to his advanced age. However, he still acted as an attorney and conducted an office in the Dale Building.

Though he gave the greater share of his time and thought to his vocation, Dr. Thurber was prominent in fraternal organizations. Among the most influential of the Improved Order of Red Men, Independent Order of Odd Fellows and Free and Accepted Masons, he was a past master in one of the lodges of the Masonic order and a commodore of the Combined Methodist Church.

was put to bed. He was said to have lived in Rochester about thirty-five years.

William E. Hoyt was born in Portsmoutb.
N. H., on July 3, 1846, and was admitted for eight at Phillips Academy.
He was admitted to college in 1865, but, becoming dissatisfied with a strictly classical collegiate course, entered and entered the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. There he continued his engineering studies, took his degree, and graduated from the with the degree of civil engineer and bachelor of science.

Helped Build Fort Constitution.
Mr. Hoyt's first experience in professional engineering was obtained in his studies at the engineering school.
During his summer vacations at the academy and in college he was employed on the government fortifications which were then building at the entrance to Portsmouth harbor. Alfred M. Hoyt, Mr. Hoyt's father had charge of this work of construction under Colonel J. N.
McCobb, of the United States army engineer corps. For the protection of the harbor and adjacent coast, three forts were built, Fort Constitution, Fort Mow, and another named earthworks on the east side of the Peninsula.

The experience gained in this work of massive construction was of great value to the young engineer.
Mr. Hoyt's connection with railroad work began in 1865 on the Chicago Railway, where he was employed for a considerable time in the construction of railroad work and surveying for the road.

Upon the completion of this road he returned to Illinois and built two divisions of the Illinois Central and railroad, a subordinate organization of the Burlington.
After this Mr. Hoyt was engaged for five years in the examination and inspection of new railroads which had been built for the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad in Illinois and Iowa.

Studied European Railroads.
In 1875, at the time when activity in railroad building had subsided, Mr. Hoyt went to Europe for the purpose of familiarizing himself with the English and continental engineering practice, and to study the best examples of engineering work abroad.
Considerable time was spent in En-land, Austria, Switzerland, Italy and France, especially in the mountainous districts, where railroad building had been attended with unusual difficulties.

During his stay in Europe, Mr. Hoyt visited the chief railroad centers and attended all of the great natural phenomena.

After gaining valuable knowledge and experience in this way, he returned to the United States and established himself as a civil and consulting engineer in Boston. Soon he received an offer from the Massachusetts Institute of Techology to devote part of his time to the instruction of the students of the Engineering School. The department of field engineering and of bridge and road construction were put into their hands. In addition to the regular outside work of his office, Mr. Hoyt superintended the department of the institute, and the large and varied matters demanded his attention away from Borston, and he was obliged to devote himself to more active occupation.

Chief Engineer of D. & R. & P.
In 1880 Mr. Hoyt was employed in the inspection of railroads in Canada in the in-est of Eastern capitalists, and subsequently he entered the service of the Lake Erie & Western railroad as locating engineer of its contemplated branch from the main line to St. Louis.

Early in the spring of 1881, before the Lake Erie & Western surveys were completed, Mr. Hoyt was appointed chief engineer of the Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburk Railway Company, in charge of construction and maintenance, and this position he held for almost twenty years.
Under his administration important extensions of the road in New York state and in Pennsylvania were surveyed and built, with the result of increasing the length more than threefold with a corresponding gain in carrying capacity and in earning power.

In 1900 Mr. Hoyt entered the service of the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad Company to take impe-grant assignments in the engineering department. In the year 1901 he was sent to Mexico to study the railway systems and to make a detailed report on the

IRA J. BLANCHARD
Supervisor of Buildings at Rochester State Hospital Dies After Operation.

Ira J. Blanchard, supervisor of the Livingston group of buildings at the Rochester State Hospital, died on Tuesday, aged 64 years, Mr. Blanchard's death came after an operation.

