Resolutions on Death of Head of Women's Clubs

June 23, 1919

Resolutions on the death of Mrs. Frank P. Van Hoesen were adopted by the Board of Directors of the Federation of Women's Clubs at a meeting called by the vice-president, Miss Adeline Zachert, at Ades Hotel yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Van Hoesen was president of the Federation at the time of her death, which occurred on Sunday.

The resolution was framed by the following members of the Executive Committee: Mrs. Orlo Gray, Mrs. William Pitkin, Mrs. A. T. Probst, Miss Isaac M. Briender, Miss M. D. Noller, Miss Pauline Hoffman and Mrs. William A. Burt. The resolution follows:

In the passing of Mrs. Frank P. Van Hoesen the Federation of Women's Clubs loses its leader, a faithful worker and a loyal friend. Mrs. Van Hoesen was a woman of unusual ability and strength of character, and was interested in the educational work in our community. It was her conviction that education was the first step in winning the war. She was a true daughter of the American Revolution, and her work was done in the interest of the country and the cause of democracy.

Mrs. Van Hoesen was chairman of the women's division of the last two Liberty Loan drives, and of the War Savings Stamps campaign. In every war activity she had an important part, and in no way spared herself when there was work to be done. As long as the old Public Health association was in existence she was active in it, and she was one of the women responsible for the establishment of the Presbyterian Church in Charlotte and the new Girl's Home of Rochester, recently located in Driving Park avenue by the Women's Industrial Union.

One of the women closely associated with her for many years said to-day: "Mrs. Van Hoesen was a well-rounded, practical woman whose whole heart and sympathies were in those movements intended to improve the condition of the individual and the community generally. She loved Rochester and she gave her best to it."

Funeral services for Mrs. Frank P. Van Hoesen were held yesterday afternoon at the home in Oxford street. Rev. O. Waldo Cherry, pastor of Central Presbyterian Church, at which Mrs. Van Hoesen had been a member for years, officiated.

Representatives of the Federation of Women's Clubs, Class 24 and 42 of Central Church, the Y. W. C. A., Peace War Relief Circle, the principal teachers of Central Presbyterian Church and other organizations of which Mrs. Van Hoesen was a member, were present, including the Mothers' Club of No. 24, of which she helped to organize, and before which she recently delivered a series of lectures on citizenship.

The employees of the Rochester and Buffalo stores of the F. P. Van Hoesen Company were present, also William Curtis, of Brooklyn; Miss Anna Van Hoesen, of Newark, N. J.; Miss and Mrs. C. W. Reynolds, of Plattsburg, N. Y.; and Mrs. L. M. Crawford, of Stanford, Conn.; Miss Mary Emerson, of Poughkeepsie; R. D. Smith, of Buffalo; George W. Lake, of Warrens.

The floral tributes were unusually beautiful. Besides those bearing individual cards were a blanket of carnations from the Girl's Home of Women's Clubs which partly covered the casket, and large pieces from the directors of the Metropolitan Fire Insurance Company, Class 24, Class 42 and the teachers of the principal department of the Central Presbyterian Church. Peace War Relief Circle, Mothers of the Temple, Central Church, employees of the F. P. Van Hoesen Company, Rochester store: Rochester Palat and Glass Company, X's, Girls Clubs has lent its support, Camera Works, Eastman Kodak Company. After the ceremony the flowers were sent in large boxes to the Central Presbyterian Church, to the Girl's Home in Driving Park avenue, to the Rochester home, in which Mrs. Van Hoesen had been especially interested, and to friends who are ill.

On the side of the casket was a large service flag, representing Frank P. Van Hoesen, who is with the American Army in France. After the casket was sealed this flag was wrapped across it and left there when the body was placed in the vault in Mount Hope Chapel, where it was entombed. It arrived here from France, when interment will take place.

MORTUARY RECORD

Burial of Miss Stevenson

The funeral of Miss Elizabeth H. Stevenson, principal of Plymouth School, took place yesterday from her home at 534 Plymouth Avenue South. Miss Stevenson had taught in Rochester schools for 24 years, in Sprechfield, Ohio, but received her education in the public schools of Rochester. She was appointed in February, 1895, as teacher in No. 5 School, and taught later in Schools No. 29, 48 and 49. In June, 1901, she became principal of No. 32 School, holding that position until the time of her death.

PHILIP J. HARTELL

In Earlier Life Served Nineteen Years in Fire Department.

Philip J. Hartell died yesterday at his home, No. 35 Canage road, following an illness of a year. He was 67 years old. Mr. Hartell was a member of the Fire Department for more than nineteen years. Though ill, he was at work until about December 1st.

He was born in Rochester on February 1, 1851, and was the son of John A. and Caroline, Hartell, who were pioneer residents of this district. He was educated at an old school No. 3. He joined the Fire Department in young manhood and served the city as a fire officer for nearly twenty years. At length he retired to become chief engineer for the consolidated brevices of Rochester. After eighteen years at that he took employment with the Bausch & Lomb Company as night superintendent. He held this place until the time of his death.

Besides his wife, Margaret Mayer Hartell, the deceased leaves two daughters, Lottie L. Hartell, and one son, George K. Hartell.

REV. A. ROSS KITT

Rochester friends of Rev. A. Ross Kitt were surprised on Tuesday by a telegram announcing his death in Los Angeles. Mr. Kitt was a graduate of the Rochester Theological Seminary in the class of 1876. During his student days he had served as minister of the First Street Baptist Church. He acted as supply pastor for the South Avenue Baptist Church after the removal of Rev. H. C. Peoples and later was called to the pastorate of that church.

His pastorate continued until the coming of 1917, when he moved to California. His work in the church was unusually successful. He succeeded in re-organizing both Sunday schools and church and in permanently increasing membership in the community as well as upon the membership of the church. His pulpit abilities were marked. He was uniquely successful in winning men.

DEATH OF WILLIAM E. BOYD

Birth, Life, and Death in 1841 and Long After in Greece, a Farmer in Greece.

William E. Boyd, a member of one of the old families of Rochester, died on Wednesday morning, May 3, 1916, at the age of 75 years. He was a descendant of Nathaniel Rochester, a pioneer of the town of Rochester, and a member of the family who owned the property on which the city was built.

NEW YORK TELEGRAPH COMPANY

William J. Crendon, a former resident of Rochester and a Civil War veteran, died at his home, 119 East Dominick street, Rome, February 16th. He was born in Rochester in 1841 and received his education here. He entered the Civil War as a private and was killed in the Argonne Forest, France, while serving with the American forces.

DEATH REMOVES TWO MEMBERS OF OLD ROCHESTER FAMILY WITHIN ONE WEEK

Bits of City's History Recalled

For the second time within one week the hand of death has been laid on the Rochester family, descendants of Colonel Nathaniel Rochester. An announcement was made yesterday that Mrs. Louise Agatha Ramsey Rochester, widow of Roswell Hart Rochester, had died yesterday in Washington, D. C., where she had been living for some years with her daughter, Miss Anna Rochester, who is connected with one of the United States Government departments.

Mrs. Rochester formerly was Miss Almira Agatha Rochester of New York City, where she was married to Roswell Hart Rochester soon after he went to live in the metropolis. Mr. Rochester was one of the founders of the Western Union Telegraph Company, and when that concern was started in the old Reynolds Arcade. At that time he was secretary-treasurer of the company. He removed to New York City when the headquarters were moved there, and at the time of his death was treasurer of the company.

Mr. Rochester was a son of the late Henry E. Rochester and a grandson of Colonel Nathaniel Rochester, founder of the city. He was a brother of Mrs. Clinton Rogers of 135 Spring Street.

Thomas Barnes Cumming, who met death in the South by fire at the end of the war when he was discharged with the rank of brigadier general, returned to Rochester he engaged in the contracting business with his father and later removed to Rome where he entered the same business building some of the largest buildings in the city, among them the Jefferson and the City Hall.

MORTUARY RECORD

William J. Newbold, President of the Rochester Central Library of Rochester and Monroe County Historic Scrapbooks Collection

William J. Crendon, a former resident of Rochester and a Civil War veteran, died at his home, 119 East Dominick street, Rome, February 16th. He was born in Rochester in 1841 and received his education here. He entered the Civil War as a private and was killed in the Argonne Forest, France, while serving with the American forces.
Jacob Schmitt died Monday at his home at 24 Kondolf Street, aged 81 years. He leaves his wife, Caroline Schmitt; one brother, Aloise Schmitt, commander in the French Army; two sisters, Lena and Marguerite; five sons, George, Frank, Jacob and Fred Schmitt of Rochester; and William Schmitt of Buffalo; one daughter, Mrs. Mrs.

JACOB SCHMITT.

John Bauer-Schmitt; sixteen grand-children and five great-grand-children. Mr. Schmitt settled in this city in early childhood, coming to this country from Alsace-Lorraine. He was a Civil War veteran and enlisted April 15, 1861, as a private in Company F, 19th New York Infantry, and was discharged on June 6, 1864. He joined F. E. Meyer Whitley's famed "Lost Battalion." Death came to the other, Thomas Barnes Cuming, in the early hours of yesterday morning when the Southwestern Limited crashed into the rear of the Wolverine, on the New York Central line, a short distance from South Byron station. His body was taken to Batavia and will be taken to New York for burial. The body of the other rests in a crude grave somewhere near where the heroic Americans stayed off the German attack for four days, without food and water, but with plenty of pluck and determination.

Thomas Barnes Cuming is known to many Rochesterians. For several years after the death of his father, his mother lived in Meigs street and he received his early education in the public schools and in high school. Later he returned to New York, entered business and at the time of his death was a member of the firm of Meyer, Snifflin & company, and his home was in Englewood, N. J.

He was the son of Allen Jackson and Anna M. Rochester Cuming and a grandson of Henry E. Rochester. His paternal grandfather was Rev. Dr. Francis Cuming, the first rector of St. Luke's church. He leaves a sister, Mrs. Anna VanVoorhis, of New York, and an aunt, Mrs. Charles Rogers, 187 Spring street, and three cousins, Mrs. Sidney S. B. Ruby, Helen Rogers and Lieutenant Rochester Rogers. He was married to Miss Laura Ellis, who died some years ago. Rochester relatives have gone to Batavia to claim the body and make arrangements with one of his business partners for the funeral.

Among the others who suffered in the wreck were Charles D. Antisdale, 362 Harvard street and her two daughters, Virginia Frances, 8 years old, and Madeleine, 5 years old. They were on their way to visit Mrs. Antisdale's mother in St. Louis. Mrs. Antisdale suffered from shock and the old lady would have fainted had she not been taken to Buffalo and placed in a hotel, under the care of a physician.

David Thompson, a Civil War veteran, having been corporal of Company A, 19th New York Infantry, and sergeant in Battery A, New York Light Artillery. The funeral was conducted by C. J. Powers post, G. A. R., of which he was a member. Members of Monroe County Civil War Veterans' chorus sang the soldiers' memorial hymn, "Sleeping Soldier Sleep," the words of which were written by Comrade Thompson and the music by Mrs. Kate Bennett Smythe, who presided at the organ.

William G. Ellwanger, an expert from a commercial and nurseryman, who had been a resident of Rochester and vicinity for over 60 years, died yesterday at his home, 200 Rosedale Street, aged 77 years. He leaves his wife, Mrs. Mary Ellwanger; one son, William G. Ellwanger Jr., and a daughter Mrs. Clara Ellwanger Steadman; L. I.; Miss Emma L. Ellwanger, Mrs. Floria Ellwanger Chadwick, Miss L. May Ellwanger, all of Rochester, and Mrs. Helen Ellwanger Haford of Chapell Hill, N. C., and several grandchildren. Mrs. Ellwanger was engaged in the nursery business and conducted it until her death. The funeral will be private and burial will be at the convenience of the family.
Philip H. Riley, a former president of the Eighth New York Cavalry (volunteer) Association, died last Saturday at his home on Lakeford Road, near Union Hill. Mr. Riley had lived in Wayne County nearly all his life. He was born at Leetie Side on March 5, 1844. He received his education at Macedon and at Geneva Wesleyan Seminary. He was a student at the seminary when he enlisted on December 16, 1864, in Company E, Eighth New York Cavalry. This unit was in General Sheridan's divisions, and was under the command of Cluster. Mr. Riley served in many important engagements and was severely wounded in the battle of the Five Forks on April 3, 1865, a few days before the war ended. When he was convalescing he witnessed the surrender of Fitzhugh Lee and Commodore Semmes, of the Alabama. Later he was transferred to the Rochester General Hospital, and received his honorable discharge from the service on June 22, 1866. At that time he was 20 years old.

On October 14, 1866, Mr. Riley married Amelia A. Botsford. He held positions of trust in his home town, Rochester, during the Civil War. He was a member of Wayne Lodge of Masons, and was the home of his son, Philip H. Riley, commissioner of parks, died this morning at 11 o'clock after an illness of two weeks.

Mr. Riley was born on Spring street.

Philip H. Riley.
New York City on June 13, 1856, and came to Rochester at an early age. He was five weeks old at the time of the death of his mother. His father, William S. Riley, was a prominent citizen of Rochester who died in 1865. Mr. Riley is survived by his wife, Mrs. George O. Riley, and by four grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

The funeral services will be held from the home of his son, 900 Culver Road at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

GEORGE BILLINGS BUSH.

One of the founders of the Bush & Bull company, who operated department stores in several cities, was stricken with a heart attack and died yesterday at Port Jervis, N. Y., in the early morning hours.

Mr. Bush, who was 70 years old, had been an invalid for the last few weeks. He was stricken with a heart attack in the early hours of the morning and died without warning. He had been a member of the firm since its inception in 1887, and had been associated with the company for more than 40 years. He leaves a wife, Miss Emma Bush, and two sons, R. E. Bush and James E. Bush. The funeral will be held at the home of Mr. Bush, 900 Culver Road, Rochester, June 13, 1856.
Early Days in New York.

On the occasion of his ninetieth birthday, Mr. Booth gave an interesting interview to The Post Express in which he told reminiscences of his early life in New York and Rochester.

"When I lived in New York," said Mr. Booth, "Fifth avenue was a wilderness, being rough and rocky. Sixth avenue was a vegetable garden. When Fourteenth street was laid out people scoffed at it and said it would never build up. What is now Brooklyn was almost a barren tract, there being a residential section called Brooklyn Heights. Hoboken was a pleasure ground, laid out in a park, with boats, drives, etc.

"Transportation was different then. There were no subways, trolleys, or even horse cars. Kip's and Broadway had a line of coaches which ran in Hudson street, Canal street and Broadway. Many people walked and those that had to come from the outer sections took the coaches.

"Drinking water was carried by ears. Large cases of water would be taken into the business section for the use of those at work. In the residential district pumps at various corners served the people with their water supply. As I remember it the water had a brackish taste."

Saw Rochester's Growth.

"Travel in and out of New York was limited. There was not much steam railroad being rather crude. A fine line of boats piled on the Hudson river, however, and there was more travel on them than on anything else. When the two boats would come down the river from Albany they would race for the New York harbor. The first one in usually got the passengers."

"I went from New York to Troy by boat in 1835 and remained in Troy a number of years. When I came to Rochester in 1852, the city was a good deal smaller than it is now, of course. State street was built up to the railroad, and Main street was pretty well built up. I remember that when Abram H. Rice suggested the laying out of Jones square people thought it was way out in the country."

"Rochester was well supplied with banks. Among the early banks were the Rochester Savings bank, Bank of Rochester, Bank of Monroe, Rochester City bank, First National bank, Bank of Western New York, Farmers and Mechanics bank, Union Bank, Eagle Bank, Manufacturers Bank, Filer City Bank, Monroe County bank and some private banks."

Voted for Zachary Taylor.

Mr. Booth voted for Zachary Taylor for president in 1848 and voted in every presidential election since then. When he came to Rochester in 1852 he settled in the Second ward, where he lived until 1872. In this year he built his present home where he has lived since. In 1875 Mr. Booth was elected alderman for the Ninth ward. He was a member of the old Elevated Track commission, Water commission and State line commission.
MEMORIAL.

Of the Monroe County Savings Bank.
The Death of James E. Booth.

We mourn to-day the loss of our president, James E. Booth. His death on the morning of February 7, 1919, marked the close of a life continued far beyond the Scriptural limit, but which to the very end was an active force and influence.

He was elected a trustee March 2, 1875, and it is our great satisfaction and pride that the last twenty-eight years of his life were spent in the service of this bank as its president, to which office he was chosen January 6, 1891.

How admirably he filled the duties of the position is well known to us and to the extended circle which is reached by the activities of the bank. His was no nominal but was a real leadership in all matters of essential importance. It was his peculiar distinction to keep a personal human interest in men and events to the last. He possessed a calm, judicial temper, combined with strong common sense, great industry, and a serene consciousness of duty well performed. He had a contempt for any profession or conduct which were not real and genuine. We all knew that he had a sound mind in a sound body; that a clear mind was accompanied by physical powers of remarkable strength, so that to the end of a very long life, his mental power and vigor were undiminished.

His old age was the ideal old age, work to the last, with mind unimpaired, with no signs of approaching death affecting his cheerfulness or happiness, spending his days in the city which he loved, and the growth of which he had watched since early manhood, and with the respect and affection of his followers.

We have been honored by our association with him; the record of his distinguished service is an inspiration to us and our successors in the years to come. Such a life does not end with death but survives in its influence for good on those who follow.

To the surviving members of his family, his daughter and two sons, we extend our sincere sympathy.

In Memoriam—James E. Booth.

The following memorial was adopted at a special meeting of the Board of Directors of the Fidelity Trust company, held Monday, February 10, 1919.

Death has again invaded our number and taken our oldest and one of our most esteemed associates, James E. Booth.

He had a long and honorable career. He was born ninety-two years ago, in New York city, but moved to Rochester in 1852. He was a successful business man, served his city on various boards and commissions, and was a director of the Monroe County Savings Bank for twenty-seven years and for seventeen years prior to his death, his president. He was an incorporator of this trust company and one of its trustees from its organization, in 1893, until his death.

He was strong and upright in character, but simple in his tastes, somewhat retiring in disposition, and always unobtrusive in his presence. He was a man of his word with other men. He never willingly failed in his attendance at meetings of this board or in discharging his duties as a member of its executive committee so long as he was one of its members, for one of his chief characteristics was his absolute faithfulness to every trust committed to him.

We shall greatly miss his commanding figure, his sturdy common sense and his loyal support, and we extend our very cordial sympathy to his daughter and his sons in their bereavement.

J. S. GUBELMANN.

AT SEMINARY 32 YEARS, IS DEAD.

Native of Switzerland, He Held Pastorates in Middle West and Philadelphia Before Coming to Rochester Institution.

Feb. 11, 1919.

Jacob Samuel Gubelmann, D.D., professor Emeritus at Rochester Theological Semiary, died at his home 39 Brighton street, last night after a short illness. He was born in Berne, Switzerland, on November 26, 1836, coming to the United States with his parents in 1848 and lived for a short time in New York city. He removed to Ohio, where his grandfather was minister of a German Reformed Church. Returning to New York in 1861, he became affiliated with a German Baptist Church there which sent him to Rochester the following year to prepare for the ministry. He graduated from the University of Rochester in 1858 and from Rochester Theological Seminary in 1860.

After his ordination to the ministry, Dr. Gubelmann held successful pastorates in Louisville, Ky., and St. Louis, Mo. In 1863 he became minister of First German Baptist Church, Philadelphia, where he remained until 1884, when he was called to the chair of Christian ethics and homiletics in the German department of Rochester Theological Semiary. This position he held 22 years, when he felt that the strain of his professorship was growing too severe. For the last two and one-half years, Doctor Gubelmann kept up his interest in the seminary giving a short address each week at the chapel service. Private funeral services will be held at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon from the home at 39 Brighton street, with Dr. Clarence A. Barbour, president of the Board of Directors in officiating. Memorial services will be held later at the seminary.

Doctor Gubelmann married twice. His second wife, who was Miss Sophie Heste, he married in 1882. She survives him, as do his two sons, and two daughters, Professor Albert Gubelmann of Yale, W. S. Gubelmann of Buffalo, Mrs. Otto Koeing of New Haven and Miss Ella C. Gubelmann of this city.

E. SMITH MUNN.

Member of Family Prominent in Rochester Since 1819.

E. Smith Munn died yesterday at his home 162 Plymouth avenue, aged 40 years. He leaves his mother, Mrs. Ednah Smith Munn, and one sister, Miss Emily L. Munn, of Rochester, who, with other men. He never willingly failed in his attendance at meetings of this board or in discharging his duties as a member of its executive committee so long as he was one of its members, for one of his chief characteristics was his absolute faithfulness to every trust committed to him.

We shall greatly miss his commanding figure, his sturdy common sense and his loyal support, and we extend our very cordial sympathy to his daughter and his sons in their bereavement.

SEYMOUR G. DANA.

A Life-Long Resident

And Build in City.

Feb. 11, 1919.

Seymour G. Dana, a lifelong resident of Rochester, died yesterday at his house, No. 127 Broadway, aged 60 years. He was born in Rochester on December 2, 1859. In his earlier years he was employed as a chief train dispatcher by the New York Central Railroad. Later he became a traveling salesman.

About thirty years ago Mr. Dana purchased the Ferry and Bay tract, located between South Goodman Street and the Pincus section, which he developed, building more than two hundred houses there and many others in various parts of the city, which took up the greater part of twenty years of his life.

For the last ten years Mr. Dana was associated with his sons in the insurance business. He leaves his wife, Mrs. S. Frances Clark Dana; three sons, Howard C., Raymond H., and Frank S. Dana, all of this city; two brothers, J. Monroe Dana, of this city, and W. H. Dana, of Dallas, Texas; and a sister, Mrs. F. H. Cohn, of Buffalo.

The funeral will take place from the house tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. burial will be in Mount Hope cemetery.

Mr. Dana was a life member of Yeomans Lodge, F. & A. M.; of Hamilton Chapter, R. A. M.; and Monroe Commandery, Knights Templar.
In the death of Mr. Mosher the entire community cannot but feel a great and genuine loss. He was a man of strong character, and as one of his closest friends expressed it last night, "he never knowingly did anything to harm another, and always tried to see the other fellow’s point of view." He had accomplished much in a busy life, given largely to the study and solution of problems involving municipal, state, and national government, but he was never too busy to engage in anything worth while that demanded self-giving service in the interest of his fellow men. Much of his early life was spent as an educator.

Prominent Throughout State.

In 1914 Mr. Mosher was made one of five members of the New York State Workmen's Compensation Commission, which office he held for one year and until the commission was supplanted by the State Industrial Commission. He served as one of the Prison Reform Commissioners of the State of New York from 1915 to 1915, and was a director of the Municipal Government Association of New York State at the time of his death.

He was a member of Psi Epsilon and Sigma Xi fraternities, and president of the Union College Alumni Association of the Genesee Valley in 1915. He was a member of the University Club, Rochester Athletic Club, City Club and Rochester Chamber of Commerce.

After serving his legal apprenticeship in his office of Fred Mosher, Mr. Mosher was admitted to the bar in 1915, and later entered the law office of Supreme Court Justice Adolph J. Rosenbeck. He was a member of the law firm of Smith, DeGraff, Castleman and Mosher for many years, and until he took up the work of compensation commissioner in 1914. On completing his term of office with the compensation commission he formed a law partnership with George Herbert Smith, which continued until the time of his death.

When George D. B. Bonbright was appointed Food Administrator of Monroe County he at once invited Mr. Mosher to become associated with him, and together they undertook the difficult task, both understanding that no compensation could ever be received for their services. They worked harmoniously, Mr. Mosher in all things recognizing Mr. Bonbright's leadership, and Mr. Bonbright, in turn, fully appreciating Mr. Mosher's ability and co-operation. Both were agreed that no politics should enter into the conduct of the office, and that, which combined with the ability and efficient management displayed by these two men, made the Monroe County Food Administration envied throughout the state.

Taken Ill in New York City.

Upon the appointment of Mr. Bonbright to be Deputy State Food Administrator, State Administrator Charles E. Truman did not hesitate in selecting a worthy and entirely capable successor for Monroe County. He immediately appointed Mr. Mosher, who continued to actively attend to the arduous duties of the office until the latter part of November, when, while attending a conference of county food administrators in New York City, he was stricken with the illness from which he never recovered.

One of his associates in the Food Administration said of Mr. Mosher:

The people of this county will never comprehend or fully appreciate the great service rendered by Mr. Mosher. He devoted his constant attention to duty, and his enthusiasm was not confined to himself, but was shared by all those associated with him. Often he would be seen passing along the streets at night, with a lantern in his pocket, and an extra suit of clothes on his shoulder.

His work was punctual and careful, and he was always ready to take up new duties and new problems with the firmness of a true public servant.

Sometimes when engaged in his office work, he would suddenly rise from his seat and announce that he was going to take care of some pressing business. He would then disappear, and not be seen until the next day.

When the food administration came to be under Mr. Mosher's care, a new era of efficiency was introduced. The office was improved, and the work of the office became more systematic and methodical. The food administration was made to function properly, and the people of the county were satisfied with the results.

Mr. Mosher was much beloved by the people of Monroe County, and his death was a great loss to the community. His memory will long be cherished by those who knew him, and his name will forever be associated with the work of the food administration.
Mr. Howard T. Mosher, whose death came, unexpectedly to the community, on Saturday, was a citizen and a man in whom were joined an infinite variety of fine and worthy elements.

Most and gentle in demeanor that outwardly spoke almost for shyness, patient and tactful to the point of surrender of every right but conviction, never contentious and rarely in controversy, his was nevertheless a character seasoned with clear understanding, firm beliefs and purposes and resolute courage. From boyhood he had been true, and his powers of physical endurance were often overtaxed by the duties and services to which he gave his active mind and generous spirit were prompted to respond. Still, in his unobtrusive and wholly unambitious way, he contrived to live a life of marked usefulness and wide influence. Thus it came to him to perform tasks of greater magnitude of responsibility and even greater value when measured by their enduring results, than have been accomplished or essayed by many men who achieved wider notice through that instinct for self-advertisement which he wholly lacked.

Mr. Mosher was, by nature, studious and reflective. His mental processes were simple and unconfused, and his speech was always in harmony with his thoughts, which latter were often pondered in solitude in the quiet, genial society of his own home.

His work upon the Compensation Commission was largely that kind of constructive work with which few people except his intimates associated him. Both his associates and subordinates always had a just measure of whatever credit was due for work performed, and if envy were made he shone in the blaze. His last, but not the least important work he did, was director of the Monroe County Food Administration, and this labor of love, like most of his labors, rounded out a life of work full of other duties. Whether speaking in settlements or on the streets of Paris, teaching in universities, speaking at political meetings or conventions, working in the Compensation Commission, or in the College, his work has been done with faithfulness and unselfishness, and the students, the men and women who came under his influence, derived an inspiration from his genial, unassuming soul as it worked for the benefit of mankind.

He has gone from us, but like those men who do work in the world similar to his, the world of inspiration which he planted in the minds of the thinkers of this world will be remembered by millions for ages to come.

Those Who Survive.

Mr. Mosher leaves his wife, Mrs. Mary Howard/Mosher; three brothers, Dr. J. S. Moshier of Albany; Rev. G. F. Mosher of Waush, Cuba, a prominent missionary, and Carl Mosher of New York City; a well-known real estate broker, and one sister, Gertrude Knight, wife of Rev. LONG CONNECTED, Feb. 12, WITH LUMBER AND IMPORTING BUSINESS

Mr. Robert Dewart, who died yesterday morning, aged 55 years, was the son of William Dewart, who was known as the father of the protective tariff policy of the Dominion of Canada. He came to Rochester when he was 16 years old, from Fenonon Falls, Ontario, and not long after his arrival took employment with the M. B. Schauts Company.

Soon after his marriage in 1894 to Elisabeth Bingeman of Berlin, a member of the Rochester Athletic Club, Robert Dewart went into the lumber business, and had an office in the Granite Building from soon after that time until the fire of 1901. Not long after the fire he went with the Lewis-Thompson Importing Company, importers of mahogany, and was representative for a number of years in Western Ontario and other parts of Canada. He was connected with this company until the Dewart broke out, when the difficulty of obtaining mahogany greatly handicapped the business.

A year ago this week, Mr. Dewart fell in Buffalo and broke an arm, and from that accident he never recovered. The break mended so that he could go to Philadelphia, but there he became worse, and after his return to Rochester he died in the General Hospital.

Mr. Dewart was a member of the Monroe Avenue Methodist Church for 45 years, and he was a member also of Genesee Lodge, F. & A. M.; Monroe Commandery, K. T., and Flower City Council, United Commercial Travelers.

Of Mr. Dewart's three sons, the eldest, Robert, 16 years old, is manager of the Mohican store in Main Street West; William Frederick was a student at the University of Rochester, but last week took employment with the Eastern Rokland Company, and Hugh Edward is attending East High School. One of two brothers, William D. of New York, is vice president of the Frank Munsey Company, and Hugh of Montclair, N. J., is general manager of all the Mohican stores. Mr. Dewart also leaves his wife and four sisters, Misses Ada Dewart, Mrs. Frederick L. M. McEvoy of Montclair, N. J.; Mrs. C. J. Woods of Philadelphia, Pa., and Mrs. Henry B. of Pipersville, Pa.

The funeral will take place from the home of the deceased, at 11 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

High Tribute Paid, Feb. 16, Howard T. Mosher, by Bar Association

Rochester Bar Association paid tribute to its late distinguished member, Howard T. Mosher, in a set of resolutions adopted at a special meeting yesterday. The association at this time also appointed a committee to represent it at the funeral. In part the text of the resolutions read as follows:

Mr. Mosher never enjoyed robust health, yet he overcame in a remarkable way his lack of physical strength by the mental power and courage. His studious nature and mental ability aided him to render valuable service to his clients, whom he served faithfully with little thought of the demands made upon his physical resources. He always took a keen and active interest in public affairs, and his active work as a member of the New York State Workmen's Compensation Commission was evidenced by the successful operation of his office. He was inaugurated as its first chairman last year, and he performed his services as Monroe County Bar Association and the many vexing problems of this office with constantly painstaking and patriotic attention, with the result that its administration was consciences for its efficiency.

In the sudden and untimely death of Mr. Mosher, the bar has lost a studious and conscientious member of the bar and the loyal and esteemed citizens and his associates a cultured, learned and lovable friend.

In 1894 Mr. Mosher again visited Europe and Africa and upon his return completed the practice of law. In 1910 he was named as professor of citizenship at the University of Rochester, holding that position until 1914, when he was made one of the members of the State Workmen's Compensation Commission and held the office until the commission was changed to the State Industrial Commission. He had served also as a member of the State Workmen's Compensation Commission of the State of New York and was a director of the Municipal Government Association of the State of New York at the time of his death.

As a consistent supporter of Democratic principles Mr. Mosher was once a candidate for state senator, twice for mayor and once for surrogate, and had served as chairman of the Democratic county committee and was a delegate to the Democratic national convention in 1914.

When George B. B. Bonbright was named as Monroe county food administrator he requested the co-operation of Mr. Mosher as assistant and when Mr. Bonbright was made deputy state food administrator Mr. Mosher was properly selected by the State Administrator Charles E. Tremain to fill the county food administratorship, in which position he was engaged when he contracted the illness which reigned in his death.

He was a member of Psi Upsilon and Sigma Xi, Franklin (Mass.) and president of the Union College Alumni Association of the Genesse Valley in 1914. He was a member of the University Club, Rochester Athletic Club, City Club and Rochester Chamber of Commerce.

In 1890 Mr. Mosher entered into the lumber business and, after a number of years in Western Ontario and other parts of Canada, he was connected with this company until the Dewart broke out, when the difficulty of obtaining mahogany greatly handicapped the business.

A year ago this week, Mr. Dewart fell in Buffalo and broke an arm, and from that accident he never recovered. The break mended so that he could go to Philadelphia, but there he became worse, and after his return to Rochester he died in the General Hospital.

Mr. Dewart was a member of the Monroe Avenue Methodist Church for 45 years, and he was a member also of Genesee Lodge, F. & A. M.; Monroe Commandery, K. T., and Flower City Council, United Commercial Travelers.

Of Mr. Dewart's three sons, the eldest, Robert, 16 years old, is manager of the Mohican store in Main Street West; William Frederick was a student at the University of Rochester, but last week took employment with the Eastern Rokland Company, and Hugh Edward is attending East High School. One of two brothers, William D. of New York, is vice president of the Frank Munsey Company, and Hugh of Montclair, N. J., is general manager of all the Mohican stores. Mr. Dewart also leaves his wife and four sisters, Misses Ada Dewart, Mrs. Frederick L. M. McEvoy of Montclair, N. J.; Mrs. C. J. Woods of Philadelphia, Pa., and Mrs. Henry B. of Pipersville, Pa.

The funeral will take place from the home of the deceased, at 11 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.
Mr. Hooper was proud of his home, from his late home that he learned his trade as a marble cutter at which he became expert. When 8 years old he started his writing and took great pride in his life he gathered old coins which the men were fond of. Among his numerous accomplishments was singing, and in his frequent trips to this city he always took time to visit the wounded soldiers that were brought back from the south front and entertained them by singing selections of which the men were proud.

Up to the time of his death Mr. Hooper always enjoyed excellent health, a fact which he believed was due to his temperate life and interest in the affairs of the day.

The funeral will take place from the home at 1100 o'clock tomorrow afternoon, and interment will be at Mt. Hope.

Abram H. Cushman was a descendant of Robert Cushman, who boarded the Mayflower but with other Puritans was compelled to make the journey to the New World in the Speedwell. Abram H. Cushman was born July 12, 1834, at Haystown, near Troy, and at the age of 14 years came to Rochester to enter school and to stay with an older brother, William T. Cushman, with whom he was later associated in the seed business.

Later he entered the seed business and for eight years was manager of the Cleveland Seed Company in New York City. Then he returned to Rochester and engaged in the seed business with which he was connected at the time of his death.

Mr. Cushman was the representative of the Second Ward in the Board of Aldermen in the early 70's. He was a member of Rochester Lodge, P. and A. M., and also of the Protecitives.
MRS. SUSAN B. NAGLE DIES

February 12, 1919

Prominent member of South Congregational Church was 85 years old.

Mrs. Susan Bodek Nagle, widow of John Nagle, died yesterday at her home, No. 515 South Avenue, at the advanced age of 85 years. Mrs. Nagle was born in Renton, Ontario, Canada, in 1834. She was a daughter of Adam Bodek, a soldier who fought under Napoleon in 1814. She came to Rochester in 1856 and married John Nagle, who was one of the earliest occupants of the old Central Market in Front Street, and later followed the mercantile business for twenty-five years in South Avenue.

Mrs. Nagle was a charter member of the South Congregational Church and during her earlier life was active in church work. She leaves a daughter, Mrs. F. H. Coffin, of whom, John A., Jacob F., Rosina P., and C. Eugene Nangle, two grandchildren and four great grandchildren.

The funeral will be held this morning at 9:30 o'clock from the house, interment will be made in Mount Hope Cemetery.

DEATHS—FUNERALS

Death of Newspaper Man Formerly of Rochester.

John H. Ritchie, formerly of the editorial staff of The Post Express, died Sunday at his home, 2428 Emerson Avenue, South Minneapolis, Minn. He had been ill for some months and had gone to Los Angeles in November in hope of building up his health, but returned to Minneapolis some weeks ago.

John Ritchie was one of the best known newspaper writers in the country, both as an authority on sports and as a humorous writer, and while in this city he made a host of friends. He was a member of the local staff of this paper, sporting editor and writer of special stories and bits of humorous verse. He was born near Carlinville, Ill., July 9, 1873, the only son of Frederick Barnard and Sarah H. Ritchie. His father was a newspaperman, and the boy started in the business, going through the mechanical side. His education was received in the Waverly, Ill., high school.

His first experience in a city newspaper was with the "St. Louis Globe-Democrat" and in 1899 he turned to sporting writing for the St. Louis "Star-Business," specializing on cycling.

With the death of his father in 1897 he took charge of the paper his father had established, the Waverly "Journal," and operated it for about two years, then sold it, and with Warren Case of Jacksonville, Ill., established the "Central Illinois Democrat," in Jacksonville. The venture was unsuccessful and Mr. Ritchie became advertising manager of the Decatur, Ill., "Review." From there he went to the advertising department of "Trade," Detroit, Mich., and thence came to Rochester and the Post Express. For the past two years he had been a member of the staff of the Minneapolis "Journal," at one time city editor but generally in charge of sports.

Mr. Ritchie leaves a wife and three children—a daughter, Dorothy, and two sons, Fred and Robert.

The funeral service was conducted at the home, Tuesday afternoon and interment was at Waverly, Ill.

WILLIAM WHITLEY

Father of State Senator and Veteran of Civil War.

William Whitley, father of State Senator James L. Whitley, died yesterday at the home, 760 North Street, and was a member of Mack's Eighteenth New York Battery during the Civil War. Since the close of the war he had been secretary and business manager of that organization. He was a charter member of the O'Rorke Post, G. A. R., and one of the founders of St. Mark's Episcopal church, and served there for a number of years.

