

Sunrise on the Reaping by Suzanne Collins

When Haymitch Abernathy's name is called in the Reaping for the 50th annual Hunger Games, his life is shattered. As the Games begin, something in him wants to fight . . . and have that fight reverberate far beyond the deadly arena.

Watch Me by Tahereh Mafi

James Anderson is in prison on Ark Island, the last Reestablishment stronghold. Rosabelle Wolff is a trained assassin who never hesitates to kill her mark. For those under constant surveillance, there is one desperate question – Who are we when no one is watching?

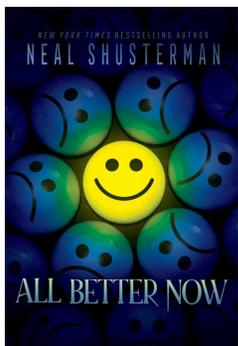

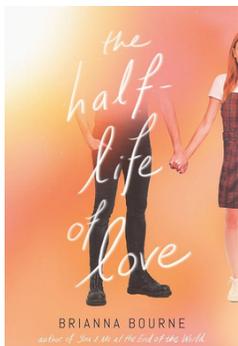

Moonstorm by Yoon Ha Lee

Six years after her rebel moon home was destroyed, Hwa Young is a citizen of the very empire that made her an orphan. She becomes a pilot candidate, training to fly giant martial robots. Then she discovers a conspiracy that puts their entire world at risk.

The Half-Life of Love by Brianna Bourne

Flint Larsen has 41 days to live. He's known exactly when he's going to die since he was eight years old, and from that moment, Flint has cut all joy from his life to make his death more bearable. But then he meets September Harrington, who changes everything.

All Better Now by Neal Shusterman

After a virus leaves survivors with a side effect of utter contentment, society splits sides on whether this is a positive change, or a dangerous one. Three teens from different backgrounds find themselves at the center of a power play that could change humanity forever.

Snowglobe by Soyoung Park

Chobahm lives for the time she spends watching the television programs produced inside Snowglobe, the last warm place on earth, and is thrilled when she is chosen to participate. But life in the dome is nothing like what you see on television.

Hearts Still Beating by Brooke Archer

17-year-old Mara is dead – mostly. 17-year-old Rory is alive – barely. Separated after Mara was infected by a virus that brought the dead back to life, the two are reunited, and must lean on each other to survive—or risk losing the girl they love all over again.

The Dividing Sky by Jill Tew

In 2364, 18-year-old Liv Newman dreams of a future beyond her life in the Metro. As a Proxy, she uses the neurochip in her brain to sell memories to wealthy clients. When Rookie Forceman Andrian Rao tracks her down, there's one problem: her memories are gone.

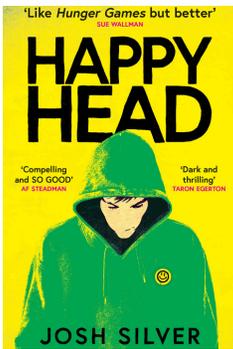

DYSTOPIA AND SCIENCE FICTION

Compiled by Monroe County
Library System Teen Services
Librarians 2026

Monroe County
Library System
www.libraryweb.org

HappyHead by Josh Silver

While on a retreat designed to solve the national crisis of teenage unhappiness, Seb is determined to change how people see him. But as he finds himself drawn to the enigmatic Finn, Seb starts to question the true nature of the challenges they must undergo.

Meet Me At Blue Hour by Sarah Suk

Spending the summer in Busan, South Korea working at her mom's memory-erasing clinic, 17-year-old Yena Bae is shocked to run into her former best friend, Lucas – and even more shocked to discover that he doesn't remember a thing about her.

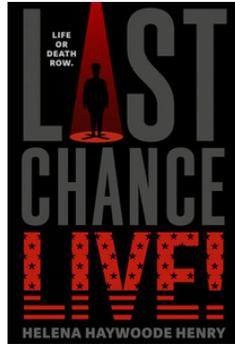

The Kill Factor by Ben Oliver

Fifty contestants. Five challenges. One winner. Contestants are sent to a maximum-security reform camp on an island where they can have no contact with the outside world. To win is to be free. But to lose means prison... or death.

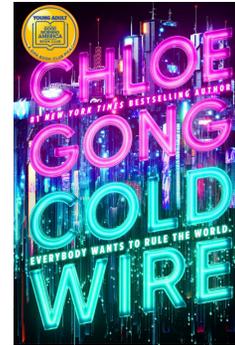

Last Chance, Live! by Helena Haywoode Henry

Last Chance, Live! is the most popular reality show in America — and 18-year-old inmate Eternity Price's last chance at freedom. The catch? If America doesn't vote for her, she'll be executed. As she battles for survival, Eternity must decide what forgiveness, family, and freedom mean to her.

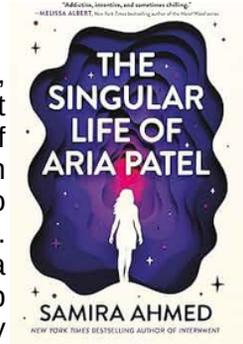

Coldwire by Chloe Gong

In a time where humanity has moved to virtual reality to flee their deteriorating world, two young soldiers must depend on unlikely allies in their fight for survival — and the closer they get to the truth, the closer their worlds come to a shattering collision.

The Singular Life of Aria Patel by Samira Ahmed

Aria Patel likes stability, certainty, predictability. But when Aria finds herself suddenly falling through parallel universes, there's no formula that can save her. As Aria attempts to find a way home, she ends up stuck in a parallel world very similar to her own.

If We Survive This by Racquel Marie

Six months into the global outbreak of a violent rabies mutation, Flora and her older brother Cain are still alive. With their mom dead, their dad missing, and their LA suburb left desolate, they form a plan to venture out to the secluded cabin they vacationed in growing up.

Fable for the End of the World by Ava Reid

When Inesa's mother is unable to pay back her massive debt to Caerus, Inesa is offered as a sacrifice to the ruling corporation's livestreamed assassination spectacle: the Lamb's Gauntlet. As trained assassin Melinoë pursues her mark, both girls begin to question everything.

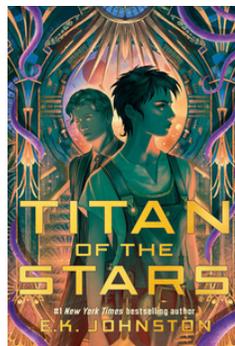

This is the Year by Gloria Muñoz

Julieta's Florida home is crumbling in the face of climate disaster, and after the death of her sister, Juli can't stand to stay any longer. Then, she is recruited to a private space program enlisting teens for a mission to establish a human sanctuary on the moon.

Titan of the Stars by E.K. Johnston

On the maiden voyage of the Titan spaceship, apprentice engineer Celeste is on board by choice, and Dominic, son of the ship's owner, by force. Ancient aliens have been brought onto the Titan as well, stored in display cases – until an act of sabotage releases them into the ship.

The Winter Soldier: Cold Front by Mackenzi Lee

When 16-year-old Bucky Barnes is offered enrollment in a training program with the British Special Operations Executive, he leaps at the chance to become a hero. Decades later, the Winter Soldier struggles to solve the same mystery Bucky is just beginning to uncover.

Soulmatch

by Rebecca Danzenbaker

In a world where past lives determine your future, Sivon is thrust into a high-stakes game where souls are pawns and rules don't exist. As deaths mount, Sivon must decipher friend from foe while protecting her heart against impossible odds.