Nearly Ninety-two Years of Age—Was First Pupil at Ithaca University.

Le Roy, May 2.—Mrs. Emma Louise (Keeney) Bixby, whose death occurred at St. Louis on Monday, was born on the Keeney farm, a mile west of this village, on October 6, 1824. She was the youngest and last survivor of the ten children of Joseph and Mary (Blanchard) Keeney. With six children, the parents came to Le Roy in 1815, making the journey in two wagons, one drawn by a pair of oxen and the other by a horse. Alzen Keeney was the oldest of the children; Nicholas B. Keeney, whose death occurred here a few years ago, was the eighth. When a girl, Mrs. Bixby attended the first public school in Le Roy; she then went to the famous Round House, and when the Le Roy Female Seminary—the predecessor of Ithaca University—was opened she was the first pupil of that institution. She was so eager for knowledge that she walked to school early in the morning, and waited outside the school an hour or more for the doors to be unlocked for the first time. She graduated from this institution in 1841. Among her classmates were the late Mrs. John R. Olnsted and Mrs. A. W. Moore, who is still a resident of the village.

The young graduate went West at once to earn her living as a teacher and settled at Adrian, Mich., where for four years she was principal of a young ladies' seminary and for two years principal of the high school. On October 19, 1841, she married Alonzo F. Bixby, Esq. He was born at Batavia, July 6, 1818, and had gone to Michigan and established himself as an able and successful lawyer. His death occurred at Adrian, April 18, 1873. Mrs. Bixby was survived by her five children—David A. Bixby of St. Louis, secretary of the American Car and Foundry company; William B. Bixby, a real estate and bond dealer in St. Louis, who is well known throughout the country as a collector of books, a philanthropist and the liberal patron of educational institutions; Mrs. William H. Sanborn, of New York; and Fred F. Bixby, a manufacturer of St. Louis, Josephine L. Parsons, of Pasadena, Cal.; Mrs. Edwin M. Harmon, of this village, and Mrs. Clara C. Buffalo, are nieces of Mrs. Bixby, and Calvin N. Keeney, of Le Roy, is a nephew. Mrs. Bixby also leaves nine grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Bixby ceased to be an actual residing member of the family in this section about eight years ago, but she was a frequent visitor. At an early age she joined the Presbytery, and later became a member of the Presbytery, and later became a member of that denomination till her death, holding many offices in the various church societies and contributing liberally to the support of religion. Her long life was full of devotion to the happiness of others, and she was considered one of the noblest and most admirable type of noble American womanhood. The funeral was held in St. Louis today, and the interment will take place in Adrian, Mich., her former home.

PRAYERS AND PRECAUTIONS FAIL TO SAVE JOHN CALEY

UNUSUAL DEVIATION SHOWN

All Brightons in Mourning Loss of Man Stricken with Heart Disease.

Prayers and unusual precautions were blended by the good people of Brighton in vain hope of saving the life of Rev. Joseph M. Caley, whose death occurred at 3 o'clock yesterday morning. The funeral of Mr. Caley took place at 2 o'clock, and on account of the wide acquaintance and popularity of the man the occasion was universally mourned by women and men, and crowds of all ages thronged the streets to witness the last journey of a dignified and reverent silence as the body was borne out of the family home.

All Brighton joined in sorrowful prayer at the sudden illness of Mr. Caley, and fervently hoped for recovery from the attack of heart disease, which crumbled the stalwart frame of the man. All the time he was lying in bed at home, bravely attempting to resist the attack, his neighbors and fellow citizens bowed their heads in silent prayer.

Never was a hero treated more considerately by his associates than was Mr. Caley in his last illness. Mr. Caley had lived all his life, sixty-five years, within the vicinity of Brighton, and had been an active member of the Presbyterian church. He was one of the building up of that portion section and at all times had been foremost in advancing civic betterment. Every one noted for his charity.