Besides his son he leaves his wife, and daughter, Elizabeth Whitley and two sons, James W. Whitley, all of Rochester. The funeral will be held from St. Mark's church Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock.
Rochester Young Woman
Y Worker Dies Overseas
Feb. 26, 1919

New York. Feb. 26. — The death overseas of two Y. M. C. A. workers, three of them were announced today at the headquarters here of the National War Work Council of the organization. Among them was Blanche A. Rowley, of Rochester, N. Y., who died in Liverpool. The cause of her death was not given.

Miss Rowley was the first woman of this city to give her life for the Red Triangle cause. Word of her death was received in a telegram by her father, William J. Rowley, of No. 425 Main street, on Monday. It stated that she had died of pneumonia. On the Thursday previous, a telegram was received that stated that Miss Rowley was seriously ill.

Miss Rowley signified her intention of entering Y. M. C. A. some time ago, but it was not until after six weeks before the announcement was made that she was accepted by the Rochester committee.

Miss Rowley was 22 years old. She was born and brought up in Rochester. She attended No. 22 and No. 18 schools and East High School. Before joining the Y war workers, she was secretary to Frank Gibbons, president of the Mohawk Condensed Milk Company, with offices in the granite building. Miss Rowley was closely connected with activities at the East Avenue Y.M.C.A. When, at Sundays, she was a regular attendant.

Besides her father, Miss Rowley leaves a sister, Miss G. Rowley, and two brothers, William and Howard Rowley.

DEWITT C. GIBBONS, WIDELY KNOWN DEALER IN MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS AND A NATIVE OF ROCHESTER, DIES AT 69

DeWitt C. Gibbons of Gibbons & Stone, the oldest piano and musical instrument store in Western New York, died yesterday morning at his home, 229 Darlington Street. He was born in Rochester March 14, 1849, and so was in his 70th year.

Mr. Gibbons was a lifelong resident of Rochester. He was educated here, and was graduated with the class of 71 from the University of Rochester, where he was a member of the Theta Delta Chi fraternity.

When his father died, DeWitt C., and Arthur J. Gibbons, the sons, took his place in the firm in partnership with the surviving member, Lyman E. Stone, and on Mr. Stone's death, in 1890, they continued partnership with Mrs. Stone. DeWitt C. Gibbons was one of the best known musical instrument business in the Eastern States.

Mr. Gibbons was a member of Valley Lodge 105, F. and A. M. Besides his brother, he leaves his wife, Martha C. Gibbons, and two daughters, Ruby S. Gibbons and Mrs. J. Wade Becker of Fairport.

The funeral will be held at the home at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

NINETEEN YEARS SUPERINTENDENT OF CITY STREETS

Richard Husbands Dies from Heart Disease-But 14 Years Old When In Civil War, 1919

Richard Husbands, nineteen years a member of the public works department of the city, died last night at his home, 1 Remillard Park. Though under the doctor's care the past four years, he was at his work yesterday forenoon. In the afternoon he visited the masonic and united church, returning home told his daughter of his approaching end and even went so far as to give instructions as to the funeral.

Mr. Husbands was 72 years old. He was a member of E. F. Quinby post, 409, G. A. R. In the Civil war he served with Company K, N. Y. Heavy Artillery. He often told that he was but 14 years old when he enlisted and had to swear he was 16.

Mr. Husbands came to Rochester as a railroad man. He was brought here by the New York Central from the Fall Brook road, now one of the New York Central branches. He was yardmaster here when the present trestle across the Genesee river was built. From the railroad he went into the meat business and for years conducted a meat market in the old Culver block on University avenue. That was in a section of the city called East Rochester.

On March 1, 1899, J. Herbert Grant, commissioner of public works, appointed Mr. Husbands general superintendent of streets, and he had held that title since, though in recent years he had direct charge only of the streets of the east side. He leaves three daughters, Miss E. Husbands and Mrs. C. Wallace, of Rochester, and Mrs. Clark Brown, of Forest, Hills Garden, N. Y.

FIRST-GRADE TEACHER DIES

Rosie E. Larwood Was Student of First-Grade Problems 1919

Rosie E. Larwood, a teacher in Concord School No. 18, died at the Homemac Hospital, Feb. 25th, after a brief illness.

For ten years before going to Concord School she was a first-grade teacher in Elsey School, No. 20. She was considered one of the most successful primary-grade teachers of the city. At her own request she was given in September, 1918, the opportunity to make a special study of first-grade problems among foreign children. This work was undertaken in Concord School.

As chairman of the Program Committee of the First Grade Association she performed important service. Under her leadership many first-grade problems were carefully investigated and valuable data collected. She was a keen student of educational psychology and in the highest and best sense of the term a teacher. Years ago yesterday that in her death the school of Rochester have suffered a distinct loss.

ARMIN BUCHTERKIRCH, Artist, Painter of Portraits and Landscapes Dies.

Armin Buchterkirch, artist and portrait painter, died to-day at his home, 44 Avenue D. He leaves his wife, Harriet Buchterkirch. Funeral services will be held from his home tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. Burial will be in Mt. Hope cemetery.

Mr. Buchterkirch was born in Rochester and after his graduation from the public schools took up the lithographic business. This he followed for several years and then he went to Munich to study art. Returning to Rochester he took up art in a serious way. He has painted portraits for a number of Rochesterians, but is known best for his charming landscapes which have pleased visitors to the annual exhibit of the Rochester Art Club since 1899, when he became a member.

For a number of years Mr. Buchterkirch had been spending his winters in California and the Southwest, and it is here that he gathered the materials for his best work. His work is much better known in these regions than in Rochester, for he usually set up a studio there and painted local scenes which he sold to the visitors.
Physician of Prominence Mortally Stricken When Driving His Automobile

Dr. William B. Jones, Active in Chamber of Commerce as well as in His Profession, Succumbs to Heart Attack.

Dr. William B. Jones was born in New York fifty-seven years ago and came to Rochester when a child. He lived first in Macedon, and then moved to Greece, near the city line. He attended School No. 1 and other schools before going to the University of Michigan. In 1884 he received his degree of doctor of medicine from Columbia. After obtaining his degree he moved for a year as intern at St. Peter’s Hospital, Brooklyn. Then he began to practice medicine and moved to Rochester. For a long time he was a member of the surgical staff of St. Mary’s Hospital.

Enrolled in Medical Corps

Last Wednesday Dr. Jones was mustered out of the service of the United States Medical Corps, in which he held a commission as captain. He volunteered for service as the beginning of the work, and had charge of the examination of physicians volunteering from this section.

Dr. Jones was the first president of the Rochester Medical Association and at his death was a member of its Board of Directors. He at various times held the presidency of other medical organizations. Among the medical societies with which he was connected were the Rochester Medical Association, American Medical Association, New York State Medical Society, Rochester Pathological Society, Rochester Academy of Medicine, and Monroe Medical Association.

Since 1888 Dr. Jones had been a member of the Board of Directors of the Rochester Methodist Church.

Funeral Monday Afternoon.

The funeral will take place at 3:30 o’clock tomorrow afternoon from the home of his daughter, Miss M. Elizabeth Jones. The service will be conducted by the Rev. John H. Good. The service will be at the Rochester Methodist Church.

Dr. Jones leaves his wife, Mrs. Katherine Jones; four daughters, Misses M. Elizabeth, Misses M. Elizabeth Jones, Misses M. Elizabeth Jones, Misses M. Elizabeth Jones, and Misses M. Elizabeth Jones.

Dr. Jones was a member of the Board of Directors of the Rochester Methodist Church, and a member of the Board of Directors of the Rochester Medical Association.

FUNERAL OF DR. WILLIAM B. JONES
THIS AFTERNOON

Last Services for Prominent Surgeon
Who Died Suddenly In His Automobile Saturday.

Funeral services for Dr. William B. Jones, physician and surgeon, who died suddenly Saturday afternoon, were held at 2.30 o'clock this afternoon from the home, 528 Lake avenue and were conducted by Dr. William R. Taylor, pastor of Brick Presbyterian church. The services were attended by many prominent business and professional men among them C. C. Beahan, president of the Chamber of Commerce, who represented that organization of which Dr. Jones was a prominent member, and Dr. Henry T. Williams, who represented the medical associations.

The active bearers were Dr. James W. Woodruff, Dr. John Ottowy of Charlotte, Dr. Albert Snell, Dr. Albert E. Fenger, Frederick Miller and Edward B. Miller. The honorary bearers were Dr. Frederick W. Zimmer, Dr. Charles R. Pelzer, A. C. Lambert, John Desmond, and Capt. A. Wright, who represented the Medical corps of the United States army. Burial was in Mt. Hope cemetery.

J. Jones was born in New York city fifty-seven years ago and came to Rochester when a child. He received preparatory education here he went to the University of Michigan. His degree of M. D. was received from Columbia in 1844. For a year after he settled as an intern at St. Peter's hospital, Brooklyn, then started to practice medicine and moved back to Rochester. Later he became a member of the surgical staff of St. Mary's hospital. Last Wednesday he was put out of service of the United States medical corps, having held a commission as captain. He volunteered at the beginning of hostilities on the part of the United States and had charge of the examination of physicians volunteering from this state. J. Jones, besides being an osteologist of repute, took interest in public health matters. He was a member of the Chamber of Commerce's public health and Americanization committees and, a few years ago, served as chairman of the city's Public Health committee. He was the first president of the Rochester Medical society and a member of the board of directors at the time of his death. Since 1889 he had been an elder of Brick Presbyterian church.

A various times Dr. Jones held positions in the various medical societies with which he was connected are the Rochester Medical association, American Medical association, New York State medical society, Rochester Pathological society, Rochester Academy of Medicine and Monroe Medical association.

At a meeting of the Medical society of Monroe county, the Rochester Pathological society, Rochester Academy of Medicine, the Rochester Medical association and the Rochester Hospital Medical society, last night in the Rochester Medical association building, a resolution of regret, paying a high tribute to Dr. Jones, was adopted.

Death of Long-time Leader in the W. C. T. U.

A resident of this city since she was 20 years of age and most of that time active in woman's affairs, Sarah J. Vosburgh died yesterday, aged 82 years.

There were few women better known throughout the county than this quiet, gentle, little person, fired with the zeal of reform, who spent the greater part of her sixty-two years in fighting for the temperance movement. While lying helpless on her sick bed news was brought to her that the prohibition amendment had been ratified by more than a sufficient number of states to make it operative. That she was deeply moved was shown in her feeble attempt to clasp her hands.

Nearly everybody knew and respected Sarah Vosburgh, and this is especially true of the newspaper men. For more than twenty-five years she was superintendent of press work for the Monroe county W. C. T. U., and most of the publicity pertaining to its activities she personally conveyed to the offices so that she became a familiar figure in them. All of the city editors and today they express the most kindly sentiments regarding her.

Even at odds with people in the stand she took for temperance and on other questions of welfare, she never failed to hold the respect of even her most bitter opponent. Quiet and dignified, she went about the city seeking what good she might do, saying little about herself or her personal effort in behalf of others, but always intent in doing the greatest good her abilities and energies could accomplish. Few knew of the mission school she carried on Sunday afternoons for many years in Prospect street, where she gave freely of herself in an effort to bring about the return of the erring and make easy their way to peace, but she carried on the work as diligently as she did her W. C. T. U. activities.

For all of her long residence here, she was a member of the First Methodist church, a daughter of Cornelius and Mary Lathrop Vosburgh, and a sister of W. J. Vosburgh, a pioneer drygoods dealer in Webster avenue. She married another sister, Mrs. Helen Porrer of this city, and one brother, George Vosburgh, of Hudson, Mich.

The funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at Chestnut and Court streets at 2.30 o'clock. Members of the family will be present there at 2.15 o'clock to attend the services.

TRIBUTE PAID DR. JONES
BY BRICK CHURCH SESSION

Brick Church Session met yesterday to adopt resolutions on the death of Dr. William B. Jones, who had been a member of that body for eighteen years. The resolutions paid tribute to the high character of Dr. Jones, as well as to his devotion to his family and his profession, and to his consistent interest in church work. A singularity appropriate paragraph read:

"Its great heart was unbroken and its outer cheerfulness of its nature yielded, but its inner soul, a character of extraordinary strength and a heart that always overflowed with loving kindness.

Was Among Children Who Shared in Festivities of Queen's Coronation—Took Long Journeys After She Reached Age of 80 Years

Mrs. Mary Gretton died yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. L. M. Gretton, No. 453 Flower City Park, at the age of 85 years. She had been ill about one week and apparently was not afflicted except by the failing strength of advanced age.

It was Mrs. Gretton's fortune to live in several of the world's most interesting periods. In England she saw in her childhood the events that later were Queen Victoria and in one occasion shook hands with her. She shared in festivities which the Queen gave to some of the little people in her kingdom when she was crowned. She has seen the

Kan. Long Residence of Rochester Dies in Los Angeles, Calif. 12/10

Julius M. Krausneck, long a resident of this city, died yesterday morning at his home, No. 1,525 West Forty-first Street, Los Angeles, Calif. He lived practically all his life in Rochester, removing to California six years ago to California. While here he built up an extensive home in this city and was interested in real estate. He retired from business shortly before leaving this city and spent much time in traveling. In 1903 he married Miss Cora Young, of this city, by whom he leaves. He leaves also a sister, Miss Christina Krausneck, who resides in California. Mr. Krausneck was a member of South Presbyterian Church and of Corinthian Temple Lodge, 11, and A. M.

Funeral of Henry H. Rich

The funeral of Henry H. Rich, who died on Saturday night in Clifton Springs Sanitarium, took place yesterday from the home, No. 1,541 Monroe avenue. Many friends attended the services. Rev. E. F. Hubbard, of Shagbark street, officiated.

Numerous floral tributes from intimate friends covered the casket and tables. Mrs. Lucie Davis sang "Lead, Kindly Light." The Masons conducted burial services at Mount Hope cemetery.

Mr. Rich was well known in commercial and literary circles in Western New York. He came here twenty-five years ago from Nova Scotia, where he was born. In his later years, he had been identified with the real estate business. He had been a member of the Chamber of Commerce, a charter member of the Ad Club, a member of the Whist Club and the Pinnacle Club.

He leaves his wife and a daughter, Miss Doris Rich, both of Rochester.

Mrs. Mary A. Gretton

United States take part in three wars and gives a son for one. With her memory enriched through her long life she had the ability to entertain her friends with interesting tales.

Saw Queen as a Child.

When about 12 years old, Mrs. Gretton, then Mary A. Burgess, came from England with her parents. Their former home was in Staffordshire. It was while attending school there on the estate of Lord Baggots that she first saw England's future queen. Then a young woman of less than 20 years, she visited near the school, and one day as she crossed hand on the estate the children scattered flowers in her path. She was then only niece of King George the Fourth. As she came nearer to the place the children were grouped, she shook hands with each. Not long afterwards, when she became queen, she helped entertain her court by entertaining many of the children in one of the parks, and Mary Burgess was among these little guests. Sometimes later, having the Queen's husband, Prince Al

Kate Amelia Drake died at Emporia, Kan., March 27th, at the age of 76 years. She was a daughter of Cornelius Crowley and was born in Strong street, now 51 Columbia avenue, in the old Third ward and saw Rochester first lighted by gas in 1845. Her sisters were Julia, wife of Michael McCarthy; Margaret, wife of Nelson D. Hines, and Mary, wife of John Cyrus Wilson. Her brother, Michael, served in the Civil war. In 1868 she married Irving Oliver Drake and was the mother of eight children.
Manager of Factory of Eastman Kodak Company Taken by Sudden Death

Fred W. Barnes, manager of the Hawk's Eye Works of the Eastman Kodak Company, was stricken with apoplexy in his office late yesterday afternoon, and died early last evening after being taken to his home, No. 234 Westmount road.

Mr. Barnes was born in Evans Mills in 1870. He had been connected with the Hawk-Eye Works for the past eighteen years, and since September 1, 1906, had been manager. Before becoming manager he traveled for the company and conducted a bicycle store before entering the company's employ.

It was said at his home last night that Mr. Barnes had been in ill health for some time.

Details of the funeral arrangements have not yet been completed, although it already has been decided to hold them tomorrow and that Rev. William R. Tyler, minister of the Brick Presbyterian Church, which Mr. Barnes was a member, will officiate. Burial will be made in Rochester.

Mr. Barnes was a member of the Rochester and Chamber of Commerce. He leaves his father, Randall Barnes, of Vermont; his wife, Mrs. Estelle Huntington Barnes; a daughter, Elizabeth Barnes; and an uncle, Mrs. Barnes of Syracuse.

Mr. Ely was the last survivor of five sons of the late Dr. William W. Ely, after the death in 1871 of Dr. William S. Ely, probably one of Rochester's best known and most skilful surgeons. The other sons, George, Augustine and Dr. Edward T. Ely, all died in the eighties. Besides the social prominence of the family, they were all unusually gifted, possessing unusual literary ability with high professional attainment.

Mr. Ely was born in Rochester October 19, 1846, and was the son of Dr. William W. Ely, a prominent physician and member of one of the old Third ward families who helped to build Rochester. He was graduated from the University of Rochester in the class of 1866 and from the Rochester Theological seminary in the class of 1876. In 1873 he went to Germany and spent two years in study at the University of Leipzig.

After completing his studies abroad he returned to Rochester and in June, 1876, was called to the pastorate of the Congregational church at Orange Valley, N. Y., which he held until 1883. In 1883 he was appointed pastor of First Congregational Church and had since devoted his time to preaching and literary work, broken by several periods of travel in Europe and the Far East. He was at one time on the editorial staff of The Post Express, holding the position of literary editor and conducting a depart- ment called "Spiridrift." For the past few years he had made his home in New York city where he had lived at the Murray Hill hotel.

MR. CAROLINE E. PERKINS DIES IN PALM BEACH, FLA.

Death Comes Unexpectedly to Woman Long Identified With Social Life and Charitable Work of City—Funeral Probably Tuesday, Dec. 26, 1914.

A few paragraphs from the notice of the death at her winter home, Palm Beach, Fla., of Mrs. Caroline Erickson Perkins, were received in Rochester this morning. Mrs. Perkins went to sleep on last Thursday night, apparently in perfect health, and never woke up. Her son-in-law, John Craig Powers, left Florida last night with the body. Mrs. Perkins' sons, Gilman N. Erickson Perkins, will arrive in Rochester tomorrow. It is expected that the funeral will take place on Tuesday, although no announcements have yet been made.

Mrs. Perkins' death came as a great shock to her many friends. A woman of unassuming nature, great personal charm and wide interests, she stood as one of the last of the 'grand dames,' those with that much character to Rochester's social life, which, in the old days, always possessed a background of unique distinction. Those who were privileged to be present at the Centennial Celebration of St. Luke's Episcopal Church last year will never forget the picture presented by Mrs. Perkins as wearing a wonderful costume of the fashion of years ago, she paced at a tea table in the parish house. Mrs. Perkins' many philanthropic works and her sympathy and kindness made her widely loved and her death leaves empty a place that will not soon be filled.

She was born on December 31, 1855, and was married to Gilman Hill Perkins, on July 17, 1856, in St. Luke's Episcopal Church, one of the first large weddings held in Rochester. She was a lifelong and active member of St. Luke's, being confirmed there in 1867 by Bishop Arthur Cleveland Coxe. She was married by the Rev. Benjamin Watson, rector of the church.

MRS. CAROLINE E. PERKINS.

Mrs. Perkins was the founder of the Industrial School, and at the time of her death she was its honorary president. The first meeting of the society was held at Mrs. Perkins' home in 1857, continuing to meet there for four years until it was necessary to meet in larger quarters. She was one of the founders of the City Industrial School, and for more than 60 years its recording secretary. She was second vice-president and one of the board of directors of the Deaf mute Institute. Mrs. Perkins was also an active member of the Garden Club. Mrs. Perkins leaves five children, Mrs. Thornton Jeffress and Mrs. J. Craig Powers of this city, Mrs. Van Wyck Wick of Rye, N. Y., Erickson Perkins and Gilman N. Perkins of this city, and three grandchildren, Gilman Perkins, 3d, Mrs. Erickson Perkins, 2d, and Miss Caroline Jeffress.

MRS. PERKINS LAID TO REST

Funeral Takes Place from Her Home in East Avenue—Silent Tributes.

Many friends were at the house of Mrs. Caroline Erickson Perkins yesterday afternoon at her home, No. 421 East Avenue, in Rev. Samuel Tyler, rector of St. Luke's Episcopal Church, conducted the services. Handsome floral tributes were about the casket. A greater tribute was paid to Mrs. Perkins by the presence of many delegations from the organizations to which Mrs. Perkins had been identified during the long period in which she had participated in Rochester's philanthropic activities. They represented the industrial school, the Exchange street, of which Mrs. Perkins was a founder; the Historical Society, the directors of the Western New York Institute for Deaf Mutes and other benevolent enterprises, also employees of South Park & Co.

The burial was at Mount Hope. Mrs. Perkins, who was the widow of Gilman H. Perkins, died on Friday at her winter home, Palm Beach, Fla.

MRS. CAROLINE E. PERKINS.

Mrs. Caroline E. Perkins of 421 East Avenue, widow of Gilman H. Perkins, died suddenly Thursday night at her winter home at Palm Beach, aged 88 years. She had spent all of the last winter at the residence there, which she had just completed last fall. Her two sons, Gilman N. and Erickson Perkins, had been with her all of last week, but left for New York two days before her death.

Mrs. Perkins was the daughter of the late Aaron Erickson, one of the pioneer bankers of Rochester. She was a faithful member of St. Luke's Episcopal Church and was honorary president of the Rochester Historical Society. On January 20, 1914, she had the unusual distinction of election for the 26th consecutive time as corresponding secretary of the Rochester Industrial School. She was first elected to that office in 1887 at the organization of the board of directors.

Mrs. Perkins leaves her two sons and three daughters, Mrs. John Craig Powers and Mrs. Thornton Jeffress of Rochester and Mrs. Van Wyck Wick of Rye, N. Y.

MORTUARY RECORD

Mr. Evalline Knickerbocker died suddenly Friday night at her home in Pittsfield, three days after the death of her husband, James Knickerbocker. She succumbed to an attack of heart disease, with which she had been afflicted at intervals for several years past. She had been up and about the house as usual until fifteen minutes before her death.

Mrs. Knickerbocker was born at Woodstock, Ulster County, 71 years ago, the sixth child of Mr. and Mrs. John Ransom, later of Victor. She is the last but one of the family, Mrs. Wilbur Howland of Victor the only child, surviving her. Evalline Ransom and James Monroe Knickerbocker were married nearly 60 years ago at Medina, where their former home, Mr. Wilkinson of Pittsfield, resided.

The family went to Pittsfield and took up their residence in the Knickerbocker homestead, widely known as Oak Grove Stock Farm, where they had lived continuously for many years. Mrs. Knickerbocker was long a member of Christ Episcopal Church. She leaves two sons, George R. and Harry C. Knickerbocker; four grandchildren, two granddaughters and her sister.

The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from the house, one mile east of Pittsfield. Rev. Van Ronder Gilson, pastor of Christ Episcopal Church, will conduct the service. Burial will be in Pittsfield Village Cemetery.

Resolutions Adopted M. 26, 1919
On Mrs. Perkins’ Death

The following memorial to Mrs. Caroline H. Perkins, whose funeral was held yesterday, has been adopted by the Rochester Historical Society:

Now Mrs. Gilman H. Perkins has gone. Her indomitable will and her ceaseless efforts for the welfare of her city, and her devoted love of humanity, all united to inspire her to serve her fellow men as a soldier serves his country.

Mrs. Perkins had a warm personal affection, and the respect and love of all who knew her. She was a woman of unselfishness and uncomplaining devotion.

She was the founder of the Rochester Historical Society. She was a leader in every work for the welfare of her city. She was a tower of strength to all who knew her.

Mrs. Perkins was to receive the distinction of being honored, revered, and beloved. All that a mother could be, she was.

Mrs. Perkins has won the heavenly welcome: she has lived a good and faithful servant; enter thou into the joy of thy Master.

Her presence will be greatly missed at our monthly meetings and we feel a deep sense of loss as we say farewell to her here—but far beyond us many voices crying, "Hail!"

Martin Erdle, Veteran of Civil War, and For Half a Century Prominent Rochester Meat Dealer, Dies at 85

Martin Erdle, sr., one of the most highly respected citizens of the older generation and a veteran of the Civil War, died yesterday morning at his home, 434 South Avenue, aged 85.

Mr. Erdle was born in Bavaria, Germany, in August, 1834. He came to America in 1862, and for four months was employed on a farm in Webster. On August 8, 1863, he came to Rochester, an officer in Company B, 168th New York Infantry, under General Hancock. His regiment went to the front, and for valor in much active fighting he was promoted to corporal on September 1, 1864, and to sergeant on December 15 of the same year.

Mr. Erdle was a member of the Holy Name Society of this city. He was one of the best known and most highly respected men in the congregation. He leaves three sons, Joseph and Martin Erdle, jr., and Barbara Scherlitz, who died in the hospital in 1917.

Martin Erdle, sr., was one of the foremost retail meat dealers of the Twelfth Ward, where he was the proprietor of the well-known market now conducted by his sons in South Avenue, near Gregory Street.
After Illness of Week Succumbs to Pneumonia.

HIGH IN MASONIC ORDER

In His Profession, in Motorcycling and in Politics Also was Man of Commanding Influence—Held Highest Office in Gift of Mystic Shrine

Dr. Frederick R. Smith, a leader in North American Masonry and one of the best known in the city, died of pneumonia at 9:10 o'clock yesterday morning at his home, No. 59 Pusey avenue south. Since a week ago Monday Dr. Smith has been critically ill, but death came as a crushing shock to his family and hosts of friends.

Dr. Charles N. Summer and Dr. Shadrack B. Sawy were in constant attendance and bared themselves for their fellow physician's life. They believed as late as Monday that there was a slight chance of recovery, but about 2 o'clock yesterday morning his heart failed to do the work demanded of it.

Family and Friends with Him.

Dr. Smith's wife, two daughters and brother, William C. Smith, of this city, were summoned to the bedside. They and other members of the immediate family of the physician, were with him when the end came after several hours of peaceful existence.

Telegrams were sent immediately to Elias J. Jacoby, of Indianapolis, Imperial Potentate of the Mystic Shrine of North America; to the Imperial Potentate of the Imperial Divine and to the many close friends of Dr. Smith in the Shrine. Many of these men are expected to come from various parts of America to attend the funeral which will be held from his home at a 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Many Messages Received.

Telegrams poured into Dr. Smith's home throughout the afternoon and evening. They came from prominent Shriners and thirty-third-degree Masons, many from foreign lands. They all expressed grief at the loss of the senders' friend and fellow Mason and sympathy for Mrs. Smith.

Throughout the city business and professional men gathered in little groups to speak of Dr. Smith. Tears were in many eyes. In the poorer sections of Rochester were several homes who had known the big heart and tenderness of the physician. Few deaths have affected the community more.

Funeral Thursday Afternoon.

The body will lie in state from 11 o'clock to 1 o'clock in the afternoon, The funeral services at 1 o'clock will be in charge of Rev. W. A. B. Goodwin, D.D., rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, assisted by Muskegon Lodge, F. and A. M., and A. M. At the cemetery, Mount Hope, Monroe County Cemetery, Knights Templar, will be in charge.

The honorary bearers will be William Beane, Dr. Charles H. Sponge, James T. Hendy, James H. Elms, William J. Darrow, William W. Elumb, Judge Willis K. Gillette, Corneor Thomas H. Kille, Herman W. Fierro, Judge William C. Smith, Fred H. Stapp, Charles D. Van Zandt, R. Andrew Hamilton and Jacob Messer. The active bearers will be members of the 31st degree, Monroe Commandery, Knights Templar.

DR. FREDERICK R. SMITH.

Sister and Four Brothers.

Dr. Smith married Miss Clarissa Martin, of this city, in 1894. He and three of the four brothers, Charles W. and James W. D. and Smith, of Penn Yan, William G. Smith, of Rochester and Lewis D. Smith, an attorney, of Syracuse.

Won Success and Friends.

The life of Dr. Smith was one of achievement. Ability coupled with a big, whole-hearted personality brought him success in his profession, in politics and Masonry. Few men reflect radiant good fellowship to such a warm degree as did Dr. Smith. Everyone who knew him instantly his friend, and the greatest tribute that can be paid to him is perhaps to say that the man he was the friend he became.

"A whole-souled optimist," is the way his friend described him.

It was inevitable that Dr. Smith, with his ability and remarkable leadership in good fellowship, would rise in the councils of Masonry. Through a long succession of honors he advanced to a Scottish Rite thirty-third degree and to the office of Imperial Potentate of the Mystic Shrine of North America. His home was filled with costly gifts received from Masonic bodies.

Notable Shrine Ceremonies.

When imperial potenlitate in the year 1914 Dr. Smith took part in two notable Shrine ceremonies. He was one of a party of Shriners who journeyed to Hawaii in 1915 to install Aloha Temple and incidentally to visit the crater of the volcano Kilauea. Before this Dr. Smith accompanied a Minnesota party of Shriners to Panama, where a temple was dedicated. He participated in the conferring of a Shriners degree in one of the big hotels at the Panama cham, a ceremony that attracted nation-wide attention among Masons.

Went to Alaska for Gold.

The adventurous spirit of the boy of Penn Yan caused Dr. Smith to satisfy his longing for the open spaces, hunting, fishing, outfitting and directing a mining company to operation into Alaska during the gold boom of 1908 and 1899. The expedition did not materialize into gold, but Dr. Smith had many interesting experiences and adventures.

Dr. Smith was elected to become a member of public safety in Rochester, 1912, after being a physician in the wards of the Central Library of Rochester and Monroe County, LGBTQ, Scotti

Many tributes were paid to Dr. Smith by leading men of the city. They declared his death a severe loss to Rochester.

"This community has received a great shock," said Frank E. Willings, president of the Rochester Medical Association. "Dr. Smith was a credit to his profession and his community—a fine physician and a fine man. He was one of those rare big-hearted men who go about helping the other fellow. I do not believe he had an enemy in the world. He gave his best service to patients with no thought of remuneration. He was a public-spirited man in every way, and we are all going to miss him."

"Dr. Smith was the most efficient president the Automobile Club of Rochester ever had," declared Mayor F. A. VanOrder, first vice-president of that body. "It will be difficult to fill his place. As in his profession, in Masonry, in Masonic W. W. Hillard, Judge Willis K. Gillette, Coroner Thomas H. Kemp, Herbert W. Pierce, Judge John B. M. Stephens, Fred H. Bump, Charles H. Annew Hamilton and Jacob Messmer, the active bearers will be members of the Temple Patrol and Monroe Commandery, Knights Templar, will be in charge.

Assurance has been received that Gilbert J. Jacoby of Indianapolis, imperial potentate of the Mystic Society, of which Dr. Smith was a past imperial, will assist, and it is expected that other imperial potentates will come.

The body will lie in state at the home at 11 to 1 o'clock, when opportunity will be given to view the remains.

A grand funeral will be held from 11 to 1 o'clock, when opportunity will be given to view the remains.

A telegram of condolence from the American Automobile Club of Rochester was delivered yesterday afternoon by William Bausch, Dr. Charles R. Sumner, James L. Hopkins, George W. Aldridge, C. C. Babbitt, Dr. F. E. Willings, Judge Judson Willis K. Gillette, of the city."

"We feel the loss greatly."

Reuben Goldstein, Clothing Manufacturer, Dies This Morning After Brief Illness—Body To Lie in State at Charities Building.

April 3, 1919

Reuben Goldstein, one of the most prominent and respected members of the Jewish community in Rochester, died at 5 o'clock this morning at Rochester General Hospital, following an illness of two weeks. His home was at 169 Dartmouth street.

Mr. Goldstein was born in Russian Poland in 1855, the son of Sol and Anna Goldstein. He came to the United States and to Rochester about 40 years ago. On arriving here he had no axes except his indomitable spirit, and began on the lowest rung of the ladder. His first business experience in the clothing manufacturing business was with Caron, Meyer & Company in 1889.

For the past 25 years he has been in the clothing manufacturing business for himself, his establishment being located at 104 St. Paul street, and his product is known from coast to coast.

Mr. Goldstein was one of the pioneers in all Jewish community undertakings in Rochester. He was a charter member and one of the prime organizers of the Associated Hebrew Charities of Rochester, and it was due to his efforts that the charities building at 144 Baden street was erected. This building, it is said, will stand as a monument to his endeavors.

He was one of the organizers and a charter member of Temple Beth El, Park avenue and Nielson street, and was one of the organizers and a charter member of the Leopold street synagogue. He was a member of nearly every Jewish society working for the betterment of his race, and always gave his time and money to aid any worthy cause. He was a member of the National Board of Directors of the Jewish Consumptive Society, and a member of the Knights of Pythias.

Death of Fred Albert Reynolds, Organist of Church of Ascension and Masonic Bodies.

Professor Fred Albert Reynolds, son of the late Dr. John Andrus Reynolds, died at his home, 131 St. Paul's street, at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon after a short illness. Professor Reynolds was one of the best known musicians in this section of the country. He was for years professor of music at Allegheny College in Meadville, Penn., and also at Lissa Seminary. He was widely known as a teacher, organist and pianist.

DEATHS—FUNERALS

MRS. A. M. LOWRY—April 24

Death of One of Rochester's Old-Time School Teachers.

Mrs. Anna M. Lowry who died at her home in Pinnacle road, April 24th, was one of the oldest residents of this city. She was for many years a teacher in the public schools, being principal of School 7 from January, 1884, until June, 1894. As a teacher she exerted a great influence upon her pupils in whom she always retained an active interest.

For several years she was a member of the astronomical section of the Academy of Science, and derived much pleasure from the observation of the stars through a small telescope which she gladly shared with others interested in the same study.

A genuine book lover, Mrs. Lowry maintained a keen interest in literature and current events during her long illness; her accurate memory, and vivid characterization made her recollections of earlier days interesting.

In her earlier years she was a frequent contributor to the "Poets Corner" of the newspapers and her magazine articles were of recognized merit.

Possessed of a generous disposition, Mrs. Lowry relished in kindly acts; in her charities, unconditionally bestowed, she will be remembered gratefully by friends and neighbors. She was formerly identified with the First Presbyterian church, but since 1872 has been a member of the Third Presbyterian church.
INCREASED BUSINESS ACTIVITIES AND OVERWORK CAUSE HOWARD W. CLARK TO END LIFE BY CHLOROFORMING SELF

JULY 28, 1919

In a letter to the Rochester Free Academy, the principal, Mr. Howard W. Clark, describes his struggle with overwork and the impact it had on his life.

Mr. Clark was born in Cleveland, Ohio, in 1837, and came to this city four years later. He was educated in the public schools of the city and at the Rochester Free Academy. He entered Cornell University, where he pursued his studies until his junior year, when the need of his services in July to help his father's business was so urgent that he left Cornell and took up the work which continued actively to occupy him up to the time of his death.

The economic problems of the day deeply interested Mr. Clark. He believed that public discussion would help familiarize the people with the problems and help solving them. He was always ready to state and maintain his views but was always willing to learn from others.

In business affairs he was possessed of sound judgment and this, combined with energetic application to his work and a desire to be just and fair to all, brought to him marked success.

Many Acts of Kindness:

Mr. Clark in private life was a loyal friend and one who did many acts of kindness. To many he gave the impression of being poorly paid for the work he did. He was always interested in young people and children and carried out many plans for their welfare. He was especially thoughtful of his sisters. His courteous and his kindness, to them were many and took much of his time, but made them feel that it was only a pleasure to him.

In religion, Mr. Clark was a Unitarian and believed with all his heart that service to one's fellows was a necessary part of his religion. He took a deep interest in the social work of the church and was closely identified with the Boys' Evening Home. He also was active in the movement for the erection of the Garratt House and enlarging the circle of activities carried on there.

Mr. Clark was prominent in many activities of the city, and was a devotee of the City Club, as well as of the Open Forum. Last Sunday he began a series of talks or debates with a follower of the Socialist party on the topic, "Capital and Labor," defending the capitalistic side. He was to have presented the second part of his argument yesterday.

Socialists of Rochester had great admiration for Mr. Clark's conscientiousness in coming out and defending the side of which he claimed to be a part, and last evening expressed their regret that the friendly discussions were unable to be continued at the weekly gatherings.

Mr. Clark is survived by his father, William N. Clark; a brother, Frank E. Clark; two sisters, Mabel A. Clark and Helen C. Spencer, and his aunt, Rosamond S. Starke. The funeral will be held from the residence to-morrow morning.

HOWARD W. CLARK.

DEATH OF MISS ALICE PERRY
Principal of No. 15 School Passes Away at Her Home
JULY 26, 1919

Miss Alice M. Perry, principal of No. 15 School in Monroe Avenue, as a teacher of the eighth grade and acted in that capacity for forty years. She served under three superintendents of the school, all of whom were principals of No. 15 School. She had been principal for the last three years and for many years previous was assistant principal.

Miss Perry was a lifelong member of Brick Church. She leaves two brothers, Charles Perry, of Rochester, and William Perry, of Greenfield, Mass.; four nieces and four nephews.

The funeral will take place from the home, Thursday at 4 o'clock. Obituaries for Miss Perry, No. 15 School will be closed during the afternoon.
Mr. Wilson died at 9.30 o'clock yesterday morning. A few days after celebrating his birthday on March 21 he suffered a fall in which ribs were fractured. The shock was naturally severe to a person of his advanced years and brought about his final illness.

His course well run, the allotted three-score and ten years long since past, the widespread sorrow in the passage of the venerable citizen will be softened by joy in the splendid example of his longevity, for it was not remarkable that he died, but that he had lived so long. His life for the last ten years, exceptional not alone in its duration, but especially in its unusual vigour, has been the subject of numerous sketches and by a full history of his life, read on the occasion of his one-hundredth birthday, when he was the guest of the Rochester Historical Society at a public meeting in the auditorium Strong Hall of the University of Rochester. He was made an honorary member.

Ever-Increasing Interest.

Each birthday for years has been an occasion of ever-increasing interest and has been marked by paying of tribute in person by groups of representative citizens, headed by the Mayor. Many others came from far and near, or conveyed their respects by wire or letter. The historical society has been especially active in settling forth, as each milestone was passed, the deep significance of a life that stood out as such a shining example and was as well such a fertile source of first-hand historical facts.

He had grown up with the city, had rounded out but three years short of a century as one of its citizens, had retained until virtually the end the full use of his faculties. On the occasion of his 104th birthday, his mind still keen, he had been able to give by word of mouth rare pictures of the life in this community, that antedated the digging in Rochester of the Erie Canal. He was a source of history that was vital, living. He gave the reminiscences of one who had been there and seen, the human touch was there, the like of which the printed page can but attempt to duplicate.

Enjoyed His Smoke.

The example of the life of John S. Wilson runs a bit across the grain of the oft-accepted truism of Arbutnot, who said: "The instances of longevity are chiefly among the abstemious," although it may be held that the many virtues of the rugged pioneer offset his indulgence in his daily smoke. He was found, however, on the occasion of his 104th birthday, March 21 past,—the event that inspired the most recent story of his life—enjoying at 9 o'clock in the morning—an excellent cigar brought to him by a neighbor. Like Mark Twain, he used to say, "I only smoke once a day and that's all day long." But chiefly of that occasion is recalled that he arose bright as a dollar and happy as a schoolboy ready to celebrate his birthday. He allowed himself but one little nap that day, declaring that naps were for the old and infirm.

The day was passed with his children and grandchildren gathered about him and he was honored by a visit, as usual of officers of the Rochester Historical Society, who presented him a bouquet. There was a dinner at 6 o'clock, and the table was

JOHN S. WILSON DIES AT AGE OF 104 YEARS

Old Resident of Rochester Victim of Accident Which Occurred Shortly After His Last Birthday — Knew First Mayor

Tues., Jan. 15, 1919

Mr. Wilson came to Rochester with his parents in 1832, when he was seven years of age, and the family lived in a log cabin in what is now the Third Ward. He remembered the personal appearance of Colonel Nathaniel Rochester, Jonathan Child, the first mayor of Rochester, and other men and women who are but historical figures in the minds of the Rochesterian of today. He could also picture in detail the scenes which attended the opening of the Erie canal, the visits of Lafayette and Daniel Webster and of Lincoln to Rochester.

Mr. Wilson was a life-long member of the Republican party and he not only voted at the last election, but took his granddaughter to cast her first ballot, a fact of which he was very proud.

Mr. Wilson is survived by his daughter, Mrs. Ely, who has cared for him during his later years; a son, Herbert J. Wilson; six grandchildren, Mrs. A. J. Duffecner, Mrs. E. E. Bol ler, Mrs. J. E. Millard, Herbert B. Wilson and Katherine H. Wilson of this city, and John W. Ely of Presque, N. J., and other relatives.

Arrangements for the funeral will be announced later.

JOHN SYLVESTER WILSON

Ridgeway avenue, this morning, following an illness which resulted from an accident occurring about three weeks in which he fractured a number of ribs.

Mr. Wilson was born in Pittsburgh, Mass., on March 21, 1815, and therefore lived nearly a month over 104 years. At his last birthday he was in his usual good health and received visits from many friends and a flood of letters and telegrams of congratulation from those who were not able to call upon him in person. His kindly and cheerful disposition, and his old-time candor and fairness won the esteem of all with whom he came even casually in contact.

The plans for future days take up the task of writing an adequate history of Rochester will owe much to the reminiscences of Mr. Wilson which were gathered by members of the Rochester Historical Society in the course of conversations held with him during the course of conversations held with him during his 100th birthday. These reminiscences were prepared in manuscript form and were read at the centennial celebration held for Mr. Wilson by the Historical Society. They are now filed in the archives of the society.

MARI A K. HOSKINS
Descendant of Old American Family

May 19, 1919

Maria K. Hoskins, widow of Samuel P. Hoskins died Thursday at her home in Perry, N.Y., aged 96 years. She was the daughter of William Elliott, and the granddaughter of George Elliott, a Continental soldier who saw long service in the Revolution.

Her first husband was Alanson King, who died in 1884. Their oldest son, William E., was killed in the battle of Cedar Creek, Virginia, in the Civil War. Four other children survive; Mrs. Julia King Parker, Forest Plain, N. Y., Mrs. Flora K. Westlake of Perry, N. Y., with whom Mrs. Hoskins made her home; Dr. Myron A. King of Rochester; and George C. King, who is connected with the job printing department of The Post Express.

Her second husband was Samuel P. Hoskins, who was married in 1894 and who died several years ago.

Mrs. Hoskins was always deeply interested in current events and questions of the day, and retained her mental faculties to a remarkable degree to the last.

Funeral of Charles E. Van Laer

There was a large attendance of friends and former pupils at the funeral of Charles E. van Laer, which took place Tuesday afternoon at his late residence on 1608 South Avenue. The service was conducted by Rev. Dr. Franklin F. Fry, pastor of Evangelical Lutheran Church of the Reformation.

The bearers were Richard Lansing, W. H. Readman, W. M. Wilson, F. H. Golter, William S. Johnson and Ludwig Schoeneck. Burial was in Mt. Hope Cemetery.
Hundreds Pay Honor To Memory Of Dead Motorcycle Policeman

SERVICES AT ST. MONICA'S CHURCH TODAY

Prominent City Officials Attend Funeral of Officer O'Brien, Who Was Killed in Performance of His Duty.

This morning at 9 o'clock at St. Monica's Church, Genesee street, solemn requiem high mass was celebrated for Motorcycle Policeman William A. O'Brien of the University avenue precinct station, who was slain last Friday evening while in the discharge of his duty.

The church was crowded with city officials, friends of the dead man, policemen from every precinct in the city, and members of the Rochester Fire Department, with whom the policeman had served before joining the city police force. Among the prominent citizens who were present were George W. Aldridge, R. Andrew Hamilton, commissioner of public safety, and Herbert W. Pierce, commissioner of public works. Chief of Police Quigley and Deputy Chief Zimmerman headed the delegation from the Police Department, and a guard of honor consisting of two platoons of policemen, made up largely from members of the Third Precinct, headed by Captain Jacob Klein, accompanied the casket from the O'Brien home to the church.

The following policemen acted as bearers: Harold J. Burns, Leo F. Rizzau, Frank X. Hughes, Michael J. Devaney, Frank W. Masterson and Robert H. Strong. A corps of honorary bearers from the city Fire Department was made up largely from members of the Third Precinct, headed by Captain Jacob Klein, accompanied the casket from the O'Brien home to the church.

A corps of honorary bearers from the city Fire Department was made up largely from members of the Third Precinct, headed by Captain Jacob Klein, accompanied the casket from the O'Brien home to the church.

As the long procession entered the church the organ broke into the strains of Chopin's funeral march, and when the church had filled the offices of the solemn high requiem mass were begun. The services were marked with an impressive simplicity, and a single choir selection was sung by Mrs. Frank Cunningham and Mrs. Edward Walsh. The officers of the mass were the Rev. John P. Brophy, celebrant; the Rev. Francis T. Moffett, deacon; and the Rev. Raymond Quigley, sub-deacon; there were three visiting priests present, the Rev. T. F. Conners of the Blessed Sacrament Church, the Rev. William Kilaclecy also of the Blessed Sacrament, and the Rev. Victor Hurley of Henrietta.

In the funeral procession a place of honor was given to a little group of football players from the Jefferson team, with whom the dead policeman had played a brilliant game for many seasons, and the street outside the church was lined with people who had known O'Brien from his boyhood, and had gathered to do honor to the man who had lived bravely and died heroically. The many floral offerings were taken from the home to the grave site.

Actress Killed in Automobile Accident Was Native of Rochester and Distinguished in Vaudeville

May 11, 1918

The death of Mrs. Paul Petching, who was killed on the night of April 26 in a collision between two motor 'buses near Camp Merritt, N. J., and whose funeral took place from the home of Elmer E. Fairchild in this city yesterday, came as a distinct shock to her hundreds of friends in the theatrical profession. Mrs. Petching, who at the time of her death was engaged with her husband in the act known as "The Musical Flower Garden," had been for ten years an established favorite with vaudeville audiences in all parts of the country. Gifted with a striking personality and the ability to win genuine friendship, her career had been decidedly successful.

The original "Musical Flower Garden" was developed by the Petching Brothers, Emil and Paul, and was well known to the managers on all vaudeville circuits.

It was thirty years ago that Paul Petching first began producing musical acts for the variety stage, and, before he had been long in the business, he was joined by his brother, Emil. The brothers worked up an act that combined musical novelties and comedy, and met with marked success.

Home in Rochester

Ten years ago, however, other interests led them to dissolve their partnership, and Mrs. Petching, whose maiden name was Miss Minnie Webb and whose home was in Rochester, was able to step in and take the place left vacant by Mr. Petching's brother. She had married Mr. Petching some years before, and had been traveling with the act for a considerable time.

Mr. and Mrs. Petching had been playing at the camps for the soldiers and sailors for a week or two previous to the accident. They were at Camp Merritt fulfilling an engagement on the night of April 26 and had boarded one of the motor 'buses that carried passengers to and from the camp. The bus was traveling at high speed when a head-on collision occurred with another 'bus equally heavy, and all passengers on both buses that met with considerable success and which was purchased by the Post Express. He later employed the advertising department of the Post Express. Subsequently he accepted a position with the Horraily Omnibus Company of Buffalo, for which firm she served with signal success during the course of its reorganization.

Mr. Petching's next connection was as advertising manager of the grind Company of Rochester. In this capacity he attained further business prestige and was credited with a large part in placing the company in its present notable place in the business world. Mr. Petching had made a conspicuous name for himself throughout the Eastern states and was sought by several well-known national manufacturing concerns. He spent much of his time in New York and finally went to Geneva to take over the active direction of the National Wire Wheel Company, which business he developed to a small beginning to a nationally known business.

Mr. Petching leaves his wife, Mrs. Edythe M. Petching; his father and mother; two brothers, Laurence and Edwin, both of Rochester and Glenn J. Page of Geneva, and three sisters, Mrs. C. C. Rodenberg of Rochester, Mrs. William A. Miller of Elmira; Elmira Park, Pa., and Mrs. Vondra Smith Anderson of Pascoke, N. Y. Mr. Petching was a member of Christ Protestant Episcopal Church of Rochester.

The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock from his late home, 85 South Main Street, Geneva. Burial will be made in Mt. Hope Cemetery, Rochester, at 4 o'clock of the same afternoon.

DEATHS—FUNERALS

Ralph Pendlebury.

Civil War Veteran and Retired Fireman.

March 10, 1919

Ralph Pendlebury, for twenty years a member of the fire department, died yesterday at his home, 645 Seward street, aged 85 years. He was born in Manchester, England, and came to America and settled in Rochester at the age of 16 years.

At the outbreak of the Civil war he enlisted in the 13th Infantry, with which he served for two years. Returning home when discharged, he immediately re-enlisted in the 21st Cavalry and served in that regiment until the end of the war.

Mr. Pendlebury later became a member of the fire department and remained there until he was for some time connected with the Fire Extinguisher company in Front street. He was promoted to the rank of captain and assigned to Engine company 7 in Plymouth avenue. After twenty years' service he retired.

He leaves his wife and two daughters, Mrs. Selie Friedenwald, of Scranton, Pa., and Mrs. Edythe M. Petching.

MORTUARY RECORD

Wallace W. Page.

Funeral of Wallace W. Page.

The funeral services for Wallace W. Page, which were held Friday afternoon from Trinity Episcopal Church, Geneva, were attended by a large number of his former business associates and other representative citizens. The remains were brought to Rochester and were buried in Mt. Hope Cemetery.

A funeral service was held at the Geneva Armory by former employers and employees of Mr. Page, which marched to the church where the body was borne by a column. Floral tributes were received from his late business associates and friends from all sections of the country. The services were conducted by Rev. W. L. Davis, dean of the diocese and uncle of the deceased, assisted by Rev. Dr. David Lincoln Dorsey, rector of Christ Church.

The bearers were Harry Tarbell, Morton Mayer, Richard Ritter, Herbert Foss, John C. Cumpston, and Clarence Black. The honorary bearers were Dan Miller, H. Lynn Hoyt, Paul Henry, Walter Althouse, et al. James J. Fair of the Genoa Cutlery Company; P. D. Dean of New York City; and P. D. Dean of New York City.
Louis L. Williams, founder of the school which afterward became the Rochester Business Institute, and for 40 years one of the leading business educators in the country, died yesterday at his home at 24 E. Meigs street, aged 77 years.

Mr. Williams was born on July 14, 1841, in Livonia, Livingston county, a son of Mason and Wealthy Green Williams. Many prominent business men of this city had their training at his hands. His career began in 1861, when he was invited by the faculty of the seminary at Dansville to give a course of lessons in penmanship in that village. In the following September he was called to teach in the school at Buffalo, by which he was graduated in 1863.

He formed a partnership with H. E. Bryant and H. D. Stratton in June, 1866, to manage the school known as the Bryant, Stratton and Chapman College of Rochester, the name of which, in August of the same year, was changed to the Bryant, Stratton and Williams College. At that time the school was quartered in the Baker and Durand Building, at Main and Finley streets, where the Duffie-Powers Building now stands. In 1875 the school changed hands again, Mr. Williams becoming associated with F. E. Rogers and the name being changed to the Rochester Business University. Quar ters were taken in the Masonic Hall Building which stood where the Wilder Building is now; later, the school was removed to the Field Building at State and Market streets. In 1888 the top floors of the Y. M. C. A. Building at South Avenue and Court

The institution was incorporated in 1886 under the name of Williams and Rogers Business Institute, with Mr. Williams as president and Mr. Rogers as vice-president. The school later passed to the present control, when it became known as the Rochester Business Institute.

In 1881 the firm began publishing technical textbooks. In 1900 this business was sold to the American Book Company with depositories in 14 of the largest cities in the country.

A few years later Mr. Williams retired from active business life until 1912-1913 when he founded the L. L. Williams Commercial School. Three years this new school had grown so that he contemplated enlarging its quarters in the American Book Company Building, Church street, when failing health made it necessary for him to retire again and to sever his connection with the school.

Mr. Williams leaves his wife, Sarah Gilman Williams; two sons, Herbert G. Williams and Theodore L. Williams of Minneapolis, Minn., and two grandchildren, Herbert Gilman Williams, Jr., and Marion Sarah Williams. The funeral will take place tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock from the home of his son, Herbert G. Williams, 267 Dartmouth street.

The Rev. C. Walden Cherry, pastor of Central Presbyterian Church, of which Mr. Williams had been a trustee for 30 years, will officiate. The honorary bearers will be F. E. Rogers, P. V. Coots, F. M. Ellery, William A. Hubbard, Jr., Thomas Dranfield, J. A. Seel, I. H. Dewey and Charles S. Hastings. The active bearers will be H. B. Miller, H. B. Hayes, Dr. E. F. Lewis, Walter Williams, Arthur G. Pryor and Dr. H. H. Baker. Interment will be made in Mt. Hope Cemetery.

He formed a partnership with H. E. Bryant and H. D. Stratton in June, 1866, to manage the school known as the Bryant, Stratton and Chapman College of Rochester, the name of which, in August of the same year, was changed to the Bryant, Stratton and Williams College. At that time the school was quartered in the Baker and Durand Building, at Main and Finley streets, where the Duffie-Powers Building now stands. In 1875 the school changed hands again, Mr. Williams becoming associated with F. E. Rogers and the name being changed to the Rochester Business University. Quar ters were taken in the Masonic Hall Building which stood where the Wilder Building is now; later, the school was removed to the Field Building at State and Market streets. In 1888 the top floors of the Y. M. C. A. Building at South Avenue and Court

The institution was incorporated in 1886 under the name of Williams and Rogers Business Institute, with Mr. Williams as president and Mr. Rogers as vice-president. The school later passed to the present control, when it became known as the Rochester Business Institute.

In 1881 the firm began publishing technical textbooks. In 1900 this business was sold to the American Book Company with depositories in 14 of the largest cities in the country.

A few years later Mr. Williams retired from active business life until 1912-1913 when he founded the L. L. Williams Commercial School. Three years this new school had grown so that he contemplated enlarging its quarters in the American Book Company Building, Church street, when failing health made it necessary for him to retire again and to sever his connection with the school.

Mr. Williams leaves his wife, Sarah Gilman Williams; two sons, Herbert G. Williams and Theodore L. Williams of Minneapolis, Minn., and two grandchildren, Herbert Gilman Williams, Jr., and Marion Sarah Williams. The funeral will take place tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock from the home of his son, Herbert G. Williams, 267 Dartmouth street.

The Rev. C. Walden Cherry, pastor of Central Presbyterian Church, of which Mr. Williams had been a trustee for 30 years, will officiate. The honorary bearers will be F. E. Rogers, P. V. Coots, F. M. Ellery, William A. Hubbard, Jr., Thomas Dranfield, J. A. Seel, I. H. Dewey and Charles S. Hastings. The active bearers will be H. B. Miller, H. B. Hayes, Dr. E. F. Lewis, Walter Williams, Arthur G. Pryor and Dr. H. H. Baker. Interment will be made in Mt. Hope Cemetery.

Louis L. Williams was born on July 14, 1841, in Livonia, Livingston county, a son of Mason and Wealthy Green Williams. Many prominent business men of this city had their training at his hands. His career began in 1861, when he was invited by the faculty of the seminary at Dansville to give a course of lessons in penmanship in that village. In the following September he was called to teach in the school at Buffalo, by which he was graduated in 1863.

DEATHS—FUNERALS

MISS ANGELINA S. MUMFORD.

Death of Old Resident Prominent in Charitable Work.

Miss Angelina S. Mumford, for many years a leading figure in religious and charitable work, died this morning after a long period of precarious health in her home, the Pilars, 37 South Washington street.

Miss Mumford was a descendant of one of Rochester's oldest and well-known families. She was born August 30, 1835, the daughter of William Mumford. Her brother, George Mumford, was a prominent lawyer and business man and for years president of Merchants' bank. From 1876 to 1914 she was a member of the board of managers of General hospital and since then a honorary member. From 1851 to 1898 she was president of the board and to her efforts is due in a large measure the extension and success of its activities.

Miss Mumford was at the time of her death the oldest member of First Presbyterian Church. Previously she had attended the Church of the Epiphany. She had a large circle of friends among the older residents all of whom speak in the highest terms of her remarkable ability and her unselfish work along altruistic lines. She leaves four nephews, William, George, Norman and Phillip Mumford.

MORTUARY RECORD

George W. Bacon, 1919

George W. Bacon, a well known photographer of the past generation, died yesterday morning, aged 82 years. He leaves his wife, Mrs. Lilby S. Bacon; one daughter, Mrs. Roy Crouwell, and one sister, Mrs. James Sommerville.

Mr. Bacon was born in Rochester on November 4, 1837, and was associated with his father, Franklin M. Bacon, at the old Bank Building for a number of years. He retired from business in 1898, and had been a resident of the Fourteenth Ward for the past seventeen years.

The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock from the family residence at 88 Monroe Avenue. Burial will be in Mt. Hope Cemetery.
A. B. LAMBERTON
IS DEAD AT 80

Gave Years of His Time To Unbuilding of City's Parks.

WAS A NATIVE OF IRELAND

Had Been in Falling Health Recently, but Friends Did Not Expect Death.

Alexander B. Lamberton, former president of the old Park Board and later Park Commissioner, died yesterday at his home, East Avenue and Oxford Street, aged 80 years. Although he had been in failing health for some time, his death came as a shock to his many friends, many of whom did not know that his condition was serious.

Alexander B. Lamberton was born at Rich Hill, County Armagh, Ireland, February 3, 1840, records dating back to the 10th Century show that the family was of French descent, and later records give an account of three brothers who migrated from Scotland and settled in the north of Ireland in 1666. His father was Alexander Lamberton, his grandfather, William Lamberton, with eight sons came to America in 1830, but Friends did not know that his condition was serious.

Mr. Lamberton was appointed the first park commissioner of Rochester by Mayor Edgerton, March 8, 1901, and served in that capacity until February 7, 1918, when he retired to private life. Feeling that the burden of office was too heavy for a man of his years. He was succeeded by William S. Riley.

Mr. Lamberton leaves two daughters and one stepdaughter. They are, Mrs. Charles N. Hume, Park Avenue, and Miss Helen Hume, with whom he lived at 247 East Avenue.

MANY OFFICIALS ATTEND FUNERAL

Services for Alexander B. Lamberton Held This Morning From His Home Interment in Mt. Hope Cemetery.

The funeral of Alexander B. Lamberton was held this morning at 10:10 o'clock from his late home, 727 East Avenue. Services were conducted by the Rev. C. Waldo Cherry, pastor of Central Presbyterian Church. The funeral was attended by a number of officials. Among them were: Mayor Morris H. Edgerton; president of the Common Council, William W. Hibbard; Republican state committeeman, George W. Aldridge; superintendent of the city parks, Calvin G. Lane; foreman of park laborers, Patrick Slavin; Bernard Shively of the City Department; Henry D. Brown, engineer in the Park Department; William S. Riley, park commissioner; Gertrude Bell, office manager of the Park Department, and a number of others.

Burial was private. Interment was in Mt. Hope Cemetery.

The Board of Trustees of the Rochester Chamber of Commerce met at noon yesterday, and took action on the death of Alexander B. Lamberton who had served the chamber as its president in 1914, and before that date until the time of his death was a member of the Board of Trustees. The resolution was drafted by a committee consisting of G. W. Thayer, Granger A. Hollister and Clinton Rogers, three former presidents. They also will form a committee to represent the chamber at the funeral this morning.
E. H. SHERWOOD OF HIGH RANK AS MUSICIAN, DEAD

Made Distinguished Name for Himself as Composer.
June 3, 1919
LONG ROCHESTER RESIDENT

Most of His Life Since Close of Civil War, in Which He Served, Spent in This City—Ailing for Last Five Years of His Life—Leaves Wife

wood, widely known as a musician and composer, died at his home at No. 360 Gregory street, after an illness of five weeks. It was only for the past six months that he had been seriously ill.

Among the piano works that brought renown to Mr. Sherwood were "Grand March" (Op. 1), "Polonaise" (A minor, and later, concert movements). A number of artists have been using his later compositions.

Mr. Sherwood was born in Lyons on January 29, 1845, a son of the late Lyman Sherwood, who was one of the leading lawyers of Western New York, held the office of judge and surrogate of Wayne county for several terms, and served in the state Senate. The musician at his father's side was a descendant of the Earl of Huntingdon of Nottinghamshire, England.

Played Violin When a Child.

The first instrument chosen by Mr.
Sherwood was the violin. At 4 years he accompanied his brother, Rev. L. H.
Sherwood, father of William H. Sherwood, who became one of the foremost philantropists of America at the homes of acquaintances. The father of the future musician and composer did not look favorably upon his musical career for his son, and chose him for the medical profession. In 1861 Edgar Sherwood was in the common school in Lyons.

In 1862 Mr. Sherwood enlisted in an infantry unit, and he served in the Civil War until the armistice ended in 1865.

He returned home about a month after his father's surviving parent, had died.

He then deviated music as a career and began a course of study in piano playing and the theory of music. He began as a teacher in a seminary in DuBois, where he as once made friends and had marked success.

Composer Patriotic Songs.

Mr. Sherwood some years ago received from Louis P. Gillis, of Lima, Ohio, commissioned music of the American Veterans Union, a commission as national director of the organization with the rank of colonel. Mr. Sherwood was the author of a number of popular songs, among them "We Loved that Dear Old Flag," and "Comrades All," as well as a much published "Viet Vegarian," which was often played by the famous Gilmore Band.

The capabilities of the musician and composer as an instructor obtained for him prominence in the musical circles of various cities. His written works will live long.

Mr. Sherwood came to Rochester soon after his return from the war, and except for twelve years spent in Chicago and New York had lived here since. He leaves his wife, Mrs. Mary A. Sherwood, and three children of Lyons. He was a member of Boomers Post, G. A.

Up to last evening no arrangements had been made for the funeral. Mrs. Sherwood made a request that no flowers be sent to the home.

EDGAR H. SHERWOOD.

Final Tribute Paid By Friends
To Mrs. Tatlock

Funeral services over the remains of Mrs. Clara Josephine Tatlock, wife of Harry A. Tatlock were held yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Corn Hill M. E. Church which was well filled with sorrowing friends and relatives of the deceased. Mrs. Tatlock died late Saturday afternoon, May 21, 1919, aged 43 years. For several weeks she had been a patient sufferer from an incurable condition and for more than a week her life had taken no nourishment.

Her son, Carlton B., had returned from overseas duty only a few weeks ago but was still at Camp Stewart.

Efforts were made to secure his discharge so he could go to the bedside of his mother but the release came too late and he did not reach Rochest till Sunday.

Mrs. Tatlock was an active worker in the Corn Hill Church and by her service for others, her devotion to her family and her fine Christian character had a legion of friends.
The esteem in which she was held was manifested by an unusual number of floral tributes.

The funeral services were conducted by the Rev. E. P. Hubbell and the Rev. James F. Bisgrove, pastor of the church. Interment was in the family lot in Riverside Cemetery.

Besides her husband she leaves one son, Carlton B. and Harry Russell Tatlock; her mother Mrs. E. P.
Baker, all of 45 Shelter Street; three brothers, F. S. Baker, of Gilroy, Pa.;
John W. Baker, of Ithaca, N. Y. and George W. Baker of Boston, Mass.

WORLD FAMOUS

COMPOSER, DEAD

Distinguished Rochester Musician and Veteran of Civil War Won National Reputation.

January 9, 1919

Edgar H. Sherwood, a Rochester musician and composer, who had been a prominent figure in the music world since the Civil War, and who gained national recognition from his original compositions, died last night in his home, 364 Gregory street. Although in poor health for the past five years, it was only for six weeks that he had been seriously ill. Mr. Sherwood was a veteran of the Civil War and took a leading part in the activities of veterans. In 1891 he was appointed national music director of the Union Veterans union, with the rank of colonel.

Mr. Sherwood was born in Lyons on January 25, 1846, a son of Lymar Sherwood, who was one of the leading lawyers of Western New York, held the office of judge and surrogate of Wayne county for several terms and served in the state senate. On his mother's side he was a descendant of the Earl of Huntington, Nottinghamshire.

At the early age of four years he played the violin and often accompanied his brother, Rev. L. H. Sherwood, father of William H. Sherwood, who was one of the foremost piano players in the United States. Yielding to the wish of his father, who did not look favorably upon a musical career for him, Mr. Sherwood took up the study of law and in 1866 was in a physician's office in Lyons. In 1862 he enlisted as a musician in Company C, 150th New York Infantry and served with the organization until the close of the war. He became a member of C. J. Powers Post.

On returning home he decided that music was to be his vocation and he commenced a course of study in piano playing and the theory of music. He began as a teacher in a school in Danville, where he had many Mellyeng friends, and achieved considerable success. Vigorously carrying on his chosen work, he reached the concert stage rapidly. He soon made a reputation as a composer, and successes followed rapidly. His works for the piano were marked by grace and expressiveness.

Among his most popular works are "The Dreamer," a march composed as an elegy on Gottschalk; "The Sun and the Fountain," two symphonies in B-flat and A minor; "Grand Minuet in a flat: Souvenir de Montmorency," "Aumone," "L'Heraux Retour," a grand concert duet; "Footsteps in the Snow," "No Black for Mr.," "War Veteran's March," a composition of splendid force and spirit, and many other instrumental and vocal works, nearly all of which were selected favorites on concert programmes.

Many of Mr. Sherwood's pupils later became famous in their professions. Mrs. Barton S. Chase, of Chicago, who did the title of the "American Sembrich." Professor George E. Fish, of this city, organist of the Lake Avenue Baptist church, is another of his pupils. Mrs. A.H. Spencer was later director of piano in Toledo conservatory. Letters of appreciation and congratulations from many distinguished musicians testify to the high quality of Mr. Sherwood's talent and the enduring worth of his compositions.

For twelve years Mr. Sherwood lived in Chicago, where he was editor of a musical and social journal, and where he also conducted classes in music. Subsequently he lived in New York for some time, but he returned to Rochester, where he had lived since the close of the war. Mr. Sherwood leaves his wife, Mary Sherwood, and three nieces in Lyons.

Daniel Blossom Hoyt.

Daniel Blossom Hoyt died yesterday afternoon at his home, 6 Birch crescent, aged 57 years. He is survived by his wife, Katheryn W. Hoyt, and a daughter, Emily H. Hoyt.

Mr. Hoyt probably was the second oldest living descendant of the Brighdon family, his great-grandfather, Levi Hoyt, and his great-great-grandfather, Thankful Blossom Hoyt, having migrated to this section in the War of 1812, building a log cabin on the site of the present Winton road and Hoyt place. The latter street still bears his name and leads to the Brighdon Cemetery, where his ancestors are buried.

widely known as a commercial traveler, Mr. Hoyt for 35 years visited the large cities throughout the eastern, northern and southern states. The funeral will take place from the home, 6 Birch crescent, the Rev. Paul Moore Strayer officiating at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Burial will be made in Brighton Cemetery, beside his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hoyt.

KATHRYN MACKENZIE HOYT.

Widow of Old Resident Dies Day After Husband's Funeral, 1919

One day after the funeral of her husband, Daniel Blossom Hoyt, who died Friday, Kathryn Mackenzie Hoyt died in her home, 5 Birch crescent, yesterday. She leaves a daughter, Emily H. Hoyt, and two sons, Mr. A. H. Case of Rochester and Mrs. K. A. MacVean of Caledonia.

The funeral will be held from her home tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. Burial will be in the family lot in Brighton Cemetery.

IS LAID TO REST NEAR SCENES OF HIS EARLY LIFE

The funeral of Lovaso Field, former well known resident of Rochester, who died last Friday in Columbus, Ohio, took place yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock from the home at 43 South Goodman Street, in charge of Rev. C. Waldo Cherry, pastor of Central Presbyterian Church. Honorary bearers were Thomas Dranfield, F. M. Elley, W. A. Hubbard, P. V. Credentien, Valentine F. Whitmore, W. J. Fuller, J. Stuart Pago, Robert Tait, F. E. Miller, J. R. Childs, and this organization, all of Rochester, and George H. Graham of Buffalo. Burial will be made at Corning. Mr. Field's former home, to-day.

Mr. Field was born at Stillwater, N. Y., May 25, 1849, the son of John R. and Henrietta Roy Field. Ten years later the family moved to Chemung, N. Y., where he attended the district school. He later completed his schooling at the Binghamton Business College, where, upon graduation, he became a member of the faculty. Leaving there after a short term of service, he entered the employ of the Western Union Telegraph Company, working successively in the Chemung, Painted Post, Canastota and Corning offices. He became manager of the Corning office in the year 1869, at the age of 26 years. He was engaged by the First National Bank of Hornellsville in the fall of 1871, and within a short time became its cashier.

On January 6, 1874, he was married to Alice B. V. Hearne, daughter of the late John and Nancy Travis Hearne of Hornellsville, and established a home at Hornellsville. Returning to Corning in 1875 he entered business with his father-in-law, operating a steam grist mill, a business which he conducted in its line. In 1883 he became a partner in the firm of Clague, Wegman, Schlitch & Field. Incidental to the formation of this firm, Mr. Field went to Chicago and purchased the original Shannon file patent from its inventor. It is to be noted that the file for many years was accepted as an efficient device and was adopted by the government at Washington as such.

It was in Rochester in 1884 that Mr. Schlitch and Mr. Field published the first numbers of the Cosmopolitan Magazine.

Shortly afterwards Mr. Field established the Rochester Cabinet Company, the Sympathy Community Outfit Company, and in 1889 the Cosmopolitan Company, all of which are now operated by his sons.

In College and in War

Born in Penfield on July 3, 1821, Mr. Hutchinson attended the district school and later went to the Geneseo Wesleyan Seminary in Lima. He was graduated by the University of Rochester in 1842 and was commissioned a second lieutenant in Company H, 108th New York Infantry. He went to the front with his regiment on August 15th and on the 19th took part in the Battle of Antietam. During the war he was in thirty-three fights and skirmishes, including the seven-day Battle of the Wilderness. He was wounded twice, but neither time seriously.

After being promoted to the rank of first lieutenant, Mr. Hutchinson served as regimental quartermaster. When Colonel C. J. Powers, who commanded the 148th, was made a brigadier general, Lieutenant Hutchinson commanded the regiment for a time.

Active in Fraternal Work

Mr. Hutchinson took an active part in the activities of the G. A. R., as a member of C. J. Powers Post. A few years ago he was elected National Commander in chief of the Union Veteran Union, an office which he held distinction. He was a member of the Royal Legion, also. He was largely connected with the Masonic fraternity, being a member of Penfield Union Lodge, F. and A. M.; Hamilton Chapter, K. T. M., and Moreau Commanders.

K. T. M. He was thus connected with Hamilton Chapter he was one of the two oldest surviving members. He was made a life member of the organization when he had been a member fifty years.

Mr. Hutchinson left his wife, three sons, Major Franklin B. Hutchinson, who was an assistant to General Grover; and in charge of the draught in New York state; William and Halbert G. Hutchinson, a brother Edward Hutchinson and six grandchildren, all of Rochester. The funeral will take place Tuesday at the convenience of the family and will be private.

Daily Death Roll

V. Moreau Smith, Former President Of Rochester Trust, Dead June 9, 1919

The funeral of V. Moreau Smith, former president of the Rochester Trust and Safe Deposit Company, whose death occurred early yesterday morning at his home 853 Mount Hope avenue, will take place tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock from Mount Hope Chapel.

Mr. Smith was born in Albany on June 25, 1863. While still a boy he came here with his parents. He attended public schools here and later was graduated at Hobart College. He entered the employ of the Merchants Bank, where he remained until 1885. When his father, J. Moreau Smith, founded the Rochester Trust and Safe Deposit Company Smith became a teller for the new trust company and continued in that capacity up to 1899, when he was elected secretary.

When his father died in 1907 Mr. Smith was chosen to succeed him as president of the Rochester Trust and Safe Deposit Company. He held the office until 1913, when he resigned and was succeeded by William C. Barry. He continued a member of the board of directors until his death.

Part of the later years of his life Mr. Smith devoted to a trip to Europe, of which he was fond. About five years ago Mr. Smith married Mrs. George Elwanger of Mount Hope, with whom he remained until his death.

Mr. Smith was a member and served on the board of the Rochester Telephone Company and the Federal Telephone Company of Buffalo.

Mr. Smith was a member of the Union League Club of New York City and a member of the Valley Club, the Rochester Club and the Rochester Athletic Club. For several years he served as president of the Rochester Episcopal Church, of which he was an active member. He leaves, besides his wife, a brother, Mr. Walter Smith of Rochester.

DEATHS—FUNERALS

BY DIRECTORS

At a special meeting of the Board of Directors of the Rochester Trust & Safe Deposit Company held to-day, the following memorial was adopted:

Through the death of Vincent Moreau Smith, which occurred the eighth day of June, this institution records the loss of a member of its board who had been connected with it from its inception.

When the company was organized in the year 1885 Mr. Smith filled the position of teller. In 1889 he was elected secretary and in 1897 succeeded his father, the late J. Moreau Smith, as president, continuing to serve in that capacity until April, 1913, when he asked to be relieved of the duties of that position.

He always had great pride in the success of the company and its standing in the community, and his helpfulness and kindness were instrumental in maintaining its high character. His thoughtfulness of others, his integrity and his loyalty to his friends were characteristics worthy of being exemplified.

We extend to his widow and brothers our heartfelt sympathy.

We direct that the copy of the minutes he entered upon our permanent records.

Franklin B. Hutchinson.

The funeral of Franklin B. Hutchinson, who died Friday, was held yesterday morning at 11 o'clock from his home, 85 Warwick avenue. D. D., of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, conducted the service. The address was delivered by the Rev. D. McNaughton, Richard E. White, John H. Hopkins, Peter A. Coitich, E. E. Howard and Samuel C. McKown.