So reverential were the feelings of Brighton folk when Mr. Caley was near death that immediate steps were taken to avert any noises which may have annoyed the ailing man. The church was not tolled during Mr. Caley's illness, and the pupils tided their way past the schoolhouse, while in many years the bells of the Brighton Presbyterian church did not peal the hour for devotional services. Even the familiar whistles of the Selden and Sullivan Motor Car companies were subdued so as to be audible only a short distance away.

Mr. Caley had been a carriage builder and blacksmith in Brighton many years, and was known to be a resident of that section. The men acquaintances of Mr. Caley, and they were all at the opening of the last illness, sought his news of his death. They had hoped for the best and humbly replied their friend's last sufferings by muffling all noise up to the fatal moment.

Mr. Caley had been a man of great fortitude as the mother and wife, and during the last few years he had been a leader in other musical circles. Mrs. Burrud retained pleasant memories of those days, which she delighted to recall till the last. Mrs. Burrud had been married 33 years, her death occurring on the anniversary of his burial. Her remains were buried in Hope Cemetery.

GERMAN SCHOLARS

Death Comes to Gottlob

Bastian in Dansville;
Retired in 1900.

Dansville, May 24—The death last evening of Gottlob Bastian removes an interesting figure from Dansville's business, social and intellectual life. He was born in Koblenz, Prussia, May 16, 1835, coming to Dansville September 22, 1852. He was then only 17 years old but was a man in intellect and was well fitted with Germanic training in the profession of pharmacy. He was considered one of the best German scholars in Western New York, and his English attainments were along broad and progressive lines.

When the two school districts of Dansville were consolidated in 1883 a school board was elected, of which Dr. Gottlob Bastian was made president. Through the troubled period of building the Union school, when a bank failure scattered most of the money collected for the new school, in the face of opposition, Dr. Bastian stood like a rock.

He succeeded E. N. Niles in the drug store which was established in 1884, resuming the business from August 1870, until 1900, when he retired in favor of his son, E. N. Bastian, a namesake of E. N. Niles, who was taken into the business at an early age.

Since his retirement from active life, Dr. Bastian has led a quiet domestic life in his home, at No. 22 Liberty street, where he died at 5:35 last evening and from where his funeral will be held Friday afternoon. He leaves five children, E. N. Bastian, of Dansville; Carl E., of Oakland, Cal.; Mrs. F. R. Drielbach, of Dansville; Hairy G., of New York city, and Gottlob, of Hoboken, N. J. There are three grandchildren, Fred G. and Carl E., of Dansville, and Mrs. George A. Anderson, of Buffalo, and one great-grandchild, Bradley Anderson.

ALFRED GRACEY.

FIREMAN CRUSHED TO DEATH

Alfred Gracey Fatally Hurt as Truck Swerves Against Door Casing.

Injuries received when he was crushed between the doors of the truck and the door casing of the fire house at 11:15 o'clock yesterday morning resulted in the death at St. Mary's Hospital of forty-five minutes later of Alfred Gracey, of Truck 5, Genesee street. A fractured rib punctured his lungs and death was caused by hemorrhage.

At the hour mentioned an alarm was sounded from box 621, Maple and Main streets. Truck 3 is stationed in the district and was responding to the call when the accident occurred. It is said that Gracey, who was the tireman, was standing on one of the ladders with one hand grasping the big steering wheel. The truck moved suddenly to the right and Gracey was crushed before he could change his position. Had he let go of his seat the accident would not have occurred. One report says that the horse pulled out of the barn before Gracey had time to reach his seat.

But little time was lost in calling the ambulance from St. Mary's Hospital, which is located one block north of the fire station. As soon as the fireman was placed in the ambulance the company proceeded to the fire.

Coroner Thomas A. Killip took charge of the case and ordered the body taken to the morgue, where he performed an autopsy. It was thought, at first that Gracey received a fractured skull, as he fell from the truck after being crushed and struck by head on the curbing at one side of the driveway, but the autopsy did not reveal a fractured skull. The ribs were broken and several of them punctured the lung.