Burial was in Mt. Hope.

VALENTINE DENGLER.

Death of Resident Born Here in 1841

June 28, 1919.

Valentine Dengler, a lifelong resident of Rochester and one of the founders of the Dengler Machine company, died yesterday after an illness of five months in the home of his son, Leo F. Dengler, 87 Rugby avenue, aged 78 years. Besides his son, he leaves two grandchildren, Leo J. and Joseph V. Dengler.

Mr. Dengler was born in Rochester on June 12, 1841. His parents lived where South extension begins at Brown street. For seventy-three years he lived in the house in which he was born. He attended school in SS Peter and Paul and had been a lifelong member of that church. He was a member and vice-president of Connel & Dengler Machine company, which he had been actively engaged for forty-five years. Three years ago he retired.

The funeral will be held at the site Monday morning with burial in Holy Sepulchre.

INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL OFFICER, IS DEAD

John H. Sharpe, for 25 years an officer at the Industrial School and a member of one of Monroe County's pioneer families, died yesterday morning at his residence in Industry, aged 77 years. Mr. Sharpe was a son of Daniel Sharpe and Rose Hill Sharpe, and was born in the vicinity of Rochester, where his father was engaged in business as a contractor.

The Sharpe family residence, a short time after his birth, was established in the town of Greece and up to the time of his death, Mr. Sharpe's father was known as one of the foremost and one of the wealthiest residents of that district. John Sharpe was educated at St. Joseph's College, Fordham, and was a man of marked literary attainment. He was a warm personal friend of the late Joseph O'Connor and, like the latter, loved the out of doors. In his younger days he was noted for his manliness and his ability with rod and reel.

He was a brother of Major Daniel A. Sharpe, who served many terms as Coroner of Monroe County, and a brother of Mrs. Katherine Dowling, who for many years was librarian of the Rochester Public Library.

Mr. Sharpe became an officer of the State Industrial School before it was removed from this city and when it was transferred to Industry and took on an agricultural character. He remained with it. He was a gentleman of the old-fashioned type of courtesy and was respected and admired by his associates. He leaves a wife and one daughter.

MORTUARY RECORD

HENRY F. STOWELL, 1819

Dr. Henry Fowler Stowell died yesterday afternoon at the family residence, 29 Atkinson Street. His parents moved from Hampstead to Rochester when he was a lad. Dr. Stowell received his degree of M. D. at the College of Physicians and Surgeons of Columbia University, New York City. He practiced for a time in New York City as a specialist in diseases of the eye and ear, but later opened an office in this city. He retired from active practice several years ago.

Dr. Stowell had unusual ability in diagnosis. He was modest and of retiring disposition, well informed on many matters outside his profession and to those who knew him well he was a most interesting conversationalist. After giving up the active practice of his profession, Dr. Stowell found pleasure in the study of mechanical devices and took out patents for many of his inventions, a number of which are in practical use.

Dr. Stowell had been in failing health for a year and death was caused by complications due to age.

He is survived by two brothers, C. L. Stowell of Rochester and Charles P. Stowell, a consulting engineer of Albany, and one sister, Miss M. Louise Stowell of Rochester.

C. J. BROWNING IS TAKEN BY DEATH
Lawyer Passes Away at His Home in George Street.

IN LAW HERE FORTY YEARS
July 6, 1919

Began to Study with late John Van Voorhis in 1877 and Private Practice in 1885—Occupied Office in Wilder Building Nearly 30 Years

Clarence J. Browning, well known attorney and counselor of this city, died at his home, No. 18 George street, on Friday morning, July 6th. Mr. Browning was the son of Alfred P. Browning and Delia Semler, who had been residents of Monroe county all their lives. The mother died in 1887 and the father died in 1890, leaving besides Clarence J. Browning, a daughter, Clara M. Woolston, wife of William J. Woolston, of Fairport, who died in January, 1879.

The Best of the Browning family to live in Monroe county was Dr. John Browning, father of Alfred P. Browning, who located in the town of Mendon in 1816, coming from Massauchusetts, where he had practiced medicine until 1808, passing away at the age of 82 years. He was a typical doctor of the old school; his influence on others, riding and driving the lonely trails and roads in all kinds of weather, practicing medicine, surgery, dentistry and dispensing letters and hope was his Legal Career.

Clarence J. Browning was born at the homestead in the town of Mendon on March 29, 1856, and after exhausting the advantages of the public schools of his district, he entered Geneseo Wesleyan Seminary at Lima, where he was graduated with the class of 1877. After his return he began the study of law in this city under the preceptorship of John Van Voorhis, at that time and for a total number of years one of the most eminent lawyers of the state of New York.

Mr. Browning continued his studies in the Van Voorhis office until he successfully passed his state bar examinations in 1882. He remained in that office after his admission and was associated with that firm until 1888, when he began the private practice of his profession. Shortly thereafter, Edward A. Marsh entered into partnership with him, and they opened office in 1888. From 1888 until 1909 George P. Hinson occupied offices with him and on November 4, 1910, Edward L. Cheyney then opened, his first office for the practice of law by being associated with him in his office in the Wilder building, which association has ever continued.

Mr. Browning married on March 6, 1883, Harriet S. Hastings, of Lima, who died in February, 1917. He leaves a nephew, Charles Brown, of Rochester, a niece, Mrs. Roy W. Hart, of Philadelphia,

AFTER TRIP TO CANADA

John H. Wallace Dies
After Trip to Canada

Mr. Wallace was born in Peterboro, Ontario. When a child he came to Rochester with his parents, the late Robert and Elizabeth Wallace. After leaving school, he entered the store of Howe & Rogers, by which firm he was employed for many years and eventually became a member of the company. He was a specialist in judging Oriental rugs. He married Miss Annabelle, of this city.

Mr. Wallace was a member of Trinity Episcopal Church, a charter member of Congregational Temple Masonic Lodge and a member of Hamilton Chapter, Royal Arch Masons. He was actively interested in politics and served as a Republican committee man in the Ninth Ward. He was a man of many acquaintances. It had been said of him that 90 per cent of the business men of Rochester knew him.

He leaves his wife, three children, Robert Wallace, of No. 30 East avenue, Miss Clara Wallace, of Rochester, and Mrs. Kelser, of Buffalo, and two brothers, Robert Wallace, of No. 65 Davis avenue, and James Wallace, of No. 91 Magee avenue.
WILLIAMINA. SONTAG, Principal of School 21, Dies—Funeral to Be Held To-morrow Morning.

The death of Wilhelmina A. Sontag, principal of School 21, Saturday afternoon, after an illness that extended over a Memorial day, came as a distinct shock to many friends, among whom were hundreds of former pupils. But nowhere was it more felt than in the teaching staff at School 21, where through a long series of years there had prevailed the utmost harmony and unanimity of purpose.

As a teacher Miss Sontag ranked among the best, and her record as a principal stands pre-eminent. For more than thirty years of service which she gave to the schools of this city she stood as part of the finest portion of educational history here. She had taught in several schools and, as a recognition of her services, fourteen years ago she was made principal of School 21, and for the same period she served until taken suddenly ill on Memorial day.

Among school men and women today there is the sincerest sorrow at her passing, while from the Board of Education to the children present in the schools and throughout the community there is the expression of deep regret. Miss Sontag was born in Watertown, in 1864, to November, 1901, when she re- signed her position in School 21, and came to Rochester when a little child. She was educated in the local schools, graduating from the High School in 1883, and after taking training as a teacher. She received her first appointment as teacher in the public schools in October, 1884. She was assigned to School 14, where she taught until she was transferred in 1887 to School 21. She taught there until 1894 when she was given School 1 and assigned to School 21.

She returned to Rochester from Detroit in September, 1894, to November, 1901, where she returned to Rochester. She was a supply teacher from January, 1902, to July of the same year. She was dispensing to the usual staff in June, 1903, and assigned to School 20. Seven years later she was made principal at School 21 and had since held that post.

In the school records and in the directories Miss Sontag is recorded as Minnie A. Sontag. The diminutive of her baptismal name was used in the family and among her intimates, and finally she became generally known by it. In recent years to sate the use of a "pet" name she had always signed herself as Minnie A. Sontag.

Funeral services will be held to-morrow morning at 10.30 at the family home in Cornell street.

Principals, directors, and superintendents in the public schools, of Monroe County, and of the State School were present when the funeral passed.

Mrs. M. L. Hughes, Mother Of Priest, Dies At Her Home.

Mrs. Charlotte Adelaide Fleming Hughes, widow of M. L. Hughes, the oldest real estate agent in Rochester, died this morning at the family residence, 106 Tremont street.

She was a daughter of B. T. Fleming, who was the secretary to William A. Reynolds. She was born in Dublin, Ireland, and came to this country at an early age. She was married to M. L. Hughes in 1883 and on July 14, 1918, they celebrated their golden wedding at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, where they were married 50 years previous.

Five children were born to them: The Rev. H. A. Hughes, pastor of Holy Rosary Church, who recently celebrated his 25th anniversary of ordination, just before his death; after his mother was asked for; Taddeus V. Hughes, Cecilia I. Hughes, Mae G. Hughes, Sister Mary Arthur of Nazareth, and Sister Joan, both of Roch- ester, Texas; two sisters, Belle M. and Mary C. Fleming of this city.

The funeral will take place from the Immaculate Conception Church Friday morning at 10 o'clock. Burial private. Interment in the family lot at Holy Sepulchre Cemetery.
LONG TERM OF POLICE SERVICE ENDED BY DEATH

Theodore H. Cazeau Succumbs at His Home.
CAVALRYMAN IN CIVIL WAR

Served in Union Army Until Discharged for Disability—Doorman at Headquarters in His Latter Years in Police Department.

Theodore H. Cazeau, for twenty-five years a member of the Rochester Police Department, died suddenly at noon yesterday at his home, No. 151 Reynolds street. He was on duty at headquarters on Saturday. Mr. Cazeau was 75 years old. He leaves his wife, Ella V. Cazeau, four sons, Theodore C. and Chester A., of this city, and Edward H. and William G. Cazeau, of San Francisco, and a daughter, Miss Ella F. Cazeau, of this city.

Mr. Cazeau was born in Albany and came to Rochester when a young man. After his schooling in his home city he obtained employment with the American Express Company, serving the company in Albany and later in Rochester. He was with the company for twenty-five years.

Cavalryman in Civil War.

In the Civil War Mr. Cazeau served as a private in Captain Vincent M. Smith's Company M, Eighty-eighth Regiment, New York Volunteer Cavalry. He enlisted on September 1, 1862, and was mustered into the cavalry service in October. Private Cazeau participated in many battles, including that at Winchester, the siege of Harper's Ferry, Beverly Ford, Fredericksburg and Gettysburg. He fought in scores of minor actions and was several times wounded.

The battle of Beverly Ford was fought on June 9, 1863, and in it the Eighty-eighth Cavalry suffered its heaviest losses. Private Cazeau and four comrades were captured. When on their way to a rebel prison Private Cazeau succeeded in making his escape, in company with one of his comrades, and returned to his command.

Full Year of Campaigning.

A certificate issued by the Soldiers' and Sailors' Historical and Benevolent Society refers to Private Cazeau's war record as follows: "He bore a gallant part in all the campaigns of his command from the time of his enlistment until the latter part of 1863, when he was taken ill. On March 17, 1864, he was honorably discharged at Camp Stoneman, D.C., by reason of his disability."

After the war Mr. Cazeau continued his work as an American Express employee until 1885, when he was appointed to the Rochester police force. For years Patrolman Cazeau was a familiar figure in the downtown section of the city. He was a large man, and he controlled his beat with the same fidelity and determination as he served his country in the army. In his twenty-five years of police work he made a number of important arrests.

THEODORE H. CAZEAU.

His Last Police Duty.

When his health failed several years ago Patrolman Cazeau retired, but as soon as his health improved he resumed his work in a natural activity and obtained the position of doorman at police headquarters. He occupied the anteroom between the office of Chief Joseph M. Quigley and Detective Captain William H. Whaley. Persons calling at headquarters to see either of these officials were taken in charge by Mr. Cazeau, who arranged for their reception in turn. His courtesy and tact were of real value in the work of receiving callers on the second floor at headquarters.

Mr. Cazeau was born in Albany on June 7, 1845. On October 8, 1870, he married Miss Ella V. Ford, of this city. He was a member of E. G. Marshall Post, G. A. R., the Macedonians, the A. O. U. W., and the Benevolent Association.
SERGEANT FOLEY TAKEN BY DEATH

Popular Police Officer Dies at Hospital Following Operation for Appendicitis—On Force 30 Years.

Sgt. Thomas Foley of the Bronson avenue police station, died at St. Mary's Hospital early last evening after a brief illness. He was taken to the hospital a week ago for an operation for appendicitis and failed to rally after it was performed.

Sgt. Foley was born in Cork, Ireland, 64 years ago and came with his parents to this country when a boy. His education was finished in the schools of this city. He went west and engaged in railroad construction work for a time.

When he returned to Rochester he was appointed a member of the police department on November 13, 1882, and in 1909 he was made a sergeant and assigned to duty at the Bronson avenue station, where he had served continuously since.

Sgt. Foley was not only a faithful and efficient officer, but he won a host of friends not only in the department but among others with whom he came in contact. The deceased officer leaves his wife, a daughter, Mary C. Foley; three sisters, Dr. John M. Foley, T. Joseph Foley and Frances A. Foley; three sisters, Miss Kate Foley of Rochester; Mrs. Timothy Donovan and Mrs. Mary Ann Foley of Ireland.

The funeral service will be held at the Holy Name Society of Immaculate Conception Church, the Police Benevolent Association and the United Order of Odd Fellows.

DEATHS—FUNERALS

Charlotte Adelaide Hughes, 1919

Funeral services for Mother of Rector of Holy Rosary Church.

Funeral services for Mrs. Charlotte Adelaide Hughes, wife of M.L. Hughes and mother of Rev. Arthur A. Hughes, rector of Holy Rosary church, were held this morning in the Church of the Immaculate Conception where she had worshipped for many years and whose services in celebration of her fiftieth wedding anniversary were held July 14, 1918. Mrs. Hughes died at home, 186 Tremont street, Wednesday.

SPANISH WAR VETERAN DIES

Stanley T. Sanders of 18 Stratford Park died Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, aged 42 years. Comrade Sanders was for years a very active worker of the Spanish War veteran circles and helped greatly in organizing L. Bor­man Smith Camp 29.

In his youth and manhood, he joined the Maryland National Guard and served for two years. When the Spanish War broke out he transferred and joined the 15th U. S. Infantry, with which he saw service in Cuba and the Philippines.

After his return to the U. S., he spent several years on the U. S. Transport Sheridan and his discharge from service, he came to Rochester where he resided since. He leaves his wife and two daughters.

Comrade Sanders was active in local membership in L. Borman Smith Camp 29, United Spanish War Veterans, in which camp he held the office of junior vice commander, Unity Lodge of Odd Fellows, and Yeomandy Lodge 605, P. O. and A. M. He was a member of Leslie Rocke Group 83, Electrical Workers' Union 68 and a charter member of the Electrical Craftsmen Council, which has just been organized in Rochester.

Funeral services were held at St. Mary's Church at 2:30 this afternoon, after which services were held at the Theodore F. Bierman Smith Camp 29 of the United Spanish War Veterans, where full military honors were rendered. Interment was at Mt. Hope Cemetery.
DEATH REMOVES HENRY A. STRONG,
PRESIDENT OF EASTMAN COMPANY AND FOREMOST PHILANTHROPIST

Henry Alvah Strong, president of the Eastman Kodak Company of New York and vice president of the Eastman Kodak Company of New Jersey, a native son of Rochester who became one of her most successful businessmen and most generous philanthropists, died at 3:30 o'clock yesterday morning at his residence, 633 East Avenue. He was the second largest stockholder in the Kodak corporations that form the backbone of Rochester's industries.

Mr. Strong had been in poor health for a number of years, but his condition did not become serious until the last two or three days. Six years ago he successfully passed a crisis when he submitted to an operation for the removal of gall stones. At the time of his death he lacked only a few weeks of having reached his 82d birthday.

Henry A. Strong was born in Rochester, August 25, 1838, and lived in this city all his life. He was the son of Alvah and Catherine (Hopkins) Strong.

Mr. Strong's First Business

But his great financial success came through his association with George Eastman. For some time Mr. Eastman, who was a young bank clerk, had been experimenting during his leisure hours with photographic films. In 1880 the first company was formed, under the name of Strong & Eastman, for the manufacture of dry plates and films. The business was at the outset experimental, but Mr. Strong was inspired with full confidence in the ability and inventive genius of his associate, and he backed the enterprise persistently and without reservation. In 1881, the Eastman Dry Plate and Film Company was formed, of which Mr. Strong became the president, and later, when the Eastman Kodak Company was organized, he continued as its president.

In the latter years his position as president of the Eastman Kodak Company was honorary; he left all the details of the management to Mr. Eastman, and gave little time and attention personally to the factory. But he always kept his headquarters at the State Street offices of the company, and when he was in the city he made it a practice to be at the office almost every day. Rochester has several millionaires who gained their wealth through their early association with and their confidence in Mr. Eastman. Naturally, Mr. Strong, who was in all the Eastman companies from their inception, and who was at the outset one of the main financial backers of these enterprises, acquired great wealth. In his later years he freed himself from the cares of business and endowed himself to travel and the pursuit of congenial occupations.

Interested in Large Enterprises

Mr. Strong was interested in a number of other large business enterprises. He was president of the Rochester Batak Company, and erected for the company fifteen years ago a handsome factory building in State Street, near the business offices of the Kodak Company. He was also president of the United States Voting Machine Company. He was interested in a number of other financial and commercial institutions. He was a director in the Alliance Bank, the Security Trust Company and the Monroe County Savings Bank.

Henry A. Strong

He obtained his education in the public schools of Rochester and enlisted in the Civil War in 1861, being appointed assistant paymaster in the United States Navy.

At the close of the war he returned to Rochester and became identified with his uncle, Myron Strong, in the manufacture of whips. Ultimately he bought out his uncle's interest and controlled the business alone for some time. Later he became associated with E. F. Woodbury, and continued in the same business until 1858, when he disposed of his interest. Under the management of Mr. Strong, that factory was built up until it became one of the largest whip factories in the United States.

Mr. Eastman's First Backer

One of the boom, Mr. Strong had invested $50,000 in the Niagara real estate, and he was a visitor in the city nearly every year, to look after his holdings. He had met Mrs. Lockwood frequently while he was the guest of Colonel Griggs. Mr. Strong survives him.

Other survivors are an adopted son, Corrin Strong, a brother, Dr. C. W. Hopkins Strong, and a sister, Mrs. Henry Miller.

An Illustration of His Loyalty

He was generous in his impulses and loyal to his friends. He had a cheery optimism that was an inspiration to his associates. An instance of this loyalty was shown in his action as director of the ill-fated United States Independent Telephone Company, which involved him in an annoying litigation that naturally was a source of worry to him in his declining years. Through this connection large claims were made on him and his associates in the board of directors by dissatisfied bondholders, who sought to make the directors personally responsible for their losses. It was shown on the trial of this case that Mr. Strong was abroad at the time the United States Independent Telephone Company was formed and that the original subscription was made in his name by one of his associates in other business enterprises.

On his return he accepted the subscription, made without his knowledge of the start, and shouldered all the responsibilities that followed that act without a word of complaint. Not one word of criticism was ever passed from him. He stood loyally by his friends in the unfortunate deal from start to finish. He smiled genially when mention was made of the incident. Although the annoyance and publicity which resulted from the transaction must have been quite as serious to him as the large financial claims that were made on him in consequence. His frank good nature throughout the transaction, which could not have been otherwise than an ordeal to a man of his temperament, was an example of loyalty to friends seldom witnessed in the business world.

Naturally Mr. Strong's position in commercial life and industry brought him in touch with the financial geniuses of the United States and other countries, and among this friends he numbered John D. Rockefeller. He was intimately acquainted with former President William H. Taft and on the occasion of Mr. Taft's last visit to Rochester entertained him at luncheon. In 1907 Mr. Strong presented to Rochester Theological Seminary, of which his brother, Rev. Dr. Augustus H. Strong, was the president, the magnificent building known as the Alfred Strong Memorial Hall. This gift was in honor of his father, who was one of the prominent citizens of Rochester in the pioneer days. In 1918 Mr. Strong gave $10,000 to Brick Church for the erection, or a new building near the vacant lot of Brick Church Institute. In 1911, Mr. Strong presented a new association building to the Young Men's Christian Association of Rochester, the cost of which was nearly $75,000, and in the subsequent campaign of the Young Men's Christian Association he was one of the largest contributors, his gift being $3,000.

The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at 3.30 o'clock from the residence.
LAST RITES FOR
HENRY A. STRONG
Post June 28
Dr. William R. Taylor Conducts Funeral Services of Philanthropist Who Died Saturday, 1919.

The funeral of Henry Alvah Strong, president of the Eastman Kodak company and humanitarian of wide reputation, who died on Saturday, were held from his home, 693 East avenue, at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. Burial will be made in the family mausoleum in Mount Hope cemetery. Dr. William R. Taylor, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, returned to Rochester to conduct the services.

Mr. Strong was one of the most prominent citizens of Rochester and fully $750,000 of his large fortune was expended in charity and the promotion and support of various movements for social welfare. In 1905 he gave $150,000 to the Rochester Theological seminary for the erection of the Alvah Strong Memorial hall in memory of his father. His brother, Dr. Augustus H. Strong, was at that time president of the institution. In 1908, realizing that the usefulness of the Brick Church Institute would be greatly increased by its establishment in a building of adequate size, Mr. Strong and his wife gave $100,000 for the erection of the building which the institution now occupies. His next large gift was to the Young Women's Christian association to which Mr. and Mrs. Strong gave $100,000. This gift made possible the present building in Franklin street.

When the University of Rochester began its campaign in 1912 to raise $1,000,000 for a women's college and endowed fund, Mr. Strong contributed $100,000 with which a college building, named Strong Memorial hall, was erected in memory of his mother Catharine Hopkins Strong.

The following year Mr. and Mrs. Strong added $50,000 to the gift of $250,000 made by George Eastman to the Young Men's Christian association which was then carrying on a campaign for $750,000 for a new central building, branch buildings and their equipment.

Throughout the entire progress of the war, Mr. and Mrs. Strong contributed generously to the numerous war activities and were numbered among the first of those who gave large sums to the Red Cross and to the War and Community chests. Mr. Strong's contributions to charities of lesser importance are innumerable.

Many of Rochester's most prominent citizens, both men and women, present at the funeral of Henry Alvah Strong, president of the Eastman Kodak company and well-known philanthropist, which was held from his home at 4:30 East avenue, yesterday afternoon. The services, which were simple and brief, were conducted by Rev. Dr. William D. D., pastor of the First Presbyterian church, of which Mr. Strong was a lifelong member. The opening prayer was offered by the Rev. Murray Bartlett, D. D., former rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church and now president of Hobart college.

The trustees of the Brick church were represented by George W. Percy and James E. McKeel, the session by Joseph D. Hulme and George H. Watson, the general service board by Lawrence Neuland and George F. Nobel. The active bearers were Lawrence and Paul Achilles and Griffin Strong, grandsons of Mr. Strong, and Dr. A. S. Miller, Theodore A. Miller and Charles H. Miller. The burial was private, and Mr. Strong was laid to rest in the family mausoleum in Mt. Hope cemetery.

The following brief minutes have been adopted by the official boards of the Brick church on the death of Henry A. Strong:

"It is with no common sorrow that the members of the official board of the Brick church record the death of Henry Alvah Strong, which occurred Saturday morning, June 26, 1919.

Mr. Strong was a life-long member of the congregation, a constant attendant and a worshipper at the church services, sometimes a trustee, and a munificent benefactor. He loved life, and joy, and laughter. He loved his family. He loved music. He loved the society of congenial friends. He had a high sense of business honor. Patient and courageous in adversity, he was not elated by prosperity. When wealth flowed in upon him he recognized his stewardship, and his name became a synonym for noble generosity.

His death has brought us a personal sense of loss and loss, for he was a man of heart; and won our hearts.

"We offer to Mrs. Strong, who was his beloved companion and the comfort and joy of his later years, and to his children and all the members of the family circle, our deepest sympathy, and commend them to Him, Whose comfort is the source of the mourner's peace and strength."

The minute was read by Rev. Dr. William R. Taylor, pastor; for the session, L. O. Weisgrove; for the trustees, M. P. Bristol; for the board of deacons, Francis H. Harper; for the general service board, R. H. Coates; for the directors of the Brick Church Institute, Joseph Parley.
In the death of Henry A. Strong Rochester has lost one of the men who contributed most to its upbuilding. In the day of small beginnings of the industry in which this city now leads the world Mr. Strong played an important part by embarking his capital in what was then an untried enterprise.

He was the associate of George Eastman in the photographic business which first led the way in the immense development which has followed. No one then dreamed of the great development that was to come.

Business success brought wealth, out of which Mr. Strong gave liberally to all the city’s benevolent enterprises as well as to institutions of learning. His private benefactions are said by those who knew of them to have been equally ready and generous.

Prosperity did not mar the simple, agreeable disposition of the man himself. His modesty was genuine and not an affectation. Despite the large part which he played in the business affairs of the city and his gifts and work for public purposes, Henry Strong was but little in the public eye.

He lived to see the undertaking which he had shared in from the first grow until its products were used all over the world and helped to preserve a lasting record of scenes past and present. And as the city grew Henry A. Strong had the right to feel that he had done much to promote the interests and prosperity of Rochester, while his fellow citizens wished him well. July 27, 1919.

In Memoriam—Henry Al Strong

At a meeting of the Trustees of Security Trust Company of Rochester, July 20, 1919, the following memorial was adopted:

"The death of Henry A. Strong on July 27 brought to a close the life of one of Rochester’s most prominent, influential and respected citizens. To his activities and generosity in many directions is due in marked degree the prominent position which Rochester occupies in the nation and throughout the world, where it stands for the best in commercial life and for generous giving.

"To this institution, its officers and the members of this Board of which he was a member for fifteen years, the loss is particularly great and personal. To the meetings he added the judgment of a broad mind, trained to grasp questions of business and finance, and his opinions were eagerly sought. In his relations with his co-trustees as with all men, his manner was always most genial, courteous and kindly. Association with him was a mental and spiritual stimulus.

"To the material world he was a success, but to those who measure a man by higher and more lasting standards his greatest success was in the gaining of the respect of intelligent men, and among the best he had in him, in helping to make the world better than he found it, and in living a life which was and will be an inspiration to others.

"To his wife and children we extend our heartfelt sympathy." Herald.
Former Herald Report Dies at Saranac Lake

Former Herald, Leslie Edward Lunt, son of Mrs. Ada M. Lunt and nephew of Fount E. Brown, died yesterday at Saranac, N. Y., where he had been ill for some months. Leslie was about 32 years of age. He was a graduate of West High School, Class of 1913, and for a time was a student at the University of Rochester. He was president of his high school class and is said by many of his friends that he was the most popular student that ever attended the Genesee Street institution.

Leslie was active in athletics, both while at high school and later. He was deeply interested in the Y. M. C. A. and was an officer of the Life Club of that organization. For a time he was employed as playground supervisor by the city, and for years served, first as high school and college correspondent and later as general reporter for The Herald.

Soon after the United States entered the world war, Leslie enlisted to enlist in various branches of government service. He finally succeeded in persuading the Rochester draft boards to accept him for service in the Quartermaster Corps, though he had hoped for more active service. He was sent to Jacksonville, Fla., for training last July, but was returned home soon afterwards because of physical disability. He later went to Saranac in an effort to regain his health.

M. Schmidt leaves his wife, Lottie; one sister, Mrs. Gustave Erbe of this city, and his mother, Mrs. Rosa Schmidt. Funeral services will be conducted at the house at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon under the direction of Yonnondio Lodge, F. & A. M., and at the grave by Monroe Commandery, Knights Templar.

Emil H. Schmidt was a life-long resident of Rochester, born here in 1869, son of the late Leopold and Rosa Schmidt. He attended the public schools and entered the employ of Rudolph Schmidt & Company, his brother being the head of the concern. His association with that firm continued until he was made head of the fire alarm telegraph bureau, succeeding Harry G. Kennedy. Later upon consolidation of the police and fire alarm telegraph systems he was made superintendent.

Retirement of the two systems under his charge was Mr. Schmidt's constant aim, and through the efforts of various improvements were installed, while shortly before his illness he was engaged in the details of a new and improved police signal system early installation of which is under consideration. And his activity in the International Association of Municipal Electricians resulted in his selection as treasurer of that organization at the convention held in Atlanta, Ga.

Emil H. Schmidt, superintendent of police and fire alarm telegraph, died late yesterday afternoon at his home, 189 Canterbury road, following an illness of several weeks. He leaves his widow, Mrs. Sarah Schmidt; one daughter, Selma B., one son, Frederick; a brother, Robert, of Newmarket, LOUIS HEINDL, Jr.
Former Alderman
Dies, Aged 74 Years

The funeral of Louis Heindl, former alderman of the Fifth Ward, will be held tomorrow morning at 9:30 o'clock from the family home, 90 Lowell Street, and at 10 o'clock from St. Michael's Church, Clinton avenue north and Clifford street. Mr. Heindl's death occurred on Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Heindl, who was 74 years of age, at the time of his death was born in Munich, Germany, and came to this country when 5 years old. He had resided in Rochester ever since arriving in America.

Mr. Heindl was at the time of his death the oldest job printer in Rochester, the firm, Louis Heindl & Son, having an office and printing plant at 107-109 North Water Street. He was a member of the American Ute, actually interested in politics as a Democrat, and represented the Fifth Ward in the Common Council in 1906-1908. He was a member of St. George's Commandery 95, Knights Templar, Grand Master.

Mr. Heindl is survived by his wife, Mrs. Anna H. Heindl; six sons, Lewis, Frederick G., Albert J., William A., Leo J. and Charles P. Heindl; three daughters, Mrs. Josephine Leinen, Mrs. George Michelsohn and Miss Anna Frances Heindl and seven grandchildren.

FORMER ROCHESTER MANUFACTURER DIES

George D. Thompson Succumbs at Cincinnati.

Aug. 19, 1919

Cincinnati, Aug. 18—Applegate was made here this morning of the death of George D. Thompson, one of the best known of American pioneer paper manufacturers. Mr. Thompson was born on October 5, 1841, and died at his home on the occasion of an artist and author, having made frequent tours of the mountainous sections of West Virginia and the Far West, gathering material for many interesting writings and many paintings now in various famous art galleries of the United States. During the civil war Thompson performed heroic service in the Union army at the Lookout Mountain battle. He discovered many improvements of great value during his years of manufacturing and was the first manufacturer in Middleton and Rochester. He was survived by a widow and son, Dr. Edward H. Thompson, who was 70 years old at the time of his death. A great deal of fame came to him for his Indian paintings, gained from the Pottawatomi tribes during early life. He was assistant to Lieutenant in the survey and engineering corps.
HENRY STRONG IS DEAD AT 46

Promising Career of Rochester Business Man Cut Short.

FORESAW AUTOMOBILE TRADE

Possibilities of Motor Car Led Him To Become Leader in Vehicle Trade

Aug. 10, 1919

Word was received here yesterday morning of the death in Los Angeles of Henry G. Strong, president of Strong Motors, Inc. The end came at 5:30 o'clock, Pacific Coast time, corresponding to 1:30 o'clock, Rochester time.

Death was due to inflammatory rheumatism and pneumonia.

Henry Griffin Strong, known to all his friends as "Harry," was born in Rochester 46 years ago, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Strong. The death of the son follows closely on that of the father, which occurred July 26. Henry G. Strong was educated in the city schools and at Yale University. Following his return from college he was connected with the Eastman Kodak Company, but later became interested in the office supplies business and went to New York City to deal in that line of goods. He returned to Rochester, however, and, seeing the great possibilities of motor vehicles decided to center his activities in forwarding the new industry. He started in the automobile business with Austin Crittenden, who later retired. Since that time Mr. Strong has continued in the motor vehicle business alone. At one time he was vice president of the Pritchard-Strong Company, metalware and lantern makers.

Member of Organizations.

Mr. Strong was a member of the Pal Upsilon Fraternity, of the Masonic Fraternity, the Genesee Valley Club, Rochester Club, Rochester Country Club and Automobile Club of Rochester.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Marion Goll Strong, and two sons, Griffin and Pritchard Strong.

MARY CRENNEILL

One of City's Oldest Teachers Dies After Long Illness

MARY Crennell, after more than thirty-three years a teacher in the public schools of this city died Sunday in Buffalo where she had been ill for many months.

Miss Crennell was one of the oldest teachers in point of service, of the Rochester public school teachers. She had the record of thirty-three and a half years of service without interruption—a record unsurpassed by any other teacher here. She began her professional career as a very young woman and taught her place among the pioneer teachers who did a vast work in developing the present day standards of the schools here.

She received her first appointment from the Board of Education in January, 1885, and was assigned to School 26. The following September she was transferred to School 2, but she remained there only until the November following, when she was promoted to a position on the faculty of the old Free Academy, where she taught mathematics. In 1892, when West High School was opened, she was transferred to it and taught there until she retired in June, 1914.

As a teacher Miss Crennell was among the best. Many of the business and professional men of the city were under her instruction in the grade schools or in the high schools. Few came in contact with her without becoming fond of her, and so pleasing was her personality that it has remained an inspiring memory with them.

Miss Crennell lived for many years at 37 South Washington street, now known as "The Pillars." She was a daughter of William H. and Harriet J. Crennell.

The body has been brought from Buffalo and funeral services will be held in the chapel at Mt. Hope cemetery tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

MORTUARY RECORD

Mrs. Mary P. Fletcher

Mrs. Mary Price Fletcher, former Rochester, widow of the late Rev. Oliver N. Fletcher and mother of A. P. Fletcher, former assistant superintendent of Rochester schools, died on Tuesday, August 3, at the home of her brother at Cassopolis, Mich., aged 70 years. She was born at Cassopolis and went there to spend the last years of her life.

Mrs. Fletcher was a descendant of distinguished New England stock, her ancestors having taken part in the Revolution and in the War of 1812. Her early training as the daughter of a Baptist clergyman gave her for the life given in devotion to the welfare of her fellow men. She was a constant co-operator with her husband in his ministerial duties, having given freely of her time to all religious and charitable endeavors for more than fifty years of her married life. While in Rochester she was a member of the Lake Avenue Baptist Church.

Mrs. Fletcher leaves one daughter, Mrs. Mabel Payne, wife of Dr. Arthur Payne of Rochester; one son, A. P. Fletcher, assistant superintendent of public schools of Cleveland, Ohio; four grandchildren, two brothers and two sisters in Cassopolis.

Mrs. Ellen B. Yates, wife of the late Charles L. Yates, died on Wednesday at Hollywood, Calif.
DIES AT AGE OF 109 YEARS

Nephus, Aug. 17—Mrs. Samantha Stanton Nells, aged 109 years, died this morning at 1 o'clock at her home, two miles from this village.

She was the oldest known white woman at the time of her death. She was born January 3, 1810, the daughter of Elijah and Lucy Gorrell Stanton, in Fairport, N. Y., and came to this town in 1844. She was married September 28, 1833, to John Nells, who died 10 years ago. The funeral will be held Tuesday afternoon.

Her Life at Age of 109 Years.

The following is an illustrated sketch of the life of Mrs. Nells, published two years ago in The Herald:

In spite of the fact that the hundred and seven years which rest upon her as lightly as does a generation less upon most of the rest of the world, to arrive at that age, Mrs. Nells is remarkably vigorous. She rose from her shaker to be window in the farm-house kitchen and greeted The Herald reporter, and "Stoney," the photographer, who was clasped in by the cordial Mrs. Rhoda Eaton, a daughter-in-law, who cares for the mother of her first husband with the watchfulness and sacrifice which an own mother might envy. Mrs. Eaton explained the object of the visit, and the aged woman cordially assented to the proposal to sit for her picture. She was sitting side by side in her lap when she was found, but wanted to change her dress and "doll up," as the more modern women would say.

Well could Webster have said, looking upon her, "You have come down to us from a former generation." But there is dash and that great composure which the men who were the big figures of her young womanhood have possessed. The hands that turn the pages, and still do, have passed on.

Interested in War.

"She never was a great reader," said Mrs. Eaton. "She never cared for books, but is always interested in the war news. The reds that turn old, the reds that turn red, the reds that turn green, the reds that turn blue, the reds that turn white, the reds that turn black, the reds that turn yellow, the reds that turn gray.

Her Father Was a Soldier.

She loves to tell of her father and his career as a soldier of the Revolution. He was a Continental soldier and a regular soldier of the Revolution, as distinguished from the mass of state militia. Her stories of her father's adventures are strictly authentic, except when she suffers a lapse, memory falters at times, and tells stories of events which have happened at different periods of her life in the same manner as though they were all simultaneous. Her age is also one of the points on which she often makes wild statements. Sometimes she is 18 years old, sometimes she says she is a thousand year old.

The Old Swing Broom.