The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock in the house in St. Joseph Church to which he was born. He was 85 years of age.

Besides his father and sisters, Mr. Atwater leaves a wife, whom he married December 23, 1884, and two sons, Joseph and Bradley of the town of Bergen, and two sons, Lyman and Brodie, who will be held Thursday at 9:30 o'clock from the Presbyterian Church at St. John, with burial in Rural cemetery.

NILES GAVE UP $50,000 TO SERVE HIS COUNTRY

About to Get a Commission in United States Army When Death Ended Career of Noted Rochester Aviator—Young Widow Gives Account of His Fall.

Charles F. Niles gave up $50,000 to be of service to his country. Provided with a proper aeronautical training, he was to have had a commission in the United States army; he had expressed his willingness to accept a commission and was making a final exhibition flight before entering the Federal service when he fell and was fatally injured at Oshkosh, Wis., Sunday. Examination of his effects showed contracts offered him which would have netted him $50,000, but he gladly passed them by to "do his bit." Death prevented him from carrying out his intention.

He had a premonition of what would happen to him as he walked toward the point of take-off. He kissed his young wife Sunday afternoon after he talked about accidents for a moment, but soon put the idea from him with the remark, "Let's talk about something else, darling." The nobleman took his way with the body of his husband, which he had been married only a year. When Niles returned from Japan a short time ago, after a series of notable exhibition flights, he met the steamer Empress of Asia with Lucille Goddard, of Legati, P. L., the daughter of a prominent attorney in her way to the United States. Their acquaintance developed into a courtship and they were married at the Central Park residence of Mr. and Mrs. Goddard. The couples were married only a year.

Niles was born at the home of his sister, Mrs. L. J. Barth, 73 Monroe avenue, surrounded by floral tributes from his many admirers in Rochester and other places.

Funeral to-morrow.

The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at 1 o'clock, Rev. David J. Johnson, of St. John's church, will officiate. The bearers will be Charles A. and J. B. Barth, Harry Stanton, George Wrinkle, George A. Decker, and Harold A. Ackcr. Interment will be in the cemetery at Ontario, N. Y., to-morrow afternoon.

The nobleman was brave and skillful for his life, according to Mrs. Niles, who saw the accident. Just the day before he was in an aviator parlance as the "fall side" in which the machine is allowed to descend fast, having slowed down the revolutions of his engine. This completed, he applied more oil and started forward. Niles was a height of about 2,000 feet and the machine was tilted a bit. This feat Niles is said to have originated and he was proud of it.

As the machine responded and started to right itself, the little bride, seated in the back of the machine, was thrown from her husband high in the air, saw the tip of the right wing crumble. Her description of what followed was gripping because of its simplicity.

"Charlie tilted the machine the other way," she said, and started to come down. There was some excitement and everyone feared that he would land in a gully. He came down lower and was within a short distance from the ground when the machine dropped.

Fights for Safety.

The story was told last evening by Max Friedman, manager of Mr. Niles, to the aviator's relatives, gave more details. Undaunted by what had occurred, Niles had carried on his efforts to key his machine so as to avoid the release of air pressure because of the rapid descent. Unfortunately, the field, according to the reports coming to Rochester, were sustained at the display and it was believed that Niles would land without harm to himself. He was within thirty feet of the ground when the fan dropped, a mass of wreckage. Had he had thirty feet less to fall his life might have been saved. Niles had been flying a monoplane and was strapped to his seat in the fuselage with a belt behind the engine.

"They told me," he said to his brother, "I had been flying a biplane instead of a monoplane, he would have escaped with his injuries." He added, "He would have been thrown clear of the wreckage and would have been safe. As it is, I am crushed under the wreckage. He landed in a field only a short distance from the house. I hope that the next aviators hurried to his assistance. He was unconscious and bleeding.

A passing automobile was requested to rush to the hospital in Oshkosh, Friends cared for the bride, who was taken to the home of Rev. Frank Powers, father of an aviator friend.