Everybody in the room except Mrs. Nells, started somewhat at the flash of the light used in getting the pictures, as a fine snow-flurry was in progress. The old swing broom was a necessity. Her nerves are in good condition.

After the flash-light photo were taken, she consented to be snatched in the act of sweeping the porch.

She doesn't do any manual labor beyond some sewing, which she refused to give up altogether; but it isn't because she isn't able to do it. No, indeed! She can go through the house as briskly as any ordinary elderly people, and she takes both of the broom and the swing broom as vigorously as could be wished for. And when Stone had withdrawn from the agitation, any good photographer feels when he is confronted with such a fortunate setting for a picture, he was immediately "took her," and she walked back into the house with a firm tread.

Her Birth Record in Bible.

In the meantime the old family Bible, tattered and stained, is a constant use through a period of more than two hundred years, and the duty of having been brought forth and examined. Yellow with age, but distinct, the entry of "Samantha Stanton, nee Nells, was written in a fashion of a former day on the same page with many others of the family, leaving only this old woman.

"Hello" D. A. R.

It is in the telling of these reminiscences that Mrs. Nells takes her whole character in life. She was appointed, shortly after her 100th birthday to a general order of less than thirty for having kept the records of her station as a woman. D. A. R. has been paid by her, with her liberality from time to time, to the Sons of the American Revolution, and a number of them, really from the kitchen of the old farm, are in one of Mrs. Nells' most prized possessions. It reads as follows:

"SWEET" WOODROW WILSON.

This letter was written to Mrs. Nells on May 16, 1914, just before her 100th birthday.

Fifteen lines from President

Another of Mrs. Nells' most prized possessions is a personal letter from Woodrow Wilson. It reads as follows:

My dear Mrs. Nells:

It is with the greatest interest that I learn of your approach to your 100th birthday, and I feel that you just a line of sincere congratulation and to express the hope that you will continue to lead a happy life and the power to enjoy it.

S. W. WILSON.

POST, F. A. BROCKETT,
Well-known Architect Passes Away at 83, His Home, 1919.
Frederick Andrews Brockett died Sunday morning at his home, 65 Magee Avenue, following a sudden attack of pneumonia.
Mr. Brockett was born in Rochester by his birthplace in New Haven, Conn. When very young he entered the architectural office of his uncle, Andrew J. Warner, after whom he was named. Years later the firm of Warner & Brockett was formed and Mr. Warner's two sons, J. Foster Warner and William A. Warner, and Mr. Brockett's brother, Willis J. Brockett were taken into the partnership.
This firm planned the Wilder building, the Powers hotel, and many other buildings of this city. Later, Mr. Brockett opened an office in the Granite building and a few years ago moved his office to offices in the Oster building.
It was said of him that he would rather trust a client than specify any construction which he did not believe was absolutely safe. Many buildings in Rochester and other cities stand as testimony of his taste and skill.
Always fond of music, Mr. Brockett was a member of the original Rochester Opera club, and of the Rochester Choral society which was organized by Ludwig Schenck.
He leaves his wife, Mrs. Nellie J. Brockett, his mother, Mrs. Cornelia Brockett; his brother, Willis J.; a daughter, Mrs. Walter G. Bent, all of Rochester; and his son, Clyde P., a student at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

DEATHS—FUNERALS

POST, GEORGE ARNOLD, 1919.
Death of Well-known Figure Among Florists and Horticulturists.
George Arnold, well known among florists and horticulturists, died at his home at Enfield, on Owasco Lake, Thursday night, following an illness of about two weeks.
He leaves his wife and one son, Schuyler, just returned from service overseas.
For four years Mr. Arnold had been in charge of the estate of Mrs. J. Letchworth at Enfield. He was in the employ of James Vick's Sons for twelve years, putting in most of his time at the trial grounds at orden, and several years was in charge of the H. H. Westinghouse estate.
When the Spencer sweet peas were introduced several years ago, he became much interested and grew many of the best named varieties for commercial purposes and also to familiarize himself with their habits. Several years ago he introduced into the market Primula Ver Superba, which he disposed of to Henry A. Deere, Inc., and James Vick's Sons. Since then it has become a very popular plant.
Mr. Arnold was fond of nature and had a great deal to do with introducing and improving the different strains. He made them a study for many years. It was through his efforts that the upright type of asters was introduced and each year we had his plot of about an acre on which he experimented and worked out the better sorts.
Mr. Arnold was past master of Spencerport grange and at one time president of the Rochester Florists' association. The funeral was held this afternoon at Elm Grove Methodist Church, the bearers being all past masters of the grange.
Funeral Services
For R. M. Swinburne

Funeral services for Robert Morris Swinburne, one of the best known members of the printing profession in Rochester, who died at Boston, were held this afternoon from 137 Chestnut street, the Rev. Ludwell H. Denny of Unitarian Church officiated, and bearers were James A. Cilley, Clarence Fennel, Edward Walker and Taylor C. Bidwell.

Mr. Swinburne was a son of John Thackery Swinburne and Jane Emily Swinburne of Rochester, who came from Birmingham, England, many years ago and settled in the little frontier town of Rochester. They purchased land on the eastern edge of the town, so that when Summit street was extended eastward as Main street east, at University printing business, it passed through their property. Robert Swinburne entered the printing business with his brother, John W. Swinburne and later purchased the entire business, the brother removing to Minneapolis, where he still is engaged in printing. Last spring Robert Swinburne sold out his business, formerly known as the "Canalside Press," to a nephew, William Swinburne and removed to his summer home at Nantucket. He had been ill all summer.

For many years Robert Swinburne was a member of the Rochester Typothetae. He was also a member of Genesee Falls Lodge, No. 319, F. and A. M.

Funeral Services
For J. D. Hotchkiss

John D. Hotchkiss, well known insurance man and brother of James L. Hotchkiss, city clerk, suddenly became ill, dying a short time later. Death was due to heart trouble, according to the physician who was called.

Mr. Hotchkiss apparently had been in good health until the time of his fatal illness. He was at his office on the second floor of the Chamber of Commerce Building until 6 o'clock Friday evening and seemed in excellent spirits.

John D. Hotchkiss was born in Naples, N. Y., September 9, 1864, and was brought to Rochester while still an infant by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Levi Hotchkiss, who removed to Rochester shortly after the Civil War. He was educated in the city schools and in the Rochester Free Academy and later pursued an engineering course at a technical school. Following the completion of his education, he entered the insurance business and had been identified with that business until the time of his death.

He was a member of Christ Episcopal Church in East Avenue, having become identified with that parish many years ago. Mr. Hotchkiss was unmarried. Besides his brother, he leaves a niece, Miss Jennie L. Hotchkiss, who lives in the South.

MISS MONTGOMERY
DIES OF INJURIES; WAS HIT BY AUTO

Zena Agnell, Miss Mary Whitney Montgomery, daughter of the late Thomas Montgomery, will be held to-morrow afternoon from the home of her sister, Mrs. Edward B. Angell, 295 Alexander street. Miss Montgomery died in the Homapalst Hospital at 1:30 o'clock yesterday morning, as the result of injuries received August 11, when she was struck by an automobile driven by M. L. Culver of 358 Mulberry street as she was attempting to cross Main street east near the East Side Savings Bank.

Miss Montgomery was born 60 years ago in Rochester and received her education at Livingston Park Seminary. Her father was one of the prominent attorneys of the city and the family home still standing at 176 Spring street is one of the beautiful landmarks of the city. For some years past Miss Montgomery had made her home with her brother-in-law, Dr. Edward B. Angell of 295 Alexander street.

DEATH OF EDWARD O'GRADY

Lifelong Resident of City and Many Years in Business.

Edward O'Grady, who was in the insurance business in this city for a long time, died yesterday morning, aged 64 years. He was a brother of James M. E. O'Grady, attorney.

Mr. O'Grady lived in Rochester all his life. He was a graduate of the DeGrant Institute, and soon after his graduation entered the insurance business. He retired from business several years ago. While he had been in poor health for some time, his death came as a shock to his family and friends.

The body was taken to the home of J. M. E. O'Grady, No. 267 Westminster road, where funeral services will take place at 8:30 o'clock to-morrow morning. Services will be held at 9 o'clock in the Cathedral, of which Mr. O'Grady was a member. Burial will be made in Holy Sepulchre cemetery.

Mr. O'Grady leaves, besides his brother, a sister, Mrs. Fred A. Hale, of Salt Lake City.
FRANK HAWLEY.
Under Sheriff Who Died Suddenly To-day.

HAD LONG CAREER IN COURTHOUSE

Post Under Sheriff Frank I. Hawley Dies Suddenly.

HEARTTHROUBLE THE CAUSE

Had Served Under Ten Different Sheriffs.

Found Dead in Ante-room by Associates—Chased One Criminal Across the Atlantic.

When Under-sheriff Frank I. Hawley, 67 years old, connected with the sheriff's office for thirty-five years, did not return to his desk this morning after starting out to draw a jury list, a search was instituted for him and he was found dead, by Deputy Ralph Burton and L. E. Sippel, on the floor of one of the ante-rooms. Coroner Killip gave the cause death heart failure.

Mr. Hawley had complained this morning that one side was partially paralyzed so that he was unable to write. He had had an attack of heart trouble about two months ago.

Mr. Hawley was one of the best known of the county officers of the law. He served several years as a deputy in the town of Chili, where his grandfather was a pioneer settler and thirty-five years ago was made an office deputy by Sheriff John W. Hannan. He served under Sheriffs Hannan, Thomas Hodgson, Burton Davey, John Schrot, Thomas W. Ford, Charles H. Bailey, William H. Craig, Willie Hawley, William Hanly, Charles S. Owen and two years under the present sheriff, Andrew Weidenmann.

Out for Short Time.

Mr. Hawley was out of the office for a few months during the short period, George R. Brown was sheriff. Brown was appointed by a Democratic governor of New York, Flamer Hanly died and he appointed Matthew R. Connor to Hawley's place. This was in April 1914, and the first of the following year Hawley was back in his old place.

Although for the last dozen years Hawley had managed the office and the business before this period he was one of the most active of the clerks. The office of the post office, under him was one of the most active of the clerks. His pursuit of men wanted has carried him to such remote places as London, Eng., Pasadena, Cal., and New Orleans. His trip to London to sell Charles Young, the saloon broker whose activities resulted in his indictment was the most notable arrest. Young was cleared, but a conviction and sentence was a new trial and was sent back to England where he was shot by a guard trying to escape.

Hard Working Official.

Mr. Hawley was a hard-working official, and Sheriff Weidenmann declared that he would be greatly missed. He knew the business of the office so thoroughly that practically all matters were put up to him.

Mr. Hawley is survived by two brothers, Ward Hawley, of Batavia, N. Y. and William Hanly of Chili, and he was a member of Yonmodio Lodge, F. & A. M. Arrangements for the funeral will be announced later. It will probably be held from his Chili home.

MORAVIAN CHURCH

Heavenly Father, we bring before Thee this day the body of Jacob Gordon, who was laid to rest in our churchyard at 9:30 o'clock yesterday morning, and we ask Thy blessing upon this poor soul. We commend him to Thee, and ask Thee to have pity on him in Thy kingdom.

MORAVIAN CHURCH

We commend the body of Charles A. Mathews, who died at his home in South Elm Street yesterday afternoon, to Thee, and we ask Thee to have pity on him in Thy kingdom.

The funeral of Charles A. Mathews was held Wednesday afternoon at the home of his bereft widow, Mrs. Mathews, who was at her late husband's side until the last. His body was placed in the coffin and the remains were then taken to the First Baptist Church, where services were conducted by Rev. Dr. Steven E. Mathews, a former pastor of the church, and by Rev. Dr. George H. Mathews, who has been a member of the congregation for many years.

The service was attended by a large number of persons, including the mayor and members of the city council, and many friends of the deceased. The service was conducted by Rev. Dr. Steven E. Mathews, who has been a member of the congregation for many years.

The body was then taken to the church, where the services were conducted by Rev. Dr. Steven E. Mathews, and by Rev. Dr. George H. Mathews, who has been a member of the congregation for many years.

The body was then placed in the church, where the services were conducted by Rev. Dr. Steven E. Mathews, and by Rev. Dr. George H. Mathews, who has been a member of the congregation for many years.

The body was then placed in the church, where the services were conducted by Rev. Dr. Steven E. Mathews, and by Rev. Dr. George H. Mathews, who has been a member of the congregation for many years.
Arthur Vincent Fagan
Was Popular Teacher

Funeral services for Arthur Vincent Fagan, a member of the faculty of Washington High School, were held at the home of his son, Arthur S. David Thompson died yesterday at 9 o'clock at the family home, Garden street, Irondequoit, aged 65 years.

Mr. Thompson was one of the best known gardeners in this part of the state, having been engaged in the business all his life. He was born in Irondequoit May 3, 1851, the son of Mr. and Mrs. David Thompson and lived there all his life.

He was an elder of Memorial Presbyterian Church and had been assistant superintendent of the Sunday school for the last 15 years. He leaves his wife, Ida R. Thompson, one son, John D. Thompson of Clarkson; two daughters, Mrs. Chauncey West and Mrs. Charles H. Pratt of Irondequoit, and Frank H. Thompson of Brockport, two sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Page of this city and Mrs. Lloyd Lamming of Irondequoit, and nine grandchildren.

Charles N. Pratt
Helped Develop Electric Light

Charles N. Pratt, pioneer in the development of electric light business of Rochester died this morning at his home at 340 Garson avenue, aged 65 years.

Charles N. Pratt was born in Newark, N. Y., March 26, 1853. His early education was obtained in the schools of Newark and he later attended Lima Seminary.

Shortly after graduating from there, he settled in Rochester. In 1877 he became connected with the Edison Electric Illuminating Company which was then in its infancy, and was active in its progress until he died.

He was mainly responsible for the first placing of the electric light wires underground in Rochester and has always been in close touch with the generation, transmission and distribution of the electric light.

He had a lovable disposition and was liked by everyone with whom he was associated.

Mr. Pratt was a member of the Rochester Chamber of Commerce, Hamilton Chapter, American Red Cross; the Rochester Society; the Genesee; and one of the early members of the Rochester Engineering Society.

He leaves his wife, one daughter, Mona A., two sons, Seeley F., of Rochester, and C. Earl, of Cleveland.

F. A. Brockett
Death Summons

Well Known Architect Succumbs to Brief Attack of Pneumonia.

SUCCESSFUL CAREER ENDED

Splendid Reputation Earned in Drawing Plans for Many Rochester Buildings. 1919

Frederick Andrew Brockett died yesterday morning at his home, 68 Magee Avenue, after a brief illness which at first was thought to be slight but later proved to be pneumonia.

Mr. Brockett was born in New Haven, Conn., and came to Rochester when a boy. At an early age he entered the architect's office of his uncle, Andrew L. Warner, for whom he was named. This association continued for many years. Mr. Brockett rising from employee and student to member of the firm of Warner & Brockett. In the same firm were Mr. Warner's two sons, J. Foster Warner and William A. Warner and also Mr. Brockett's brother, Willis J. Brockett.

As a member of this firm, Mr. Brockett was engaged in the construction of the Wilder Building, Powers Hotel, additions to the Powers Building and many other prominent buildings of Rochester. Upon the dissolution of the firm, Mr. Brockett opened an office in the Granite Building and subsequently moved to his late location, the Cutter Building.

Through faithful clients under a capable master, Mr. Brockett thoroughly prepared himself for his life work. Those who knew his work were warm in their praise for his unusual ability and integrity in putting forth the best of his command. Many buildings in Rochester and elsewhere bear witness to his skill and taste. It is said that he would lose a client rather than specify any construction which he believed was not absolutely safe.

Mr. Brockett was fond of music and, possessing a good voice, he found a large part of his recreation in giving expression to this talent. He was a member of the original Rochester Opera Club and of the Rochester Choral Society as organized under Ludwig Schock. He was a most interesting conversationalist and held the highest esteem of those who really knew him. Especially fond of children, his gentle and kindly disposition won in return the love of the little folk with whom he came in contact.

Mr. Brockett leaves his wife, Mrs. Nettie T. Brockett; his mother, Mrs. Cornelia Brockett; a brother, Willis J. Brockett; a daughter, Mrs. Walter G. Dent; all of Rochester; and a son, Clyde F. Brockett, a student at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.
LEWIS ADLER
HIT BY AUTO; DIES OF SHOCK

Two persons were killed by automobiles yesterday, Lewis Adler, 52, of Argyle street, formerly a member of the firm of Adler, Martin & Katz, manufacturers of shoes, and father of Assemblyman Simon L. Adler, majority leader of the state Assembly, died in the Park Avenue hospital last night of injuries suffered early in the afternoon when he was struck by an automobile driven by Mrs. P. O. Viall of Webster Groves, Mo.

Mr. Adler was crossing the street from the south to the north side of Park avenue at Berkeley street, when he was struck.

LEWIS ADLER,
by the left fender of the machine. He was thrown to the pavement. Mrs. Viall stopped her car and Mr. Adler was taken in the machine to the Park Avenue hospital, where he was attended by Dr. George A. Marion of 610 North Goodman street, and Dr. Samuel H. Rosenthal of 1 Aubobon street.

An examination showed that Mr. Adler suffered a fracture of the nose, severe lacerations of the scalp and bruises about the body. The automobile driven by Mrs. Viall is owned by her father, C. D. Duke of Clover street, Brighton, whom she is visiting. Witnesses of the accident say the machine was being driven slowly. Mrs. Viall was not detained by the police.

Mr. Adler was born in Germany and came to this country at an early age. He settled in Medina, where for nearly 40 years he conducted a retail clothing business. About 20 years ago, he moved to Rochester. For several years he was not actively engaged in business, but later became a member of the firm of Adler, Martin & Katz, since manufacturers of 15 South avenue.

He retired from this business about two years ago.

Rev. Henry F. Gift
Editor Post Express: Oct. 7, 1919

It is with a deep sense of loss to the presbytery of Rochester has been called upon to record the death, on Sunday, October 6th, of one of its highly esteemed members, Rev. Henry F. Gift. He came to the presbytery on September 25, 1905, from the presbytery of Duluth, and was settled over the Church of Charlotte, now the Lake Side, church, Rochester, the village of Charlotte having become a part of the city.

We have appreciated his good work during the whole of those fourteen years, and have rejoiced in the privilege of fellowship with him, for he had been one of the most faithful in attendance upon all the gatherings whether for business or for spiritual communion.

He was a faithful minister of Jesus Christ, loyal to his Lord, loyal to the truth, loyal to duty. The members of the presbytery esteemed him not alone as a brother beloved in the ministry, but also as a ripe scholar, an able preacher, a tireless pastor and a faithful friend.

He was born in Baguhi, Germany, on July 31, 1851. He was graduated from Hamilton college in 1877 and from Auburn Theological seminary in 1892. He was licensed by the presbytery of Cayuga in 1893 and ordained by the denominational council of Oregon on September 22, 1892.

At a meeting of the presbytery in "Estate" at Avon on Monday, October 7th, many expressions of esteem for Mr. Gift were voiced, and the stated clerk was directed to send to Mrs. Gift and the three children who survive, a daughter and two sons, assurance of deepest sympathy on behalf of the whole body.

G. B. F. Hallock, Stated Clerk.

PHYSICIAN DIES AFTER MONTHS OF ILL HEALTH

Dr. Porter Farley, a former resident of Rochester, died yesterday at his home, No. 1 Carriage street. His death was not unexpected, as he had been in failing health for several months. The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the home, and burial will be made in Mount Hope cemetery.

Dr. Farley was born in Rochester on August 6, 1850, a son of Joseph and Laura Porter Fafry, who came to this city from Maine several years before. His first education was received at Miss Porter's school in Canal street, and at Dr. Darrow's School, both private institutions. Later he attended the University of Rochester, but was graduated from Union College, after which he attended the College of Physicians and Surgeons at Columbia University, being graduated from there as valedictorian of his class. He took post-graduate courses at Heidelberg and the University of Vienna.

Served in Civil War

Upon his return to Rochester from abroad, Dr. Farley began his practice of medicine, associating with Dr. Charles E. Rider, a specialist in diseases of the eye and ear. Although he retired from active work some years ago, he always was interested in medical research.

He went to the Civil War from Rochester as a member of the 140th Regiment and served three years, participating in nearly all the big battles, including Gettysburg, Chancellorsville, the Wilderness and Spotsylvania Court House. He was commissioned four times during the war.

Dr. Farley was a member of George H. Thomas Post, G. A. R.; Loyal Legion, Fortunatly Club, Monroe Association, an honorary member of the Rochester Pachyderm Club, and he twice served as president of the Rochester Historical Society. He also was a prominent member of the First Unitarian Church.

He leaves, besides his wife, Mrs. Laura Porter Farley, two sons, Walter L. and William R. Farley, and two daughters, Mrs. Frederick C. Kennedy, of this city, and Mrs. George H. Sickles, of Providence.

FUNERAL OF MRS. GEORGE W. WILDER

Memorial Address

Members of Session of Westminster Church Act as Bearers—Superintendent of Kindergarten 16 Years.

The funeral of Mrs. George W. Wilder was held yesterday afternoon at her late residence, 3 Normandy Avenue. A house full of friends paid earnest tribute to the memory of a woman whose service and character were of unusual note. Her husband, George W. Wilder, is an elder in the session of Westminster Church, in which she served for 16 years as superintendent of the Kindergarten Department. She was also actively associated with the work of the church in other capacities and was one of its most faithful and well-known members.

She was a woman of rare charm of personality; with a happy humor, and a fine sympathy for young life that made her peculiarly qualified for that task with the little people. One of her co-workers in that department for the last ten years reported that never had she seen any circumstance, or any child, however irritating, disturb Mrs. Wilder’s cheerful good nature or evoke her slightest annoyance. Her love for children and her service to them was the expression at once of a natural aptitude and a deeply devoted Christian consecration.

Mrs. Wilder was born at Silver Creek, Nov. 12, 1864. She united with the church at the age of 20, was married Nov. 16, 1887, and had two daughters, one of whom passed away in early life. The other, Miss Marion Wilder, is a teacher in the public schools of the city, residing with her father at the family home. The long connection of the family with Westminster Church and Mrs. Wilder’s special services make her death a severe blow to the church. Mrs. Wilder for some time also served as organizer of the kindergartener work in the Italian Presbyterian Church on Magne street, where she will be greatly mourned by many friends won by her helpful efforts.

The Rev. Henry H. Barlow, the pastor of Westminster Church, conducted the services. In commenting upon her he said: "No person could pass from the membership of Westminster Church leaving in more hearts a sense of personal loss than Mrs. Wilder. The most eloquent eulogy that could be paid to her memory would be that of reverent silence, while the imagination should picture a vast procession of thousands of children touched by her life leaving a tribute of a flower upon her bier as they pass."

Interment took place at Riverside Cemetery. The bearers were members of the Session of Westminster Church: W. B. Gates, W. B. Huther, G. C. Baker, H. B. Graves, E. H. Perry, W. G. Benedict, with W. F. Parry, senior member of the Session, as honorary bearer.

Rev. John G. Battle, Jr.

Rev. John George Battle died on Saturday in Omaha at the age of 57, the result of influenza and pneumonia, from which he suffered last fall. His death was a great shock to both relatives and friends, of which he had many.

Mr. Battle was the first of several members of the John M. Carvel Bible Class of First Baptist Church of Bloomfield, N. J., to enter the ministry. Mr. Battle completed his preparatory course at Peddie Institute, Hightstown, N. J., and came to the University of Rochester, where he was graduated in 1906. He was a member of the Alpha Delta Phi fraternity, was interested in the Glee Club and other U. of R. activities.

Mr. Battle was ordained in First Baptist Church of Bloomfield, N. J., and later was married to Mrs. Wilder for some time also served as superintendent of the Kindergarten Department. She was also actively associated with the work of the church in other capacities and was one of its most faithful and well-known members.

She was a woman of rare charm of personality; with a happy humor, and a fine sympathy for young life that made her peculiarly qualified for that task with the little people. Passes Safely Through Five Major Engagements in France and Dies Two Weeks After Quitting the Army—U. of R., '19 Class.
Oct. 20, 1919

After passing safely through five major engagements in France, Lieutenant Gustave A. Baltzer, son of the Rev. and Mrs. O. G. Baltzer, 135
Child street, died early yesterday morning at Dr. Lee's Hospital from surgical shock, following an operation.

Lieutenant Baltzer had been out of the army only two weeks, having returned to this country from the Army of Occupation last September 13. Following the signing of the armistice, he was assigned to the staff of Major-General Smith at Luxembourg as an intelligence officer and was later attached to the Inter-Allied Tribunal Commission, serving as secretary to the American high commissioner, Hartford Noves. He was taken to the hospital on Friday and the operation, which by his friends was not believed to be serious, was performed Saturday morning. He recovered from the anesthetic, but died from shock early yesterday morning.

He was a graduate of West High school and a member of the class of 1919 of the University of Rochester and of the Delta Kappa Equipe Fra-taternity. During his three years at college he was prominent in undergraduate life and was considered one of the most popular men of his class. When the war broke out he was once applied for service in the Intelligence Department and having passed all examinations, was called in January 1918 to Camp Hancock, Georgia.

His father the Rev. A. O. Baltzer, is pastor of Trinity Evangelical Church. Lieutenant Baltzer is surved by his parents; a brother, Armin
Saltzer, and a sister, Miss Wanda E.
Baltzer. The funeral will be held tomorrow at 2:30 o'clock from Trinity Evangelical Church and burial will be made at Mt. Hope Cemetery.
Widely Known Contractor Succumbs to Long Illness

Frederick A. Brotch, one of the widest known contractors in this city, died yesterday at his home, 466 Mt. Hope avenue, aged 65 years and seven months; succumbing to a long illness. Known to thousands of Rochesterians as 'Fred' Brotch, he had a legion of friends in social, fraternal, business and political life. He was a mason, contractor, succeeding his father, Victor Brotch, who began a career of masonry contracting in this city in 1851. He was one of six children, of Swiss descent, and was born in this city on April 9, 1854.

His early education was received in the public schools of this city and he was apprenticed in his youth to the paving of Main street. He was a member of the Clothing Company, then with Strauss Brothers went out of business he went with the Union Clothing Company, with which he was connected at the time of his death.

The funeral will take place Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the family home. Interment will be at Mt. Hope Cemetery.

A. B. HENDRIX

DIES AT HOME

Was Formerly Prominent in Politics in Twentieth Ward Engaged in Clothing Business for Many Years.

Albert B. Hendrix, long active in politics in the Twentieth Ward and a lifelong Republican, died last evening at his home, 178 Warwick avenue, aged 63 years. He leaves his wife, Minnie E. Hendrix, one daughter, Mrs. Albert B. Hendrix, of this city, and Lyda. Eleanor Hendrix.

Mr. Hendrix, who had been living with his daughters, was a member of the board of directors of the Baptist church, in Fairport, and many later became active in church work and prominent in social and business life in various places.

WELL-KNOWN NEWSPAPER MAN DIES SUDDENLY

Oliver L. Angevine, Many Years a Reporter on "Democrat and Chronicle," Passes Away.

Oliver L. Angevine, for the past sixteen years a reporter on the staff of the "Democrat and Chronicle," and for twenty-eight years a newspaperman, died suddenly of heart disease last night at his home, 547 Arnett Boulevard, aged 89 years. The funeral will take place Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the home. Interment, which will be private, will be made in Mt. Hope Cemetery.

Mr. Angevine was widely known in political circles. For the past six years he had "covered" the City hall news, which includes political campaigns and the municipal and county elections. He first entered newspaper work on the old "Sunday Herald," in the advertising department. For about six years after that he was with the "Evening Times," both as advertising man and as a member of the city news staff. He entered the employ of the "Democrat and Chronicle" as a reporter in February, 1884, and had been with that newspaper continuously ever since.

He was one of the pioneer telephone workers of the East, having, as a very young man, helped in putting through the American Telephone and Telegraph long distance line in Northern Pennsylvania. Later, Mr. Angevine took up the study of telegraphy, and became telegraph operator for the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh railroad at the Scottsville Station. This position he held up to the time he decided to enter newspaper work.

Oliver L. Angevine was born in Rochester, May 30, 1840, the son of Edward and Helen Angevine. Edward Angevine, at the time of his death in 1912, was the oldest newspaper man in the country. From 1876 to 1880 he was city clerk of Rochester.

Mr. Angevine was a member of the Rochester Newswriters' Club and a charter member of the Rochester Association of Newspaper Writers, which he helped to organize.

Mr. Angevine leaves his wife, Anne P. Angevine; a daughter, Mrs. Mason D. Gray; three sons, Oliver L. Angevine, Jr., Dr. Robert W. Angevine and Elbert Angevine, and two grandchildren, Oliver L. Angevine, Jr., and Richard Allen Angevine, all of Rochester; three brothers, Edward L. Angevine of Sedona, Ward K. Angevine of Palmyra and Hubert Angevine of Rochester, and a sister, Mrs. May L. Lewis of this city.

IN MEMORIAM

Post Nov. 1, 1919

Many Rochester homes have been saddened by the death of Mrs. Henry Aultman. For over thirty years the wife of the rector of St. Luke's church, she was known and loved, not only by those immediately associated with her in the parish, but by a large circle of friends outside, who knew her for her gracious and gracious manner endearing her to all, and the remembrances of her loyal devotion to her friends will be cherished by all who now so deeply mourn her loss.

Aged Artist Victim of Speeding Truck; Claimed by Police

JOHN Z. WOOD
DIES AT HOSPITAL

TRUCK DRIVER HELD; MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE

George C. Newell, 67 Fernwood Avenue, Alleged to Have Been Driving at Excessive Speed.

Manslaughter, second degree, is involved in the death of John Z. Wood, well-known artist, aged 72 years, who made his home at the hotel, 144 South avenue, in the early hours of yesterday morning. It is alleged that Newell, driver of a truck, and George L. Herdle, who arrested Newell, produced a chart in court, to show that Newell's truck skidded thirty feet in Clinton avenue, near Johnson street, where the fatality happened. Another chart, the policeman said, showed that the truck could have been brought to a standstill within nine feet if the truck had been operated in compliance with the speed laws. He also gave evidence that the truck was at a rate of speed of 30 miles in the congested district. Clinton avenue, and Johnson street is included in the congested section.

William J. Baker, attorney, requesting adjournment of the hearing, intimated the defense would prove that Newell's truck was not speeding at the time Wood was struck. Wood suffered a fractured skull, and died yesterday afternoon.

Judge Hebhard, presiding, ordered that bail of $1,000 be deposited by Newell for his appearance in court a week from to-day. The defense tried to have the amount of bail reduced, but the magistrate refused the request.

Mr. Wood's Career.

John Z. Wood was born in England in 1846, and with his parents went to London, Ontario, when a young child. In 1857 they removed to this city, Mr. Wood spending the remainder of his life here with the exception of about ten years in Winnipeg, Manitoba, Minneapolis, Minn., and Los Angeles. He returned to this city only about a year ago.

As a young man he worked in Lang's children's carriage factory, doing the decorative painting. Then, for a time he worked for the firm of Frank Van Doorn, a sign painter, and afterwards for several years for Menzies, Ruh and Utcher, which later became the Utcher Lithographic company.

But art called him and sometime in the early seventies he opened a studio with William Lockhart in the old Baker building, Main street west and Milwaukee street. Afterwards, with James Summersville, he opened a studio in the Arcade building, and it was in this studio that the Goose Grease club, which proved to be the nucleus of the present Art club, was formed.

The Goose Grease club as originally formed included Mr. Wood, John Lockhart, Harvey Ellis and Seth C. Jones, and the meeting place for a long time was in the Ellis home in Main street East.

Art Club Organization.

The Goose Grease club, of which Mr. Wood was always a leading spirit, gave way to the Art club, which was organized by these charter members: Mr. Wood, Rev. James H. Dennis, James Summersville, J. Guernsey Mitchell, Horatio Walker, Harvey Ellis and William S. Kimball. Afterwards William Lockhart became a member, and in time the club gathered in most of the artists and art lovers of the city.

When the Civil war came, Mr. Wood volunteered and served in 1864-5 in a company of the 54th Regiment, doing guard duty at the Confederate prisoners' camp in Elmira. After the war he became more and more engrossed in art, and for a time he bent his energies towards scenic painting. The scenic equipment in Masonic temple having been painted by him, as well as scenery for some of the theaters. He became one of the best painters in this line.

His Paintings in Homes.

His medium for many years was water colors, but in recent times he had done considerable in oils. His paintings are in many Rochester homes where they are highly prized. He was always an "outdoor painter," and almost since early manhood his studio had been in the field. All through the years since he had been instrumental in organizing the Art club he had been active in it, and during the past year or one of his chief activities had been trying to find a site near Irondequoit bay for a permanent studio which he intended eventually to turn over to the club. He was about to close negotiations for a site when struck down. Interested with him in looking for this site was his lifelong friend and almost inseparable companion, Dennis H. Flood, scenic artist, who was also with him when he met his fatal accident.

For many years Mr. Wood's home was at Elm and Chestnut street, the site now occupied by the Fine Arts building. After he sold the property he went to live in the hotel at South avenue and Court street.

Mr. Wood married Nellie Rose, a daughter of Horace Rose, an old time business man here. She died about five years ago in Buffalo while on her way to join him in Winnipeg. She had left Rochester for the long journey west, but was taken sick on the train and died upon reaching Buffalo. Prior to the time he went to Winnipeg, Mr. Wood's son had died, so that he leaves no family.

Man of Wide Acquaintance.

Mr. Wood had a very wide acquaintance throughout Western New York. He was not only a splendid artist, but he was a man of many fine social qualities, not the smallest of which was his quaint humor and ability to tell a story effectively. If it was a bit of merriment he was doing, it was inimitably done, and so it was with everything else he attempted.

The funeral will be held to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at the mortuary chapel at 285 Alexander street. The bearers will be George L. Hurdle, president of the Art club; Seth C. Jones, secretary; George H. Broadway, Frank R. Niven, A. B. Chamberlain and members of the club and Dennis H. Flood.
JOHN Z. WOOD

WAS PROMINENT ARTIST OF CITY

Man Fatally Injured by Auto Had Done Special Work for Government—Was Charter Member of Rochester Art Club.

John Z. Wood, 76, of 144 South Avenue, who died yesterday afternoon in Hansenmann Hospital from injuries received when he was struck by a motor truck in Clinton Avenue south yesterday morning, was a prominent artist of Rochester, and some years ago was an instructor at Mechanics Institute.

When the United States entered the war, Mr. Wood did special work for the government, and worked on a series of paintings which were to be used for instruction in range finding. This work had just been completed when the accident was signed.

Mr. Wood had painted much of the scenery used by the various bodies in Masonic Temple and had also done considerable work for the Beecher Lithograph Company.

Mr. Wood was a charter member of the Rochester Art Club and prominent in the smaller gatherings of artists held before the founding of the Art Club. In 1864 he and a few other local artists held social gatherings in William Lockhart's studio in the Palmer building, on the site now occupied by the McCardy department store. In the early seventies, he took a studio in the old Arcade building and organized the famous old Queen's Gruena Club, which included in its membership James Somerville, Harvey Ellis, Will Lockhart and Seth C. Jones.

This club held meetings for several years in the old Ellis home on East Main street near Gibbs. In 1873 the club roster enlarged and the Rochester Art Club was founded, to be incorporated in 1893 with John Z. Wood, the Rev. James H. Dennis, John Somerville, John G. Mitchell, Horatio Walker Harvey Ellis and William S. Kimball.

From that time until his death Mr. Wood was an active member of the Art Club, with the exception of several years spent in Winnepeg about 10 years ago. He lived for a number of years at the corner of Elm and Chestnut street, where the Fine Arts Building now stands. During the past summer Mr. Wood spent a great amount of his time in the vicinity of Irondequoit bay, seeking a suitable site for his summer studio, which he intended to be used by the Art Club. He was often accompanied on these trips by the older artists of the city, including Dennis Flood, a retired artist, and who was with Mr. Wood yesterday at the time of the accident. Mr. Flood himself narrowly escaped injury.

Mr. Wood was a Civil War veteran and was a member of the Union Grays Company of the old 54th Regiment, which did duty at the Elmira prison camp. He had no immediate relatives, his wife and son having died some years ago.

REUBEN A. DAKE

DIES SUDDENLY

Had Been Prominent Fruit Gardener in Irondequoit for Many Years—Stricken While at Dinner.

REUBEN A. Dake, one of the most prominent residents of Irondequoit, who met suddenly on Thursday at his home at Dake's Corners, Summerville boulevard, last evening, and died within a few moments. Dr. Alexander Walker of St. Paul Boulevard was summoned but Mr. Dake was beyond aid and Coroner Milton Chapman was notified. Death is believed to have been due to acute indigestion.

Mr. Dake was seated at the table with his mother, Mrs. Dr. Charles A. Dake, who is 83 years of age, and his son and daughter. He had just remarked that he wished he could eat like the rest of the family when he was stricken.

Mr. Dake, who was 75 years of age, retired from active gardening several years ago. He had enjoyed the best of health up to a few days ago. He was born in Saratoga Springs in 1844, the son of Dr. and Mrs. Charles A. Dake. With the family he moved to Warsaw, Wyoming county, and at the age of 19 years his father came to Rochester and settled in the old stone house on St. Paul boulevard which is still standing.