Niles's condition appeared to be good when taken to the hospital in Oshkosh and at about 4 o'clock he, it was said, would ultimately recover. He was deliberate at times and in his decision would repeat the semblance of his accident to his attempt to save himself when his aeroplane went wrong. The camera, which was working the whole night, an operation relieved a blood pressure on the brain. In six hours he was expected to have passed the crisis, and after saving his life, and while his condition was seen to be hopeless and he died twenty minutes later.

Tokens of Esteem.

Niles was of modest, pleasant disposition and told his relatives but little of the honors which came to him. The effects indicated the high esteem in which he was held by airmen in various circles. He was honored by the group of Japanese royal family and some of the nobility in Japan. He was presented with a small sword and a unique collection of swords. He was given to the United States an autographed presentation of the "Asahi Shimbu," the greatest newspaper in Japan. When Niles was in Japan the noblemen took great interest in his feats and later published in his newspaper a history of Niles's life. His correspondent at San Fran- cisco cabled the information of the death of Niles to the home office of his paper in Japan, and the cable of condolence followed speedily.

Other cables came from high Japanese officials who knew and admired his career. The dead aviator had visited Japan. He was decorated with the order of the Sacred Treasure of the first degree and the order of the Sacred Treasure of the second degree. He was the first American aviator to receive the Japanese honor of the Sacred Treasure of the second degree, and the first to receive the order of the Sacred Treasure of the first degree. He was the first American aviator to receive the Japanese honor of the Sacred Treasure of the second degree. He was the first American aviator to receive the order of the Sacred Treasure of the first degree. He was the first American aviator to receive the order of the Sacred Treasure of the first degree. He was the first American aviator to receive the order of the Sacred Treasure of the first degree.

The "Niles" Pen.

One progressive manufacturer of fountain pens made a new brand which he named the "Niles." With one of the "Niles" pens, named in honor of Niles's widow was acknowledged expressing of confidence to-day. To her fell realization of what had occurred is just beginning to come.

"I heard so much of his flying from others, but had never seen him fly before. I looked for him so anxiously, but never dreamed that the outcome would be so terrible," De- scuit said to his efforts to restrain herself when the tears came.

Niles's death is pathetic. The brief happy years of his marriage were turned to grief, and she is thousands of miles from her parents. The sister of the late aviator, Mrs. J. E. Jewett, caring for her and after a short visit she will go to distant relatives in Ohio and remain with them until she comes to her home in the Philippine islands.

The death of Niles may mean the end of "looping the loop" and other aerial stunts presented for the enjoyment of sensation seekers, according to Max Friedman, manager for Niles. Niles was the best man at that kind of work." Mr. Friedman said, "It will put a stop to that kind of aerial work, which is attended by unnecessary risk and may be of little use to this country's man's ability to control his machine provided it does not break up.

BOY SCOUTS HONOR GUARD

John Cherry, Warner and Lawrence Clark, Who Lost Their Lives in Silver Lake, Are Buried; Many Attend Service—Mass of Flowers

July 13, 1916

Widowed sorrow and sympathy was shown yesterday afternoon at Central Presbyterian Church for the funeral of three boys whose lives were lost last week in Silver lake. John Douglas Cherry, son of Rev. and Mrs. C. W. Cherry, and Warner and L. M. Clark, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Clark, of No. 203 Electric avenue, were the victims. Young John and Cherry were members of the church and Lawrence, the youngest, was a Sunday-school boy

The two older boys were 16 years old and Lawrence was 13. There were small caskets placed in front of the pulpit, almost covered with flowers. Between one and two hundred floral pieces were arranged about the caskets, and the pallbearers, in the appearance of an altar rising high above the platform, guarded and beamed all were Boy Scouts dressed in the uniform of the organization. The large American flags were back of the members of the boys' own troop, No. 108, which attended.

Three Ministers officiate.

Before the services began, the guard moved to the front of the church, near the caskets, under the direction of the superintendent, Rev. Leo Alvin Gates, scoutmaster of the troop, and here the boys lay. The small casket at Silver lake has issued a statement trying to clear up the facts concerning the drowning of the three boys. The boys in the grave of honor were Austin Brown, James Carr, Homer Clark, and Carl Farnham. The funeral chimes were played by Elliott Hauge, Clinton Haines, Le Moyon Kelly, James McIntosh, Carl Morrison, Earl Magley, Eugene Mullen, Ernest Miller,婦, William Nelson, Richard Reiner, Henry Searle, Clarence Spencer, Harvey Van Allen, John Wright and Jack Nilson.

Companion Sends Flowers.

Among the flowers were three pieces, each one for a casket, sent by Elliott B. Hauge, son of Dr. and Mrs. E. M. Hauge, of Main street East, who were active in the boys' work, and all lived in Silver lake. The boys in the grave of honor were Austin Brown, James Carr, Homer Clark, and Carl Farnham. The funeral chimes were played by Elliott Hauge, Clinton Haines, Le Moyon Kelly, James McIntosh, Carl Morrison, Earl Magley, Eugene Mullen, Ernest Miller, William Nelson, Richard Reiner, Henry Searle, Clarence Spencer, Harvey Van Allen, John Wright and Jack Nilson.

Rev. Leo Alvin Gates, scoutmaster of the troop, and here the boys lay. The small casket at Silver lake has issued a statement trying to clear up the facts concerning the drowning of the three boys. The boys in the grave of honor were Austin Brown, James Carr, Homer Clark, and Carl Farnham.

The statement said:

"It was about one-thirty. No boats of any sort had arrived. Doing our duty, we could not get there in time for the program at the two-thirty, and decided to get in two boatloads, and in case help did not come to send one boatload, and here the other boats were to play and Warner Clark, who was to return on the train leaving there at 1:17. Five boys, Walston Brown, Richard Reiner, Henry Searle, James Carr, and Walston Brown were put off in one boat. About ten minutes later we put off with four more, Walter Cherry, Homer Crusor, Elliott Hauge and Carl Farnham, and the other boys were to play, one as substitute.

I was still looking for a motorboat, and it seemed to me that two boys had been Watching as we crossed the lake. To save time if the boat should be needed, we rowed directly across the lake to Fairview, the other boys rowing up the lake to the Military school. There was a moderate swell, and it was rowing, however, somewhat smooth, and by the time we got there, one felt the smallest alarm, but it was not expressed. My fault lay in the fact that I felt nearly as ill as the three boys, whose lives were lost.

"The winds that have come to our hearts, I pray a numerous God to heal. He may, as he can, may even of their tender souls, according to our ministry. This is all hard, but it is the way of the Atomeen. We Deers to be made perfect through sufferings. Without life giving there is no redemption of the world. Mr. Crusor and to me on Tuesday night in camp that this would be the price of making twenty better men. May the price not have been paid in vain."

EXPRESS THEIR REGRET
AT DR. WHITBECK’S DEATH

"Dr. Whitbeck was a physician and surgeon of rare judgment and skill, combining most wonderfully the art with the science of medicine," says a resolution on the death of Dr. John Fonda Ward Whitbeck, adopted by the Rochester Medical Association. He counselled his vast knowledge and experience were great aids to us, his fellow practitioners, which we thought we lacked. He was usually correct, as will evidently fair in all his dealings and beloved by us as well as by his patients.

"In his profession he had reached the topmost rounds of the ladder, attaining eminence with few of his associates. He had been the president of the Medical Society of the State of New York, as well as of the medical society of our local area. He had left, at the time of his death was president of the staff of the Rochester General Hospital, a fellow of the American College of Surgeons. He was a splendid teacher and loved to teach those working under him." The resolution is signed by Dr. W. Douglas Ward, Wesley T. Mulligan, and David B. Jewett.