He was a prominent member of Irondequoit Grange and one of the founders of the Irondequoit Congregational Church. He was supervisor of the Sunday school at the time of his death.

Bequeathing his mother, Mr. Dake leaves a daughter, Mrs. William Hartman of Rochester; a son, Frank Dake of Irondequoit, and three grandchildren. He was superintendant of the Sunday school and one of the founders of the Irondequoit Congregational Church. Funeral services will be held from the home at 10:30 o'clock Monday morning.

The funeral of William G. Burritt, for 20 years employed as bookkeeper in the office of the department of public safety, who died Sunday at his home, 157 Bronson avenue, will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from the house. Interment will be made in Mt. Hope cemetery.

After the department of public safety was organized in 1811, during the term of Mayor James G. Cutler, Mr. Burritt was appointed to the position which he held to the time of his death. He served under Commissioners Gilman, Owen and Hamilton. The last twenty years of his life have been identified with the life of the department, as previous to 1860 the police department was under a board of three commissioners and the fire department was a branch of the board corresponding to the present department of public works.

Mr. Burritt was affiliated with several fraternal organizations, among them being the Odd Fellows and the Mac-Men, and was a member of the Chamber of Commerce.

MRS. HENRY L. CHURCHILL.

Funeral of Daughter of Early Settler in This Section.

The funeral of Mrs. Henry L. Churchill, formerly Miss Annie Blanche Cayler, of this city, who died Saturday at her home in Schenectady, took place yesterday afternoon from 182 East avenue. Rev. Frederick Crosby Lee, rector of St. Andrew's Episcopal church, officiated. Interment was made in Mt. Hope cemetery.

Mrs. Churchill's father was Colonel William Tremper Cayler, who was born in Albany, N.Y., July 12, 1810, the son of Johannes Cornelius Cayler and Hannah Mally, of Albany. He was among the first students of the old Albany academy when that institute was organized in 1812. When he became of age his career was marked by the possibilities opening up in the western part of New York state by the construction of the Erie canal, and he embraced that so as to travel to Rochester, where he engaged in business. At the time the Westfield and Pittsford families were settling in the rich valley of the Genesee river he followed them, and purchased the large estate which Samuel Miles Hopkins had bought from the Indians in 1810, naming the place Cuylerville. He laid out this property in the manner of a gentleman farmer, erected a Colonial mansion, on the brow of a wooded hill, and called his place Woodlands. He died there December 21, 1864, and was buried in Mt. Hope cemetery.

MRS. ROSINA ABBEY NIENTIMP.

Funeral of Allen Nientimp, a respected resident of Rochester, died on Friday evening at his home, 306 Clinton Avenue North, aged 83 years. She was born in Missouri, Germany, in 1835, and came to America at the age of 17 years, since which time she has made her home in this city. Her marriage to Ignaz Nientimp was celebrated at St. Joseph's Church in Rochester in 1856. Mr. Nientimp was one of Rochester's successful business men and a veteran of the Civil War. Mrs. Nientimp was known in the city as the friend of the poor. She leaves five children, Mrs. Catherine Finn, Mrs. Charles Schleifer, Mrs. Harriet Hynes and John T. Nientimp, all of this city, and George C. Nientimp of Erie, Pa.; 12 grandchildren, 15 great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild.

The funeral will take place on Tuesday morning at 9:30 o'clock from St. Michael's Church. Burial will be made in Holy Sepulcher Cemetery.

MRS. ALICE S. MANSFIELD.

Miss Alice S. Mansfield, one of Rochester's best known women, died on Monday in a New York hospital. She went to New York a week ago to consult a specialist, but no work could be done to save her life. She has been connected with the 1000 N. Larkin & Co. Company store in this city for the last twenty-five years and for the last fifteen years has been buyer for and manager of the main underwear department. She leaves a host of friends in this city in business and social circles. Miss Mansfield was born in Lyons, fifty-four years ago. She leaves four sisters, Mrs. Emily Thomas of Rochester, the Misses Helen and Mary Mansfield of Lyons and Mrs. C. C. Hayden of Holley, also one brother, Wallace Mansfield of Lyons. The funeral will take place from the family home, 3 Spencer Street, Lyons, N. Y., on Thursday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. A special car for Lyons will be attached to the Rochester, Syracuse & Eastern train, leaving Rochester at 11 o'clock, and will return after the funeral.
Marcus Kochenthal Laid At Rest Today

Funeral services for Marcus Kochenthal were held this afternoon from the home at 160 Dartmouth street. Rabbi Emanuel Dr. Max Landesberg and Rabbi Horace J. Wolff at Temple Beth Shalom officiated. Active bearers were: Jacob G. Rosenberg, A. M. Sloman, M. Present, Frank Solomon, Charles J. Lang and Jesse Kochenthal. I norary bearers were: L. E. Rose, Simon Stein, Marcus Strauss, Max Levy, Fanny Guggenheim, Peter Fletcher, A. Lowenburg, Meyer H. Lane, Marcus Frank and David Brickner.

Mr. Kochenthal died yesterday in Mount Sinai Hospital, New York. He was a senior partner of the firm of Marcus Kochenthal & Company, 92 St. Paul street. He had been ill for about two months. Marcus was born on September 9, 1870, at Hillsdale, Mich., a son of Jacob and Matilda Kochenthal. He came to Rochester in 1871, where he completed his early education. He was connected with the Stein Casket Company and latter was associated with his uncle, Abram J. Katz, in the trimming business.

Mr. Kochenthal was an active worker in Temple Beth Shalom, of which he was a trustee. He also was a member of the Iroquois Club and a former president of the Eureka Club. At a special meeting of the automobile Club of Rochester yesterday noon a resolution on the death of Mr. Kochenthal was adopted.

Funeral services for Sydney Goldsmith, a brother-in-law of Mr. Kochenthal, who died yesterday at Denver, Colorado, will be held at 10 o'clock Sunday morning from the home of his parents, 204 Westminster road.

Mr. Goldsmith for several years was connected with the Rochester clothing industry. He was born in this city in 1848, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Max Goldsmith, and lived here until he went West, a short time ago owing to ill health. He was a Mason. He was associated with Levy Brothers Clothing Company.

DEATHS—FUNERALS

THEODORE D. SPERRY.

Civil War Veteran and Early Settler
Died at Home of His Son.

Theodore D. Sperry, Civil War veteran and son of pioneer Rochesterians, died yesterday at the home of a son, Theodore H. Sperry, 861 Dewey avenue, aged 83 years. Besides his son, he leaves three daughters, Mrs. John J. Parmer of Madison, Fla., Mrs. Hiram J. Avery of Canandaigua, and Julia E. Sperry of Rochester.

Mr. Sperry’s parents came to Rochester before it was a village and settled on the Lyell road. Mr. Sperry enlisted August 23, 1862, in Company D, 104th Infantry, and took part in many important battles of the Civil War. He was taken prisoner and spent six months in Andersonville prison.

After the war he engaged in farming and later worked for the New York Central railroad. He then was employed for six years in the mail service and in 1884 went to Florida where he engaged in the orange industry. He returned to Rochester in 1896 and after ten years as rural mail carrier in Gates retired to live with his son.
DEATHS—FUNERAL POSTER

Rosalia Man nel, widow of Gustavus Mannel, died at the family home, 333 Alexander street, on Wednesday evening, aged 53 years. Mr. Mannel was one of the first practicing dentists in Rochester, and had been a resident of the city for more than forty years. He was a member of the Rochester Dental Society, and was well known for his kind and considerate ways. Mrs. Mannel was a devoted mother and wife, and will be greatly missed by her family and friends.

DR. WILLIAM W. BELCHER

Prominent Dentists
To Act As Bearers
For Dr. W. W. Belcher

Dr. Belcher was a leading figure in the Rochester Dental Society, and was known for his kind and considerate ways. He was a respected member of the community, and will be greatly missed.

SCHOOL TEACHER

FOR MORE THAN 40 YEARS DIES

Anna Simpson, of Lincoln School 22, at work yesterday, succumbs.

News of the sudden death of Anna Simpson, for more than forty years a teacher in the public schools, was received by her many associates with profound regret. Miss Simpson, who lived at 1309 East street, was suddenly ill and died before medical assistance could be summoned. She had been one of the oldest teachers in the district, and was well known for her kind and considerate ways. She will be greatly missed by her many students and colleagues.
John H. Hopkins, prominent in various charitable and other branches of the city's life for many years and Democratic candidate for Mayor at the election last autumn, died of heart failure at his home at 316 Oxford Street at 10:50 o'clock last night.

Mr. Hopkins left his law offices in the Powers Building at 5 o'clock, and was apparently in good health at the time. Later in the evening he was taken suddenly ill, and died soon after. His wife and only daughter, Miss Esther Hopkins, were at his bedside.

During the recent political campaign, Mr. Hopkins made three and four speeches nightly in various parts of the city, and his exertions during the inclement weather of late October may have contributed to his death. At the time of his death, he was president of the Children's Aid Society, and has given much of his time and talents to building up that organization to the position it now occupies.

Leaves Few Relatives.

Besides his wife and daughter, Mr. Hopkins is survived by a brother, Stephen Hopkins, an educator at Auburn Theological Seminary. Miss Hopkins was in France during the war as a Red Cross nurse, while Mr. Hopkins labored in various patriotic circles in Rochester, and gained a name as a fearless and patriotic American. His campaign for the Mayors' seat was marked by a clean-cut regard to issues concerned, and was singularly free, at Mr. Hopkins' request, from personalities and violent attack.

Besides his work with the Children's Aid Society, Mr. Hopkins is known to have done much charitable work in a quiet way and to have labored at all times for the good of his fellow Rochesterians. He was known as an able and conscientious lawyer, and his popularity with his fellow members of the Monroe County Bar Association was shown two years ago when he was elected president of that organization.

Mr. Hopkins was a member of the University Club and attended First Presbyterian Church.

John Hampden Hopkins was born at Auburn on June 28, 1854, a son of Rev. Samuel H. and Mary J. Hopkins. His father was for more than fifty years professor of church history in Auburn Theological Seminary, and his grandfather, Samuel M. Doane, was a distinguished lawyer in Albany and edited a volume of reports of the Court of Chancery of New York State that still bears his name.

Mr. Hopkins passed his boyhood in Auburn, attending the common schools there and fitting himself for Hamilton College, from which he graduated in 1872. He then entered the Albany Law School graduating in 1875. The same year he was admitted to the bar. After practicing his profession in Albany until 1877, he came to Rochester, where he had lived since.

A lifelong Democrat and earnestly interested in clean politics, Mr. Hopkins yet never sought office, and it was always under the urgent pressure of associates, who recognized his fitness for public position that he ever entered a political contest. In 1885 he was selected by the Democratic County Committee as the candidate for Surrogate, and in 1889 was the choice of his party as the candidate for president of the Common Council.

Early in his career Mr. Hopkins acquired considerable holdings of real estate in Rochester and was known to be well-to-do, outside of his law practice, which was extensive and which he conducted for years at 342 Powers Building, later removing it to 714 Powers Building, where he maintained it at the time of his death.

Prominent in Philanthropies.

On November 10, 1885, Mr. Hopkins married Martha P. Porter, daughter of Samuel D. Porter of Rochester, one of the leaders of the anti-slavery movement in this section. Mr. Hopkins was a member of the New York and Rochester Bar Associations and was at one time president of the Genesee Wist Club and of the Children's Aid Society. He attended Third Presbyterian Church and was prominent in philanthropic and charitable work.

At this crisis in the affairs of our country and the world, the city of Rochester can ill spare so useful a citizen as John H. Hopkins. The sudden death of Mr. Hopkins on Tuesday evening was a shock to his numerous friends, and will be to less so to those who knew him merely by reputation, admiring him for his sound principles.

During the World War Mr. Hopkins was aligned with the patriotic influence which had for its object the creation and the maintenance of a sound Americanism. Now, obviously his course was to the class that puts allegiance to a foreign power above obligations to the government under which it lives and thrives was made plain by the insolent use to which one of his patriotic appeals was put during the recent mayorship campaign.

The voice of true patriotism which Mr. Hopkins received on that occasion was a rebuke to the seductive influence that propagated it, and to those who profited by it through faction that brought upon them the contempt of all citizens pure Americans.
George Long of Rochester, Famed as Inasmuch Mission Founder, Died on Sunday in Philadelphia

George Long, a native of Rochester, superintendent and founder of the Inasmuch Mission at 101 Locust Street, Philadelphia, and known from coast to coast as an evangelist and mission worker, died on Sunday evening at the Philadelphia Mission. Death was due to heart failure, brought on by an attack of asthma. His wife, Mrs. Edna Long, and his brother, William A. Long, were with him when he died. He had served as a great shock to his many friends.

Following a service at James Evans Memorial Presbyterian Church in Philadelphia, Broad Street and Moyamensing Avenue, he preached two sermons at the mission after his campaign in Evans Church. He was then ordered to rest by his doctor. On Saturday Mr. Long's condition was pronounced much improved. Saturday night he remained in the village and death came Sunday evening.

For his work in behalf of those temporarily "down and out," George Long was known from coast to coast. In the eight years during which he labored for the missions, he was not the only one who was fortunate at the Inasmuch Mission thousands have been fed and sheltered under its roof. Long had fallen so low down in the scale of respectability that they were no longer received by Mr. Long at the mission.

Born in Rochester.

George Long was born in Rochester in 1877. He left here early in life to see the world but after years of discouragement and hard knocks he found himself eventually at the Inasmuch Mission in New York where he became interested in the work and was chosen a recognized leader in the mission field.

In speaking of Mr. Long's work in the mission field the Philadelphia Record of Monday says:

"If no other reason than the regeneration George Long brought about in his own life would have been a notable character. Coming here in the spring of 1908, after having spent fifteen years of his life in ideals, he remained. Mr. Long was converted at the Galile Mission, Darby, and Vine Streets, at a service conducted there by Rev. J. D. Hall, superintendent. After remaining with the Galilee Mission for a few weeks, Mr. Long went to the Jerry McAuley Railroad and was turned over for this purpose. In

In 1911 he came to this city and interested several influential and wealthy citizens in his efforts to open a place where the men who had drank deeply of the dregs of dissipation might be made over useful citizens. An old house at No. 101 Locust Street was turned over for this purpose. In the next three years he had had with such success in his undertaking that the activities of this small place for a much larger place.

In 1914 Mrs. George Woodward, wife of Senator George Woodward, built the present modern structure at No. 101 Locust Street, at a cost of $25,000. It was immediately placed the Inasmuch Mission in the front rank of institutions of its kind in the country.

In the last few years Mr. Long had developed into an evangelist of no mean ability. During the months he conducted tent services in Kensington and was active in Philadelphia. During the winter months he had conducted numerous revivals and missions at churches throughout the city.

Mr. Long is survived by his wife, Mrs. Edna Long, who was a New York City mission worker when he married her in 1909; his brother, William A. Long, and three sisters, two of whom live in Rochester and one in Kansas City. He was 42 years old. No funeral arrangements have been made as yet.

E. Darwin Smith, for 30 years Monroe County Grand Jury stenographer, died at his home, 2 Amberly Street, last night. Mr. Smith, who was well known in political and legal circles in Rochester, was born in this city 67 years ago, and was a son of E. Darwin Smith, a justice of the United States Circuit Court. The past few years his health had been poor and he had been unable to attend the Grand Jury sessions since last June. He was active in many civic matters and a member of several social betterment movements.

Mr. Smith leaves his wife, two sons and two daughters: E. Darwin Smith, Jr., Howard Ogden Smith, William Smith and Mrs. Carl F. Brown. He was a lifelong member of St. Luke's Episcopal Church; also a thirty-second degree, Scottish Rite Mason.

Cyrus R. Bennett

Cyrus R. Bennett died yesterday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. H. R. Day, Sunnyvale farm, Genesee Lake, aged 88 years. He leaves his wife and one daughter, Mrs. Day. Mr. Bennett was for more than fifty years an engineer on the Erie Railroad and was the last living charter member of the Railroad Branch of the Y. M. C. A. He was for many years a trustee of Cornell Memorial Church. He was a veteran of the Civil War, a member of Power, post, G. A. R., and a member of the Baltimore and Ohio Engineers. The body will be brought to this city and the funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock from 142 East Avenue. Interment will be in Mt. Hope Cemetery.

W. N. Clark

Buried Today

Was Well-Known Business Man in This City—Died Saturday in Stamford, Conn.

Funeral services for William Nye Clark, 65, who died Saturday in Stamford, Conn., were held this afternoon from his late home, 125 Strong Street. The Rev. L. H. Dannay, pastor of Union Church, officiated. Interment was in Mt. Hope Cemetery. The bearers were Lawrence Mulendyke, August Helmbold, John Hausman, George Whitmarsh, Leo Bourcy and Arthur Metser.

Mr. Clark was for many years identified with the business interests of this city. He founded the W. N. Clark Canning Company and was at the head of this concern until he retired a few years ago.

Mr. Clark had been ill and was incapacitated by an injury to his hip which he received last year. Death was due to acute pneumonia. Mr. Clark was under treatment in the Southwark Company, a large grocery concern in Cleveland. About 1976 he came to Rochester and for some time after that conducted a grocery business in Main Street west. Later, in cooperation with his wife, he established a small canning factory in Holten Avenue, near the site of the present Clark factory. This venture developed into a business of considerable importance.

Until his infirmities forced him to retire he spent a great deal of time in traveling in the interests of his concern. Since his retirement the business has been conducted under the direction of his son, Mr. A. Clark and Lawrence Mulendyke.

Mr. Clark leaves a son, Frank E. Clark, of Grandview, and two daughters, Mrs. Nelson E. Spencer and Mabel A. Clark of this city.

Florence A. Heal

Died After Brief Illness

Florence A. Heal, a graduate of Homeopathic Hospital Dies After Brief Illness

Florence A. Heal, a graduate of the Homeopathic Hospital and sister of Jessica E. Heal, superintendent of nurses at that institution, died this morning at her home, 587 Plymouth avenue south, after an illness of only a week. She was a graduate of the University of Rochester, and was known in the nursing fraternity and her death comes as a shock to her many friends in the city.

She leaves three brothers, M. Joshua, Thomas G. and Frederic C. Heal, and four sisters, Jessica S., Emily J. and Florence A. Heal and Mrs. James J. Withall.

The funeral will be held from St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, Averill avenue and舜nd street, Wednesday afternoon at 8:30 o'clock.
August Kimmel

August Kimmel, well known in business and fraternal circles, was born in Darmstadt, Germany, on November 1, 1864, and came to America with his parents when he was 9 years old. About the time of the Civil War, Mr. Kimmel moved to Rochester from Buffalo and entered the employ of the Rochester Daily Times, a German printing office, which later was absorbed by the Abendpost. He remained with that concern only a short time and received an appointment in the custom house at Charlotte. He remained there twelve years. He lived in the old Fourteenth Ward at that time and the voters appreciated the interest that he took in educational projects, put him up for school commissioner. To this position he was elected and held it for eight years.

Long Fraternal Man.

In 1871 Mr. Kimmel entered the grocery and coal business with his father, John Kimmel. A number of the leading citizens of Rochester were his customers. Mr. Kimmel later also became a general contractor. He continued in the coal and contract business up to the time of his death.

Mr. Kimmel had been an Odd Fellow for more than fifty years. He was a charter member of Keeney Lodge, and held membership in the Rehearsal Lodge, one of the oldest members of Germania Lodge, F. & A. M. Other fraternalities with which he was affiliated were Kappa Lodge, Ancient Order of the Harridan and the Uniformed Patricks. He was a member of Salem Evangelical Church.

Four years ago Mr. and Mrs. Kimmel celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. On November 2d last Mr. Kimmel was tendered a party in honor of his seventy-fifth birthday.

Mr. Kimmel leaves, besides his wife, Mrs. Eliza Metzger Kimmel; a daughter, Mrs. George Spindler, of this city; seven sons, Raphael Kimmel, of Warsaw; Henry, August, Frank, William, Arthur and Edward Kimmel of Rochester; and fourteen grandchildren.

Sudden Death of Maurice J. Murphy Was Great Shock to Many Rochesterians

It was a distinct shock to many Rochesterians yesterday afternoon to learn of the sudden death of Maurice J. Murphy, of 404 Parcells Avenue, who was assistant yard superintendent at the New York Central Railroad yards. He was the son of Daniel E. and Mary Murphy of East University Avenue.

Mr. Murphy was well known among the younger social set of Rochester and had been in student life active in athletics. He was quarterback on the old East High football eleven and played on the baseball team. He was graduated from Corpus Christi parochial school in 1901 and from Bradstreet's Preparatory School in 1901. Afterward he was at East High School.

Completing his school life, he went into the Drake, Fisk & Simmons firm of lawyers and company officials, corporation of which his father was first vice-president, and became a director and advertising writer. He remained with the company for nine years and then went to Cleveland. About five years ago he returned to this city and took up railroad work as his field of activity.

In 1914, Mr. Murphy was married to Mary Slattery, who survives him, together with an infant daughter, Mary C. He was a lifelong member of Corpus Christi Church. His love of outdoor sports and athletics and his genial nature made him a host of friends.

Besides his widow and child and his parents, he is survived by one brother, Vincent Murphy, and four sisters, Mrs. John Flinn, Mrs. James A. Atkinson and the Misses Grace and Margaret Murphy.

The funeral arrangements have not been made for the funeral.
Capt. Wm. H. Newcomb, Long Resident Of 1919
Tusco Charlotte, Is Dead

Captain William H. Newcomb died Monday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Hattie E. Newcomb, on the first day of this month. Captain Newcomb held several public offices. He served on the Charlott­ board of trustees in 1861 and 6 and continuously from 1896 to 1901.
Besides his daughter he leaves four great-grandchildren, a sister, Mrs.
M. J. Norton, all of this city, and a brother, George Newcomb of Greece.

HUNDRED YEARS DIRECTOR OF VOCAL
MUSIC IN THE PAROCHIAL SCHOOLS

Sister M. Austin Glynn of the Sisters of St. Joseph, died at St. Mary's Asylum in Main Street, West, on Sunday morning at 2.30 o'clock, sur­ rrounded by the Sisters of the institution, and friends, at the request of the priests of the church.

With the passing of Sister Austin there closes a life which more than that of any other member of her Order, is connected with the shaping of the musical education of the children of the city parochial schools in charge of the Sisters of St. Joseph. For more than thirty years the deceased held the position of supervisor of vocal music in these schools, and under her direction they attained a standard they have not since surpassed. For the last ten years she has been in charge of the boys' sanctuary choir of the Immaculate Conception School, while her spare time was devoted to the training of the orphan boys' choir and orchestra.

Army Sergeant's Daughter.
Sister Austin was born in Brooklyn.
She was the daughter of Sergeant Michael Glynn, U. S. A., for many years stationed at Bayview, L.I., She received the habit of the Sisters of St.
Joseph of Nazareth on May 17, 1879, at the early age of 18 years. Notwithstanding her youth she had already won distinction as a student in St.
Joseph's Academy, Plattsburg, L. J., particularly excelling in musical expression.

After her entrance into religion, Sister Austin profited so well by the instructions of able professors that as a teacher of vocal and instrumental music she had few equals. A woman of remarkable force of character and attractive personality, she dedicated her fine musical talent to the service of God for more than forty years, using her splendid gifts to draw the souls of the young to a love of higher things.

The deceased Sister is survived by her mother, Mrs. Cecelia Glynn; one sister, Miss Salina Glynn, and four brothers, John, Edward, Hugh and Alphonese Glynn, all of New York City. The funeral will take place from St. Mary's Boys' Asylum on Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock. Burial will be made in Holy Sepulcher Cemetery.

CAPT. WM. H. NEWCOMB. son of Henry and Philicha Newcomb.
His entire life was spent in Charlotte.
It was not "take him long to count the houses that composed the hamlet "at the mouth of the river" when he was a boy. All of the railroad's blast furnaces the churches, the school buildings, the light houses on the piers, the piers themselves, the stores and the staton street bridge have been built during his lifetime. As Charlotte was not incorporated until 1855, the roads furnished the best paths for the pedestrian during the first 35 years of his life. No steambeamed school house avoided him in his boyhood, no fountain of water from which to quench his thirst, but the box stock which made the room fairly comfortable about the middle of the day and the tin cup which was passed from pupil to pupil were provided for the children of his day.

At the age of 10 he commenced to sell and he followed this occupation until he was 60 years old. Among the schoolmen he commanded were the Parks, Gray Eagle, Otonnoca, Dunnap,
City and the E. K. Hart. Captain
Newcomb was an able seaman.
During these years the ports on Lake Ontario were busy places and thoushands of feet of lumber, bales of grain, railroad ties, hop poles and other freight were the imports at the Port of Genesee every week.

In his early manhood he was married to Miss Minnie Olmsted of Greswe, who died a few years afterwards.
In 1861 he married Mrs. Lizzie Short of Charlotte. She died in 1915. Since

Frederick Odenbach Dies At His Hotel At Manitou Beach

Frederick Odenbach, Sr., 40 Gordan street, died suddenly yesterday afternoon in the Manitou Beach Hotel. In company with his son, Matthew P., Odenbach, he was at work near the hotel when struck by a heart seizure, dying before medical aid could reach him. He leaves his widow, Stella J.; four sons, Frederick J., Odenbach; one sister, Mrs. John Hume; and five grandchildren.

HENRY H. DUTCHER

Henry H. Dutcher, a well-known resident of Rochester and a veteran of the Civil War, died yesterday at his home, 267 Bivr Street, yesterday afternoon, aged 81 years. He was born in Avern, N.Y., April 25, 1838, and has lived most of his life in this vicinity. For the past 30 years he has been a resident of Rochester, being engaged at his trade as a stationary engine repairer until his retirement from active life at the age of 70, in 1905. He served during the Civil War as a member of the 160th Infantry and was wounded at Bristot Station, Va., in his usual good health yesterday morning and after luncheon returned to his room for a nap. Two hours later his family found him with death. Death was due to a sudden attack of heart disease.

On June 10, 1860, Mr. Dutcher married Miss Mary A. Darrow of Rochester, who survives him. Besides his wife he leaves three children, Mrs. A. M. Colson of Geneva and Mrs. W. B. Boyking of Rochester, also four sons, Charles A., FRED L. and Artur D. Dutcher of the law firm of Dutcher, Brocchie, Prowse, Block, Rochester, and William H. Dutcher of Auburn, N.Y., and one sister, Mrs. Emily Deckof of Alexandria, N.Y. Mr. Dutcher was a member of the A.O.A.O. John A. Van Ingen, known to Rochester business men as the "Dean of Coal Merchants," died last night at the Homeopathic Hospital in his 69th year. Mr. Van Ingen was injured in a motor accident on November 15th last and in spite of a gallant fight to regain his health, he was for a time a patient of C. A. Phillips, building the foundations of the business that now bears the Van Ingen name, he was active in civic and commercial betterment work as an ardent worker in the Chamber of Commerce.

He was a faithful churchman and was a vestryman in the Episcopal parish before he joined Christ Church during his middle life. Shortly after 1859 Mr. Van Ingen married to Mary C. Walker of Rochester, whose death took place in 1918. Mr. Van Ingen was of the more active type of man; he was devoted to out-of-door exercise and was a horse lover. Many Rochesterians remember his fur-lined coat in a cut-down sleigh teaming through the city streets in the coldest winter, and he was reputed to be an excellent judge of his horses.

In 1877, after the death of his father, he entered business in partnership with his two younger brothers, James W. Van Ingen of Rahway, N. J., and a sister, Mrs. Albert Wood of this city.

His professional work was confined to the counseling of his clients and office service in the conduct of their affairs. He did not engage in court contests. He was of the quiet order. He loved books, and not law books alone, and a scholar of attainment and an authority on the history of the law. His life and mind were enriched by extensive travels during which, in conjunction with Mrs. Holmes, he visited all quarters of the earth. His wife was Miss George M. Davis, of LeRoy, N. Y.

His father was a pioneer of that country, and for nearly three years he lived in the neighborhood of the city. He grew older he entered business and during his active career he engaged in the labor of building up and maintaining in turn the Brockport Collegiate Institute, and its successor, the Normal School at that village.

Mr. Holmes was not attracted to service in the public office, but did not refuse to serve as justice of the peace and village clerk in the early days, and few Rochester men had been so active in civic and political life as Mr. Holmes. He was deeply interested in the work of the public library and was a member of the board of directors since its establishment.

Returning to Rochester he attended the schools of this city and when he reached maturity he engaged in the coal business at the old Nicholas, Benjamin Revolutionary War, and the fight for independence. He was a member of the old Homeopathic Hospital and is remembered by many members of the community.

His last years were spent in the enjoyment of his family and friends, and in the study of the Scriptures. His death took place in his sleep, and few Rochester men had been so active in civic and political life as Mr. Holmes. He was deeply interested in the work of the public library and was a member of the board of directors since its establishment.

C. A. Died in Baltimore.
Mrs. George E. M. Wareheim, 60 years old, mother of Harry P. Wareheim, business secretary of the Rochester Young Men's Christian association, died in Baltimore Saturday. Besides the Rochester man her nearest relatives are her husband and two daughters. The burial took place in Woodlawn cemetery, Baltimore, today.

Mrs. Wareheim was stricken last November when her son was managing Baltimore's campaign for the United War Work fund. Secretary Wareheim was enabled to be at his mother's bedside during a part of her illness.

HERBERT TWIST.

Spanish War Veteran's Funeral Will Be Held from Sister's Home.

Herbert Twist, Spanish war veteran, expert in outdoor baseball and pool and billiard player, died Friday at his home in Akron, O. The body has been brought here and taken to the home of his sister, Mrs. Sarah McGhee, 11 South Gray street, where the funeral will be held.

After service in the Spanish war, Twist returned to Rochester. He was a member of the Old Guard and at one time belonged to the Naval division. He moved to Akron about two years ago.

FUNERAL OF MRS. COLEMAN

Daughter of Rev. and Mrs. E. McGhee, Will Be Buried To-Day.

A brief funeral service was held yesterday afternoon at the home, No. 57 South Pine avenue, Albany, where Mrs. Sidney H. Coleman died on Monday. Mrs. Coleman formerly was Miss Martha I. McGhee and was the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. E. B. McGhee, of Rochester. Her death resulted from pneumonia following influenza. Rev. LeRoy Dendtand, of Calvary Methodist church, officiated at the service.

Mrs. Coleman was a graduate of Syracuse University College of Fine Arts, in the class of 1900, and of the Boston Conservatory of Music. She taught music in Tilton Seminary, N. H., and in Chelsea, Mass. She was a leader in musical circles and active in the social life of Albany. She was an active member of Calvary Methodist church, that city. She was a member of the Pine Hills Formity Club and of the Monday Musical Club.

Mrs. Coleman leaves her husband; two children, Ruth, aged 4 years, and James Robert Coleman, about 1 year old; her parents, Rev. and Mrs. E. B. McGhee, of Rochester; three brothers, Lieutenant James E. McGhee, who is in France; Private Donald S. McGhee, of Port Sheridan, Ill., and Paul A. McGhee, recently discharged from the Student Army Training Corps at the University of Rochester; two sisters, Miss A. Stratis McGhee, of Rochester, and Mrs. Floyd E. Allen, of Buffalo.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, at Memorial Presbyterian Church, in Buffalo, where the burial will take place. Mr. McGhee formerly was minister of that church.

Death Removes Two Members of Old Rochester Family within One Week:

Bits of City's History Recalled

For the second time within one week the hand of death has been laid on the Rochester family, descendents of Colonel Nathaniel Rochester. Announcement was made yesterday that Mrs. Louise, Agatha Barnman Rochester, widow of Roswell Hart Rochester, had died yesterday in Washington, D. C., where she had been living for some years with her daughter, Miss Anna Rochester, who is connected with one of the United States Government departments.

Mrs. Rochester formerly was Miss Louise, Agatha Barnman of New York City, where she was married to Roswell Hart Rochester, from whom she went to live in the metropolis. Mr. Rochester was one of the founders of the Western Union Telegraph company, when that concern was started in the old Reynolds Arcade. At that time he was assistant treasurer of the company. He removed to New York City when the headquarters were taken there, and at the time of his death was treasurer of the company.

He died twenty years ago at his home in Englewood, N. J. Some time after his death, Mrs. Rochester went to live with her daughter in Washington. Besides her daughter, she leaves a number of relatives in New York. The funeral and burial will take place at Englewood, N. J.

Son of Henry E. Rochester.

Mr. Rochester was a son of the late Henry E. Rochester and a grandson of Colonel Nathaniel Rochester, founder of the city. He was a brother of Mrs. Clinton Rogers of 327 Spring Street.

Thomas Barnes Cuming, who met death in the South Bynion wreck on the New York Central Railroad early Sunday morning, was a great-grandson of Colonel Rochester and a nephew of Roswell Hart Rochester.

Another member of the Rochester family who was taken by death recently was the Rev. Rochester, killed in the Argonna Forest, France, while serving with the American Charles P. Burritt, Head of Delivery Department, Dies After Long Service at Local Office.

Daily Death Roll.

Miss Rose Larwood Was Teacher At School 29

Miss Rose Larwood, aged 46 years, daughter of the late Joseph Larwood of Albion, died of lobar pneumonia, Saturday at the Hahnemann Hospital. For 10 years past she has been a member of the faculty of the Rochester public schools and for several years was an instructor in School 29.

She became ill with the influenza one week ago. The body was taken to Albion Saturday to the farm home of her brother, John J. Larwood, where the funeral service was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock, the Rev. Godfrey Chobut pastor of the Presbyterian church officiating. Interment was in Mt. Albion Cemetery. Besides her mother, Mrs. Emma Larwood, she leaves two sisters, Mrs. Arthur D. West of Mulberry, Florida, and Miss Ida J. Larwood of Albion; also five brothers, John J., T. Edwin, and Andrew Larwood of Albion; Bert Larwood of Cleveland, Ohio, and Alfred Larwood of Buffalo.

Miss Larwood was a graduate of Rochester high school, Rochester Teachers' Training Class and took up special work as an instructor in a Chicago, Ill., training school. For several years she was secretary of a Buffalo association and took an active part in organization work.

appointed a carrier at the postoffice in 1894 and has a remarkable record for efficiency in the postal service. He was 52 years old and was a brother of S. D. Burritt, the jeweler.
Mrs. Van Hoesen was a member of the Central Presbyterian Church, where she was president of the Missionary Society of the Temple for several years. She was also president of Class 24 and superintendent of the primary department. She was also a member of Kinnaur Chapter of the Y. W. C. A., and of the Board of Managers of the Convalescent Home at Churchville, and was treasurer of Pershing War Relief Circle.

Mrs. Van Hoesen was born at Phoenix, N. Y., and was the daughter of James and Mary Miller. She was married to Mr. Van Hoesen in 1887.

She was president of the Rochester Federation of Women’s Clubs for the past year and had held offices in that organization for about 10 years. She was a member of the Public Health Association, and a member of the Public Health committee of the State Federation of Women’s Clubs.

As chairman for Monroe County of the women’s committee for the Third and Fourth Liberty Loan campaigns, Mrs. Van Hoesen worked diligently. She was a member of the first committee in Rochester on selecting pictures to be placed in public schools.

MRS. ADELINE MILLER VAN HOESEN.

P. Van Hoesen, active in women’s organizations in Rochester, especially active in civic and suffrage work, died suddenly yesterday morning at the home at 404 Oxford Street.

She leaves her husband, Frank P. Van Hoesen; two sons, Miller P. and Frank C. now with the A. E. F. in France; five sisters, Mrs. Wesley Wheeler, Mrs. L. K. Miller, Mrs. D. F. Moore and Mrs. Amelia Acker of this city, and Mrs. W. L. Curtin of Brooklyn; one brother, Francis C. Miller of San Francisco, Cal., and two grandchildren. Sudden Death of Mrs. Frank P. Van Hoesen, active in civic and suffrage affairs—Home on Oxford Street. Jan. 20, 1919

The funeral of Mrs. Frank P. Van Hoesen, who died suddenly Sunday, will be held at 9 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Mrs. Van Hoesen’s death came as a great surprise to her many friends and acquaintances as she apparently was in excellent health almost up to that time. On Friday last she presided over a meeting of the City Federation of Women’s Clubs, of which she was president, in the City Hall, displaying vigor and enthusiasm that was unusual even for her. She had been a member of the Woman’s Educational and Industrial Union since its organization and was for years a member of its Educational Committee. She was active in nearly all the organizations of the city in which women are interested and during the last two years Liberty Loan drives she was chairman of the Woman’s Division and was chairman of the Woman’s Division of the War bond and Stamps campaign. She worked hard in connection with the old Public Health Association, of which she was a member, and was instrumental in establishing the new City Home of Rochester recently opened in Driving Park Avenue. Since young womanhood she had been a member of the Central Presbyterian Church, was superintendent of its Sunday School and was president of its largest woman’s Bible class. She was born in Phoenix, N. Y., but came to Rochester as a girl and had lived here since.