ROCHESTER YOUNG WOMAN NURSE AT CRAIG COLONY, LOSES LIFE WHILE BATHING IN SONYEYA CREEK

BY SPECIAL WIRE

Mrs. Martin, July 14.—The first drowning in this vicinity this season occurred last evening, when Mrs. Murray Boughton, 19 years old, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. Burto of Rochester, lost her life while bathing in Keeshequa Creek at the Craig Colony for Epileptics at Sonyeya, where he was employed as a train nurse.

In company with Miss Helen Taylor, Mrs. Andrews went to the creek to bathe shortly after being relieved from duty at 7 o'clock. Miss Taylor is a good swimmer, but Miss Andrews could not bear the sight and dropped into a deep hole and disappeared from sight.

Miss Taylor saw her companion sink to the bottom and made every effort to rescue her, diving several times before summoning assistance from the colony. Two white tents were erected in the vicinity and one of them, Timothy O'Hearn, an employe of the colony, succeeded in rescuing the body. The drowned woman worked near 11 hours in vain efforts to resuscitate her. About 500 persons had been employed at the colony for three years. She graduated from Fordham Hospital in New York City. Surviving her are one son, her parents, and two sisters, all of Rochester.

A short service will be held at the Craig Colony tomorrow and the remains will be taken to Rochester where funeral services will be held on Saturday. Interment will be made in Rochester.

TRIBUTE TO JAMES WHITCOMB RILEY.

Riley's Village.

He dwelt not on some lofty height.
Apart, in starry space.
But down in fields and country lanes.
With children face to face.

"Knee-deep in June" when roses bloom,
"At Old America," where white is found.
A happy heart was always young.
The heart of youth he knew.

And if some token I might place
Above his peaceful rest,
I'd send some children from the fields
With wild flowers he loved best.

Some "Orphan Annie" and the lass Who's ain't a goin' to cry,"
And I'll give you your "swimmin' hole"
Beneath the summer sky.

Dr. L. W. Byam Passes Away
Prominent as Western New York Physician Many Years

LONI. AND EVENTFUL LIFE

Teaching School as Young Man, and Shooting Oil Wells To Gain Money for His Medical Education.

By Special Dispatch to The Herald.

Mumford, Aug. 21.—Dr. Lucas W. Byam, a physician and surgeon of the village of Mumford and vicinity for nearly forty years, passed away at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Lucia J. Powell, 208 Arnett Boulevard, Rochester, N. Y., Sunday afternoon.

Dr. Byam had not been in the best of health for several years, but was around long enough to celebrate his eightieth birthday on Sept. 15, two weeks previous to his death. He was born in Warren, N. Y., January 1, 1834, and was left an orphan at nine years of age. He was educated in the public schools of his early home, a teaching school in various neighborhoods around Plowerville and Wyoming, in which planes he had scored among friends among his former pupils.

To obtain the means to secure a medical education, he left his family, from which institution he graduated in 1859, he "shot" oil wells, going from place to place in the oil regions of Ohio and Pennsylvania, and the oil discovered. It was while in this work that he met Miss Augusta J. Brudy of Wyoming, N. Y., to whom he was married in 1859, and who died about five years ago. After he obtained his medical diploma he practiced there, in Wyoming, Geneseo and Dansville, this state, at that time becoming a member of the Livingston County Medical Society.

He came to Mumford in 1870, living in the house he purchased here in 1870, the same house in which we now reside, with his wife and family, for about twenty years, dispensing hospitality to the friends for whom they made and ministering to the needs of the end of many people for miles around.

A country doctor's life is one of hard labor, and in the few years left, the good doctor would ride to every direction testify to the confidence and esteem which the people had in him. He was, also, in the ranks of the citizens of the community and served several terms as trustee of the village.

For thirty years he was secretary of the Mumford Rural Cemetery Association, resigning that office on his return to town, three weeks ago. During that period he was quietly working to make improvements to the cemetery, which he felt was deserving of great improvements and which, no doubt, the citizens of the community would find as a worthy memorial to the good doctor.