Funeral of Jacob Gloor.

The funeral of Jacob Gloor, a Civil War veteran, held Friday afternoon from the home of his son, Thomas, 20 Chamberlain Street, was attended by many old residents. A large number of them accompanied the body to Webster where burial was in the Rural Cemetery.

Mr. Gloor was born in Bern, Switzerland, and spent the greater part of his early life with relatives in different parts of France. His parents, who died when he was an infant, were of French-Swiss descent. When 21 years old he came to America, and when the Civil War broke out he enlisted for three years in Company 1, 6th U. S. Cavalry. September 12, 1865, he was wounded and after being in the hospital for several months was appointed body guard to General Charles M. Proford, in which capacity he served the rest of his three years. October 25, 1865, he again enlisted, this time in Company A, 3rd New Jersey Guard. After being in several battles, he was wounded again and taken to the General Pavilion Hospital. As he recovered, he was made wardmaster of the hospital and served in the war until the end of the war.

September 12, 1865, Mr. Gloor married Miss Anna Hillbord of New York City, who died in 1875. April 3, 1877, he married Miss Barbara Elizabeth of Rochester, who died in 1902.
Jacob Gloor, Civil War veteran, died Wednesday at the home of his son, William Gloor, 23 Chamberlain street, aged 88 years. Funeral services were held this afternoon from the home of

DEATH COMES TO MRS. KATHERINE R. CONGDON

Follows Nervous Breakdown Due to Months of Red Cross Work Among Sick Soldiers—Two Sons in U. S. Military Service.

Katherine Robinson Congdon died at the family home, 44 Parady street, last evening at 8:30 o'clock.

Following months of personal work among the sick soldiers and sailors, she was appointed military aide for the Local Chapter of the American Red Cross and was also made chairman of the hospital committee of Irondequoit Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. In those capacities she had charge of the work of both organizations among the service men in the city hospitals and as well as in the Military Base Hospital at Charlotte. Until she suffered a nervous breakdown in November last, every service man who at any time had been a patient in any of these hospitals had been personally visited by her, and, under her direction, had been provided with such fruits, jellys, ice cream and other delicacies as they were allowed to have.

Separated from her own boys, who were away in the service, she gave her mother's love to the suffering ones here, cheering them in their illness and giving them what possible comfort she could as they were passing on into the greater life. She will be gratefully remembered by those who recovered and the relatives and friends of those who died but feel that their burden was in some degree lightened by her care and thoughtfulness.

Her illness and subsequent death is directly attributable to the work that she has so well done and she can and will be remembered as one of those who have made the great march forward.

She leaves her husband, George E. Congdon; two sons, Lyman A. Congdon, a sergeant with the U. S. Army Ambulance Service now with the American Army of Occupation in Germany; and George E. Congdon, Jr., a gunner's mate in the U. S. Navy; also two daughters, Mrs. George R. Thundel of Omaha, Neb., whose husband is a lieutenant in the Flying Division of the Military Aeronautical Service, and Mrs. Henry D. Denison of Syracuse. Private prayers will be said at the home, 44 Faraday street, at 4 o'clock tomorrow afternoon and burial will be from the Church of the Epiphany at Trumansburg on Sunday morning.

DEATH OF MICHAEL KIRBY

Served in Navy in Civil War, Ran Elevator at Police Headquarters.

Michael Kirby, who was a member of the navy in the Civil War, died in the Soldiers' and Sailors' Home in Bath on January 16th, and was buried on Monday with military honors. Mr. Kirby for a long time had been a resident of Rochester up to six years ago, when he was stricken with paralysis, taken to the St. Mary's Hospital and then to the Soldiers' and Sailors' Home. Some years ago Mr. Kirby ran the elevator at the police station. He was a member of the St. G. Marshall Post, G. A. R. He leaves two daughters, one in California, and another in Buffalo.
MEMBER OF OLD FAMILY IS DEAD
Post
Pomeroy P. Dickinson Passed Away
This Morning at Home of His Daughter.
Jan. 24, 1919

Pomeroy P. Dickinson, lawyer, traveler and humorist, died to-day at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Carroll H. Taylor, 130 Trafalgar street, aged 67 years. He leaves his wife, Emma Marsh Dickinson, his daughter, Mrs. Taylor and one brother Charles A. Dickinson.

Mr. Dickinson came of a family prominent in Rochester and Monroe county for more than a century. His grandfather, Pomeroy R. Dickinson, came to Monroe county in 1865, driving a horse and wagon from Amherst, Mass., and took up lands in the town of Irondequoit, now in the Twenty-second ward, Rochester, which have since been in the possession of the family.

Mr. Dickinson was born September 23, 1852, in the old Dickinson homestead in Irondequoit, which had been in the family for more than 100 years. He was the son of Alfred L. Dickinson and Martha Anderson Dickinson.

After attending the district schools, Mr. Dickinson attended the DeGraff Military School in Rochester, where he prepared for Yale. Later he went to live with his uncle. Pomeroy F. Dickinson, the banker of the institution across the Hudson at Poughkeepsie. While with his uncle he decided to enter Columbia College, from whose law school he was graduated in 1875.

Returning to Rochester he entered the law office of John Van Vooris, where he remained for a year. He formed a partnership with George A. Benton, who recently retired from the supreme court bench.

The office of the partnership was No. 9 of Raymond Arcade, and after the withdrawal of Mr. Benton, Mr. Dickinson occupied the office for thirty years. He was a lifelong Republican and was the organizer of the Elbown Club, the first large Republican organization in Rochester. In 1880 he was appointed excise commissioner by Mayor Cornelius R. Parsons. He held that position until 1890, and again from 1893 until 1897, when the entire commission was legislated out of existence by the state legislature. He served on the Board of Education in 1890.

Mr. Dickinson figured prominently in public life and was well known as a humorist and entertainer. He was an extensive traveler and a great lover of nature. He was a member of the grange, Phi Kappa Psi of Damariscotta Temple. He leaves his wife, Mrs. Emma Marsh Dickinson; one daughter, Mrs. Carroll Taylor, and a brother, Charles Dickinson.

was the chairman of the board of excise commissioners. He traveled widely and visited nearly all the European countries and had done newspaper work in many different parts of the world. He was a lover of nature and of the great outdoors, a great pedestrian, and a wholesome, lovable companion.

While Mr. Dickinson has been in ill health for some years, it was not until last week that he took to his bed and the announcement of his death to-day came as a shock to his many old friends and associates. The funeral will be private.
Oscar C. Palmer

Oscar C. Palmer, a former president of the Eighth New York Cavalry (veterans) Association, died last Saturday at his home, Lake Side, near Union Hill. Mr. Palmer had lived in Wayne county nearly all his life. He was born at Lake Side on March 5, 1844. He received his education in Macedon and at Genesee Wesleyan Seminary. He was a student at the seminary when he enlisted on September 29, 1861, in Company B, Eighth New York Cavalry. This unit was in General Sherman's division, and was under the command of Custer. Mr. Palmer served in many important engagements and was severely wounded in the battle of the Five Forks on April 6, 1865, a few days before the war ended. When he was paroled, he witnessed from the rear of the lines, in which he was being cared for, the surrender of Richmond, Lee and Comanches Seminary, of the Alabama. Later he was transferred to the Rochester General Hospital, and received his honorable discharge from the service on June 23, 1865. At that time he was 20 years old.

On October 14, 1865, Mr. Palmer married Amelia A. Bostwick. He held a number of positions of trust in his home community. He was a Republican, a member of Wayne Lodge of Masons and the G. A. R.

Mr. Palmer leaves his wife, and two sons, Myron B. Palmer, a captain in the Medical Corps stationed in the Surgeon-General's office, Washington, and Howard R. Palmer, of the advertising staff of the Eastman Kodak Company.

PROF. JACOB S. GUBELMANN

John Samuel Gubelmann, D. D., died at his home, No. 39 Brighton street, last night after a short illness. He was born in the city of Horne, Switzerland, on November 26, 1831. He came to the United States with his parents in 1846 and lived for a short time in New York City. He removed to Ohio, where his grandfather was minister of a German Reformed Church. Returning to New York in 1851, he became affiliated with a German Baptist church there which sent him to Rochester in the year following to prepare for the ministry. He was graduated from the University of Rochester in 1853 and from the Rochester Theological Seminary in 1856.

After his ordination to the ministry, Dr. Gubelmann held successful pastorate in Louisville, Ky., and St. Louis, Mo. In 1868 he became the minister of the First German Baptist Church in Philadelphia, where he remained until 1884, when he was called to the chair of Christian theology, ethics and homiletics in the German Department of Rochester Theological Seminary. This position he held for thirty-two years, during which time he felt that the strain of his professional duties was growing severe for a man who had already completed eighty-two years instead of which he had spent almost continuous service of the most exacting kind.

Preacher of Rare Power.

For the last two and one-half years Doctor Gubelmann kept up his interest in the institution to which he had become so devoted by giving a short address each week at the chapel services. A member of the seminary faculty, said of him last Friday:

"Doctor Gubelmann was a theologian of the old school, a man whose theology centered in the Bible, and this book he was said to know better than any of his colleagues. His reverence for the Word made its very language authoritative for him, and settled once and for all his theological problems. He was a man of deep mental power, and was endowed in a personality of singular amiability of disposition.

"In the days of his prime, he was a preacher of rare power, by reason of his eloquent personal power. The sermons always bore the stamp of thorough preparation, and were characterized by evangelical language of all.

Leaves Four Children.

Plans for the funeral have not as yet been formulated. They may be in keeping with his very simple life; at least, that was his wish. He will be mourned by a great host of friends all over the country, where he has become known.

Doctor Gubelmann married twice. His second wife, who was Miss Sophia Hess, he married in 1892. She survives him, as do his two sons and two daughters, Professor Albert Gubelmann, of Yale, W. S. Gubelmann, of Buffalo, Mrs. Otto Keuning, of New Haven, and Miss Ella C. Gubelmann, of this city.

FREEMAN H. BETTS, BUSINESS MAN, DIES 1910

For Many Years Active in Life of Rochester.

Freeman Hopkins Betts, a well-known citizen and former prominent business man of this city, died yesterday after an illness of several weeks.

Mr. Betts was born in Wayne county on June 10, 1850. His grandfather was the first white settler in the town of Oxford. During his long business career Mr. Betts was actively identified with various enterprises. He will be remembered by many as the senior member of the firm of Betts & Aitken, manufacturers of the Hummel Bird Bicycle, which firm later turned their attention to the sale of automobiles. Until recently, Mr. Betts was associated with A. P. Little in the extensive manufacture of typewriter supplies. He was a prominent member of the West Avenue Methodist Church, president of its Board of Trustees for many years, and closely affiliated with all its activities. During his early years he took an important part in the prohibition movement.

Mr. Betts was a member of the Society of the Mediator and of Rochester Lodge, 25, and A. M., and Cyrus Commandery, Knights Templar. He leaves a host of friends who deeply mourn his loss.
JAMES E. BOOTH, PRESIDENT OF MONROE COUNTY SAVINGS BANK, DIES FOLLOWING THREE-DAY ILLNESS, AT AGE OF 92 YEARS

JAMES E. Booth, president of Monroe County Savings Bank, died yesterday at his home at 195 Lake Avenue, following a brief illness of three days. Although he entered upon his 93d year December 28, Mr. Booth gave active attention to his bank duties up to Tuesday. Men familiar with financial affairs of the nation are of the opinion that he was the oldest bank president in the United States. In recent years on his birthday Mr. Booth always found large bouquets of flowers on his desk when he arrived at the bank, which represented the congratulations of friends and during the day the visitors who called to offer felicitations in person included many of Rochester's most prominent bankers and business men. Other than greeting his many well wishers, Mr. Booth's custom was to pass his steadily mounting anniversaries by performing a full day's work at the bank.

The funeral will be held Monday morning at the church from which he attended the last. Mr. Booth leaves two sons, Quentin W. and Irving E. Booth, and one daughter, Miss Eulalie A. Booth.

Sketch of His Early Life.

Mr. Booth was a native of New York City, where he was born in 1833, and where his early education was acquired at private schools. Although he removed to Troy at an early age, he always retained memories of New York as it was in his boyhood. At that time, he would relate, Fifth Avenue was a barren tract and Hoboken a pleasure park. Rapid transit connected horse-drawn coaches. Those and other retrospective visions Mr. Booth could conjure up and recount faithfully even in his advanced years.

In 1853 Mr. Booth sailed up the Hudson River to make his home in Troy, where he engaged with his father in the manufacture of cotton goods until 1858 and then moved to Rochester. Since coming to this city he has always lived here.

His Activities in Rochester.

His first business venture in Rochester was a partnership with Woodbury & Company, manufacturers of steam engines, afterward known under the firm name of Woodbury, Booth and Prior. In this business pursuit Mr. Booth became one of the best known mechanical and steam engineers in the state. He continued in the industry until 1884, when the concern was sold to a syndicate. He became affiliated with Monroe County Savings Bank in 1879 by his election as a trustee, and in 1891 he became its president. His other activities in civil and business circles included a membership in Chamber of Commerce, Alderman, member of committee appointed by Common Council to conduct a water suit on behalf of the city, and a commissioner on construction of elevated tracks by New York Central and Hudson River Railroad. He also had served as trustee of Mechanics' Institute and the Deaf Mute Institute.

When Mr. Booth came to Rochester he settled in Second Ward, where he lived until he built, in 1876, the present home in Lake Avenue.

TRIBUTE PAID

DEAD PRIEST

MANY CLERGYMEN AT FUNERAL
OF REV. W. E. ETZEL.

1919

FINAL ABSOLUTION BY BISHOP

Obsequies of Noted Catholic Educator

Held To-day in Church of the Sacred Heart.

An unusual personal tribute was paid by bishop and priests of the Roman Catholic diocese of Rochester when they assembled in the Church of the Sacred Heart in Flower City park to-day for the funeral services of Rev. William Etzel, educator with an international reputation, who had devoted forty years to the instruction of young men and about thirty years of his life to service as a priest.

Formal funeral services for him had been held at St. Thomas College in St. Paul, where he had been one of the professors and the priests of that diocese had paid him customary official tribute. His body had been brought to Rochester and here the priests who knew him and appreciated his true worth of their own initiative assembled to pay their personal tribute.

From Home of Sisters.

The funeral was held from the home of his sisters, 424 City park, at 9:45 o'clock and at 10 o'clock from the church. Rev. George V. Burns, the rector at St. Thomas College, acted as solemn requiem mass, assisted by Rev. M. J. Hargrave, rector of St. Michael's church, an deacon, Rev. J. F. Schellhorn, rector of the Church of Our Lady of Perpetual Help, as sub-deacon. Rev. Francis Luddy was master of ceremonies. The music was by the student choir from St. Bernard's seminary under the direction of Rev. John M. Peter, head of the music department.

Included among the priests present at the services was Rev. J. H. Hayley, rector of St. Bernard's, where Father Etzel had taught for many years; Rev. A. E. Ruse, rector of the Church of Our Lady of Victory; Rev. J. F. O'Hern, rector of the Cathedral; Rev. A. M. O'Neill, rector of Immaculate Conception church; Rev. Thomas Connors, rector of Blessed Sacrament church; Rev. Francis G. Kinnard, assistant rector of Holy Redeemer church; Rev. Adolph Ederman, assistant rector of St. Michael's church; and Rev. Edmund J. Wirth, and other members of the faculty from St. Bernard's.

Many Delegations Present.

Present at the services besides many Rochester friends of Father Etzel were delegations from the Sisters of St. Joseph's, and the children of Sacred Heart school. Following the requiem mass, Rt. Rev. Thomas P. Hickey, D. D., bishop of the diocese of Rochester, pronounced the final absolution.

Burial in the family lot at Holy Sepulchre. Rev. George V. Burns officiated at the committal service. Changing of the guard by the dead priest was by the priests led by Father Potter. The bearers were these priests of the Rochester diocese: Rev. Edward William Brion, Rev. Edward Meagher, Rev. Joseph Essey, Rev. Joseph Guliob and Rev. Andrew V. Byrne.

WAS LONG ACTIVE IN

DRY GOODS BUSINESS

George B. Bush Had Stores

In Several Cities.

George Billings Bush died at Madison Avenue and 125 Dewey avenue, where he had lived for thirty years. He had a large circle of friends, not only in Rochester, but in many cities in which he had had business interests.

Mr. Bush was born at Thomaston, Sullivan county, New York, on December 14, 1841. He was educated at the Finger Business College and in his earlier years was connected with the Erie Railroad Company, leaving the employ of that company to engage in the dry-goods business of his own.

He was president of the Bush Brothers Company, which later became the Rochester Dry Goods Company, of which Mr. Bush retired from the firm and returned here to reside.

Mr. Bush early bought a piece of St. Tammany, a piece in Port Jervis, and always retained his membership in that lodge. He leaves his wife, Mrs. George Bush, and four children, Joseph, Jr., of Rochester; two grandchildren, Marion H., and J. Alphonse, and one brother, W. A. J. Bush, of New York.

The funeral will be held from the home of his sisters at 3 o'clock this afternoon at St. Joseph's. Burial will be made at Glendale, N. Y.

MORTUARY RECORD.

Joseph Bull Smith.

The funeral of Joseph Bull Smith, who died in Watertown Wednesday, will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Rochester home at 155 Harrington Street. Burial will be in Mt. Hope Cemetery.

Further information concerning the death of Mr. Smith disclose that he met with an accident while testing shells in the plant of the New York Arm Co.

He had been employed there for twenty years and in all that time he was the proud boast that he returned his American citizenship and slept every night under the stars and stripes, insisting always on having the national colors draped over his bed.

With the approach of church and state in France he resolved to return to the land of his birth. For a time he was a member of the faculty at the Franciscan college at Trenton, N. J. and then of St. Bernard's seminary here. He was called to a post at St. Thomas college and accepted in view of the opportunity for work with which he was familiar and useful. In the European college he had done much to prepare young men for national, military or naval officers and at St. Paul he was to be given similar opportunity. It was in charge of the school and prepared many young men for commissions in time of peace without their passing through West Point.

Martin Etzel leaves five sisters, Mary Louise, Anna, Stella, and Mr. and Mrs. George Pearson, all of Rochester, and the latter, Mrs. of Syracuse, and James of Kentucky.
HENRY H. RICH.
Man Prominent in Business and Literary Work, Dies After Short Illness.

Henry H. Rich, of 1911 Monroe avenue, died Saturday in the Clifton Springs sanitarium where he had been ill but two weeks. The body was brought to Rochester yesterday.

Mr. Rich, who was known throughout Western New York literary circles, came to Rochester twenty-five years ago and established the Lyceum Lecture bureau with offices in the Chamber of Commerce building. While in this work he brought here many notable people, including T. DeWitt Talmage, Booker T. Washington, Bill Nye, James Whitcomb Riley, Mrs. Frank Leslie and Thomas Dixon.

He was the active head of the Pinnacle Community Men's club, a member of the Chamber of Commerce, the Whist club and a charter member of the Ad club. He also belonged to the Real Estate Dealers' association and was a member of Genesee Falls lodge, F. and A. M. He leaves his wife and a daughter, Doris Rich.

Mrs. Eliza J. N. Hinds.

Mrs. Eliza Jane Norton Hinds, widow of James A. Hinds, died last evening at her residence, 88 Lake avenue, in her 87th year. She leaves two daughters, Mrs. William C. Walker of this city and Mrs. Florence H. Schoessl of Scranton, Pa.; five grandchildren and five greatgrandchildren.

Mrs. Hinds was born in Bridgewater, Mich., March 27, 1832. She married James A. Hinds of Aurora, Ill., in 1853 and moved to Rochester in 1858 where Mr. Hinds became identified with the milling industry.

Until her late illness Mrs. Hinds was an active member of First Unitarian Church and was one of the supporters of the Boys Evening Home. She was for many years president of the Browning Club and was always interested in literary affairs.

Mrs. Catherine A. Begy Caflery.

Mrs. Catherine Adelaide Begy Caflery died suddenly yesterday afternoon at the family home, 58 Rugby avenue. She leaves her husband, George H. Caflery of Caflery & Evans, plumbers at 336 Main street; two sons, G. Walter and Thomas R. Caflery; two daughters, Della A. and Marion E. Caflery; her mother, Mrs. Catherine Begy, and one sister, Miss Lillian M. Begy.

Mrs. Begy was a daughter of Col. George A. Begy, an officer in the Civil War. Her father was born in Rochester and was the first superintendent of letter carriers of the city. Mrs. Caflery was a member of

MORTUARY RECORD

William H. Sanger.

William H. Sanger, one of the first proprietors of the Powers Hotel, died Monday at his home at 58 Gingerline street. Mr. Sanger was a partner of George A. Buck in the ownership of the hotel many years ago. He will be remembered especially by the older citizens as one of Rochester's leading hotel men of several decades ago. He leaves his wife, Mrs. Helen Sanger.
Passing of Old Restaurant Man
Recalls Days when Night Life of City Revolved about the Oyster

In the death last week of Jacob Vanderlisse, Rochester lost one of its pioneer business men, and one whose career comes close to being unique in its own particular field. For more than 31 years Mr. Vanderlisse had been identified with the restaurant business of the city, and the history of his business dates back to a period that will be remembered with genuine enjoyment by many of the older men and women of Rochester.

Do you remember Buckley's Oyster House? Those were the days of real sport! Ask dad, he knows!

In a building on South Avenue, adjoining what was then the Grand Opera House, later Cook's, and now the Family Theater was one of the most famous eating places of its kind between New York and Chicago. At least, that is what old-timers say.

It was known as "Buckley's place" or to use its more dignified and proper title, Buckley's Oyster House. People came from far and near to eat Mrs. Buckley's fried oysters, for Mr. Buckley continued to conduct the place for many years after the death of her husband, John Buckley, who came to this city from Elmina in 1874.

Oysters Still a Novelty.

Those were the days when oysters were still somewhat of a novelty, and oyster houses were considered quite elite. No theater party was complete without an oyster supper afterward, and one didn't think of having company come to town without taking them out to dinner at Buckley's. At noontime Buckley's was the popular gathering place for business men, and the man about town didn't consider his day well spent unless a visit to Buckley's pursued consequentially in its round of pleasure.
Dr. Frederick R. Smith

Succumbs To Pneumonia

End Comes Peacefully at 9:10 O’clock This Morning at His Home—Had Won Marked Success as Physician, in Politics, and Was One of the Most Prominent Figures in Masonic Circles in the Country.

Dr. Frederick R. Smith, one of the most prominent figures in masonic circles in the United States, and one of the most widely known citizens of Rochester, met his end peacefully during the night of November 12th, at his home in 95 Plymouth Avenue, after an illness of a week with pneumonia. He was taken ill a week ago yesterday and his condition has been serious since.

Although yesterday his physicians, Dr. Charles R. Sumner and Dr. Shirley E. Snow, believed he had a bare fighting chance, his heart, upon which his recovery depended, failed, and the end came peacefully this morning.

Dr. Smith’s activities were varied and his ability, coupled with his abounding good-cheer and personality, brought him marked success in his profession as a physician, in politics and in Masonry. He was affiliated with every local branch of Masonry and his rapid rise brought him the distinction of being the only Rochester man ever elevated to be imperial potentate of the Shrines. As a matter of fact, now no other Rochester Mason is in line in the Imperial Divan.

Dr. Smith leaves his wife, Ada Clarissa Smith; two daughters, Frances and Dorothy Smith; four brothers, Charles M. and Jasper O. Smith of Penn Yan, William C. Smith of Rochester and Lewis P. Smith of Syracuse; and one sister, Elia J. Smith of Penn Yan.

The funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon, the time having not yet been decided, at the First Presbyterian Church, Dr. Frederick Robinson Smith was born in Penn Yan on August 31, 1870.

As a reward for his ambitious attention to masonic duty, Dr. Smith was made imperial potentate by the Shriner at their convention at Atlanta in 1914. A few days before Rochester Shriner escorted him to Atlanta. He served in that office until the Imperial Potentate of July, 1915.

While he was imperial potentate a country-wide trip to the various temples was made, and this merely served to increase his popularity. He was generally known as the most beloved Shriner in America.

On his return to Rochester Dr. Smith participated in some of the most famed Shrine affairs in the history of the country. He was one of a body of Shriner who went to Honolulu, Hawaii, in 1915, to install Aloha Temple.

Before his death Dr. Smith accompanied a Minneapolis body of Shriner to Panama, where a temple was dedicated. There a feature was the confering of a degree in ancient oriental lore. The title of Dr. Smith was the regalia of a degree in the crater of Kilauea, the world’s greatest volcano.

On his return to Rochester Dr. Smith brought with him gifts from 96 out of the 165 Shrines he visited. The value of these gifts was curious and rare, and their value ran well up into the thousands. He presented 25 gold and silver plates and among the gifts were a silver dinner service of 347 pieces, a genuine Tibet pole, and 80 glass, crystal, punch bowls, cups, clocks, tableaux, punch bowls, etc.

Dr. Smith was given his Scottish rite degrees by the local consistory in 1902. He was made a 31st degree Mason in 1913, a member of the Columbia Lodge, a member of the Royal Arch Freemasons in 1903, and of the Benevolent and Protective Union in 1903.

Masonic Connections.

He was knighted by Monroe Commandery of Knights Templar, on May 14, 1897, in Rochester, to rise in due time to be its commander. He served as district deputy grand master for the 33rd Masonic district of New York from 1897 to 1907.

Following his joining Damascus Temple on May 12, 1887, Dr. Smith’s residence in the Shrine was nothing less than remarkable. He became Potentate, and then entered the Imperial Divan of the Ancient Arabic Order of the Mystic Shrine of North America as an outside guard.
Historic Scrapbooks Collection

This afternoon, the Rev. W. A. R. Goodwin, of Yonnondio Lodge, F. & A. M., called at the house to obtain a final score of Pro Smith that vast number of funerals gave.

Present.

At noon we had the last visit to the home of Dr. Smith. He confessed that he would be unable to return to college owing to lack of funds, whereupon Dr. Smith told him to go back to the institution and he would see him through.

Even up to the day he was taken down with pneumonia Dr. Smith remembered his colored charge and wrote him, requesting Stewart to quiz him with his needs. And when death came with his educational aspirations, this young colored youth, with a heart crying out, thought of the college studies to hurry on to Rochester and beside the casket which contained the remains, in a small manner in his life, this young man of negro blood shed tears which caused a deeper sadness, in which the casket was made, was so strong, he knew so well and loved so dearly that he sadly cannot color line; he was too big a man for this.

Extended Helping Hand.

And if the great crowd wondered at the presence of this young colored man among the mourners today they can appreciate the fact that he represented. Yes, the genuine sorrow that is felt by one who has lost the friend that extended to him a helping hand in all matters of importance to the funeral services gave mute testimony of the great love, esteem and friendship in which this man was loved, and the home.
Dorney Home Sends Piece.

Perhaps the floral tribute which would have meant most to Dr. Smith, was that presented by the children of Dorney Home. Throughout the influenza epidemic which threatened these little ones, Dr. Smith ministered to the little tots of that home without charge. Day or night, he was always cheerfully available. He knew they depended on him. He was a ray of sunshine to their existence.

A large automobile wheel of pink and white roses covered yesterday and purple sweet peas stood on a standard. A part of its rim was gone. The tokens represented the thoughts of the New York State Motor Federation to which Dr. Smith, as president, is so recent in its history. The Automobile Club of Rochester sent a solid furred of pink carnations with red carnation specks, and its officers and directors were represented with a great bouquet of American beauty roses. Another large vase of these roses placed back of the casket came from Imperial Temple, International Potentate William C. Irwin, of Wheeling, West Va.; Imperial Treasurer William C. Brown, of Rochester; Imperial Historian W. S. V. Stever, of Portland, Me.; Buffalo Automobile Club, Rome Automobile Club, Jamestown Automobile Club, Monroe County Painters' Association, Representatives and Ex-Representatives Association, Rochester Rotarians, Rochester Council, Knights of Columbus and scores of other prominent organizations and men.

Shriners' Potentate Attends.

Telegrams continued to pour in yesterday, expressing condolences to the family. Among those later received were from Senator John B. Mullan, Lieutenant-Governor Harry C. Walker and "Sawny Jim" McCandless, of Rochester.

Among the notable Shriners and Thirty-third Degree Masons who were present were Imperial Potentate Elijah J. Jacob and Colonel B. J. Shaw, of Modest Temple, Imperial Potentate William C. Irwin, of Wheeling, West Va.; Imperial Treasurer William C. Brown of Rochester; Walter Seglen and Dr. C. J. Bue Clark Temple, Wheeling; Alex Gilliland of Syria Temple, Pittsburgh; Past Potentate George E. T. Stapleton of Franklin Temple, Buffalo and George McCandless of Pittsburgh of Thirty-third Degree Masons.

The morning for Dr. Smith knew no social, political or religious bounds. Cathedrals were there in common sorrow with Shrines. John Wallace, Democratic leader of this City's Chairman, Hara, W. Hippley and many leading Democrats were at the funeral of the strong Republican leader. Monroe County Republican Leader George A. Elder among the honored bearers, Fitzgerald Stewart, the youth Dr. Smith was putting through the University of Pittsburgh, attended.

Cortege Is Impressive.

The formation of the cortege took nearly half a hour. Traffic had been blocked off between Spring and Troup streets by Police Sergeant Melrose, Captain James Moohan, and W. J. McCarthy, of the Washington police, and who is declared to be the best loved man on the Pacific Coast, had a wondrous wreath of yellow and white daffodils, brought from New York under the care of White House there as a tribute to his friend.

Wreath from Hawaiian.

The Third Ward Republican Committee sent a third great case of American Beauty roses. There were four of these cases of the Florist Flower Central Consul of Syracuse, presented a large wreath of sweet peas and roses. Another beautiful floral tribute was there from friends, the Hawaiian sugar king, who is known as "Sunny Jim of Honolulu." He was one of Dr. Smith's closest friends, and was W. H. Washburn and Sr. Paul Shurin, who also sent flowers.

So one might enumerate the fine floral tributes. There were more than twenty of the most splendid of the blooms, including men, clubs, people, to whom Dr. Smith was a brother and benefactor.

Among others might be named the following: Lila Roper, Groton, Monroe County Board of Supervisors, the Common Council and City Clerk's office, Grand Chapter of the Order of Sons of Herman Mascon, Lulu Temple, Philadelphia; Paul Brown, of Amsterdam, Mr. Charles K. Hardon, of Rochester; Charles F. Keeler, of Brockport; Mr. F. W. Hanlon, of Auburn; Mrs. A. C. Beeman, of W. W. Hilliard; Judge Willis E. Gillett, Comstock Thomas A. Kiltz, Herbert W. Fowley, Judge John E. M. B. Bap, Charles D. Van Zandt, R. Andrew Hamilton and Jacob Meehan.

Wears Potentate Badge.

Dr. Smith went to his eternal rest wearing his imperial potentate badge and on his finger was his Thirty-third degree Masonic ring. It was a fitting Grenoble which Rochester and Northern Masons gave yesterday to his beloved leader and friend.

OLDEST NATIVE OF ROCHESTER IS DEAD IN GENESEO

George S. Riley, Born on Site of Present Whitcomb House and Once Prominent in Local Business and Social Circles, Dies.

George S. Riley, who died yesterday in Geneseo at the age of 64 years, was one of the largest single owners of real estate in the city.

Riley, Triangle, now known as Anderson Park, at the corner of University Avenue and West Street, was in the center of a large tract of vacant property extending east to the New York Central Railroad. For several years the taxes assessed on this land were not paid and the property was sold by the city on May 20th for over $10,000, according to a newspaper in the annual list of advertised city tax sales. As a result of refusing to sell any part of his land holdings the property was lost to him and he became almost a recluse.

Cyrus D. Bentley, a nephew of Chicago, Mr. Riley's only relative and living in Rochester at the time of his death, moved to his late residence at 22 W. Main St., where he died. He was a member of the Hope Chapel tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock, the Rev. W. R. Stone of First Presbyterian Church officiating.
FUNERAL OF KIPLING'S MOTHER-IN-LAW; WAS ROCHESTER WOMAN

Death of Mrs. Anna Smith Balestier in Brattleboro, Vermont, Due to Apoplexy. 1919

The funeral of Mrs. Anna Smith Balestier, formerly of this city, widow of Henry Wolcott Balestier, mother-in-law of Rudyard Kipling, and daughter of the late Erasmus Peshine Smith and Anna Beatty Smith, is taking place to-day at Brattleboro, Vt. She was about 86 years of age and had, according to information received by Dr. Charles A. Dewey, friend and neighbor of the family when they lived in Rochester, been ill a considerable length of time. Death, due to apoplexy, however, came suddenly. She was born in this city.

It is not believed that any near relatives live here now. Colonel Clinton Rogers married a Beatty and in that way was related. The Balestiers moved from Rochester between thirty and forty years ago. Wolcott Balestier's sister, Carolyn, is the wife of Rudyard Kipling. The Balestier home was at Lexington avenue and Thorn street.

Rudyard Kipling and Miss Carolyn Balestier were married in London, January 18, 1882. Wolcott Balestier, her brother, and Mr. Kipling were close friends. They collaborated on the novel "Naulaika." Wolcott Balestier had won considerable renown as an American author when he died about twenty-seven years ago. He was one of four children of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wolcott Balestier. The other three were Mrs. Kipling, Josephine, a younger sister; and Beatty, a younger brother. Mrs. Henry Wolcott Balestier, their mother, whose funeral is taking place to-day, was the daughter of Judge Erasmus Peshine Smith, of Rochester.

Lived in Livingston Park.

The Peshine Smiths lived in Livingston park for a while. Later they moved to the northern part of the city. Judge Smith was a United States consul in Japan many years. He was considered one of the greatest authorities on international law, a subject which now is perplexing the world in its efforts to bring about a lasting peace. In the early sixties he was sent abroad to make treaties with Japan and other nations.

Mrs. Balestier, who died Saturday night at Brattleboro, was well remembered by several old friends in this city to-day when they were informed of her death. Her daughter, Carolyn, wife of Mr. Kipling, was recalled as a vivacious, slender girl, of medium height, dark blue eyes and brown hair. She was very fond of society. It was said her marriage to the English writer was the expressed wish of her brother, Wolcott.

Mrs. Kipling's Grandfather.

The Balestiers were descended from Joseph Narse Balestier, father of Henry Wolcott Balestier and grandfather of Mrs. Kipling. He died in September, 1838. He was born, according to an old clipping in the files of The Post Express, in Martinique, West Indies, on April 1, 1814. He was brought to this country when an infant, and his boyhood was passed in New York in the family of an elder brother, whose wife was a daughter of Paul Revere. He was graduated from the Columbia law school and went to Chicago in 1835, where he remained until 1841, practising law and writing for the Chicago American, which was the daily white paper of that time. In 1841 he returned to New York, where he practised law until 1868, when he retired from active work in his profession. He spent a year and a half in European travel, and then bought the valuable property three miles north of here, where he spent the rest of his life. Mr. Balestier had a passion for art, in which he cultivated a discriminating taste. He collected many paintings which adorn the walls of Beechwood.

Other Members of the Family.

The choicest of all is a genuine Murillo, discovered by him in an old European shop, which had been painted over by another artist after Murillo. Mr. Balestier discovered its real worth and had it restored. It is kept in a glass case and guarded carefully. Mr. Balestier attended All Souls' church when in New York city, and he was a close friend of the Rev. Dr. Henry W. Bellows. He had an extensive acquaintance among the prominent intellectual men of his day, and the extensive and never-varying hospitality of Beechwood made him his guests frequently.

Mr. Balestier was married twice. His first marriage was to Miss Mary Ann Starr, of the Connecticut family of Wolcott, who met her future husband while visiting relatives in Chicago. Mrs. Balestier was a very able woman, well known in New York in former days. During the war she left her elegant home and high social position in New York, and joined the Sanitary commission as a regular nurse. Becoming exhausted, she returned North to recover. She had heard of the beauties of Brattleboro and went there for rest and strength. She formed so great an attachment for the place that the family located there. Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Balestier had four sons—John, a lawyer in New York; Wolcott, Robert and Joseph, who married Miss Ireland, of the Springfield family of Ireland, and lived in New York; Wolcott, the second son, left and brought up his family in Boston. He died when the children were quite young, and the children with their mother lived with the maternal grandparents in this city or at the family home in Brattleboro, Vt.
Two Organizations Pay Tributes

Of Respect to Memory of Woman

Who Gave Her Life to Good Work

MRS. GILMAN H. PERKINS

At a special meeting of the executive committee of the Board of Managers of the Industrial School, Exchange Street, the following tribute to Mrs. Gilman H. Perkins was tendered:

It is with profound sorrow that the executive committee of the Board of Managers of the Industrial School of Rochester records the death of Mrs. Gilman H. Perkins, occurring within the precincts of the board. As one of the founders of the institution, her connection with the board began in 1856, the annual meeting of January 4, 1859, closing her sixty-third year of unceasing service.

Though a very young woman at the inception of the work, Mrs. Perkins entered upon the task of ministering to the destitute children of Rochester with a deep sense of responsibility, spending much time and labor, and repeatedly caring for their personal needs with her own hands.

As time brought the burden of advancing years, the duties of office were performed by an assistant, but her sympathetic concern for the success of the work never abated. She continued to be present at all meetings of the board, and her interest in what is known as the industrial school, has always been actively interested in matters pertaining to the establishment, spending much time in what is known as the industrial school.

The board, her received husband, the late Gilman H. Perkins, were the inspiration which in 1876 took form in the establishment of the Rochester School for the Deaf, and their loyalty and devotion to it remained strong and vital to the very end.

We shall sadly miss Mrs. Perkins in our board's deliberations in which she participated with a zest and directness in keeping with her pronounced and outspoken convictions.

Her generous interest was extended to numerous charities, and in times of perplexity her advice, based upon the experience of sixty years has been actively interested in matters pertaining to the establishment, spending much time in what is known as the industrial school.

We shall remember her advice, based upon the experience of sixty years, though her generous interest was extended to numerous charities. She died at 83 years, a leading figure in religious and charitable work, was ever ready to aid in the work for deaf children, and in what is known as the industrial school, was ever ready to aid in the work for deaf children.

In times of perplexity her advice, based upon the experience of sixty years, though her generous interest was extended to numerous charities. She died at 83 years, a leading figure in religious and charitable work, was ever ready to aid in the work for deaf children.

Oftentimes women do much for the public in which their lives are lived without publicity; the results of their work are known far more widely than the personality by which the work is done. Mrs. Gilman H. Perkins was through long years an influence for the good of and in Rochester. Her face was known to the world of civic and state enterprise.

In her work for deaf children, she never was ready to aid in the work for deaf children.

DEATH TAKES FORMER ALDERMAN

William H. Marson, Well-Known Retired Building Contractor and Member of Masonic Fraternity.

William M. Marson died yesterday at his home, 463 Exchange street, aged 83 years. He leaves his wife, Sarah Oliver Marson, one son, Walter G. Marson, of Minneapolis; three granddaughters; one brother, Thomas of Sioux Falls, S. D., and one sister, Mrs. Charlotte Thompson, of Eindhoven, Wis.

Mr. Marson was born in Nottingham, England, March 14, 1834, and came to this country when a boy 19 years of age and the family settled in Rochester, where he has since lived and for the last 69 years, or since 1850, in Exchange street in the Third ward. He was early in life apprenticed to the carpenter's trade. Later, he often recalled with pleasure the fact that as a journeyman he worked in the construction of the narrow Park avenue bridge which preceded the present structure, and many other of the new older buildings of the city. He soon became a building contractor and gained an enviable reputation for the honesty of his construction and fair-dealing with all with whom he was brought in contact. He was of kindly and charitable nature, an enthusiastic American and had watched with pride the development of the home city of his choice. He remarked but a short time ago that the only two buildings of importance now remaining in the business part of Main street which were standing when he came to the city were Reynolds arcade and the old University of Rochester building near the canal bridge.

Mr. Marson took a deep interest in politics and while reluctant to press his own claims, was several times induced by his neighbors to represent them in the Common council. He was the Republican representative of the Third ward in the council of 1888 and 1887 and on his voluntary retirement was presented an engraved testimonial by citizens of the ward in evidence of their appreciation of his honest and untiring efforts to promote the welfare of those he represented. Again in 1890 and 1901 he was the aldermanic representative of the ward. He was for more than 50 years a sustaining member of Cornhill Methodist Church and was a member of the Masonic lodge.

As a prominent and technically expert mason he was also a member of the building committee of the present Masonic temple and one of the delegation of governors of the Masonic society that turned the first spadeful of earth for the structure. He retired from business some ten years ago. During the war he was a hard worker in the Home Service Corps and other patriotic movements.

He was a life member of Yonndoon Lodge 132, F. & A. M.; Hamilton Chapter, 62, O. E. M.; Monroe Commandery, 2, K. A.; Rochester Commandery, 25, O. E. M. and Damascyn Temple, N. of M. G.

Mr. Marson was twice married. In 1858 to Charlotte E. Stechfield, deceased, and July 2, 1917, to Sarah A. Oliver. The funeral will be held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the house and at 2:30 o'clock from Cornhill Methodist church. Services will be conducted by Monroe commandery, 12, Knight Templar. Burial will be in the family lot in Mt. Hope.

MONROE SCHOOL PRINCIPAL DIES OF PNEUMONIA

Alice Perry Held Envious Record of Long Service With Schools of Rochester—Was First Appointed in 1877.

Superintendent of Schools Herbert S. Weest was notified this morning of the death of Miss Alice Perry, principal of No. 15 School, at her home, 7 Boardman street. Miss Perry was ill but a short time, her death resulting from pneumonia contracted a few days after the schools closed for the Easter recess.

In Miss Perry's death, a close was brought to a career that has accomplished perhaps more work in the Rochester schools than any member now connected with them. For 42 years Miss Perry was identified with the city school, the majority of the time being spent at No. 15 School, where she was for a number of years teacher of the eighth grade. In July 1915, she was appointed principal of the school, following the resignation of Principal A. G. Chalmers, but remained in that position up until the time of her death. For several years prior to her appointment to the principalship, Miss Perry was assistant principal at the school.

Miss Perry was always known as a very efficient teacher, in the schools, and in speaking of her death this morning, Superintendent Weest characterized her as a very unusual and capable woman.

DEATH—FUNERALS

CLARENCE J. BROWNING.

July 7, 1914.

Well-known Attorney Practiced Here for Forty Years.

Clarence J. Browning, well-known lawyer and counselor, died Friday in his home, 18 George street. Mr. Browning was born March 27, 1866, in Mendon on the homestead located in 1816 by his grandfather, Dr. Philetus Browning, a typical practitioner of the old school, who came to this section from Massachusetts.

After completing public school courses and graduating from Geneseo Wesleyan seminary in Lima Mr. Browning commenced to study law in this city in the office of John Van Voorhis. He passed his bar examinations in 1882 and until six years later was associated with the Van Voorhis firm. Then with Ednor A. Marsh he opened law offices in the Wilder building. Mr. Browning occupied these offices for nearly thirty years.

A few years later Mr. Browning formed a new partnership with Derick W. Ross, which continued several years. Later he was associated with George K. Hixson and Edward T. Cleary.

In March, 1882, Mr. Browning married Harriet S. Hastings of Lima. She died in February, 1917. He leaves one nephew, Clarence Browning Wooton of New York, and one niece, Mrs. Roy W. Battams of Fishers.

The committee named to attend the funeral consists of Phileatur Chambers, Ednor A. Marsh, Edward L. Cleary, Nicholas J. Weldgen and Francis M. Shriver.
E. H. SHERWOOD DIES AT HOME IN THIS CITY

Musician and Composer of More Than Local Fame Succumbs After Illness of Six Weeks—Was Civil War Veteran.

Edgar H. Sherwood, widely known as a musician and composer, died at his home, 366 Gregory street, last evening. While Mr. Sherwood had not been in good health for the past five years his last illness was only of six weeks duration.

Mr. Sherwood was born in Lyons, N. Y., on January 24, 1845, and was a descendant of the Earl of Huntingdon.

EDGAR H. SHERWOOD.

Mr. Sherwood's father was John S. Sherwood, of Nottinghamshire, England. His musical ability displayed itself as an early age and it is said that when four years of age he accompanied his brother at musicals given at the house of friends. The boy's father, however, was unwilling that he should choose music as a profession and persuaded him to study medicine. In 1861 Mr. Sherwood was a student in the office of a Lyon physician and in the following year he enlisted in an Infantry unit and served until the close of the Civil War. On his return to Lyon he definitely decided upon music as a career and began a thorough course of study.

Mr. Sherwood was unusually successful as a teacher. Among his pupils were Mrs. Braton B. Chase of Chicago, George E. Fisher of this city, Mrs. William Bartholomew, Mrs. William J. Critchley, Miss Jennie L. Diamond, Miss May J. Rogers and Allen H. Speer, late director of the Toledo Conservatory.

Mr. Sherwood was also the composer of a number of songs and piano pieces of much merit. In 1882 he wrote the "Rochester Centennial Celebration March," which was played at the Industrial Exposition of 1884, and in 1885 the "Rochester Centennial Exposition March," which was played at the Industrial Exposition of the

ROCHESTER MUSICIAN, WHO HAD WON WORLD FAME AS COMPOSER, DIES AT AGE OF 74 AFTER LINGERING ILLNESS

Edgar H. Sherwood, composer of the "Rochester Centennial and Exposition March," played at the Industrial Exposition of 1884, and a Rochester musician who had gained world fame in a career that dated from the days of the Civil War, died last evening at the age of 74, at his home, 366 Gregory Street. Mr. Sherwood was as well a veteran of the Civil War and had taken a prominent part in the activities of veterans, especially in the field of music. Sherwood had been appointed national musical director of the Union Veterans' Union, with the rank of colonel, in 1897.

Five years ago sickness called Mr. Sherwood from the enthralling place he had recently occupied as a composer of world-wide fame and as an educator recognized as one of the most successful in the United States. He had been a sufferer through try years from the illness that last night caused his death. Although he maintained the public eye, for that length of time, he will be recalled readily by reason of the prominence given to Rochester through his exceptional ability.

Descendant of Royalty.

Mr. Sherwood was a descendant of the Earls of Huntingdon, Nottinghamshire, England. He was a native, however, of America. He was born on January 24, 1845, in New York, N. Y. His musical talent manifested itself in his boyhood, when he displayed marvellous proficiency as a performer on the piano and violin. He was while pursuing his musical studies in New York and he was called to take part in the War of the Rebellion. After serving four years at the front with the Union Army in some of the hardest engagements, he was honorably discharged, his health having been improved seriously by the vicissitudes of war.

Later resuming his musical studies with great arduousness, Mr. Sherwood rose to the foremost rank of his chosen profession, having gained a reputation as a composer, his earlier works having met popular approval, and each successive work increasing his fame throughout the country. His works for the piano were known and admired by artists and received encomiums for embracing many styles of beauty and grade of difficulty.

Compositions Become Famous.

Sherwood's compositions became famous, among the better known of Mr. Sherwood's compositions were "The Dreams," an elegy to Gottschalk, "The Nun and the Fountain," two polkas in B flat and A major, "Grand March in A flat," "Soirée de Montmorency," "Anemon," "War Veteran's March," "Old Flag and New," "Dear Old Flag" and "Footsteps in the Snow."

Mr. Sherwood received many letters congratulations on his musical ability as shown in his compositions from such men as Clarence Edger, William Thistleton, E. M. Melz, president and director of the Chicago Musical College, George W. Morgan, and many other famous musicians.

Mr. Sherwood leaves his wife, Mrs. Mary Sherwood, and three nieces of Lyons, N. Y., as well as a large extended family.

Pupils Also Attain Fame.

Mr. Sherwood had had as pupils many musicians who attained national fame in the parades of their profession. Among these may be mentioned Miss Lillian S. Chase of Chicago and Muscongus, Mich., whose musical abilities, both as a pianist and vocalist, had won for her the sobriquet of "The American M.ine- de-Musich."

Several of Mr. Sherwood's more recent pupils who have risen to fame are George E. Fisher of this city, organist of the Lake Avenue Baptist Church. Others who became well known as accomplished musicians were Mrs. William J. Critchley, Mrs. and Mrs. William J. Critchley, Inter of New York, Miss Jennie L. Diamond, Miss Minnie Mauldin, Miss H. M. Martin, Miss S. Page, Miss May J. Rogers, Miss Ellis C. Riggs, Allen H. Speer, late director of the Toledo Conservatory, and many others.

Glimpse of Genius.

Mr. Sherwood's rank among the foremost American composers had been attested by the number of compositions that were selected from those submitted to the moratorium of the World's Fair, Chicago, and also by the commissions extended to him by the Conservatory of Music, Chicago, and the Chicago Musical College. He was the composer of "Old Flag and New," "Footsteps in the Snow," "Dear Old Flag," "Soirée de Montmorency;" "Anemon," "War Veteran's March," "Old Flag and New," "Dear Old Flag" and "Footsteps in the Snow."

Rochester Favorite House.

Mr. Sherwood resided in Chicago for a time, where he edited a musical and vocal journal, and also conducted a successful business with marked success. Subsequently he returned to New York, where he continued to reside. He was a member of Charles J. Powers Post, G. A. R.

Mr. Sherwood leaves his wife, Mrs. Mary Sherwood, and three nieces of Lyons, N. Y., as well as a large extended family.
SERVICES FOR
C. J. BROWNING

Funeral of Prominent Attorney Held This Afternoon—Dr. W. R. Taylor Officiates—Bar Ass’n Acts.

Funeral services for Clarence J. Browning, prominent attorney and counselor of this city, who died Friday at his home at 18 George street, were held at 2 o’clock this afternoon from the home.

The Rev. William R. Taylor, D. D., pastor of Brick Presbyterian Church, conducted the services. Bearers were United States Marshal John D. Lynn, former Mayor George E. Warner, Dr. Frank B. Maynard, Judge A. Marsh, William A. Pears and George Couleson.

At a meeting of the Rochester Bar Association, held this afternoon in the Supreme Court Chambers, at which Justice J. B. M. Stephens presided, a memorial was adopted, in which a warm tribute to Mr. Browning’s character and ability was adopted. It read, in part, as follows:

"Mr. Browning was a thorough student of the law, and was recognized by all his associates as a man of great legal ability, having an acute legal mind, and, therefore, became a wise and safe counselor.

"The ever passing years brought to him their rewards; important cases having been entrusted to his care and brought by him to a successful issue, have hastened the realization of his early hopes when a young lawyer brought to fruition. He was a marvellous detail, having ever present before him the most minute points in every case or controversy in which he was engaged; he was master of the art of presentation, and his briefs were marvels of clearness and diction; his knowledge of the law was deep and pleasing, his power of analysis supreme and his judgment upon any case was such that fortunate indeed was he who had sought the aid of his advice and counsel. In the practice of his profession he always worked faithfully for the interests of his clients, and his highest aims were to bring about substantial justice for them. In political faith he was a Republican but the law was to him a jealous mistress and he owed allegiance to no other.

"In the death of Mr. Browning the bar of Monroe County has lost an able and respected associate, and we extend to his relatives and friends our profound sympathy."

The bar association announced the following committee to formally represent it at the funeral services this afternoon: Philetus Chamberlain, Ednor A. Marsh, Edward L. Cleary, Nicholas J. Welden and Francis M. Skaggs. The memorial committee is as follows: Eugene M. VanVoorhis, John D. Lynn, Richard E. White, Horace G. Pfeifer and C. W. Webster.

Clarence J. Browning was born at the homestead in the town of Mendon on March 27, 1856, and after attending the public schools of his district, entered Genesee Wesleyan Seminary at Lima, graduating in 1877. Soon afterwards he began the study of law in this city under the preceptorship of John Van Voorhis.

Mr. Browning continued his studies in the Van Voorhis office until he passed his state bar examinations in 1882. He was associated with that firm until 1884, when he began the private practice of his profession. Shortly thereafter, Ednor A. Marsh entered into partnership with him and they opened law offices in the Wilder building, which were the same offices occupied by Mr. Browning at the time of his death, where he had been for nearly 30 years.

A few years later, Mr. Marsh having been appointed clerk of Surrogate’s Court, Derrick W. Ross succeeded him as a partner of Mr. Browning, which firm continued for several years until Mr. Ross went to Colorado. From 1898 until 1910 George F. Hixson occupied offices with him and on November 1, 1910, Edward L. Cleary opened his first office for the practice of law by becoming associated with him in his office in the Wilder building, which association had since continued. Mr. Browning was a Republican.

Mr. Browning married on March 6, 1885, Harriet K. Harttung, of Lima, who died in February, 1917. He leaves a nephew, Clarence Browning Woolston, of New York, and a niece, Mrs. Roy W. Bantams, of Fishers.

DAILY DEATH ROLL

Mrs. Cecilia Barnard Booth.

Mrs. Cecilia Barnard Booth, widow on Ansel L. Booth and a lifelong resident of Rochester, died yesterday at her home at 35 Darwin street. She leaves two daughters, Mrs. Rachel Booth Powers, well known Rochester actress, whose husband, James T. Powers, is also on the stage, and Mrs. Jessie Booth Church, also of Rochester. Her husband, Ansel L. Booth, was a former theatrical manager, being at one time in charge of the old Grand Opera House of Rochester. Funeral and burial will be private. Mrs. Church is principal of the Darwin street school. Alice Booth, an adopted daughter who died in early womanhood, was known as the wonderful child actress and was the original "Ike" in "Uncle Tom’s Cabin" in Rochester.

The first of the Browning family to live in Monroe county was Dr. John Browning, father of Alfred P. Browning, who located in the town of Mendon in 1816, coming there from Massachusetts, where he practised medicine until 1855, dying at the age of 82 years.

"Miss Crennell,"

Editor Post Express:

To those fortunate enough to have touched the life of Miss Crennell the passing of that life is a sense of commonplace and yet so remarkable, comes as a fact almost impossible to accept. She was so vital, so beautiful to look at such a tower of strength to all who knew her way, it does not seem as if she could be gone from us.

It was her lot in the course of her three years of teaching in the Rochester schools to influence more deeply than the average teacher, many young lives. The "boys" and "girls" felt the business life of the city today and the children now have come forth from the high school into it. More than a score of boys she loved and influenced have like herself gone quietly beyond, leaving their record on the high school service flag. As an old Rochesterian she knew intimately many of the city's older residents, as well as the younger generations. She could not walk a block on Main street without meeting a friend. Often the friend was behind the counter.

Many that she met knew intimately, while in the course of conducting business, perhaps she might have forgotten the names of others, though the individuality, and all were eager to greet her. For to all she met she gave something in passing, a quickness of sympathy, her special personal characteristic, and heritage of the Welsh ancestry in which she took part. To those whose good fortune it was to stop longer with her in friendship her ready wit, her perfect understanding were always a delight as she herself was a delight.

Although she devoted her professional life to the teaching of mathematics, her subject was never dry, for no class room held a keener interest or gave a broader view of life than hers. Teaching never made her less of a woman. Many who read these words though they have been long since forgotten the greatness will still treasure some of the truths she gave them.

Surely the civic life of Rochester, right or wrong, has had in it each a friend and teacher as "Miss Crennell."

MORTUARY RECORD.

Funeral of T. H. Carew.

Delegations from city departments and from various fraternal organizations together with other friends attended the funeral yesterday of Theodore H. Carew, Veteran of the Civil War, and member of the police department for 25 years, who died last Saturday. The services were conducted at his late home, 105 Belvidere street, by Rev. Frederick Crosby Jackson, rector of Andrew's Church. Mrs. Louisa Gates Boutell sang "Abide With Me" and "God Be With You" as favorite hymns of the deceased. The Bearers were Judge Raymond E. Weston, Linwood Sodorth, Henry E. McGinley, William L. Carpenter, Clinton E. Carpenter, and Charles F. Smith. Interment was in the family lot at Mt. Hope Cemetery.

The services were conducted by Rev. Andrew Jackson, rector of St. Mark's Church, 395, of which Mr. Carew was a member. A strong squad of eighteen men from F. A. Pierce Camp 15 Sons of Veterans' Reserve, in charge of Maj. A. A. Williams, fired a volley over the grave, after which taps was sounded.
DEATH SUMMONS
F. A. BROCKETT

Well Known Architect Dies at His Home in City.

Drew Many Plans Here

Work Included Prominent Business Buildings and Homes in Rochester and Elsewhere—Member of Singing Societies—Funeral To-morrow

Frederick Andrew Brockett died yesterday morning at his home, No. 88 Mountain Avenue, after a brief illness, which at first was not regarded as serious, but proved to be pneumonia.

Mr. Brockett was born in New Haven, Conn., and came to Rochester when a boy. He entered the office of his uncle, Andrew J. Warner, an architect, for whom he was named. Their association continued for many years. Mr. Brockett being first employee and student and then a member of the firm of Warner & Brockett. With him in the office were A. J. Warner’s two sons, J. Foster Warner and William R. Warner, and Mr. Brockett’s brother, Willis J. Brockett.

Planned Many Buildings

When in this firm Mr. Brockett worked on plans for the Wilder building, the Powers Hotel, the Danville sanitarium, additions to the Powers building and many other prominent buildings of Rochester. On the dissolution of the firm Mr. Brockett opened an office in the Granite building. Later he removed to the Cutler building, where he was located at the time of his death.

Mr. Brockett by hard work thoroughly prepared himself for his life endeavor. Many buildings and many homes in Rochester and elsewhere bear witness to his skill and taste. It was said that he would lose a client rather than specify any construction he felt was not absolutely safe.

Fond of Music

Being fond of music and endowed with a good voice, Mr. Brockett made music a part of his recreation. He was a member of the original Rochester Opera Club and of the Rochester Choral Society as organized under Ludwig Schnack. He attended the Lutheran Church.

Mr. Brockett leaves his wife, Nelle I. Brockett; his mother, Mrs. Cornelia Brockett; a brother, Willis J. Brockett; a daughter, Mrs. Walter J. Bent, all of this city; and a son, Clyde P. Brockett, a student at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cambridge.

The funeral will take place from the home at 10:30 o’clock to-morrow morning.

SERVED LONG AS CHURCH OFFICER

Charles A. Mathews Identified with Many Institutions

WAS LONG IN ILL HEALTH

One of Founders of Rescue Mission and Trustee of Theological Seminary

Charles A. Mathews, formerly cashier of the Traders National Bank and a well known Rochester business man, died yesterday at his home, 49 South Union Street, aged 69 years. He had been in ill health for years and for some time past he had been losing strength rapidly.

Mr. Mathews was born in Rochester, a son of the late William Mathews, and was educated in the city schools. He entered the Traders National Bank and was promoted through the various grades until, at the time of his retirement from business some years ago, he was cashier. He was one of the founders of the People’s Rescue Mission and a member of the board of trustees of that institution at the time of his death. He was also a trustee of the Rochester Baptist Theological Seminary. For many years he served as deacon of First Baptist Church and treasurer of the church endowment fund. He also took an active part in the work of the Sunday school.

He leaves his wife, formerly Miss Marietta T. Lane of Rochester, and a brother, W. Henry Mathews, president of the People’s Rescue Mission.

Funeral services will be conducted tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o’clock in Mt. Hope Chapel, Rev. Dr. Eliliah A. Hanley, pastor of First Baptist Church, officiating. The bearers will be deacons of the church.

Mr. Hawley, who died suddenly in the Court House on Monday morning, was 67 years old and was born and brought up in Chili, where he was joint owner with his brother of a large farm.

ELLA DALTON, Nurse Killed in Auto Accident in France.

UNHURTF IN BATTLE, ELLA DALTON DIES IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Nurse Known to Many Here Loses Life on Sightseeing Tour of Battlefields.

In action many times, once for 36 continuous hours, having many months of efficient service to her credit as surgical nurse with American Camp hospital, 4, Ella Dalton, sister of Joseph Dalton, 168 Alameda street, was killed in an automobile accident May 25th, when the automobile in which she and two other nurses were riding, was overturned. Hoping that there might have been some mistake, Mr. Dalton enlisted government cooperation and has received confirmation of the reported fate of his sister.

Miss Dalton came from England when a child and received her preliminary education in the Toronto schools. Her brother removed to Rochester and she frequently came to visit him here. Later she entered the Roosevelt hospital, New York, and was graduated with honors. In recent years she had passed much of her spare time with her brother in Rochester, the last time about a year ago, just before his departure overseas. At the outbreak of the European war she was in France in attendance on the family of Clarence Mackey, head of the Commercial Cable company. She returned to the United States. She had cared also for Madeline Force Aster, after her husband had lost his life when the Titanic was sunk.

Anxious for active service she enlisted one or two years ago in Mobile Operating Unit 1 and was sent overseas last July 7th, any weeks of active service followed with much hazard and danger, but she escaped unharmed only to have death come to her when on a sightseeing trip on the battlefield of Chateau Thilery. Trying to avoid hitting a boy on a bicycle, the automobile in which she was riding, overturned down a steep embankment.
JANE A. DELANO, WIDELY KNOWN DIRECTOR OF RED CROSS, DIES IN FRANCE

Archived by Miss Jane A. Delano, R. N., director of the department of nursing of the American Red Cross since its foundation, died at Satory, France, last Tuesday.

Immediately upon the signing of the armistice, Miss Delano made plans for going overseas, to try to remove some of the difficulties under which she knew the nurses were working. She had not left her post at Red Cross Headquarters since England and Germany had declared war, and although she had been strongly urged to go to France she refused to do so until she knew that the need of keeping up the enrollment of nurses for military service had passed.

She had to wait a fortnight in New York for transportation, and she was taken ill almost immediately upon her arrival in Paris, where she was told to enter a Red Cross hospital there and undergo an amputation operation. She made an encouraging recovery and was able to go to Satory. There she had a return of the trouble.

The announcement of her death will be a shock to thousands of enrolled Red Cross nurses throughout the country.

Miss Delano, in her position as chief of the nursing department of the Red Cross, has rendered the greatest war service of any woman in the country. Her department was the only branch of government service which was fully ready when war was declared. For nearly ten years Miss Delano had given gratuitous service to the Red Cross as the representative of the American Nurses’ Association. Her hours were long and her responsibilities great. She literally wore herself out.

Miss Delano was a graduate of Bellevue Hospital, and for several years was assistant superintendent of nurses at the University of Pennsylvania. Later, after having held several minor positions, she was superintendent of nurses at Bellevue Hospital for ten years.

As a young woman she was a successful private duty nurse. Her interest in the Red Cross came from her experiences in the yellow fever epidemic in Florida, where she served as a volunteer under Clara Barton, then head of the Red Cross. She was at the head of the Army Nurse Corps at the time of her appointment as chief of the Red Cross Nursing Service, and held both positions for a period of three years. She was also president of the American Nurses’ Association from 1909 to 1911.

Miss Delano was, without doubt, the most widely known personally, of any of the leading nurses of the country.

DESCENDANT OF FOUNDER OF THE CITY

Killed in Railroad Wreck at South Byron.

JAN. 13, 1919.

HE LIVED HERE AS A BOY

Grandson of First Rector of St. Luke’s Church.

Second Great-grandson of Colonel Rochester to Die Unexpectedly Within a Few Weeks.

Twice within a few weeks a great-grandson of Colonel Nathaniel Rochester, founder of this city, has met with death violently. Nathaniel N. Rochester was killed in action October 8th, fighting in the Argonne with Colonel Whittlessey’s famed “Lost Battalion.” Death came to the other, Thomas Barnes Cuming, in the early hours of yesterday morning when the Southwestern Limited crashed into the rear of the Wolverine, on the New York Central Line, a short distance from South Byron station. His body was taken to Batavia and will be taken to New York for burial. The body of the other rests in a grave somewhere near where the heroic Americans staved off the German attack for four days, without food and water, but with plenty of pluck and determination.

Thomas Barnes Cuming is known to many Rochesterians. For several years after the death of his father his mother lived in Meigs street and he received his early education in the public schools and in his father’s school. Later he returned to New York, entered business and at the time of his death was a member of the firm of Meyer, Smith & Company and his home was in Englewood, N. J.

He was the son of Allen Jackson and Anna M. Rochester Cuming and a grandson of Henry E. Rochester. His paternal grandfather was Rev. Dr. Francis Cuming, the first rector of St. Luke’s church. He leaves a sister, Mrs. Anna Van Voorhis, of New York, and an aunt, Mrs. Clinton Rogers, 128 Spring street, and three cousins, Mrs. Sydney B. Roby, Helen Rogers and Lieutenant Rochester Rogers. He was married to Miss Laura Ellis, who died some years ago. Rochester relatives have gone to Batavia to claim the body and make arrangements with one of his business partners for the funeral.

Among the others who suffered in the wreck were Mrs. Carl B. Antisdale, 862 Harvard street and her two daughters, Virginia Frances, 8 years old and Matilde, 5 years old. They were on their way to visit Mrs. Antisdale’s mother in St. Louis. Mrs. Antisdale suffered from shock and the older girl had one foot sprained. They were taken to Buffalo and placed in a hotel, under the care of a physician.

MEXICAN WAR VETERAN DIES AT AGE OF 102
Jerome B. Fletcher Passes Away at Home of Son near West Bloomfield—Born at Geneseo in November, 1817, Aug. 19th.

Homeboy Falls, Aug. 15—Jerome B. Fletcher, the eldest person in this vicinity died Tuesday morning at the home of his son, Everett Fletcher, one mile north of west Bloomfield. Mr. Fletcher would have been 102 years old, had he lived until the 17th of November. He was a son of William Fletcher and Betsey Fletcher, and was born in Geneseo, November 17, 1817. His father lived to be 103 years of age. Mr. Fletcher served as a soldier during the Mexican War. He was twice married, his second wife to whom he was united in 1855, died about 12 years ago. During the early sixties he lived near Decatur, Mich., where he was in the employ of the government. About 1860 he came to Bristol to live where he continued to work at his trade as carpenter and wheelwright until more than 20 years of age. About eight years ago he came to West Bloomfield to reside with his son.

His health has always been good and in his later years he was able to read coarse print without glasses. He is survived by two sons, Greesen Fletcher of Canandaigua, Oscar and J. Conley Fletcher of Holcomb, and Everett Fletcher of West Bloomfield, also a brother, Asa Fletcher, a 80-year-old resident of Benton Harbor, Mich.

The funeral will be held from his late home on Friday at 1 o'clock with interment in the Coddington Cemetery at Bristol, N. Y.

WM. H. SULLIVAN, OF HIGH RANK AS ATTORNEY, DEAD Ill Three Years, and End Not Unexpected.
SUCCESSFUL IN PRACTICE

Cases of Unusual Importance Among Those He Handled and His Reputation Spread Far Beyond Rochester—Associated with Brother.

William H. Sullivan, one of the prominent figures in the bar of the Rochester bar, died last evening at No. 55 South Union street, aged 75 years. The end was not unexpected as he had been ill for about three years. He retired from active participation in the practice of law after five years ago.

Mr. Sullivan was born in Greece, but he came to Rochester when a child and received his education in public schools and the old Free Academy. He was admitted to the bar when 21 years old and for years was associated with his brother, the late Henry J. Sullivan, in a notably successful practice. The firm took part in suits over a period of some twenty-five years which gained for it a reputation that spread far beyond Rochester.

A case handled by Mr. Sullivan which attracted considerable notice was the Young's case which was before the public eye about 1882. In this case Mr. Sullivan helped to establish the legal principle that a person who has been extradited from a foreign country must be returned if it is established of a crime of a lesser degree than that for which he has been indicted. Young, the man who gave a name to the precedent, was brought to this country from England, but was returned when he was convicted of a lesser degree of felony than that on which his extradition had been based.

William and Henry Sullivan are credited in legal annals with the establishment of a number of precedents.

Those who knew Mr. Sullivan speak of him as a strict lawyer and an admirable man. He had a personality that even in his retirement has its influence on the Rochester bar. His friends say of him that he was genereous and kind and honest in the highest degree, ever willing to help those in need, but unobtrusively antagonistic to the worthless. It is said of him that he never abandoned the defense of a case that he believed was right.

Young lawyers, or those who were young in Mr. Sullivan's prime, look back upon him as a friend ever ready to give them counsel. It is said of him that he delighted in giving assistance to the younger men in his profession and that he never was too busy to offer a word of help or commendation. Mr. Sullivan was well known in the whole surrounding community.

He never sought political offices, but with the exception of a single instance a number of years ago when he was a candidate for the office of district attorney, Mr. Sullivan leaves no near relatives. Arrangements for the funeral have not been made.

MISS RHODA PALMER, ACTIVE SUFFRAGIST, DIES AT AGE OF 103
Geneva, Aug. 11—Miss Rhoda Palmer, long an active leader in woman suffrage circles, died Saturday night at the home of her nephew, Edward Palmer, in the Lyons road, two miles north of Geneva, aged 103 years.

Miss Palmer was born June 15, 1816, just two doors from where she died. Her father, Amos Palmer, built the house where she was born in 1806, which still stands and where she lived up to the time she reached the age of 94 years. She was the only surviving member of a family of ten children.

Miss Palmer was a member of the first suffrage convention, in Seneca Falls in 1848. At the last election Miss Palmer was driven to the polls and cast her first vote. She leaves many nephews and great-grandnephews and nieces.

On the occasion of the celebration of her 100th birthday it was the custom of the members of the Geneva Political Equality club to visit Miss Palmer, who was the oldest suffragist in this part of the country.

REPRINT

Mrs. Margaret Wilmot Dies at Advanced Age of 92 Years. 1917
Spencerport, Aug. 4.—The death of Mrs. Margaret Wilmot, the eldest resident of this village, occurred at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Mrs. M. H. Halsey, of Amity Street, Tuesday. Mrs. Wilmot was born July 31, 1825, in the town of Rush, near Geneva, the second daughter of H. D. and Maria Heiman Vroom, who were among the pioneers of the town. They came from Somers, N. Y. and settled at the farm now occupied by their grandson, Clifford O. Vroom which then was an unbroken forest, except for a small clearing around their cabin.

In 1848 she was married to Severtus Wilmot, who died in 1850. He was the oldest son of A. O. Wilmot, who was a pensioner of the war of 1812. Her granddaughter, Hendruck D. Vroom, served through the war of the Revolution. For seventy years Mrs. Wilmot was a member of the Organ Center Presbyterian Church. In spite of her advanced years, she was in possession of all her faculties up to the time of her death.

She is survived by two children, Dr. Henry D. Wilmot, of Middletown, and Mrs. Mrs. M. H. Halsey, of Spencerport: four grandchildren; two great-grandchildren, and one sister, Mrs. Julia Colby, of Webster, New York. Private funeral services will be held at the home of her daughter, Friday afternoon. Interment will be made in the family lot in Forest Cemetery.
A. B. HENDRIX IS TAKEN BY DEATH prominence in Business, Politics and Masonry.
SERVES STATE LEGISLATURE Oct. 1919
Was Clerk of Senate Committee for Several Terms and at That Time Gained Acquaintance of Roosevelt. In Many Masonic Organizations.

Albert B. Hendrix, a former secretary of the Republican County Committee, school commissioner and one-time clerk of a committee of the State Senate, passed away on Thursday at his home, No. 178 Warwick avenue. Mr. Hendrix had been ill for some time but was thought to be gaining strength when the end came.

In Clothing Business:
Albert B. Hendrix was born in Chicago, but came to this city when very young, attended the public schools, the Rochester Free Academy and business colleges and then entered the employ of the Garson Clothing Company. Later he was connected with the Florin City Clothing Company, Allen & Strauss Company, and for about eight years had been with the Union Clothing Company.

For several years Mr. Hendrix was collector for Monroe Council, No. 245, Royal Arcanum. He was a member of Valley Lodge, No. 100, F. A. M., of Hamilton Chapter, Royal Arch Masons, of Monroe Commandery, No. 12, Knights Templar, and of Damascus Temple, A. A. O. N. M.

While never an office-seeker, Mr. Hendrix played a prominent part in politics here, always working for the betterment of conditions, particularly in matters pertaining to the children, whom he was very fond. He was at one time a member of the school board, and was much interested in playground movements and the enlarging of the public parks. He was a member of the Brick Presbyterian Church.

Friend of Roosevelt:
During his term as clerk of the Senate Committee in Albany Mr. Hendrix became acquainted with Theodore Roosevelt, and when Mr. Roosevelt visited Rochester later, he sought out his friend each time. Mr. Hendrix visited Mr. Roosevelt at his home on several occasions.

Besides his wife, Minnie E. Hendrix, he leaves his daughter, Madal Hendrix Wilson, wife of Lieutenant Arthur Wilson, of the Air Service, who recently returned from more than two years' service, and two grandchildren, Arthur Hendrix Wilson and little Dorothy M. Wilson, all of whom lived with him.

The funeral service will be held on Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock at his home.

JOHN M. RIES.

John M. Ries, veteran of the Civil War and for more than thirty years a member of the Police Department, died yesterday morning at his home, No. 573 Ames street, aged 76 years. He had been ill a long time and his death was not unexpected. He leaves his wife, Elizabeth Koudolf Ries; two sons, Henry J. and John F. Ries; three daughters, Mrs. John B. Zimmerman, Mrs. F. H. Maxwell and Miss Marie Ries; four grandchildren, and two sisters, Mrs. John Spitz and Mrs. Joseph Reger.

Mr. Ries was born in Rochester. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Ries, came to Rochester in 1856 from Alsace, then a part of France, and made their home at Jay and Child streets. That part of Rochester was known then as “Strasbourg” because of the Alsatian element living there.

It was there that John M. Ries was born, in the Civil War he went to the front with the Fifty-fourth Regiment and saw active service for some time. After his discharge from the army Mr. Ries returned to Rochester. He was a member of the famous Rochester Red and Gun Club and was noted for his skill as a markman.

On February 17, 1875, Mr. Ries was appointed to the Rochester Police Department. He was to patrol the Exchange street beat, which included the three notorious Murderers' row. He was able to cope with the uncertain element that frequented his beat, and when he retired in 1908 his record was a most enviable one.
